MILLER ACTS TO HALT MANHATTAN EXODUS; ENLISTS 25 BUILDERS

$21 A ROOM TO BE TOP PRICE

Each Company Pledged to Begin Erecting a 6 or 11 Story Apartment in a Year.

STEP AIMS TO AVERT CRISIS

Executive Fears Checking of Trade Progress, Saying Borough Loses 65,000 Population a Year.

A plan to halt the increasing exodus of population from Manhattan to other boroughs by providing modern housing at reasonable rentals for the so-called "white collar" class was made known by Borough President Julius Miller yesterday. Mr. Miller announced that in working out the plan he had enlisted the support of twenty-five of the city's leading builders, who have pledged themselves to carry the plan into effect.

Each builder, according to Mr. Miller, has pledged himself to begin within one year the construction in Manhattan of an apartment building covering a plot 100 by 100 feet, with seven apartments of varying sizes on each floor. The buildings are to be six or eleven stories high. The average rent is not to exceed $21 a room a month.

The aim of the plan, Mr. Miller explained, is to solve the acute problem created in Manhattan by the continued erection of business skyscrapers, accompanied by a steady decrease in the resident working population, forced to seek living quarters in other boroughs.

Mr. Miller declared that work on the first apartments is to start soon and expressed the belief that the plan would prove a powerful stimulus to wholesale building of modern, cheap apartments and revive many sections of the city now in disfavor for residences.

Lists Participating Builders.

Mr. Miller gave out the following list of companies and individuals who have pledged cooperation in the building program:

George A. Fuller Company and U. S. Realty and Improvement Company.
Starrett Brothers, Inc.
Fred T. Ley & Co., Inc.
Tishman Realty and Construction Company.
Thompson-Starrett Company.
G. Richard Davis & Co., Inc.
Robert E. Dowling.
Bethlehem Engineering Corporation.
Thomas Crimmins Contracting Company.
Hegeman Harris Company, Inc.
Fred F. French Company.
Roland Harriman.
Dwight P. Robinson & Co., Inc.
Chanin Construction Company.
Bricken Construction and Improvement Corp.
A. E. Lefcourt.
Abe N. Adelson.
Turner Construction Company.
William Crawford.
George J. Atwell Company, Inc.
Shroder & Koppel, Inc.
Alexander M. Bing.
James Stewart & Co., Inc.
Bing & Bing, Inc.
J. H. Taylor Construction Company.

Additional names will be added to this list, Mr. Miller announced, saying that he hoped to enlarge the plan's scope from year to year.

To make possible the reasonable rentals, Mr. Miller said, the builders have agreed to cooperate in cutting down the cost of financing, of land, of planning and of construction. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has informed Mr. Miller that it will help by offering building and permanent loans for periods of ten to twenty years, at the rate of 5½ per cent for the first ten-year period and 5 per cent thereafter.

After joint study, three firms of architects have evolved a form of apartment house offering the advantages of modern construction with the possibility of reasonable rents. The architects are Sloan & Robertson, Emery Roth and George C. Miller. They have informed Mr. Miller that such dwellings as he has in mind can be constructed on an economically profitable basis.

Fears Checking of Progress.

Asserting that Manhattan during the past few years has been losing in population at the rate of about 65,000 a year and that during the coming year or fifteen months the borough will lose more than 100,000, Mr. Miller declared that "Manhattan cannot long continue to progress in a business way, with business space increasing considerably to a great height while the inhabitants are being compelled to move to places twenty or twenty-five miles away from their places of employment for homes."

If action is not taken now a crisis must ensue in the near future, Mr. Miller said

"Some may believe it will come in about fifteen years from now, and those who believe it may come in

A city-wide ban on jaywalking will go into effect next Monday, Police Commissioner Whalen announced yesterday. Pedestrians will be required to watch and follow the signals of the traffic lights or suffer the possibility of arrest.

Wherever there are lights in operation or a policeman controlling traffic, pedestrians will be obliged to refrain from crossing streets until traffic is going their way. Regardless of lights, pedestrians will be permitted to cross streets only at crossings or at marked crosswalks.

As compensation for these limitations upon pedestrians the regulations specifically give to them the right-of-way at crossings where there are no lights or traffic patrolmen.

There will be no special force of patrolmen to supervise this almost revolutionary change in the habits of New York pedestrians.

Recently daytime experiments have been conducted in the Pennsylvania Station area and at the intersection of Twenty-third Street, Broadway and Fifth Avenue.

Mr. Whalen announced that he would promulgate the new regulations under authority of Section 315 of the city charter, which gives the Police Commissioner power to regulate vehicular traffic. The Police Commissioner believes this also can be construed to give him the right to regulate foot traffic at crossings.

To test out his theory, Mr. Whalen said that one violator of the new rules would be arrested Monday and the case pushed to a final decision in the Court of Appeals.

Chief Magistrate William McAdoo has agreed to sit Monday morning to hear the case. Should the arrested person be found guilty, the Police Commissioner will arrange to facilitate the appeal. Automobile drivers who run past a red traffic light are now subject to a fine of from $2 to $5. The same penalty for a pedestrian violation will be exacted.

Mr. Whalen drew up the regulations after a conference on Tuesday with First Deputy Police Commissioner Philip D. Hoyt, the department's traffic expert, and Fourth Deputy Commissioner Nelson Ruttenberg, who is an attorney.

Mr. Whalen's detailed announcement of the new rules follows:

The following regulation for the control of pedestrians will be added to the traffic regulations as Article 11, Section 22:

A. Pedestrians shall not cross any roadway except at a crossing or marked crosswalk.

B. At intersections where traffic is controlled by traffic light signals or by police officers, pedestrians shall not cross the roadway except when said traffic light signals or police officer indicate that vehicular traffic at the intended crossing is stopped. A pedestrian who has started across a street in conformity with the provisions of this paragraph shall have the right of way over all vehicles, including those making turns, until such pedestrian has reached the opposite curb, and it shall be unlawful for the operator of any vehicle to fail to yield the right of way to any such pedestrian.

C. Pedestrians, where no police officer is present and no traffic light control system is in operation, shall have the right of way on crossings and vehicles must slow down and stop, if necessary, to permit pedestrians on crossings to pass.

The gist of the concluding paragraph, Mr. Whalen said, had been upheld in a recent decision by the State Court of Appeals.

DR. GILBERT ELECTED SUFFRAGAN BISHOP

Episcopal Diocesan Secretary Chosen on Second Ballot, Defeating Sparks and Wood.

VOTE IS MADE UNANIMOUS

The Rev. Dr. Charles K. Gilbert was elected Suffragan Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of New York yesterday. He has been for fourteen years secretary of the diocese and for many years secretary of its Social Service Commission. His election took place at the closing session of the annual diocesan convention, which opened Tuesday in Synod Hall of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. Dr. Gilbert was a candidate of the liberal group in the diocese.

Dr. Gilbert will succeed the Right Rev. Dr. Herbert Shipman, who died a few weeks ago. The election was made on the second ballot. On the first ballot Dr. Gilbert had a large plurality in both the clerical and the lay votes. Clergymen and laymen vote separately, the former having an individual vote and the latter voting with the parish as a unit, each parish being allowed three clergymen as delegates with their votes counting as one.

The second highest vote of both the clergy and laity on both ballots went to the Rev. Thomas A. Sparks, rector of St. Clement's Church, 423 West Forty-sixth Street, who was the candidate of the Anglo-Catholic group in the diocese.

The third highest vote of both clergy and laity on each ballot went to the Rev. Robert S. W. Wood, rector of St. Mary's Church, Tuxedo, N. Y., who, although rated as a liberal, it developed, was the candidate of the "modified" Anglo-Catholic group.

Increase Salary of Suffragans.

The convention opened at 10 o'clock. On motion of the finance committee the salary of Suffragan Bishops was raised from $9,000 to $10,000 and the annual allowance for traveling expenses from $350 to $1,000. The recommendation was read by Monell Sayre, chairman of the finance committee. The Right Rev. Arthur S. Lloyd, the other Suffragan Bishop, protested. He said he would rather have the extra money go to the rural clergy, as they needed it. Bishop William T. Manning, who presided, announced that increases for the rural missionaries were in the budget for the new year and that the vote on the resolution for increasing the salary and traveling expenses of the Suffragan Bishops would not delay the increase in the pay of missionaries.

Perhaps the most interested spectator at the election was Mrs. Charles K. Gilbert. She sat quietly in the organ gallery. When the election of her husband was announced she was temporarily overcome.

At 11 o'clock Bishop Manning called for the order of the day, and the Rev. Dr. W. Russell Bowie, rector of Grace Church, moved that the rule be waived which says the election of a Bishop must be behind closed doors. This was carried.

The Rev. Cranston Brenton, sacrist of the cathedral, asked that his name

DRY FORCE TRANSFER PASSED BY SENATE

First of Hoover Enforcement Measures Is Approved Without a Roll-Call.

POISON ALCOHOL RETAINED

Attempt of Tydings to Have Substitute Adopted Fails Because of Rules.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The administration bill transferring prohibition enforcement from the Treasury to the Department of Justice was passed by the Senate today without a roll-call after an amendment by Senator Tydings to eliminate wood alcohol as an adulterant of industrial alcohol was defeated by a vote of 54 to 19.

The bill, as amended by the Senate, permits the Attorney General and Secretary of the Treasury to decide what employes should be transferred, and gives the issuance of industrial alcohol permits into the dual authority of both departments.

Senator Tydings offered a number of other minor amendments but centred his fight on his proposal to substitute nauseous drugs approved by the American Medical Society for wood alcohol as an adulterant. Senators Hebert of Rhode Island, in charge of the bill, approved the intent of the amendment, but said it had no part in the transfer bill. He assured Senator Tydings that the Judiciary Committee would promptly report a separate bill if one was offered.

Senator Tydings proposed that pyridine, malachite green, or giethylpthalate be used as a substitute for wood alcohol.

The debate became intense after Senator Sheppard of Texas denied that wood alcohol was used in quantities sufficient to kill.

Assails Dry "Arrogance."

Senator Tydings declared that the arrogance of the drys was increasing the wet sentiment in the country.

"The very fact is that the government, driven by fanatics who have no regard for human life in the furtherance of this law," Senator Tydings said, "advocates the death penalty for doing no greater thing than drinking a pint of liquor.

"I realize that you do not dare strike out a comma of that sacrosanct Volstead act, because it came from God, we learned in the lobby committee the other day; was translated through the giant and spiritual brain of Wayne B. Wheeler to the puppets who carried it into effect, who, in my judgment, sold their manhood for a mess of pottage and no less.

"It brought about crime and corruption over this country, but should sicken and disgust any citizen with an ounce of patriotism or a bit of reverence for a past so wonderful as that the United States has had.

"I know this proposal will probably fail, because the Senator from Texas opposing it is the spokesman for those who believe in national prohibition. He is the author of the Eighteenth Amendment, and, my God, Senators, dare we run up against these men who sit on yonder hill and tell us free, independent, noble American Senators how we shall vote? Perchance if we do not vote in accordance with the edict which comes from the Bishop on

CIRCLING PLANES GREET HIM

SAVES A CHILD IN CROWD

Prevents Trampling in Rush of School Children—Igloo Shares Honors With His Master.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BALBOA, May 14.—Rear Admiral Byrd returned to his own people from Little America today when he arrived at the Canal Zone aboard the steamship Rangitiki from New Zealand and received an enthusiastic welcome from a large crowd of American employes of the Panama Canal and from men of the United States Army and Navy who had stood in a sweltering sun on the open pier for two hours awaiting the ship.

Admiral Byrd seemed no less happy than the crowd in his greetings when he stepped ashore at 9:20 A. M. and was for the first time since he went out to the Antarctic on territory under the jurisdiction of the United States. Although the Rangitiki was expected at 6 A. M., contrary currents delayed her arrival and it was 7:30 when she crossed the line into the waters of the Canal Zone, where a welcoming party had been cruising since 5:30, chasing every ship that came over the horizon in the hope that she was the Rangitiki.

Railey First in Greeting.

When the quarantine officer waved permission to board the Rangitiki friends of Admiral Byrd, photographers and correspondents climbed over the side at once. Captain Railey was the first to greet Admiral Byrd, saying, "I am mighty glad to welcome you back," to which Admiral Byrd replied, "And I am mighty glad to get back." The two men who had so much to do with the success and organization of the expedition, Admiral Byrd at the front and Captain Railey at home, retired to the Admiral's cabin after he had posed on the upper boat deck for news and sound movie photographers.

Admiral Byrd looked to be in the best of health and seemed unchanged after his long months in the Antarctic except that gray is beginning to be the predominate color of his hair. After breakfasting with Captain Railey, the Admiral received a dozen correspondents, who volleyed questions at him until the tug nosed the ship alongside the pier, where he said farewells to the many friends he had made on the long voyage from New Zealand.

To the correspondents he explained that the scientific scope of the expedition covered biological, geographical, zoological, geological and meteorological studies and original radio experiments.

Tells of Discoveries.

"The geologists made some important discoveries," said Admiral Byrd, "the real value of which will not be known until they have studied their data.

"They found limestone and carboniferous material as high as 5,000 feet. We collected a tremendous amount of information about weather which requires further study. It will take four books to cover the various scientific phases of the expedition. The scientists are busily at work on

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 14.—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler in the course of a short speech at the fortnightly luncheon of the National Liberal Club today said it was amazing that there should be so much fanaticism in existence. He probably had prohibition in mind, but as he did not mention it specifically, the Viscountess Astor, who sat next to him, felt free to join in the handclapping as vigorously as the rest of the guests.

Dr. Butler said this fanaticism amounted to persecution, and he attributed it to the tightly closed minds of those who, despite the Magna Charta, the American Constitution and all the other great documents of liberty, could not learn what liberalism really meant.

"It is the duty of liberals in all political parties of every country to open such minds so that the intolerance of those who possess them will not be used as an argument against us by the opponents of our present social and political system."

TUTTLE LINKS VAUSE CLOSER TO PIER DEAL

Makes Public Letters to Show He Aided Lease Negotiations While on the Bench.

JUDGE FAILS TO SEE CRAIN

United States Attorney Tuttle made public yesterday four letters from the files of the United American Lines as evidence that County Judge W. Bernard Vause of Kings continued to take an active part in the steamship company's negotiations for leases to two city-owned piers long after his elevation to the bench in 1923.

The letters, which Mr. Tuttle said might lead to the discovery of the key to the mystery of what Judge Vause did allegedly to earn a $250,000 fee and what became of the money afterward, all were dated in 1925.

In one letter the company was assured that Judge Vause expected to hold "a conference" on the matter with an unidentified person, and another letter indicated, according to Mr. Tuttle, that a letter from the company seeking information on the pier leases had been forwarded to the judge at his chambers. Others addressed to the firm of Vause & Vause, composed of Hans P. Freece and Joseph S. Boyle after the appointment of Vause as a judge, requested information on the probable outcome of the transaction and asked additional grants.

As a result of his study of the correspondence Mr. Tuttle said he had decided to subpoena Mr. Freece and H. R. Hanlin, executive assistant of the company, who it appeared wrote most of the letters, to explain their significance to the grand jury today.

Vause Omits Engagements.

County and Federal officials were forced to continue their investigation into the large fees which Mr. Tuttle has referred to as "a slush fund," without the assistance of the central figure in the case, Judge Vause, who twice in the course of the day broke engagements with District Attorney Crain to tell his story.

William Averell Harriman, former chairman of the board of the ship company, however, appeared before the Federal grand jury after assuring Mr. Tuttle that he never had heard of Judge Vause's connection with the pier leases and that he was unaware that any fees had been paid for legal services in that connection except to Kenneth O'Brien, who on

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, May 14.—Mayor Walker of New York and his party, which includes Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Field Malone, sailed for home today on the motorship Bermuda of the Furness Bermuda line. The Mayor appeared to be in good spirits and considerably improved in health.

Last night the Mayor was a guest at a supper party at Tom Moore's House, where he exchanged reminiscences with Will Travers, proprietor of the tavern and an old friend of his.

The Bermuda is scheduled to dock at Pier 95 North River about 9 A. M., tomorrow. A meeting of the Board of Estimate is scheduled for 11 o'clock. Among the matters pending before the board is the proposed extension of Riverside Drive through Riverdale, which was laid over last week to await Mayor Walker's return. The naming of a lay member to the Sanitation Commission and the agitation for a municipal investigation of the Board of Standards and Appeals are other matters awaiting the Mayor's attention.

Mayor Walker surprised even his close associates by sailing incognito on the Royal Mail packet Arcadian May 1 for a vacation in Bermuda. Five days before, his physician, Dr. William Schroeder Jr., had ordered him to bed, saying the Mayor was the victim of a "complete physical and nervous exhaustion brought about by overwork."

His sudden departure caused the Mayor to miss several important functions, including the annual police parade, the Jefferson Day dinner, at which he was to have been toastmaster, and the testimonial dinner to Police Commissioner Whalen. From his vacation retreat, however, the Mayor sent a message extolling Mr. Whalen which was read at the dinner.

Avoiding social functions so far as possible, the Mayor devoted his stay in Bermuda to resting in the sun, golfing and swimming. He also rode a bicycle in the presence of photographers, informing them afterward that it was "the first time in forty years." He was the guest in Bermuda of H. C. Blackiston, head of the Furness Bermuda line.

SENATE TREATY CRITICS PRESS ATTACK, SHARPLY EXAMINING STIMSON AND ADAMS; PRATT EXPLAINS SHIFT TO 6-INCH GUNS

ADAMS BACKS CONCESSIONS

Were Needed to Save the Conference, He Tells Naval Committee.

HE ADMITS JAPAN'S GAINS

But Parity With Britain Is Assured, and the Treaty Is "An Advantage," He Asserts.

HALE INSISTS BRITISH WON

We Obtained Only Combat Parity, He Says—Walsh Hits Billion-Dollar Program.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Faced with open hostility to the terms of the naval pact signed at London between the United States, Great Britain and Japan, Secretary Adams defended the treaty today before the Senate Naval Affairs Committee.

"The treaty is an advantage to the United States," the Secretary told the committee, whose chairman, Senator Hale of Maine, did most of the questioning.

With that thesis he sat down to a four-hour defense of concessions in cruiser strength which he freely stated had been made to Japan, the adoption of a building program that will cost about $1,000,000,000 over a term of ten years, and the yielding of other points to Great Britain.

The Secretary also told the committee that "it probably would not be a good policy to build all of the ships allowed under this treaty."

Parity with Great Britain has been really achieved through this treaty, he maintained, and he praised it as fair in regard to Japan, saying:

"I signed the treaty because I believed it represented the largest possible measure of progress in agreement with other nations."

Admitting that there is a "disparity of opinion," Secretary Adams stated:

"I have no doubt that the treaty gives parity with Great Britain in every category."

Compromised to Save Treaty.

One of the most serious objections raised by Senator Hale involved the cutting down of the twenty-one 8-inch gun cruisers at the instance of the Japanese to eighteen, with building conditions outlined which forbid the commissioning of more than fifteen of them before 1936, the end of the life of the pact.

"Did England have anything to do with that?" asked Senator Hale.

"It was purely a Japanese plan," replied Secretary Adams. "That was part of the compromise."

"We went as far as we could go in trying to get twenty-one 8-inch gun cruisers without breaking off negotiations," he stated at another point. "Great Britain and Japan were opposed to us."

Allegations that the Japanese had been elevated from their position in the 5-5-3 arrangement of the Washington treaty to one approaching 10-10-7, also were partially admitted by the Secretary of the Navy.

Throughout the morning session of the hearing, Senator Walsh of Massachusetts demanded to know the cost to the United States of achieving parity, and asked if the "naval reduction" means a saving or an increase in an effort to achieve parity.

Secretary Adams placed the cost of achieving parity under the treaty at about $1,000,000,000, saying that there are plans by which this may be done within the life of the treaty, or over a ten-year period. Senator Hale immediately stated that the United States had done virtually no building in ten years.

Few Spectators Present.

The Naval Committee met in an old room of the Capitol, the walls of which were adorned only with a flag and a portrait of President Harding, in whose administration the Washington treaty was drawn up in 1922. Less than twenty spectators, aside from newspaper men, were present.

Only when it was called to order was the last doubt that the hearing might be postponed dispelled. It previously had been postponed from last week and considerable comment on the propriety of the Naval Committee's holding hearings on a treaty has been made at the Capitol.

Apparently taking cognizance of this sentiment, Senator Hale opened the hearing by reading a statement in which he pointed out that last July he had said that "any changes in

ARRESTS ROUND UP MEMBERS OF HOUSE

Speaker Longworth Among Those Brought In When a Quorum Is Sought.

TIED UP BY A FILIBUSTER

Scores of Hungry Representatives Desert as Wandering Colleagues Are Herded Back.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The House ordered wholesale arrests of its members at a session tonight in an effort to obtain a quorum and transact business. Among the first to be brought in by the sergeant-at-arms' round-up was Speaker Longworth.

A handful of administration leaders had tied up the House for more than six hours in the first filibuster conducted there in eight years. They were trying to block a "farm relief" measure which, they declared, President Hoover did not want.

Adjournment was not taken until 9:35 tonight, when the body found itself facing the impossibility of going further.

The sergeant-at-arms was sent out about 7 o'clock under a resolution presented by Representative Quin of Mississippi. Soon after 9 o'clock the sergeant-at-arms came walking in with the Speaker, who had gone home late in the afternoon, thinking adjournment was at hand. Representative Crowther of New York was brought in in his dinner coat. Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, member from Florida, was another who came in after the sergeant-at-arms got busy. Mrs. Oldfield of Arkansas and Mrs. Pratt of New York were the only women who stayed in the chamber throughout the long session.

Desertions Offset Arrivals.

The sergeant-at-arms faced a difficult task, as hungry members deserted almost as fast as the wandering ones were rounded up.

The bill which caused the filibuster provides for the creation in the Department of Agriculture of an agricultural foreign service, with attachés at embassies and legations.

This proposal, according to Representative Wood of Indiana, was opposed by President Hoover, the Department of Commerce, the Department of Agriculture and even the Farm Board. Mr. Wood declared from the beginning that it should not pass until every parliamentary method had been used against it, and he proceeded to throw everything at his command in its way.

By early evening the House had put through practically all the tactics known to parliamentarians. The group had forced roll-call after roll-call. When time came to vote on the bill, however, they raised the point of no quorum, and by count a majority of members were not present.

Round-Up Voted 122 to 74.

Representative Quin, demanding that the absentees be "arrested and brought in here," introduced a resolution providing that members "absent without excuse" be taken in custody "and brought to the bar of the House." The resolution was adopted 122 to 74, and was signed by Representative Tilson of Connecticut, Acting Speaker.

Representative Summers of Texas sought to save the women members. He proposed a unanimous request that they be excused from arrest. Representative Howard of Nebraska, once secretary to William Jennings Bryan, father of Mrs. Owen, objected.

The first attempt of the sergeant-at-arms failed to bring in a quorum. He went out a second time and a third. Finally, on his fourth round of the office building, the House restaurant and the homes of a number of the members he managed to bring in enough of them to make a count of 222.

The House was still in a turmoil, however. The public had heard of the stormy session and had braved

DOUBTS PERSIST ON PARITY

Two Committee Hearings Lay Basis of Coming Fight on Floor.

JOHNSON QUERIES STIMSON

ADMIRAL PLEASED AT SHIPS

Tonnage and Gun Terms Provide Navy That "Suits" Him to Fight With, Pratt Asserts.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—With two Senate committees engaged today in conducting open hearings on the London Naval Armament Treaty, signs of hostility toward that agreement became more apparent, and it was evident that critics of the treaty had begun to lay the groundwork for an attack on some of its features when it comes before the Senate for action.

Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of State and chairman of the American delegation at the London conference, and Charles Francis Adams, Secretary of the Navy and a member of the delegation, the first of whom concluded his testimony before the Committee on Foreign Relations, while the latter appeared as the first witness before the Committee on Naval Affairs, were subjected to questions that obviously had a hostile intent.

Senator Johnson of California was foremost in displaying a critical attitude toward certain features of the treaty, particularly as to whether it provided parity in cruisers between the United States and Great Britain and whether the increased ratios accorded Japan in auxiliary ships were warranted, when Secretary Stimson was under examination before the Foreign Relations Committee. He was joined to some extent by Senator Robinson of Indiana, another Republican. Senator Pittman, Democrat, of Nevada, also gave the impression by questions that he looked askance at portions of the compact.

After the committee had adjourned for the day Senator Johnson said he was not satisfied with the explanations that had been given him and was very much in doubt as to the treaty. He hoped, he added, that the treaty provided for limitation, reduction and savings on a safe basis of protection for the United States, but, if this was not shown, he would oppose the pact "regardless of how much power may be brought to push it through."

Three on Naval Body Critical.

As for Secretary Adams, his chief baiter was Senator Hale of Maine, chairman of the Committee on Naval Affairs. It was apparent that Senators Shortridge, Republican, of California, and Walsh, Democrat, of Massachusetts, on the Naval Committee, were also critical of the character of the London arrangement.

Admiral William V. Pratt, commander-in-chief of the United States Fleet, who was chief technical adviser of the treaty delegation, was also subjected to a critical examination when he followed Secretary Stimson before the Foreign Relations Committee.

He was pressed especially as to why he had modified his previous opinion that 8-inch-gun 10,000-ton cruisers were better than any other kind for America's naval needs. He insisted that now he would rather have a variety of gun-calibre cruisers for fighting purposes, as the treaty provided. He indicated that for fighting purposes at close range he would rather have guns of 6-inch calibre.

The 8-inch-gun cruiser was "a corking good ship if you have visibility," Admiral Pratt said at one point, "but you let the 6-inch get in about nightfall or in the fog, she will eat up the 8-inch. You don't have such good visibility on the Pacific."

Asked by Senator Borah if he was satisfied with the treaty from the standpoint of the interests and protection of the United States, Admiral Pratt replied in the affirmative and added:

"You build up our navy under this treaty and I won't swap it. It suits me; and I say this as the one who would have to do the fighting with the navy at the present time."

Pressed as to the relative value of 6-inch and 8-inch gun cruisers, Admiral Pratt indicated that something of an unsatisfactory [illegible]

Couzens Hails Step to Limit Mergers in Industry, Wheeler a Remedy for Patent "Abuse."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The government is attacking every phase of the system of licensing, cross-licensing and pooling of radio patents employed by the Radio Corporation of America and associated corporations in an action to break an alleged "unlawful combination and conspiracy" charged against these companies, it was revealed today when the petition filed in an equity suit instituted in the Federal Court at Wilmington, Del., was made public by the Department of Justice.

Besides the Radio Corporation the defendants named were:

General Electric Company, American Telephone and Telegraph Company, Western Electric Company, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, RCA Photophone, Inc.; RCA Radiotron Company, Inc.; RCA Victor Company, Inc.; General Motors Radio Corporation and General Motors Corporation.

Senator Couzens of Michigan, chairman of the Committee on Interstate Commerce having charge of radio legislation, said today that "the suit filed by the Department of Justice in the District Court at Wilmington, Del., yesterday to test the legality of arrangements existing between the Radio Corporation of America, the General Electric Company, the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company is of great public interest and concern.

"For several years past," he continued, "much difference of opinion has existed as to whether these corporations were being conducted in violation of the law. It is a healthy condition when the government institutes a suit to have this matter finally determined. The country is entitled to know, and Congress is entitled to know, particularly because of its legislative responsibilities.

"I hope that the suit will be expedited so that the country may know how far these corporations may go and that the Congress may know what its legislative responsibilities are."

Injunction Sought.

Generally speaking, the government seeks a decree perpetually to enjoin and restrain the defendants "from continuing to carry out, directly or indirectly, expressly or impliedly, the said combination and conspiracy, attempting to monopolize and monopolization, and from entering into or carrying out directly or indirectly any similar combination and conspiracy and monopolization of interstate trade or commerce."

The government asked that the RCA Photophone, RCA Victor, RCA Radiotron and General Motors Radio Corporation "be restrained from engaging in interstate or foreign commerce, and that each of them be dissolved."

The petition charged that they had been a party to an "unlawful combination * * * in restraint of interstate and foreign trade and commerce and that each has attempted to monopolize and is in combination and conspiracy with the other defendants to monopolize part of the trade and commerce among the several States and with foreign nations."

Other demands made by the government included:

1. That the combination, conspiracy and monopolization complained of be held in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.
2. That the defendants be perpetually enjoined from performing or continuing to perform any and all other acts described in the petition "as means of creating, maintaining or effectuating said combination and conspiracy."
3. That the contracts and agreements between and among the defendants be declared unlawful and void and that the defendants be perpetually enjoined "from entering into similar contracts or carrying out the terms of said agreements or understandings."

Ban on Stock Deals Asked.

4. That the defendants be perpetually enjoined from agreeing with other defendants not to compete "with such other defendants in any line of interstate trade or commerce."
5. That the defendants, other than the Radio Corporation of America, be perpetually enjoined and restrained from purchasing or otherwise acquiring capital stock in the Radio Corporation of America, any of its subsidiaries or operating companies.
6. That the General Electric Company and Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company be ordered to divest themselves of all stock in the Radio Corporation and that the Radio Corporation be ordered to divest itself of any property, facilities or assets acquired from General Electric or Westinghouse under the recent merger.
7. That jurisdiction of this cause be retained for the purpose of enforcing such decree as may be entered and enabling petitioner to apply for the modification or enlargement of any of the provisions on the ground that the same is inadequate, and for the purpose of enabling the defendants to apply to this court for a modification of the provisions on the ground that it has become inappropriate or unnecessary.

The petition added:

"The defendants * * * have been and are engaged in a combination and conspiracy in restraint of trade and commerce among the several States, and with foreign nations in radio communication and apparatus, and the defendants are parties to contracts, agreements and understandings in restraint of said commerce, in violation of Section 1 of the act of Congress of July 2, 1890, known as the Sherman anti-trust act, and the defendants have in like manner monopolized and are attempting to monopolize, and are combining and conspiring with one another to monopolize said commerce among the several States and with foreign nations * * * and this suit is instituted to prevent and restrain the defendants from further violation of the act.

"As a part of said unlawful combination, conspiracy and monopoly, the defendants by contracts, agreements and understandings, made between themselves at various times, beginning in the year 1919, have granted to each other rights to make, use and sell radio apparatus under all existing and future patents and patent rights on radio apparatus held or acquired by them; and the defendants thereby have had and enjoyed a community of interest in each and all of said patents and patent rights and in the control thereof; and the defendants have continuously used and dealt with said patents and patent rights as being jointly owned for their common, mutual and exclusive benefit; and have assigned and allocated among themselves the exclusive use, enjoyment and benefits of said patents and patent rights, including the right to make, use and sell all radio apparatus covered by said patents and patent rights; and the defendants have thereby divided among themselves the business of interstate commerce in radio communication and apparatus to the end that they should not compete with each other in said commerce and to the end that each defendant should unlawfully restrain and monopolize said commerce in the fields allocated to it, and the remaining defendants should refrain from competing in said fields."

Patent Dictatorship Alleged.

According to the petition, the defendants "have continuously refused, except on terms prescribed by them, to grant licenses under said patents and the patent rights to any individuals, firms or corporations for the purpose of enabling the latter to engage in radio communication, radio broadcasting or interstate commerce in radio apparatus, independently or in competition with the defendants."

The petition asserted that the control of interstate commerce in radio apparatus acquired by the defendants through the licensing, cross-licensing or pooling of the radio patents has been used by them for the purpose of obtaining additional patents which increase the effectiveness and power of the patent pool, and the defendants have acquired and control more than 4,000 patents or alleged patents on radio apparatus.

The patent pool, according to the government, has enabled the defendants to dictate by agreement among themselves the terms upon which any competitor or potential competitor may use the patents owned or controlled by any of the defendants; to exact by agreement burdensome royalty payments from any competitor granted a license to use patents owned by the defendants; to compel any such licensee to accept a license on all the patents of all the defendants applicable to the patent apparatus which the licensee desired to manufacture and sell, thereby preventing such licensee from contesting the validity of any of the patents and thereby tending to prevent adjudication as to the validity of the patents.

The organization of the Radio Corporation by the General Electric Company in 1919 was described in detail as the government traced the formation of the alleged trust. As a part of the said unlawful combination the General Electric Radio Corporation, Western Electric Company and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, by contracts and agreements, granted to each other licenses under the existing and future patents on radio apparatus, the petition said. These set up a division of the various phases of the radio business, the petition held, resulting in the charge that the companies "collectively hindered, obstructed and prevented the establishment of radio communication by telephone within the United States."

Details of the associations of Westinghouse, the Radio Corporation and the International Radio Telegraph Company in their combined dealings were described.

The petition charged that each of the licensees has been required to pay the defendants a royalty of 7½ per cent of the price of all radio apparatus sold by the licensee and a minimum of $100,000 a year by receiver manufacturers and a minimum of $50,000 annually for tube manufacturers. The Radio Corporation share in 1929 was more than $7,000,000, the petition alleged.

"The purpose and direct result of said royalty requirement have been and are to limit arbitrarily the number of those who can engage in interstate commerce in radio apparatus," the petition said.

Radio Control Set Forth.

"The number of receiving sets sold in interstate commerce during the year 1929 was in excess of 4,500,000. The defendants and their licensees now manufacture practically 95 per cent in value of all radio apparatus manufactured, used and sold in interstate commerce.

"Said unlawful restraints and monopoly are being constantly extended into new industrial, commercial and scientific fields by the discovery of new uses for radio apparatus, particularly vacuum tubes, including among other such fields, methods of distance actuation and control; automatic counting, granting and assorting; selecting colors; leveling elevators and guidng airplanes, and the defendants have unlawfully combined, conspired and agreed to extend said restraints and monopoly into the new industrial, commercial and scientific fields, wherein radio apparatus may now or in the future be used or useful."

The petition described the organization of the RCA Photophone, RCA Radiotron, RCA Victor and General Motors Radio Corporation and alleged that certain phases of the radio business were allocated to these corporations tending toward monopoly.

Details of the organization of certain subsidiary corporations by the "primary" defendants, were described in their brief as follows:

"On or about April 4, 1928, Radio Corporation, General Electric and Westinghouse caused the incorporation of RCA Photophone, Inc. The interest in and control of RCA Photophone, Inc., represented by shares of capital stock therein, was and now is divided among said defendants in the proportion of 60 per cent to Radio Corporation, 24 per cent to General Electric and 16 per cent to Westinghouse. The defendants thereupon contracted, arranged and agreed that none of them except RCA Photophone, Inc., and Western Electric would engage or enable or permit any other person or corporation except RCA Photophone, Inc., and Western Electric to engage in interstate commerce in radio apparatus for recording or reproducing sound in connection with motion pictures.

Vacuum Tube Arrangement.

"On or about Dec. 26, 1929, Radio Corporation, General Electric and Westinghouse caused the incorporation of RCA Radiotron Company, Inc. The interest and control of RCA Radiotron Company, Inc., represented by shares of capital stock therein, was and now is divided among said defendants in the proportion of 50 per cent to Radio Corporation, 30 per cent to General Electric and 20 per cent to Westinghouse. The defendants have been and are planning and arranging to transfer to RCA Radiotron Company, Inc., all of the interstate commerce of said three defendants in vacuum tubes and to substitute said RCA Radiotron Company, Inc. for Radio Corporation, General Electric and Westinghouse in respect to said restraints upon and monopolization of interstate commerce in vacuum tubes imposed and enjoyed by the defendants.

"On the same day, Dec. 26, 1929, Radio Corporation, General Electric and Westinghouse cause the incorporation of RCA Victor Company, Inc. The interest in and control of RCA Victor Company, Inc., represented by shares of capital stock therein, was and now is divided among said defendants in the proportion of 50 per cent to Radio Corporation, 30 per cent to General Electric and 20 per cent to Westinghouse. The defendants have been and are planning and arranging to transfer to RCA Victor Company, Inc., the interstate commerce of said three defendants in radio receiving sets and to substitute said RCA Victor Company, Inc., for Radio Corporation, General Electric and Westinghouse in respect to said restraints upon and monopolization of interstate commerce in radio receiving sets imposed and enjoyed by the defendants.

"On or about Oct. 10, 1929, Radio Corporation, General Electric, Westinghouse and General Motors caused the incorporation of G. M. R. C. The interest in and control of G. M. R. C., represented by shares of its capital stock, was and now is divided among said defendants in the proportion of 51 per cent to General Motors, 29.4 per cent to Radio Corporation, 11.76 per cent to General Electric and 7.84 per cent to Westinghouse. The primary defendants thereafter granted to G. M. R. C. the right to sell radio receiving apparatus under all existing patents and future patents under which they had or may have the right to issue licenses.

General Motors Deal Reviewed.

"General Motors paid more than $5,000,000 in cash for its said stock in GMRC; granted to GMRC an exclusive license under all its present and future patents and patent rights on radio apparatus, which patents and patent rights thereafter by certain contracts agreements and understandings became a part of the patent pool hereinbefore described; and has made available to GMRC all its vast facilities for the distribution of radio apparatus throughout the United States and foreign countries.

"General Motors agreed with GMRC to purchase, and has purchased, exclusively from GMRC all radio apparatus sold by it at no less than the cost thereof to GMRC, plus 20 per cent. GMRC has unlawfully agreed with the primary defendants to attach, and has attached, to all radio apparatus to be sold by it the following notice:

"'Licensed only for use in automotive vehicles and conveyances or for private use for entertainment and educational purposes.'

"The purpose, intent and effect of the organization of GMRC and of each of the contracts and agreements, and understandings supplementary thereto has been to broaden, strengthen and make more permanent and effective the restraints monopolization of interstate commerce hereinbefore described and to eliminate one of the most powerful potential competitors.

"As a part of said unlawful combination, conspiracy and monopoly, Radio Corporation, General Electric and Westinghouse have contracted and agreed, and they are now planning and arranging, to perfect and make more permanent their restraint and monopolization of interstate commerce in radio apparatus by a reorganization of the business in radio apparatus of said three companies by, among other means, the following:

"The transfer and conveyance to Radio Corporation or its nominees by General Electric and Westinghouse or their respective wholly owned subsidiary corporations, General Electric Radio Company and Westinghouse Radio Company, Inc., of (1) all property, facilities and assets used by General Electric and Westinghouse or their said subsidiaries in the manufacture of radio apparatus (2) all of the stock of RCA Photophone, Inc., RCA Radiotron Company, Inc., RCA Victor Company, Inc., and GMRC, owned by said two companies or their said subsidiaries and (3) the right to use all existing and future patents of the primary defendants used or useful for the manufacture of radio apparatus.

"The issue and delivery by Radio Corporation to General Electric and Westinghouse of shares of common stock of Radio Corporation equal in number to all its present outstanding shares of common stock will give General Electric and Westinghouse more than 50 per cent of the voting rights of all outstanding stock of Radio Corporation and will give said companies complete control of Radio Corporation.

Moves Toward "Monopoly."

"The organization and employment of RCA Photophone, Inc., RCA Radiotron Company, Inc., and RCA Victor Company, Inc., for the purpose of manufacturing and selling various kinds of radio apparatus previously manufactured and sold by General Electric and Westinghouse; the proposed acquisition by Radio Corporation of all the stock of said companies now owned by General Electric and Westinghouse or their said subsidiaries; the proposed transfer to Radio Corporation or its nominees of substantially all the assets owned by General Electric and Westinghouse or their said subsidiaries used or useful for manufacturing radio apparatus; the licensing of Radio Corporation and its nominees to manufacture radio apparatus under the existing and future patents of all the primary defendants; and the acquisition by General Electric and Westinghouse of stock of Radio Corporation which will give said companies a majority of the voting stock of Radio Corporation, all as hereinbefore described, will permanently remove General Electric and Westinghouse as competitors or potential competitors of each other, of the other defendants and of all other persons and corporations in interstate commerce in radio apparatus and will thereby not only solidify and strengthen the defendants' combination and conspiracy in restraint of said interstate commerce and in monopoly thereof, theretofore and now existing, but by consolidating the radio business of General Electric and Westinghouse in Radio Corporation in exchange for stock in said corporation will make permanent the existing unlawful combination and conspiracy between said companies in restraint and monopoly of interstate commerce in radio apparatus which has been brought about by the various illegal means hereinbefore described. The organization and employment of RCA Photophone, Inc., RCA Radiotron Company, Inc., and RCA Victor Company, Inc., for said purposes and the proposed consolidation in said companies and in Radio Corporation of the business of interstate radio apparatus theretofore conducted by General Electric and Westinghouse were and are unlawful and in violation of the act of Congress of July 2, 1890, known as the Sherman anti-trust act."

Senators Expect Clarification.

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP).—The Department of Justice's anti-trust proceedings against ten corporations which recently agreed on uniting radio holdings was welcomed today by members of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

Senator Dill, Democrat of Washington, said the department's suit was "more comprehensive than anything I expected in the course of a five years' fight on the issue."

Senator Dill said the litigation would raise an issue against the corporations' "parceling out the future of the industry by having patents bought and paid for—and the manner in which they should be distributed among them—before they are secured."

Senator Wheeler said a decision against the department "would make clear the legal situation."

"The patent laws were passed with a view toward protection of the little fellow from interference with his patents when there was no indication of conditions that have developed, with the patents no longer in the hands of the little fellow who needs protection," Mr. Wheeler added.

Independents Pleased.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 14.—Independents in the radio industry are extremely gratified with the sweeping action taken by the Federal Department of Justice in attacking the validity of the Radio-General Electric-Westinghouse trade agreement, B. J. Grigsby, chairman of the board of the Grigsby-Grunow Company, declared today.

Mr. Grigsby brought charges of monopoly to the attention of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee in January when he described agreements which his company was forced to enter before it could manufacture radios.

An anonymous contributor increased the city's conscience fund by $197.92 yesterday in the form of 9,896 two-cent stamps packed in a collar box and addressed to the "Conscience Fund, City of New York, Department of Finance."

Controller Berry believed that the sender was some one who had had access to the city's stamp supply and had helped himself from time to time. The box contained thirty-eight rolls of stamps and several sheets. Noticing that the sender had used 28 cents' worth of stamps to mail the package, the Controller said he would like the donor to know that if he had deducted these stamps from the sum he owed the city, his account was not settled.

The largest sum ever received for the fund was $2,000 and the smallest 10 cents. The latter came from a man who said he had not been able to sleep for four years.

WHALEN SIFTS CHARGE OFFICER STRUCK GIRL

Witness Says Lieutenant Handled Young Woman Roughly—She Faints and Goes to Hospital.

Charges that a police Lieutenant had struck Miss Celia Brannecke, a telephone operator, in attempting to prevent her from passing through police lines formed at Park Row and Mail Street yesterday afternoon, were being investigated last night by Commissioner Whalen. The girl fainted and was carried into the Federal Building, where she has been employed for the past ten years as a telephone operator. She was removed to the New York Telephone Company's hospital, where her injuries were X-rayed.

The Lieutenant, Richard Reynolds, assigned to Traffic B, had ordered police lines formed when a crowd collected after an Amsterdam-Third Avenue trolley car had been in collision with an automobile truck at the junction of the two streets. Miss Brannecke, returning from her lunch, attempted to pass through the lines to reach the Federal Building, when, it is reported, the Lieutenant pushed her back.

According to J. J. Murphy of 576 East 137th Street, the Lieutenant pushed Miss Brannecke three times and appeared to use unnecessary force. He asked the Lieutenant for his name, which, he said, was given readily. Murphy is a custodian in the Federal Building. Lieutenant Reynolds recalled the incident last night, but refused to discuss it. Officials of the telephone company also refused to discuss the case.

Three persons were injured in the accident, two of them passengers in the trolley. They refused medical treatment. The third, Anthony Colombo, 57, of 6 Roosevelt Street, a Department of Street Cleaning employe, sustained a possible fracture of the skull when the truck struck him. He was removed to the Beekman Street Hospital.

REFUSES TO DIRECT ACQUITTAL OF KOHLER

Judge Denies Motion and Jury Will Get Wisconsin Governor Ouster Suit.

SHEBOYGAN, Wis., May 14 (AP).—A jury will decide whether Governor Walter J. Kohler of Wisconsin violated the State corrupt practices act and should be removed from office.

This was determined today when Judge Gustave Gehrz overruled a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal. Final arguments then were begun.

The jury is to return a "special verdict." The court today propounded eight questions, to be answered yes or no. Each deals with some phase of the ouster case evidence. After ten of the twelve jurors have agreed, a verdict will be submitted to the judge for his final decision.

By the State's contention, Mr. Kohler authorized agents to spend for him in the 1928 primaries more than the $4,000 allowed a candidate under the law. However, earlier rulings of the court eliminated much of the evidence, mainly compiled from files at the Executive's manufacturing plant near here.

Charges against Governor Kohler were filed more than fifteen months ago on a complaint signed by Philip F. La Follette, brother of the United States Senator, and three other leaders in the Progressive faction of the Republican party.

NEWSPRINT MILLS MERGE IN QUEBEC

St. Lawrence, Lake St. John and Brompton Companies Combine Assets of $68,000,000.

CAPACITY 1,000 TONS DAILY

Companies Own 3,600 Square Miles of Timber Lands and Valuable Water Power Rights.

Special to The New York Times.

TORONTO, May 14.—Combining assets of over $68,000,000 and owning or controlling timber lands in Eastern Canada estimated to cover 3,600 square miles and containing 20,000,000 cords of pulpwood, three Canadian newsprint corporations, the St. Lawrence Paper Mills Company, Ltd., the Lake St. John Power and Paper Company, Ltd. and the Brompton Pulp and Paper Company, Ltd., are being consolidated under one management.

A new holding company will be formed under the name of the St. Lawrence Corporation, Ltd. Consolidation will be effected by an exchange of shares.

While officials refused to discuss further plans for the amalgamation, it is learned through reliable sources that the merger is merely the nucleus for a larger consolidation of newsprint interests involving $250,000,000 and extending throughout the Dominion.

Rossiter to Head Company.

Ernest Rossiter of Montreal, president of St. Lawrence Paper Mills, Ltd., will be president of the new company. The directors are not known yet, but it is considered certain that N. A. Timmins of the St. Lawrence board will be chairman. He is perhaps most widely known in Canada as president of the Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines, Ltd.

A. F. White, president of the Dominion Securities Corporation, and Joseph A. Bothwell, president of the Brompton Company and a past president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, will be included in the directorate.

The St. Lawrence corporation will have no funded debt outstanding. Capitalization will consist of 300,000 Class A shares of cumulative convertible preferred stock of $50 par value carrying a dividend of $2 and callable at $55, and 2,000,000 common shares of no par value. Preferred will be convertible into common on the basis of two common for each share of preferred.

The 300,000 shares of Class A will be issued in exchange for 300,000 shares of Brompton common stock, the only security of that company outstanding.

Common stock of St. Lawrence up to 585,000 shares will be issued in exchange for common stock of the other two companies, and 70,000 shares of St. Lawrence common will be exchanged for 100,000 shares of Lake St. John common; 515,000 shares of St. Lawrence common will be exchanged share for share for St. Lawrence Paper Mills Company, Ltd., common, the 500,000 common shares of the latter company now outstanding to be increased to 515,000 shares.

Companies Retain Identity.

The consolidation emphasizes the trend in Toronto industry in recent years toward mergers which place control in the hands of stronger units and tend to prevent overproduction, irregularity of employment and loss to operating concerns.

In this case each company retains its unit identity but gains by the strength of the whole. The step is considered one of the most important in the newsprint industry. The consolidation is expected to bring a saving of at least $500,000 annually. Economies will be effected in operation through using lower cost machines at 100 per cent capacity and lessening and converting higher cost units for the manufacture of specialized grades of paper in which the market is more stable. Centralized control and the aggregate capacity of the amalgamation allow for employment of the best supervisory and technical skill.

The St. Lawrence Corporation will occupy an important position in the newsprint industry in Canada, having a daily productive capacity of about 1,000 tons, or one-tenth of the total newsprint output in the Dominion. With the formation of this company 75 per cent of the newsprint capacity in Canada will be under the control of six operating and holding companies.

Contracts Take Care of Output.

Lake St. John has long term contracts which would take care of capacity output for some time, and St. Lawrence and Brompton have contracts calling for delivery of the bulk of their production, though under the pro rata agreement the output under these contracts has been curtailed.

Plants of Brompton are located at East Angus and Bromptonville; of Lake St. John at Dolbeau, and of St. Lawrence at Three Rivers, all in Quebec. In addition, Brompton owns the Claremont Mill in New Hampshire.

Brompton is the outcome of an amalgamation of Claremont Paper Company and McCrea-Wilson Lumber Company, Ltd., early in the century. Brompton Pulp and Paper was incorporated in 1916. Other companies were acquired and operations extended. In addition to owning freehold timber lands adjacent to the St. Francis River the company has leasehold interests adjacent to those of the Lake St. John company.

The chief operations of Lake St. John Power and Paper Company are centred at Dolbeau, at the head of the Saguenay, a town of about 1,500 inhabitants, nearly all of whom are either directly or indirectly connected with the company.

The individual companies are not only amply fortified with timber resources, but control valuable water-power rights. Brompton owns three power sites on the St. Francis River, two of which have been developed, which make available between 15,000 and 20,000 horsepower. Lake St. John Power and Paper has a power site capable of developing another 20,000 horsepower.

Police Auction Brings $4,752.

The annual sale yesterday of unclaimed articles seized or found by the police during 1929 added $4,752.25 to the department's pension fund. The sale was held in the basement at Police Headquarters, with State Senator T. F. Burchill as auctioneer. He disposed of 333 parcels, a wide assortment ranging from small pieces of jewelry to large motor launches. The buyers were, for the most part, local merchants.

INSISTS ON INCREASE IN RAIL RATE ON PAPER

Canadian Railway Official, at Ottawa Hearing, Says Present Charge Is Too Low.

OTTAWA, May 14 (Canadian Press).—Cross-examination of railway witnesses occupied the entire day at the Railway Commission hearing on a proposed increase in freight rates on newsprint paper from Canada to the United States.

L. J. Knowles, assistant freight traffic manager of the Canadian National Railways, when asked why the increased rates had not been called for when the price of newsprint was at its peak in 1921 and 1922 rather than now when the mills were passing through hard times, said he did not know why this had not been done, as he was not in charge of freight rates at that time. He insisted that newsprint freight rates had been too low all along and that the decision to ask for an increase had not been arrived at hastily.

In recent years the traffic in newsprint had trebled in volume, Aime Geoffrion, counsel for the International Paper Company, suggested. If the railways had extended charity to the newsprint mills in the first place and had not withdrawn it when the industry was prosperous, he wanted to know why it should be withdrawn in hard times, especially when the railways were receiving three times the amount of freight they formerly received. The effect of the increase would be to give an advantage to United States competitors of Canadian mills, he said.

The witness maintained that the industry was well established and should be able to pay "fair and reasonable freight rates."

IRVINGTON CHURCH TO ARBITRATE DISPUTE

Westchester Presbytery Council to Act on Plan to Expand Hope Chapel.

Special to The New York Times.

IRVINGTON-ON-HUDSON, N. Y., May 14.—Disputes between members of the session and board of trustees of the Irvington Presbyterian Church which rent the meeting with charges of "untruthfulness" and "unchristian attitudes" were turned over last night to the council of the Westchester Presbytery for arbitration.

The principal fight was over the question of expanding Hope Chapel at Penny Bridge in the southern part of Tarrytown, about a mile and a half from the Irvington Church. The chapel has been functioning for sixty-three years, largely with the financial aid of the Irvington church.

In 1922 a trust fund, now amounting to about $49,971, was established by Joseph Clendinin, Maitland Griggs, the late W. A. Burnham and others for the erection of a community home at Penny Bridge, John D. Rockefeller Jr. recently announced he would give $25,000 to the fund if $50,000 more were obtained. About 100 members of the Irvington church attend Hope Chapel.

James Hall, chairman of the board of trustees, charged that elaborate plans for the Penny Bridge project which had been drawn free by real estate developers in that neighborhood had made the desires of the Penny Bridge people "too ambitious." He said the financial state of the Irvington Church was such that it could hardly pay its own bills let alone those of the chapel.

"It seems to me," he said, "that the Penny Bridge people should come here to worship. Let them use what they have for their community purposes."

Robert Gardiner Abercrombie, for sixty-three years associated with the Irvington church, a trustee and until recently its treasurer, declared that the trust fund had been left for the establishment of a community house at Penny Bridge and for no other purpose.

When Mr. Hall would not be moved from his position that the Irvington church could not afford to support a larger plant at Penny Bridge, Frederick C. Briggs, superintendent of the Hope Chapel Sunday School, questioned the "Christianity of Mr. Hall's position."

There was a sharp division among those present, some siding with the Penny Bridge group and others with Mr. Hall's position that the church could not assume further obligations.

Mr. Abercrombie spoke out for the Penny Bridge group and at one time was charged by Mr. Hall with being responsible for all the trouble by his "careless handling of church funds as its treasurer."

"You have told an untruth," Mr. Abercrombie fired back. "I can show you, gentlemen, that the church is in debt to me to the extent of $4,000 on one of its accounts."

WIFE SUES J. R. BUCHANAN.

Accuses General's Son in Washington Court of Desertion.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—John R. Buchanan of Warrenton, Va., son of the late General Buchanan, who left an estate valued at more than $4,000,000, was named defendant in a suit for maintenance filed today in District of Columbia Supreme Court by his wife, Mrs. Ruth Lester Buchanan, daughter of Wharton E. Lester, a Washington attorney.

Mrs. Buchanan told the court that her husband deserted her on Feb. 17 last without "right or just cause," and since then has discontinued her allowance of $1,000 a month and "refuses to support her or to supply her with the money for her needs and requirements or to pay the bills for necessities," which she contracts.

The wedding of Miss Lester and Mr. Buchanan was a society event of 1916. There are three children.

Mrs. Buchanan asserted that in 1926 her husband received a one-third interest in his father's estate and at that time was worth more than $1,800,000. She said that he made more than $140,000 during 1929.

TWELVE AMERICANS PRESENTED AT COURT

800 ATTEND THE CEREMONY

King's Presence for First Time Since His Illness Adds to Brilliance of Scene.

CROWDS THRONG THE MALL

Girls Wait There Three Hours in Closed Cars—Mrs. Dawes Makes the Presentations.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 14.—Amid a glittering scene, with trailing gowns reminiscent of an earlier era, eight American débutantes and the wives of four attachés to the American Embassy were among the several hundred women who curtsied before the King and Queen at the first court of the season at Buckingham Palace tonight.

It was one of the most brilliant courts in recent years, being the first attended by King George since his illness. There were 800 guests in all paying reverence to the King and Queen. Those débutantes who had received the coveted command to be present regarded themselves as especially fortunate.

All London seemed to sense the extreme importance of the occasion, for the crowds outside the palace were larger than ever. For hours before the ceremony began people thronged the Mall, and when the closed cars, in which were the débutantes and the others attending the court, began to form in line as early as 6 o'clock, they pressed as near as the police permitted them to admire the latest fashion creations.

Wait Three Hours in Cars.

It was something of an ordeal which those attending the court had to face, waiting in their cars for more than three hours without dinner. But the wiser ones brought sandwiches along which they munched to the amusement of the watching throngs.

The King and Queen, accompanied by the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, Princess Mary and other members of the royal family, entered the throne room at 9:30 P. M. The signal was then given to the guard of honor in the palace quadrangle and the national anthem was played. The procession of cars slowly moved up through the palace gates and footmen, resplendent in livery, helped the débutantes to alight, ushering them up the great marble staircase to the throne room.

The American débutantes were presented by Mrs. Dawes and had little time to be nervous. Officials of the Lord Chamberlain's department and all the others participating in the gorgeous pageantry of the court made everything as easy as possible. Each person waited in the drawing room for the Lord Chamberlain's summons to proceed to the throne room. Then there was the slow walk across the wide polished floor and the curtsies to the King and the Queen.

King in Guards Uniform.

The King wore the red uniform of Colonel-in-Chief of the Grenadier Guards. The Prince of Wales was in bright scarlet as Colonel of the Welsh Guards.

Queen Mary, a truly regal figure, wore a gown of blue and silver paillettes over silver lace, with a train with similar paillettes, embroidered with Louis XV bows diamante, lined with changeant blue silver tissue. She wore a diamond coronet with a deep collar and a sautoir of diamonds, the great Kohinoor diamond, the diamonds known as the Lesser Stars of Africa and other large diamonds, with the Order of the Garter.

Princess Mary's gown was of pale blue tulle, trimmed with a diamante train of silver tissue, lined with blue. She wore a sapphire and diamond tiara. Princess Louise, Duchess of Argyll, had a gown of pastel pink charmeuse, embroidered with silver and diamante and a train of rose gold tissue. She wore pearls and diamonds.

The guests were served at a buffet in the supper room after the court ceremony. This presented a colorful scene, the charming gowns of the débutantes and the other women contrasting with the gold emblazoned uniforms and medals of the diplomats and officers.

The gowns showed a definite return to the fashion of long skirts and full-flowing draperies. Although a number of colored dresses of lace brocade and lamé were seen, many débutantes wore white. Most of the white gowns were of silk net or tulle, with slim, tight-fitting bodices and long, full skirts. Narrow ribbon was largely used for embroidery. Many chose satin gowns in delicate shades of pink or leaf green. Lace dresses were seen in different colors as well as in black and white, and many had patterns outlined in beads or diamente. The dresses also showed the bolero is again definitely in fashion.

American's Dresses Described.

Miss Katherine K. Tod of New York, wore pale pink satin with a pink brocade train to match, embroidered in silver. She carried a feather fan matching her gown. Miss Eunice Bennett, also of New York, wore a gown of white net, with a full skirt, lightly embroidered with crystal flowers in rainbow colors. Her train was white and embroidered to match the gown. She carried a bouquet of the same colors.

Miss Elizabeth Brinton Kent of Philadelphia wore a gown of blush oyster satin beaute, embroidered with trails of deep ivory pearls, finished with a pearl belt. Her train was of the same satin over pale gold lamé, embroidered with pearls and edged with narrow gold lace. Miss Frances Hutchinson, also of Philadelphia, had a gown of blush parchment lace, with a design outlined and embroidered with ivory pearls, the long, full skirt falling from the tight-fitting bodice. A train of lace matched the gown. She carried a pale green fan.

Miss Charlotte Dorrance of Cinnaminson, N. J., wore a white silver lace princess dress with a full skirt, high neck and square front.

The other American débutantes were Miss Isabel B. Henry of Philadelphia and Miss Griselda A. Forbes of Boston, Mass.

The wives of the American diplomats presented were Mrs. Paul W. Evans, wife of the assistant military attaché; Mrs. Ralph T. Hanson, wife of the assistant naval attaché; Mrs. George D. Murray, wife of the assistant naval attaché for aviation, and Mrs. Homer S. Fox, wife of the assistant commercial attaché.

The second court will be held tomorrow night and there will be two other courts on May 27 and May 28.

Poetry Society Honors Scollards.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Scollard were the guests of honor at a dinner of the Poetry Society at the Brevoort last night, in recognition of the fifteenth anniversary of the first publication of Mr. Scollard's poems. Mrs. Scollard, who is better known as Jessie Rittenhouse, received a medal in recognition of her compilations of modern verse.

THE NEW EPISCOPAL SUFFRAGAN BISHOP.

The first ballot then was taken with the following, in addition to Dr. Gilbert, the Rev. Mr. Sparks and Dr. Wood as candidates.

Dr. NATHAN A. SEAGLE, rector of St. Stephen's Church, 120 West Ninety-sixth Street.

HOMER F. TAYLOR, rector of St. Paul's Church, Washington Avenue, near 170th Street, the Bronx.

Scattering votes were received for several other clergymen.

Result of Final Ballot.

After the first ballot Mr. Owen withdrew his name and the Rev. William T. Walsh, rector of St. Luke's Church, withdrew the name of Mr. Atkinson, who is on his way to Europe. Mr. Walsh on Tuesday had nominated Mr. Atkinson.

On the second ballot 230 votes were cast in the clerical vote, making 116 necessary for election, and 123½ ballots were cast in the lay vote, making 62 necessary for election. The result was as follows:

	Clerical.	Lay.
Dr. Gilbert	134	87
Mr. Sparks	60	16
Mr. Wood	23	13
Mr. Chew	8	3½
Dr. Seagle	2	1
Mr. Taylor	1	1
The Rev. William G. Thompson, chaplain of the House of Rest	1	..
Mr. Brenton	..	½

The announcement that Dr. Gilbert had won by both the clerical and lay vote brought virtually the whole convention to its feet with applause. Dr. Gilbert had won 18 more clerical votes and 25 more lay votes than were necessary for election.

The Rev. Adolf M. Hildebrand, chaplain at Seaview Hospital, moved that the election be made unanimous. Meanwhile, Mr. Sparks, defeated candidate, was making his way toward the platform.

"I wanted to move that the vote be made unanimous, but Mr. Hildebrand beat me to it," said Mr. Sparks. "I second his motion."

Bishop Manning put the question. There was a chorus of "ayes."

"I am very happy at the choice you have made," said Bishop Manning. "You have chosen one whose whole record assures us that he will be a true, faithful bishop in the Church of God and Suffragan Bishop of this diocese."

Turning to Dr. Gilbert, Bishop Manning said: You and I have known each other many years, and very closely in the last years. In your offices as secretary of the diocese and as secretary of the social service commission these relations have been not only those of confidence but of deep affection."

Gilbert Thanks Convention.

Dr. Gilbert thanked the convention, saying in part:

"Of course, I am appreciative. It is twenty-five years next month since I began my work as a deacon in this diocese. You have always been so kind and generous and patient in your attitude toward me, and I can only ask that the same kindness and generosity and patience be continued.

"I wonder if you know what it is to be asked to take the place of Herbert Shipman. I can't do it. But thank God for the pattern he has set and for the example he has given. I count on you to help me."

Bishop Manning then led the convention in prayer for a blessing upon the Suffragan-elect. Bishop Manning and Bishop Lloyd then joined hands with Dr. Gilbert.

The convention on recommendation from its committee on miscellaneous business voted to take no action on the following resolution, which was introduced by the Rev. Philip W. Fauntleroy, rector at Lake Mahopac, N. Y.:

"Whereas, that eminent scientist and our distinguished fellow citizen, Professor Henry Fairfield Osborn, has assured us that we do not have a common ancestry with monkeys, a decided majority of this convention desires to go on record as congratulating and thanking the professor for his corroboration of the biblical account of the creation of man in the image of God."

Just before the convention closed, Bishop Lloyd eulogized Bishop Shipman, and added, "I thank God for the man who is to pick up the work."

On motion of the Very Rev. Milo H. Gates, dean of the cathedral, the convention passed a vote of thanks to Bishop and Mrs. Manning for the reception given at their home Tuesday evening.

GILBERT NOTED FOR REFORMS.

Suffragan Bishop-elect Has Had Long Church Career.

As secretary of the Social Service Commission of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of New York, the Rev. Dr. Charles K. Gilbert has long been in the public eye. He has worked for many civic reforms, particularly in moving pictures. He is known as a dry.

The home of Dr. Gilbert is at 51 Perry Street and his offices have been in the old Diocesan House, 416 Lafayette Street. After his consecration they will be on the floor above Bishop Manning in the New Synod House on the grounds of the cathedral. He will have the rooms of the late Bishop Herbert Shipman.

Before Dr. Gilbert can be consecrated his election must receive the approval of three-quarters of the Bishops and the same per cent of the standing committees of the dioceses which compose the Episcopal communion. This is expected to take four or five months.

It is anticipated that his consecration will take place in the Fall and that the ceremony will be in the cathedral.

Dr. Gilbert is 51 years old. He was born at Bainbridge, N. Y., Aug. 6, 1878. He is the son of Don H. and Amelia H. Bixly Gilbert. He was educated in Hamilton College and the General Episcopal Theological Seminary, Chelsea Square.

In 1905 Dr. Gilbert was ordained a deacon by the late Bishop Olmstead and a year later he was advanced to the priesthood. The following year he married Miss Anna Louise Brownell of New Bedford, Mass. They have one son, Frederick D. Huntington Gilbert, 23, a student in Harvard Law School.

The first pastoral work of Dr. Gilbert was at Trinity Church, Newdorp, N. Y., which continued one year. The next six years he was rector of Grace Church, Millbrook, N. Y. From 1913 to 1918 Dr. Gilbert was editor of The Churchman, a national weekly published in this city. For the next two years he was rector of the Church of St. James the Less, Scarsdale. The Suffragan Bishop-elect is the author of several works on church subjects, including "Special Opportunity of Churchmen" and "Foreigners or Friends."

CANNON QUESTIONED FOR THREE HOURS

Bishop Appears Before Committee on Charges of Stock Gambling.

CHURCH TRIAL INDICATED

At Dallas Night Session, Board Drops All Charges Involving 1928 Political Activities.

Special to The New York Times.

DALLAS, Texas, May 14.—Bishop James Cannon Jr. of the Methodist Episcopal Church South told the story of his stock market transactions from the "witness chair" before the committee on episcopacy of the General Conference of the Church today, after twenty prominent laymen had filed information against him last night.

Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy; Judge James G. McGowen of the Supreme Court of Mississippi and G. T. Fitzhugh, former prosecuting attorney at Memphis, Tenn., represented the laymen before the committee.

All the proceedings of the committee have been secret and members have been unwilling to talk. Bishop Cannon was before the committee for three hours this afternoon and returned at 8 o'clock tonight for further questioning. Adjournment late in the evening brought no statement as to a decision.

Dr. Frank P. Culver, chairman of the committee, said that it probably would have an announcement to make tomorrow.

If the committee recommends that Bishop Cannon be brought to trial a court will be organized with twenty-five elders of the Church to sit in judgment. These Church jurors will be chosen by the Bishop presiding at the time or in such manner as the general conference may determine.

In such trials the accused has the right of peremptory challenge of nine of the committeemen and unlimited right of challenge for cause against the presiding bishop. Trials are held in secret.

If the committee on Episcopacy should decide that Bishop Cannon's conduct has been above public reproach and not subject to review by a trial, it will report back to the conference and the case will be closed, for the conference does not have the power of review over the actions of that particular committee.

A church trial for the bishop appeared certain today.

Those joining with Judge Fitzhugh in bringing the charges are all laymen, the explanation being offered that it was deemed advisable not to have any member of the clergy prefer the charges.

When John T. Scott of Houston, one of the leading Methodist laymen of Texas, learned that the charges had been preferred, he asked permission to affix his name to the memorial, making twenty-one signers.

The exact nature of the charges against Bishop Cannon are not known, as the committee on espiscopacy has declined to make them public except to give a copy to the accused Bishop as required by the church law.

They are known to allege that Bishop Cannon maintained an account with one or more New York brokerage firms through which he traded in speculative stocks on margin.

All Political Charges Dismissed.

DALLAS, May 14 (AP).—A short statement was issued by the Committee on Episcopacy of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, after it adjourned tonight, which in effect said that the committee had exonerated all Bishops charged in complaints of undue participation in the 1928 political campaign. The statement, which made no reference to the speculation charges against Bishop Cannon, read:

"In view of the widespread publicity given to charges against five of our bishops for their recent interests in the political campaign, and because many of our people, as well as non-Methodists, are greatly concerned with the probable action of this committee, we deem it wise to issue this statement:

"All charges of this (political) nature have been patiently considered, and much of the time of this committee has been devoted to their consideration, and we do not find that the charges are such as call for action by this committee."

PERNAMBUCO HAILS MERMOZ FOR FLIGHT

Officials and Fiancee Greet Him After Hop From Natal—He Plans Return to Africa.

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, May 14 (AP).—Jean Mermoz, French pilot who yesterday conquered the South Atlantic by flying the first mail between Africa and Brazil, arrived here today by plane from Natal, greeted his financée and was hailed by a tumultous multitude. He was accompanied by M. Guimie, his radio operator, who flew the land plane from Natal to this city.

Officials of the Campo Ibura Flying Field and governmental dignitaries greeted Mermoz. They delivered addresses of welcome and enthusiastically hailed his performance.

"I am satisfied because I established a new world record for hydroplane flights as well as bringing the first air mail across the Atlantic to you," he replied. "The flight was not only made for the glory of France, but to gain a new triumph of aviation."

The flier said he had encountered unfavorable weather conditions with such heavy seas that landing would have been difficult.

"The trip was made under ordinary conditions as far as the Equator," he explained. "Then we ran into heavy rains and strong headwinds, with but little visibility. The sky was overcast. On the afternoon of Monday we picked up the Aeropostal steamer Phocée, which was waiting for us en route. They asked us, 'How is everything?' and we replied, 'All's well.'"

Mermoz said he would return to Natal tomorrow to prepare for a start for Dakar or St. Louis, Senegal, Africa, on Sunday. His fiancée arrived today from Buenos Aires on the steamship Mendoza, which stopped at this port for two hours on the way to France.

BUENOS AIRES, May 14 (AP).—Paris and Buenos Aires were linked with four-day air mail service tonight. The mail which Jean Mermoz brought from France arrived here at 7:35 o'clock tonight in an Aeropostal plane piloted by Marcel Reine.

His arrival caused a demonstration at Latecoere Field, where postoffice officials, civil aviation figures and prominent members of the French colony were assembled. The mail was shipped from Paris late Saturday.

HOOVER RECEIVES GOOD-WILL FLIERS

Yancey and Companions Fly to Capital on First Leg of Tour to South America.

RADIO TESTS ONE OF AIMS

Plane Will Flash Its Progress to Buenos Aires Via Mexico and West Coast.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Lewis A. Yancey, the ocean flier, who is here to undertake a flight to South America, was presented to President Hoover today by Representative Emanuel Celler of New York. Presented at the same time were Emil Burgin, pilot of the Yancey plane; Zeh Bouck, radio operator; Isidor Goldberg, president of the Pilot Radio and Tube Corporation, and Miss Celler, the Representative's daughter.

Captain Yancey's flight will be for the purpose of radio experimentation. The plane will proceed via Miami, Havana, Mexico City, the west coast of South America, and over the Andes to uenos Aires.

Captain Yancey will navigate the Stinson-Detroiter plane, which is equipped with a 300-horsepower Wright Whirlwind motor. The party arrived in the forenoon from New York, experiencing unpleasant flying weather almost all the way.

Special to The New York Times.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., May 14.—Captain Yancey, with Bouck and Burgin, left this field this morning for Washington. During the good-will flight they will use the monoplane Pilot Radio, in which Bouck and Yancey recently flew to Bermuda. The plane will keep in direct radio communication through its short-wave equipment with that of THE NEW YORK TIMES radio room.

The purpose of the flight, besides that of radio experimentation, is to promote more amicable trade relations between the United States and the nations to the south, Isidor Goldberg, president of the Pilot Radio and Tube Corporation, which owns the plane, explained. Mr. Goldberg was a passenger on the first leg of the flight as far as Washington.

LINDBERGH IN SPEED TEST.

Spends Half Hour in Air Trying Out Monoplane for Mail Use.

Special to The New York Times.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., May 14.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh made a test flight of the new Consolidated Fleetster, high wing, Hornet-powered, all-metal monoplane designed for high-speed mail flying, above this field today. The plane is to be used on some of the mail routes operated by American air transport lines along the seacoasts of South America where the European competition for mail record services demand higher speeds. The new type plane is said to have a high speed in excess of 200 miles an hour. It is similar in contour and appointments to the Lockheed-Vega, of which Colonel Lindbergh repeatedly has expressed his admiration from points of speed in air transport.

Colonel Lindbergh took off without incident after looking over the plane under the direction of Reuben H. Fleet, its manufacturer. He climbed quickly and disappeared west of the field. After more than a half hour he returned to make a perfect landing. He refused to comment on his findings in the test and rejoined Mr. Fleet. He left the field in his automobile shortly after the plane was wheeled into one of the field hangars.

Aviation authorities on the ground at the time said that the test was significant, in view of the recent establishment of a three-day mail schedule by the French lines between Paris and South America, and that Colonel Lindbergh, as technical adviser of the Pan-American Airways, was on the lookout for faster planes.

After testing the plane, Colonel Lindbergh went to the Garden City Hotel, where he lunched with James Sleet, president of the Consolidated Aircraft Company of Buffalo, N. Y. Employes at the hotel recalled that just three years ago Colonel Lindbergh was preparing there for his transatlantic flight. It was his first visit to the hotel, they said, since that epoch-making event.

LEHMAN FREES DYING MAN.

One-to-Five-Year Sentence of Tubercular Convict Is Commuted.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 14.—Acting Governor Lehman today commuted the sentence of Raymond Stevens, convicted in Chautauqua County of maiming, and sentenced Oct. 1, 1929, to one year minimum and five years maximum. The sentence is commuted to the actual time served.

In making the commutation, the Acting Governor said:

"When this inmate was received in Auburn prison he was found to be suffering from pulmonary tuberculosis, and was transferred to Clinton prison and placed in the tubercular hospital. His condition became steadily worse, and I am now informed by the Commissioner of Correction that he is in practically a dying condition and that unless there is a decided change he cannot live more than a very short time.

"His minimum sentence would expire on Sept. 30, and in view of his condition I am commuting his sentence so that he may be released at once."

WORCESTER PLANS TO MOVE

Academy Considering Several Sites Near Bay State City.

Special to The New York Times.

WORCESTER, Mass., May 14.—Worcester Academy within ten years, possibly five, will remove to a new site, giving up its twenty-five-acre campus and playing fields and eleven buildings in the heart of Worcester, it was revealed today by the academy authorities.

"A lot of money is needed and it will probably take $2,000,000," George D. Church, registrar, said.

"It has been suggested that we might go to Rutland, where the academy has a camp and thirty-five acres of wooded land, but there is slight chance of our doing that. It is more likely that we will move to one of several sites within ten miles of Worcester, which we have now under consideration. It is possible that we may be given a site by one of Worcester's leading citizens."

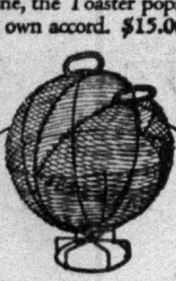
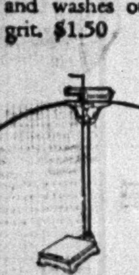
I'VE put Kanak in my refrigerator. Kanak is a chemical sponge. It prevents delicate foods from taking unto themselves the flavor and odor of the all-pervading things like fish, cheese, cantaloupe. In fact, Kanak obligingly keeps the refrigerator free of all odors. It's good for six months. $1.00

"ANOTHER wedding present to give," groaned the Big Chief. "Cheer up," I returned. "We'll give our usual Edicraft Toaster. It's always a hit." Toasts two pieces, on both sides at the same time. When they're done, the Toaster pops open of its own accord. $15.00

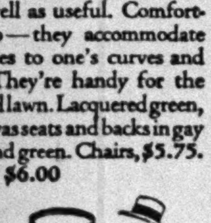


BERRIES, small fruits, leafy things—I wash them all in my wire Salad Washer. It opens out to receive them. Then is snicked shut, and shaken under the faucet. The water pours through and washes out the sand and grit. $1.50



OUR Bathroom Fairbanks Scale tells the unvarnished truth about one's weight. Since we got it, the Big Chief is going easy (so he says) on pie à la mode for luncheon. At any rate, he's lost five pounds. The Fairbanks is tall and white enameled. It weighs true. $37.00. Minus the height-measurer, $32.50

I LIKE my new Folding Porch Chairs because they're decorative as well as useful. Comfortable, too—they accommodate themselves to one's curves and angles. They're handy for the porch and lawn. Lacquered green, with canvas seats and backs in gay orange and green. Chairs, $5.75. Rockers, $6.00



"GOOD IDEA, those Hat Holders," commented the Big Chief. The holders are metal circlets that fasten to the wall. They hold hats firmly—and out, so the brims don't get curled up. $1.00 for three.

M'BRIDE DENIES HOME BREW FAVOR

Anti-Saloon League Head Says Report of His Lobby Testimony Was Incorrect.

AT VARIANCE WITH RECORD

Minutes Show He Declared That Under Certain Conditions Liquor Could Legally Be Made.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America, who was reputed to have testified yesterday before the Senate Lobby Committee that homebrewing and wine-making sometimes is lawful, denied today that he had made any such statement and called newspapers incorrect in so reporting his testimony.

Mr. McBride had testified that he thought a recent speech on this subject by Representative Franklin Fort of New Jersey was a "very good speech," and when the surprised committee continued its questioning, he explained his views, embracing the idea contained in the dispatches sent out from Washington yesterday.

His statement, issued formally today, follows:

"Many of the headlines and news articles in the press referring to my testimony before the Senate Lobby Committee on Tuesday, May 13, convey the impression that I said that home brewing or the making of beer in the home was lawful under the Volstead act.

"I made no such statement, and the record shows that I did not. I was questioned regarding a speech by Congressman Fort in the House of Representatives in which he quoted from Section 29 of the Volstead act as follows:

"'The penalties provided in this act against the manufacturing of liquor without a permit shall not apply to a person for manufacturing non-intoxicating cider and fruit juices exclusively for use in his home.'

"The provision in question relates solely to non-intoxicating cider and fruit juices. It declares that the penalty for their manufacture exclusively for home use shall not apply when they are in fact non-intoxicating. The paragraph has no reference to the making of beer or home brew.

"In view of the fact that my statements before the committee on this subject seem to have been misunderstood, I wish to make it plain that it is not my view that the Volstead act authorizes the manufacture of beer or home brew."

Reference to the official record of the hearings shows that Mr. McBride is recorded as having made the statement attributed to him.

After testifying that Representative Fort had "said that the law permitted the making of liquor in the home," the dry leader stated, "I think he is probably right."

The record shows that during continued questioning Senator Caraway asked:

"Would you be satisfied with an interpretation of the act that would allow every one to make liquor in his own home?"

Mr. McBride replied:

"No—that—I think there are certain phases to the law—I think, under certain conditions, liquor can be made in the home without being a violation."

Urges Alcohol Without Poison.

"I think it is up to this body to remove this poison provision from the law, and let the alcohol hereafter be made in pursuance of some formula which will not be deadly, which will make the alcohol nauseating, sickening, perhaps make the alcohol undesirable, but certainly not so that it will kill.

"The people who are in favor of national prohibition are drunk with power," Senator Tydings continued, "and it is going to be your undoing. You started out in 1920 with the people of this country firmly behind national prohibition, but have been so intolerant, so shortsighted, so narrow, so great has been your desire to put over this proposition, that you swept aside every human and humanitarian consideration.

"The reasonable sentiment in this country is changing, and it is changing not because you could not have gotten what you started out to get, but because you have been drunk with power, you have not seen any signposts around you pointing to the fact that you have been making a mistake."

Glass Criticizes Law Board.

The Law Enforcement Commission was criticized by Senator Glass during the debate.

"I am in favor of this transfer," he said, "but I do not want any one to get the impression that it is being done on the instance of the National Law Enforcement Commission, which already has spent $250,000 and is asking for more for purposes entirely foreign to its investigation. Before I vote for more funds for this commission I intend to ask for a statement of its accounts.

Mr. Glass recalled that he was Secretary of the Treasury when the prohibition law became effective and that he protested at that time to Congress against the placing of the enforcement activities in the Treasury Department. Secretary Huston, he added, also objected, while later Secretary Mellon favored the transfer.

"On these occasions," Senator Glass added, "the Anti-Saloon League favored the transfer for the purpose obviously of keeping the employes from getting out from under the influence of the league. I cannot find that the Law Enforcement Commission has done very much thus far beyond inquiring into conditions of delinquent children and automobile killings."

House Wets Move to Bring Bills Out.

House "wets" today started a movement to bring the fight on repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment or modification of the Volstead act to the floor by having the Judiciary Committee discharged from further consideration of two bills designed to bring this about.

The movement was begun at the first meeting of the House "wet bloc" held since February. The unofficial committee was in session but a short time when it adopted a resolution calling upon its own members to petition other members of the House to sign a request, now on Speaker Longworth's desk, calling for the two measures to be brought to the floor.

The bills are one by Representative La Guardia of New York for legalizing 2.75 per cent beer under the national prohibition act, and one by Mrs. Mary T. Norton of New Jersey calling for a national referendum on prohibition by constitutional amendment. Under the rules of the House the signatures of a majority of its members would be necessary to discharge the committee from further consideration and force the measures to the floor.

The Judiciary Committee cleared its decks today for further consideration tomorrow of various proposals for relief of congestion in Federal courts brought about by prohibition. Included in the minor bills disposed of was one for the reform of the Federal parole system and another for diversification of employment among prisoners, both of which already had passed the House but were back before the committee because of minor amendments in the Senate.

The committee reported favorably today on two of the bills creating new Federal judgeships recommended as a remedy for court congestion. One of the new judgeships is recommended for a new district to be known as the Southern District of Kentucky, and another for a new district in Southern West Virginia.

Tomorrow the committee will have up for consideration other new judgeships recommended by a subcommittee, and bills looking to modification of the Jones maximum penalties law, so as to define "casual or minor" violations of the dry law and to provide for their disposal, in part, by United States commissioners.

The committee is understood to favor modifying the Jones law and a proposal that pleas of guilty under the "minor or casual" violations interpretation may be entered before United States commissioners, who, in turn, could recommend fines and sentences to the courts.

State Is Free of Forest Fires For First Time in Many Days

ALBANY, N. Y., May 14 (AP).—For the first time in many days, New York State tonight was free from forest fires. The closing of the forests to all but those having business there, rather than the scattered showers today, was responsible, the Conservation Department said.

Two new fires were reported on Long Island today, but both were promptly killed.

The light rain today was of only temporary benefit in removing the danger of fire in the forests, the conservation officials said. Only a heavy rain will end the menace, in their opinion.

OPPOSE RIVER DRIVE ROUTE

Directors of 23d St. Group Against Using Av. C From 14th to 18th St.

Opposition to the use of Avenue C, from Fourteenth Street to Eighteenth Street, as part of the proposed East River Drive, was voiced yesterday by the directors of the Twenty-third Street Association. They recommended also that the Board of Estimate be requested to withhold approval of any one section of the proposed drive until the project as a whole has been approved by the official bodies concerned. Piecemeal approval of the route, it was said, would probably result in some such complications as have arisen in the case of the west side express highway, where the problem of the Hudson River piers has vexed city authorities.

The directors discussed the subway loop to link Thirty-fourth Street and 125th Street, now being planned by the Board of Transportation. Although no formal opinion was expressed several directors indicated their belief that the lower end of the loop should be located on Twenty-third Street.

MOVE AGAINST J. L. LEWIS.

Insurgent Miners Ask Illinois Court to Broaden Injunction.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 14 (AP).—Broadening of the miners' injunction to enjoin John L. Lewis and his followers from acting "or pretending to act as officers of the United Mine Workers of America," or from using the name was asked of the Sangamon County Circuit Court today by the insurgent organization which was formed March 10.

The petition set forth that the only rightful officers of the United Mine Workers of America were those elected here, and that John L. Lewis is continuing to exercise the functions of executive unlawfully and without the consent of the rank and file of miners.

The petition was accompanied by exceptions to the supplemental answer filed by Lewis in which he tacitly admitted that the original injunction had been disregarded, because the Illinois district organization had deserted its shelter by forming the new miners' union, which he termed a "dual organization" forbidden by the miners' constitution.

New Haven Loses Valuation Plea.

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP).—A petition of the New Haven Railroad to the Interstate Commerce Commission for a reconsideration of the value of rights it had in the Grand Central Terminal in New York City was dismissed today without action. The New Haven sought to have $55,000,000 included in the government's valuation of its property on account of the Grand Central holdings, but the commission refused to change its original finding, by which all of the terminal values in the Grand Central were assigned to the New York Central.

Friends, Meeting in Philadelphia, Telegraph Their Support.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—President Hoover's "continued efforts to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment" were approved by the Race Street Yearly Meeting of Friends today, in a telegram ordered sent to the White House.

On motion of Walter Hall of Salem, N. J., the following message was dispatched:

"The Philadelphia Yearly Meeting of Friends, in session at Fifteenth and Race Streets, May 12 to 16 inclusive, sends love and greetings. We heartily appreciate thy continued efforts to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment. We pray thee may be given strength and health to complete the difficult task."

"GEORGE A. WALTON, Clerk.

MORROW EXPECTED TO TAKE WET STAND

Believe He Will Make Formal Announcement in Newark Tonight.

FORT LIKELY TO BE IN RACE

Representative Said to Be Awaiting Ambassador's Announcement Before Making Decision.

Dwight W. Morrow will launch his campaign for the Republican nomination for United States Senator from New Jersey tonight with a speech at Krueger's Auditorium in Newark, and it is anticipated that he will declare himself a wet.

While the Ambassador to Mexico has withheld official announcement of his position on prohibition, members of his organization said yesterday that Mr. Morrow would state his opinions on prohibition in his address. They also said he would take a stand on all issues of the campaign.

The Morrow managers have planned a motor tour of Essex County in the afternoon. Mr. Morrow will leave Newark about noon and make a circuit of the county.

Plans have been made to accommodate a crowd at the auditorium. The speech will be broadcast by WOR.

Dry Issue Introduced by Fort.

The prohibition issue was introduced into the campaign by Representative Franklin W. Fort of East Orange, who said recently that he was considering entering the primary against Mr. Morrow and former Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, if Mr. Morrow, like Mr. Freylinghuysen, announced himself as a wet. Mr. Fort would have the backing of the Anti-Saloon League if he ran.

Mr. Fort paid a flying visit to Newark and Orange yesterday. He is awaiting Mr. Morrow's announcement tonight before making his decision, but it is believed in political circles that the chances were more than even that he would get into the race.

Jesse R. Salmon, Essex County Republican leader, who is supporting Mr. Frelinghuysen, said he had received a reply from Mr. Fort to the message he sent to the Representative asking whether he would run for the Senatorial or Congressional nomination. Mr. Salmon said he wanted the information so as to be able to make up the Essex County Congressional slate at a meeting tomorrow night in Newark.

Mr. Salmon would not reveal the nature of the reply, but it was reported that Mr. Fort's telegram did not give a conclusive decision. Mr. Salmon expressed the opinion that friends of President Hoover might be urging Mr. Fort to run, in order to head off a presidential boom for Mr. Morrow, which some of the Ambassador's supporters are discussing.

"I have no ground on which to back up my argument," said Mr. Salmon, "I am only making deductions. Right along in the campaign the supporters of Mr. Morrow have been intimating that the Hoover Administration would like to see Morrow in the Senate. In New Jersey the Morrow supporters have even gone so far as to form Morrow-for-president clubs. There is no doubt in my mind that word of these activities has reached the President. According to the 'rules of the game' Mr. Hoover will be the candidate of the Republican party two years hence. The Morrow boosters have sent out word that the Ambassador is presidential timber.

"This sort of propaganda may be the cause of worry to some of the President's friends. Mr. Fort is a close personal friend of the President. Hence the move to have him become a candidate for Senator in New Jersey."

Others Scoff at Idea.

This suggestion was attacked in other quarters, where it was said that Mr. Fort was not as close to the inner group of Hoover supporters as he was some months ago. These persons cited reports that Mr. Fort was disappointed because administration leaders failed to get behind him when he sought the Senate seat on the resignation of Walter E. Edge, who became Ambassador to France. From the White House a statement was issued recently announcing that the President was not taking sides in the contest.

Mr. Fort may make his decision known tonight in a talk before the Men's Club of the Munn Presbyterian Church in East Orange. During his brief visit to Newark he said he had not prepared his address.

The Rev. Dr. James K. Shields, State superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, said at his headquarters that Mr. Fort would be a satisfactory candidate for the drys. He praised the Representative's recent speech in Congress.

Mr. Frelinghuysen toured Passaic County during the day and spoke at a number of meetings. He visited the industrial regions in and near Passaic and spoke at Totawa, Haledon, Prospect Park and Hawthorne. He will renew his tour of Passaic County today and tonight will speak twice in Paterson.

Former State Senator Arthur Whitney issued a statement denying a report that he would be a dry candidate for the Republican Senate nomination.

Cheer Morrow at Hackensack.

Mr. Morrow appeared late last night at a meeting of the Bergen County Republican Committee in the court house in Hackensack, N. J., where he received an ovation. In a brief address he said he had come to announce his candidacy for United States Senator, but he explained that he would not make his platform speech until today. He said he had been a resident of Bergen County for twenty-seven years. He reminded his audience that he had been a member of the County Republican Committee twenty years ago, and added that he was "glad to be back amid old friends."

He was introduced by Douglas Thompson, his campaign manager, who is chairman of the county committee and a former Mayor of Englewood. An informal reception was held in his honor after the meeting. A representative of the Ridgefield Park Republican Club announced that his organization endorsed Mr. Morrow's candidacy.

Battleship Wyoming to Get Gift From British for Vestris Aid

Sir Harry Gloster Armstrong, British Consul General in New York, will board the U. S. S. Wyoming, now in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, at 4 P. The gift is in gratitude for the rescue of eight survivors of the Lamport & Holt liner Vestris, which sank off the Virginia Capes on Nov. 12, 1928.

DRYS GAIN SLIGHTLY IN DIGEST BALLOTING

Capture Melrose (Mass.) by Five Votes and Get Plurality in Logansport (Ind.).

Enforcement and repeal each won a majority in one city of the five newly reported yesterday in The Literary Digest prohibition poll. The three remaining cities all gave anti-dry majorities, with a plurality for enforcement in one and pluralities for modification in two others.

Enforcement received a plurality in three of the four cities for which second reports were issued, but in each case the combined vote for modification and repeal was greater than the enforcement total. These three cities were Pueblo, Col.; St. Petersburg, Fla., and Charlotte, N. C. In Madison, Wis., repeal received a plurality in a vote that was fairly evenly divided.

The bone-dry city in the newly reported group was Melrose, Mass., which cast a majority of 5 for enforcement in the total of 1,049. Port Chester, N. Y., was the one city giving a repeal majority. Logansport, Ind., polled an enforcement plurality, while modification received the highest vote in Danville, Ill., and Uniontown, Pa. The tabulation follows:

TARIFF DEADLOCK PUT UP TO SENATE

House Conferees Demand Action Be Taken on Export Debenture and Flexible Clause.

COALITION HOLDS THE KEY

Bill Is Dead, Says Watson, if Committee's Instructions Are Not Modified to Allow Compromise.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—There will be no further conference between the House and Senate on the tariff bill until the Senate passes upon the flexible clause withdrawing the President's power to change rates as well as the debenture provisions, put in the bill by the Senate and rejected by the House.

Such was the ultimatum delivered to the Senate Conferees today, and as a result Senator Smoot on Friday will report to the Senate the disagreement on the two subjects and ask to be relieved of the promise to insist in conference on the Senate position. There is an absolute deadlock between the conferees which, it is said, can be broken only if the Senate permits its conferees to negotiate for a compromise.

The Insurgent Republicans and Democrats of the Senate are undecided as to their position. If they demand that the Senate conferees insist on the debenture and flexible tariff clauses, apparently no tariff bill will be passed. If, on the other hand, as is expected in some quarters, the instructions are modified, the debenture probably will be dropped, and a compromise on a flexible tariff provision agreed upon which would be accepted by the administration.

"It is within the power of the Senate to say whether or not there will be a tariff bill," Senator Watson, the Republican leader, said. "It is up to the majority of the Senate to determine the fate of the measure.

"If the Senate adopts the motion to further insist upon its amendments, that is a technical position which will enable us to consider a compromise. If, on the other hand there is adopted a motion to instruct the conferees not to recede from the position of the Senate an unbreakable deadlock with the House is imminent and the tariff bill is dead."

Senator Harrison, one of the Democratic conferees, said the Democratic attitude has not been decided.

"I for one, would gladly take the responsibility of killing the bill," he said, "as Senator Watson indicates its death would come, by instructing the Senate conferees to insist upon its flexible and debenture provisions."

Representative John D. Garner, one of the Democratic conferees from the House, looks for passage of a tariff bill, despite the deadlock.

"I might say that the impression gained from Republicans is that President Hoover does not want this tariff bill sent to him," he said. "He would be called upon to sign an indefensible bill and would do it. He is represented as hopeful that he will not be called upon to approve a tariff bill."

Since the message has been under consideration, thirty-three countries have made protests or other representations concerning it, the State Department revealed today. Some of the nations have sent four or five communications, some of them recently.

Since the bill has been in conference, France has sent two communications, one in April and one in May. Switzerland sent one last month and two this month. Egypt and Czechoslovakia recently have sent one each. Germany and Spain have also communicated within the immediate past.

The countries forwarding protests or communications of one kind or another include Australia, Austria, Belgium, Canada, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, the Dominican Republic, Egypt, Finland, France, Great Britain (including the Bahamas and Bermuda), Germany, Greece, Guatemala, Honduras, Hungary, the Irish Free State, Italy, Japan, Latvia, Mexico, The Netherlands, Norway, Paraguay, Persia, Portugal, Roumania, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey, the Union of South Africa, and Uruguay.

WOULD CUT WORLD TARIFFS

But Baldwin Warns Against Keeping Britain "Dumping Ground."

READING, England, May 14 (Canadian Press).—Former Premier Baldwin is for lower tariffs throughout the world.

"I'm all for it," he said here tonight when he addressed the second of his "Home and Empire" campaign meetings. "But," he continued, raising a warning finger, "we will never get lower tariffs or universal free trade while we preserve this country as a dumping ground for the products of the whole world."

Mr. Baldwin noted there had recently been a good deal of friction between the United States and Canada over the American tariff. That friction had undoubtedly been one of the motive forces in the Canadian extension of preference to Great Britain, he said.

"American politicians," he added, "are very much disturbed today because they find the stringent tariffs which they have imposed against all the world are arousing a feeling of resentment in countries which feel these tariffc the most. They are these tariffs the most. They are not afraid of us—nobody is—because we cannot retaliate."

TARIFF REPRISAL URGED.

Uruguayan Paper Seeks International Boycott of Our Goods.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, May 14.—The newspaper La Manana is conducting an active editorial campaign for the formation of an international economic bloc to boycott imports from the United States until such time as the United States tariff is modified to permit easier entrance of foreign products.

The Uruguayan Rural Federation is studying what steps it might be advisable to take in Uruguay, but La Manana argues that the United States tariff is aimed at the commerce of the whole world and that reprisals would be ineffective unless taken in unison.

"Only by means of an international combination will it be possible to halt the advance of the northern Republic's economic imperialism," says the newspaper. "We must oppose the ultra-nationalism of the United States with the cooperative formula of 'Buy our goods if you expect us to buy yours.'

The newspaper urges that steps be taken to form a combination of neighboring South American republics as a first move toward its proposed international combination.

AUSTRALIA EASES BAN.

Ends Prohibition of Imports of Ales, Spirits, Tobacco and Matches.

CANBERRA, Australia, May 14 (Canadian Press).—The Government of Australia today announced many articles had been exempted from the long list of prohibitions announced along with drastic increases in the customs duties some weeks ago.

The prohibition of importation of ale, spirits, manufactured tobacco and matches is rescinded. These classes of imports, however, will be rationed to the extent of 50 per cent of the normal importations.

Women to Protest Mastick Law.

The National Woman's party will hold a meeting of protest against the Mastick law on Sunday at 3 P. M. in Town Hall, 123 West Forty-third Street. Mrs. Edith Houghton Hooker will be the chairman. The Mastick law eliminates the overtime of women employed in department stores and in factories.

BYRD AT THE CANAL; STEPS ON HOME SOIL

Asked his opinion as to the success of the expedition, he smiled and said with deep emotion:

"The success was due to the unusual loyalty and enterprise of the individual men. It was more or less like a football team, each playing his part in the game, with team-work on the part of all."

Asked about another expedition, he said:

"I am not planning anything new now. I am not ready to talk about that. This job is not yet finished."

Here the interview was ended by a series of short, happy barks, and with a bound to the divan Igloo joined the party. For a moment all the attention was given to the famous dog, veteran of two polar expeditions.

Reverting to the loyalty and courage of his men, Admiral Byrd said this was his first chance to talk about them. He considers it one of the most gratifying facts that he did not leave one of them in the Antarctic.

"I am glad to have been able to bring them all back with me," he said.

While awaiting the arrival of his ships he will work on his book and scientific reports and after attending the entertainments in his honor will probably fly to the highlands in the interior of Panama to spend three or four days with Captain Railey on work on the home end of the expedition.

Officials Give Welcome.

Although he landed on one of the hottest days of the season, Admiral Byrd did not appear affected by the heat. He will have the climate of early Spring in his native State in the highlands. The appearance of Admiral Byrd at the gangplank brought forth cheers and applause. He was welcomed to the Canal Zone by Captain C. H. Woodward, representing Governor Burgess, Colonel Ricardo Arango, representing the President of Panama, Laurence Higgins, third secretary for the American Minister, Captain L. N. McNair for the commandant of the Fifteenth Naval District, Captain P. M. Robinette for the commanding General of the Canal Department and Lieut. Commander T. R. Cooley for Rear Admiral E. H. Campbell, commander of the Special Service Squadron.

After greeting Deganahl and Dean Smith, members of his expedition, who preceded him here, Admiral Byrd reviewed the troops of the Canal Zone and the Boy Scouts and then began a round of official calls. Going first to Governor Burgess of the Canal Zone. The explorer's presence was soon known and when he left several hundred canal employes had collected in the rotunda, giving him rounds of applause to which he responded. He also posed for amateur photographers. Igloo entered the picture again and barked with delight at the applause the crowd gave his master.

When Admiral Byrd left the office of Governor Burgess, three American school boys sat on a bench outside and to their great delight he stopped and shook hands with each of them. They were the happiest boys in the Canal Zone.

Next he called on Rear Admiral Blakely, Commandant of the Fifteenth Naval District, and on Major Gen. Malin Craig, commanding the Canal Department, where he was honored with a salute of thirteen guns, the first he has received for his new rank on territory under the jurisdiction of the United States. He reviewed the guard of honor while the Fourth Coast Artillery Band played "The Admiral's March."

After lunch at the Hotel Tivoli with members of his New York staff, he paid a visit to the Ancon Public School, where several hundred American children hailed him with unbounded enthusiasm. As he was about to depart they broke their lines, swarmed about him and started a handshaking contest. One child was knocked down and was about to be trampled when Admiral Byrd rescued him.

Helping the frantic teachers to restore order, he indicated he would speak to the children and immediately all paid attention. He told them he was very glad to be back from the Antarctic and happy to see them all. He wished them well.

Calls on Panama's President.

After he had called at the American Legation, Minister Davis escorted Admiral Byrd to the Foreign Office, where he was cordially greeted by the Foreign Secretary, J. D. Arosemena. He accompanied Admiral Byrd and Minister Davis on a visit to President Arosemena, who expressed great pleasure at the Admiral's call, showed keen interest in his expedition and inquired about details of life on the Ice Barrier.

President Arosemena said he was gratified that Admiral Byrd was spending a few days in the republic for a rest. Admiral Byrd expressed great pleasure at being again in the South Americas and recalled his first visit to Panama when he was a midshipman in the navy.

The explorer is not engaged tonight. Tomorrow he will attend an exhibition of the troupe of juvenile swimmers, have tea at the American Legation and meet the diplomatic corps and be the dinner guest of Governor and Mrs. Burgess at the Governor's house in the Canal Zone.

Other members of the expedition arriving on the Rangitik were Russell Owen, correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES; L. V. Berkner, Charles Lofgren, Richard Konter and William Haines. The expedition's ships were reported more than 1,600 miles from Balboa at noon yesterday. At their present rate of progress they will not reach here before the end of the month. Admiral Byrd said he would remain here for four or five days before proceeding on the final leg of his long voyage home.

Big Day for Canal Zone.

BALBOA, May 14 (AP).—For the Canal Zone the arrival of Rear Admiral Byrd today was the biggest day since the Panama Canal was opened. The party was welcomed with zest by the population in general.

The conqueror of the Antarctic tonight paid tribute to Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, famed Norwegian explorer of the Arctic, who died in Oslo yesterday.

"Although I never met Dr. Nansen," he said, "like all explorers I have always admired him and looked up to him. I was very sorry to hear of his death."

In his call on President Arosemena of Panama the explorer told of his plan to take a rest at Boquete, in the mountains. The President said he would have the Governor of Boquete meet the Admiral's plane Monday with a car for the trip to the mountain sanctuary.

The visit to the President ended Admiral Byrd's official function for the day, and then he turned to thoughts of lighter clothing. He purchased several tropic suits.

As the Rangitiki came into port airplanes attached to the United States Navy and the Isthmian Airways circled the ship in greeting.

Asked what he considered the most difficult part of his expedition, the Admiral replied:

"The flight to get over the polar plateau was the most exciting and the most difficult part of the expedition. The heavy weight we carried made it a perilous trip."

He will spend most of his time at Boquete working on the manuscript of a book containing his story of the South Pole expedition. During the twenty-day trip from Dunedin he did much work on his scientific data.

Asked how he thought he would like the tropics after his long stay in the Antarctic, the Rear Admiral replied.

"I like them all right once I'm acclimated."

He said the expedition was most profitable for the radio engineers, who went out in temperatures of 70 degrees below zero. He said that a tremendous amount of compilations must still be made before findings could be given to the press.

"From the geographical standpoint, the flight to the east was of equal importance with the polar flight itself," he said. "Here we discovered those new mountains and territories."

ON BOARD THE STEAMER ELEANOR BOLLING, at Sea, May 14.—The Bolling, with the City of New York in tow, was 1,454 miles west of Balboa at noon today. The position, after a twenty-four-hour run of 104 miles, was Lat. 3:58 N., Long. 103:16 W.

Coolidge Bars Photographers When He Moves to New Estate

BOSTON, Mass., May 14 (AP).—When the Calvin Coolidges move in Northampton to their more pretentious "Beeches" estate some time this month, they want no photographers lurking about. The former President made that clear today in a letter addressed to a local representative of a newsreel company.

Mr. Coolidge wrote:

"I do not know if any picture could be taken while we are moving, and I hope no one will come to take pictures for that purpose. After we are settled if you wish to come up, Mrs. Coolidge and I will try to help you out.

"I wish you would pass this word along to any one that might think of coming. I am not in public live now, and do not like very well to have my private affairs put on the screen. I do not know just when we shall move—some time between now and June 1."

MUSEUM OFFERS AID FOR BYRD RECEPTION

Dr. Osborn Says Halls at Natural History Institution Can Be Used by the City.

Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn, president of the American Museum of Natural History, made public yesterday a letter to Acting Mayor McKee offering the facilities of the museum for the official municipal reception to Admiral Byrd and his officers of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition.

Dr. Osborn, who sent the letter on May 9, explained that the offer was made "with the understanding that the reception will be entirely under the control of the city and the Byrd Reception Committee, and the officers of the museum would merely appear as guests."

"This offer has been unofficially communicated to members of THE NEW YORK TIMES staff, who have been promoting this great project. The auditorium and education hall, as well as Memorial Hall, could be especially arranged for this official reception.

"The holding of this reception at the American Museum would be especially appropriate since we have here the memorabilia of great explorers, including Admiral Peary, Captain Amundsen, Lincoln Ellsworth and others.

"Admiral Peary's successful attainment of the North Pole was made possible through the generous support of the late Morris K. Jesup, who was president of the museum for more than thirty years."

Dr. Osborn explained that the official reception could be held in the museum's large auditorium, which seats 1,600 persons, while the reception following could be held in Education Hall.

DR. W. W. CAMPBELL ILL.

Head of California University Collapses at Commencement.

BERKELEY, Cal., May 14 (AP).—Dr. William Wallace Campbell, noted astronomer and president of the University of California, collapsed at the university's commencement exercises today and was taken to his home after being revived by a physician. He is 68 years old.

It was believed Dr. Campbell was overcome partly by emotion and partly by the heat. A short while earlier a valuable set of books had been presented to him by John A. Reynolds, president of the student body, as a token of the students' esteem, in view of his impending retirement. On July 1 Dr. Campbell will retire as president and will devote his time to astronomy. He will be succeeded by Robert G. Sproul.

SEEK SEATS IN CONGRESS.

Hart and Kenny Out for Democratic Nomination in Bergen County, N. J.

Additional entries in the New Jersey primary Congressional campaign were announced yesterday. In Bergen County it was made known that Archibald C. Hart, former prosecutor and former Representative, would have the organization backing for the Democratic nomination for Representative in the Sixth District. Mr. Hart will be opposed by Edward A. Kenny of Cliffside, a wet. Mr. Hart has not announced his position on prohibition.

Bergen County Democrats also announced that Mort L. O'Connell, former Sheriff, would be backed for that nomination by the organization. Robert B. Murphy will oppose him. The following organization Assembly slate was disclosed: Walter Measday, Westwood; James Breslin, Lyndhurst; Charles Mulligan, Bergenfield; Mrs. Leland Ferry, Teaneck. Aaron Katz of Palisades Park will run as an independent.

In Monmouth County William Sutphin, Democratic county chairman, made known that he would seek the party nomination for Congress in the Third District. A fight has been made recently on his leadership and he may face a battle in the primary.

NAMED DEAN OF WILLIAMS.

Professor Harry L. Agard Succeeds Professor George E. Howes.

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., May 14.—Professor Harry L. Agard has been appointed dean of Williams College, succeeding George E. Howes, who was appointed dean in 1920 and resigned in February, previous to going on sabbatical leave.

The new dean was graduated from Wesleyan in 1904 and received M.A. and Ph.D degrees from Yale. He was called to Williams in 1911 as an instructor in mathematics. At the 1929 senior elections he was voted the "most human" of the faculty and the "most approachable."

POETESS SET TO LEAD INDIANS IN SALT RAID

PLANES BOMB TRIBESMEN

200 SEIZED AT SHOLAPUR

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BOMBAY, May 14.—In view of the proposed raid by Nationalist volunteers on the Dharasana salt depot tomorrow, the District Magistrate at Surat has promulgated an order under Section 144 of the criminal code, prohibiting for one month the assembling of more than four persons and the carrying of sticks, knives or other weapons in Dharasana and the neighboring villages.

Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, Mahatma Gandhi's latest successor arrived here this morning, urging her followers to capture the salt depot and saying she feels "as Joan of Arc must have felt—under divine inspiration." She says the nationalist working committee has decided to make Dharasana an all-India fighting centre to which batches of volunteers will be sent from all parts of the country.

Preparations also have been made in Bombay to raid the salt works at Wadala, a suburb, where it is proposed to mobilize 2,000 Congress volunteers Saturday afternoon.

Police Club Calcutta Mob.

The unrest in India flared up again today at Calcutta, the scene of several sanguinary outbreaks in the past two months, when the police had to charge a mob with clubs. Five Indians were injured. The crowd scattered before the trouble became more serious.

The Nationalists were demonstrating against the arrest of Abbas Tyabji, Mr. Gandhi's successor, and were trying to induce passengers to leave omnibuses as a part of a protest strike.

In Sholapur all was quiet today beneath the iron heel of martial law. Almost all the shops were closed. Military pickets guarded the main thoroughfares.

Despite the fact the Indian press has been effectively prevented from printing false news, the wildest rumors flooded Bombay today from Sholapur. They were spread by Mahatma Gandhi's civil disobedience committee here, which is issuing typewritten sheets and distributing them from house to house.

"Beside the carnage of Sholapur, the terrorism of the Black and Tans in Ireland falls into a mist," declares one such broadsheet. The police are accused of wholesale murder and an appeal to revolt is made to Bombay citizens.

"Can you stand unmoved," the bulletins ask, "while innocent women and helpless children are being slaughtered in cold blood merely at the whim of the police?"

Few Attend Moderate Meetings.

Two meetings of Moderates were held here and one in Poona today in an atmosphere of the most complete apathy. Whatever the Moderates and Liberals may do, it is apparent India does not care at the present moment and so far the recent statements by the Viceroy, Lord Irwin, and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald have aroused little interest.

The committee of the All-Parties conference met in Bombay today with only about half its members present and the Nationalists boycotting the meeting completely.

Sir Tej Sapru, an influential moderate leader, prophesied the meeting would end in a fiasco and persuaded the others to adjourn the meeting until tomorrow, when more Moslems were expected to attend. The object of the meeting is to arrive at an agreement with the Moslems and other minorities.

The council of the National Liberal Federation today began a discussion of a resolution, which, while it disapproves civil disobedience, criticizes the government's policy. The resolution reaffirms the federation's intention to participate in the round-table conference in London in October.

The working committee of the All-India Non-Brahmin Conference, in a stormy meeting at Poona, adopted resolutions denouncing the government's "repressive policy" and regretting there has been no clear pronouncement from the government on the aims of the round-table conference.

Planes Bomb Border Tribes.

BOMBAY, May 14 (AP).—Reports of activity by the British Royal Air Force along the northwest frontier were received here today. The Madda Kheis particularly have given trouble, and it is understood further operations against the villages of this tribe are likely. It was stated that they would be bombed after due warning to the inhabitants.

Early this morning the authorities, with the help of the frontier constabulary, surrounded a village which had been the scene of activities of so-called Red volunteers. The constabulary disarmed all tribesmen and arrested several.

Reports from various districts indicated that efforts to paralyze communications were being made by cutting wires, blocking roads and felling trees.

During the day a plane crashed in Khyber Pass. Two pilots were killed.

The publicity officer of the Cilleparle Satyagraha committee said today that 200 Nationalist volunteers had raided the salt deposit at Shiroda.

One hundred and fifty-eight volunteers were arrested and sixteen persons were injured, one seriously, in a clash with police.

The first woman arrested since the civil disobedience campaign began was taken into custody today and sentenced to one year's simple imprisonment. She is Mrs. Lakshmipathi, a widely known social worker of Madras, who went to Vedaranyam to lead a demonstration against the salt laws.

Describes Air Raids.

LONDON, May 14 (AP).—The air raids by which the British forces cleaned up the Peshawur district in the Indian Northwest Frontier Province today were described by Captain Wedgwood Benn, Secretary for India, in the House of Commons.

Captain Benn also told of an attack by planes of the Royal Air Force on Monday in Northern Waziristan, a Waziri Lashkar (band of natives) 400 strong attacked a scout post. One Sepoy scout was killed. The bombing plane swooped down over this Lashkar with deadly effect. Desultory firing had preceded the raid for two days. No further action took place thereafter until yesterday, when the remnants of the hostile band reopened their attack upon the post and an assault from the air again became necessary.

Captain Benn said the forces of the Haji of Turangzai and the inhabitants of certain villages in British territory with which he had been in communication were disarmed by the Frontier Constabulary, supported by troops. Several leaders were arrested.

Troops Clean Up Sholapur.

SHOLAPUR, May 14 (AP).—Wholesale arrests of civil disobedience leaders, including two men suspected of the murder and burning of two constables, occurred here today.

Troops of the Royal Ulster Rifles, aided by civil police, began combing the city for Gandhi followers. During their cleaning-up operations they came upon a veritable arsenal of swords and spears in a private house.

Before dawn more than 200 natives had been arrested in connection with the curfew order, which last night forbade citizens being abroad in the streets between 7 P. M. and 6 A. M. Some of these men were released with a warning. Others were held on suspicion of being ringleaders in the campaign of killings and arson of last week. It was stated officially that those not brought before a military court would be given civil trials for minor offenses.

An exodus of Sholapur inhabitants today followed the curfew proclamation and the earlier institution of martial law. Trains leaving the city were crowded to capacity.

Farmers of the Karod division of the Bardoli revenue district are forming courts of their own in a campaign to ignore governmental tribunals as a step of civil disobedience. They intend creating village courts or arbitrations councils in every village of the division and a national court of appeal to hear cases sent up from the villages.

The farmers have decided not to pay their land revenues and to boycott with the utmost rigor all government servants and government supporters.

Police Quell Rangoon Riot.

RANGOON, Burma, May 14 (AP).—Police charging with drawn weapons into a mêlée of striking dock workers and rickshaw pullers today prevented a battle between them. The crowd refused to disperse, however, until more armed police arrived. The clash began when the strikers attempted to make the rickshaw pullers join in their strike.

The police intervened last night also to prevent an attack by the strikers on the wharves. Six thousand dock workers have struck, completely paralyzing shipping.

Hyderabad Editor Arrested.

KARACHI, May 14 (AP).—Professor Chanshayam Jethanand, editor of the Hyderabad newspaper the Hindu, was arrested today and brought here. He will be tried inside the Karachi jail with four independence leaders.

Sikh Calls Britons Cowards.

LAHORE, May 14 (AP).—Bhagat Singh, a huge bearded Sikh and a leader in the Indian warlike minority which bears that name, told a British court here yesterday what he thought of it.

"You are cowards and mercenaries," he taunted the Lahore tribunal which was trying him and several Sikh companions on conspiracy charges growing out of leadership of a band of 100 Akali Sikhs in a march on Peshawur.

Several local Hindus were arraigned with the Sikhs. They protested their treatment at the hands of police and called on Agha Haidar, the sole Indian member of the court, to resign.

Judge Haidar returned no answer to the demand, but did announce that he was not consulted regarding yesterday's order by Justice Coldtstream, the tribunal president, that a number of the accused who refused to stop singing revolutionary songs should be handcuffed.

SIDAR'S BODY TO LIE IN NATIONAL PALACE

President Ortiz Rubio Will Be First to Mount Guard on the Return to Mexico City.

MILITARY HONORS PLANNED

Dead Flier Made Brigadier General—Costa Rican Services Today—Rovirosa's Body Not Found.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, May 14.—The body of Colonel Pablo Sidar is expected to arrive here on Friday in the hydroplane Mayab, which flew south from here yesterday. Press notices received here this afternoon said the plane would reach Costa Rica tonight, and leave tomorrow for this city.

Extensive preparations are being made for the reception of the body, which will lie in state in the Ambassadors' Salon at the National Palace. The guard will first be mounted by President Ortiz Rubio and the Cabinet Ministers, followed by brother aviation officers of Colonel Sidar, politicians and other notables.

The Mayab will land at the Valbuena aviation field and full military honors will be accorded. A gun carriage will bear the body to the National Palace between a military guard lined along the entire route.

After further military honors Colonel Sidar's body will probably lie in state until the following day, when an enormous concourse is expected to attend its removal to its final resting place alongside the body of Captain Emilio Carranza, killed on a flight from New York to Mexico.

Colonel Sidar was raised to the rank of Brigadier General posthumously today by a decree signed by the President and will be buried with corresponding honors.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rico, May 14.—With General Juan Azcarate, head of the Mexican air service, due at Puntarenas tonight by plane to represent his government, imposing funeral honors for Colonel Pablo Sidar were planned for tomorrow in the cathedral. Congress suspended its session for a minute of silence today and adjourned at 4 P. M. as a sign of mourning and the President decreed tomorrow should be a day of national mourning.

So far all efforts to find the body of Captain Carlos Rovirosa, Colonel Sidar's companion, have been unsuccessful, and it is believed it has been devoured by sharks. Guards are keeping constant watch along the coast to see whether it is washed ashore. A parachute washed ashore at Limon beach indicates a vain attempt by Captain Rovirosa to leap to safety from the crashing plane.

BISHOP UPHOLDS GANDHI.

Calcutta Prelate in Boston Urges Dominion Status for India.

BOSTON, May 14 (AP).—Bishop Frederick B. Fisher of Calcutta told the world conference of Methodist Episcopal Bishops here tonight that India should have dominion status. He said Mahatma Gandhi was not a fanatic and that if Americans believed in the self-determination of peoples they must give him a chance in the "uprising of 320,000,000 Indians" for greater liberty.

Bishop Fisher was one of six Bishops who spoke on world affairs before 8,000 persons in Mechanics' Building.

Humbert's Assailant Committed.

BRUSSELS, May 14 (AP).—Fernando De Rose was ordered today committed to the Court of Assizes for trial charged with attempted assassination of the Italian Crown Prince Humbert. De Rosa was arrested after a shot had been fired at Prince Humbert while he was visiting the tomb of the Unknown Soldier here last October.

FIGHT ON NARCOTICS PRESSED BY LEAGUE

BRUSSELS POLICE SEIZE 11

By CLARENCE K. STREIT.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, May 14.—The League of Nations council devoted itself today chiefly to the league's humanitarian work. It noted with satisfaction that the Greek Refugee Settlement Commission had labored so well that it would be dissolved at the end of a year, thus liquidating the last of the league's big post-war refugee talks, involving the livelihood of 3,000,000 persons.

After this glance backward it turned to the future. It approved the health committee's recommendations for helping China to reorganize its health service. It adopted a plan for inquiry into the traffic in women in the Far East, for the expenses of which the Rockefeller Foundation's Bureau of Social Hygiene in New York is giving $125,000. It granted Bulgaria aid in its fight against social disease and enlarged the opium advisory committee, adding seats for such non-producing countries as Austria, Belgium, Egypt, Spain, Mexico, Poland and Uruguay.

It ordered the Secretary General to urge Central and South American States to ratify the Geneva opium convention and seek the cooperation of Turkey in the League's anti-narcotic work. It recommended that China, with or without the help of the treaty powers, inquire into the illicit traffic there.

The Council set Dec. 1 as the provisional date for convocation of a conference for the limitation of the manufacture of narcotics to medical needs on the basis of what is known as the "American scheme," although Japan feared the date premature.

Mystery Opium Ship Reported.

Arthur Henderson, the British Foreign Secretary, in urging speed, said he had just received a letter from London informing him of the departure from a producing country on April 27 of a ship with a cargo of 50,000 pounds of opium intended for the illicit traffic in the Far East. Mr. Henderson added that he was ready to call in Britain, at the end of July, a meeting of representatives of manufacturing countries in preparation for the December conference.

The Greek Foreign Minister, Andrew Michalakopoulos, invited to the Council table for liquidation of the Greek refugee commission, stressed the fact that the institution which supervised the greatest exchange of populations in history, that between Turkey and Greece, owed its existence to Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, who died in Norway yesterday. M. Michalakopoulos said the commission had cared for 200,000 families and that under it Greek tobacco production had trebled and cereals had increased by 60 per cent. He thanked two New Yorkers, Henry Morgenthau and Charles Eddy, who has served as League refugee commissioners in Greece.

Mr. Morgenthau, who was present this morning, expressed satisfaction to the press later with the economic and health conditions of the refugees in Greece, which he had just visited on the occasion of the Greek centenary of independence from Turkey, when he was made a citizen of five Greek cities. While there he made a tour with Premier Venizelos of Macedonia and Thrace, where refugees were settled, and found them prospering, although affected, like every one else, by the world economic depression.

Inquiry into the Far Eastern traffic in women has been entrusted to a traveling committee of three over which, it is understood, Bascom Johnson of New York will preside, and a Geneva committee composed of government delegates presided over by the French former Ambassador, M. Regnault, who will consider the report the former body makes before it gives it to the council. This ends a long controversy on the method of making the inquiry.

The council's special committee on the Hungarian reconstruction loan decided today, as had been expected, to recommend that the council liquidate this work.

11 Seized as Narcotic Agents.

BRUSSELS, May 14 (AP).—The Belgian police believed today that they had discovered a widespread drug smuggling organization of international scope.

An inquest in connection with the death of a young dancer recently who was known as a drug addict led to the arrest of eleven Brussels and Provincial Society members. They included sons, daughters and relatives of diplomats, high magistrates, generals and lawyers, and were alleged to have used or sold drugs imported from Germany.

ROYALTY AT ART EXHIBIT.

Italian King and Queen Greeted by Chicago Composer's Music.

ROME, May 14 (AP).—The King and Queen today visited the exposition of the American Academy near the Janiculum Hill and inspected the works of art by New World artists.

Their Majesties were received by Gorham H. Stevens, director of the faculty, while a band played a special selection by Robert Saunders of Chicago, a former fellow of the academy, instead of the usual Royal March.

Professor William Boring, head of the School of Architecture of Columbia University and treasurer of the academy, was among those presented to the royal pair.

20 KILLED IN DRIVE ON NICARAGUA GANGS

National Guard Loses Four and Bandits Sixteen in Six Clashes in North.

TROOPS TAKING AGGRESSIVE

Martial Law Declared in Five Provinces—Sandino Reported Returning.

By Tropical Radio to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, May 14.—Six clashes of bandits and the Nicaraguan National Guard have taken place since May 5, General Douglas McDougal, commander of the guard, revealed in an interview today. All were in the outlying northern provinces.

The first contact was at Naranjo, in the Department of Chinandega, where a guard patrol met and defeated bandits led by Salgado and Ortiz, former Sandino lieutenants. The bandits lost two killed and one guard was wounded. The mountains were found to be full of bandit trenches and breastworks.

Guardsmen under command of Lieutenants MacDonald and Christy of the same patrol had another contact with the same bandit group two miles south of this point at a place named El Angel. The guard casualties were one wounded and the bandit casualties unknown. On May 7 guards at San Juan were ambushed by 100 bandits who opened fire on all sides with Thompson and Lewis machine guns. The guards drove the bandits from a hill position, after which the bandits ceased firing. The guard casualties were four dead and two wounded, with all supplies and animals lost and the bandit casualties were six dead.

On May 8 Lieutenant Batem, with a National Guard patrol met and defeated a group of twenty bandits, capturing nineteen animals, with quantities of dynamite and bombs.

On May 10 Lieutenants Williams and O'Leary, with a mounted patrol, met and defeated part of the band of Fulgencio Hernández. The guard had no casualties and the bandits lost two dead, one of whom was identified as Benjamin Gutiérrez, a group chief, and the other as Transito Talavera, a leader of less importance. The guard captured a few rifles and some ammunition.

On May 12 there was a contact with twenty-five bandits in the Miraflores Mountains. The bandit casualties were six dead and the guard casualties one wounded. The guard captured arms and ammunition. Many bandits were found wearing red hat bands as insignia.

General MacDougal says the increase in the number of contacts is due to the greater efficiency of the better organized National Guard, which now takes the offensive against the bandits. The National Guard now follows the bandits by means of many patrols, which are continually policing the northern provinces, engaging the bandits whenever possible.

A force of 500 of the National Guard is now located in the northern provinces. The United States Marine Corps force in the northern provinces now number 200. They are located in the centres of population, thus giving aid and forming a background for the National Guard.

An unconfirmed report from Salvadop says that Agustino Sandino, the noted Nicaraguan outlaw, supposedly located in Salvador, has disappeared and perhaps is on the way to Nicaragua. Officials here say they have no information on this point.

Martial Law Declared.

MANAGUA, May 14 (AP).—The Cabinet has decreed an "estado de sitio," or state of siege, for sixty days in the northern departments of Matagalpa, Chontales, Jinotega, Estelí and Segovias, it was learned today.

[Declaring a state of siege in a Latin-American country corresponds to proclaiming martial law in the United States.]

BANS DOMINICAN ELECTION.

"Alianza" Calls on Its Followers Not to Vote Tomorrow.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, May 14 (AP).—Federico Velásquez and Angel Morales, candidates of the "Alianza" of the National Progressive parties for the Presidency and Vice Presidency of the Dominican Republic, issued a manifesto today urging their followers to refrain from voting in Friday's poll.

The two candidates, who are in opposition to the government, said they urged this step so as not to help enact "this farce of an election."

The manifesto said:

"The Alianza does not feel obliged to contribute to falsehood by participating in elections which really are not such, which in advance have been condemned for complete invalidity and in which it is impossible for the national conscience to express true convictions and sentiments."

The Government party, on the other hand, insists that elections will be fair and honest. They also predicted the election of General Rafael Trujillo to the Presidency and of Rafael Estrella Ureña to the Vice Presidency.

AUSTRALIANS WRECK PLANE

Accident in Landing at Bangkok May End Attempt to Fly to England

BANGKOK, Siam, May 14 (AP).—The Australian fliers, Smith and Shirer, damaged their plane badly in landing today at Bangkok and may have to abandon their flight from Australia to England. They left their homeland April 20.

The two aviators previously had met disaster late in March when they attempted to fly to England. They made a forced landing in the wild country of Northwest Australia and were not found for several days.

EX-KAISER LINKS CROSS AND GERMANS

Prayer at Crucifixion Probably Was Meant for Two Soldiers, He Says in Sermon.

CAPERNAUM MIRACLE CITED

Wilhelm Also Believes Man Cured Was Orderly of German Centurion —Sees Cause for Pride.

DOORN, Holland, May 14 (AP).—Former Emperor Wilhelm, delving into one of his hobbies, biblical research, has expressed a belief that the centurion of Capernaum who implored Jesus to save his servant was a German and the servant was a German orderly. He also believes that the leader of the Roman cohort in whose charge Jesus was placed by Pontius Pilate as well as the centurion who watched the death on the cross was probably a German.

The text of a sermon which the former Emperor recently delivered here on a Sunday commemorating the German war victims gives the results of his researches. When he was Emperor he was also head of the Protestant State Church and as such sometimes undertook to preach. Resuming this custom, he chose the Capernaum centurion as the subject of his Doorn sermon.

"Luther called the tall man who accosted Jesus at the Capernaum marketplace captain," said the former Emperor. "Luther, when he chose this expression, did not know the local and historical conditions in the Holy Land, hence he used the military expression then in use in Germany.

"We now know that the story is that of a Roman legion. More recent researches even reveal that at that time a Germanic legion was stationed in Palestine. The captain, therefore, was a centurion or, according to our military parlance, a general staff officer."

This is how the former Emperor described the centurion:

"The picture of the centurion is of such momentous significance and so impressive that it ought to be portrayed by a first class artist. The captain stood there in full armor, probably wearing on his breast the decorations giving evidence of his meritorious services."

After paying tribute to the greatness of the centurion's faith and its reward by Jesus in healing the servant, Wilhelm continued:

"The situation at Capernaum reveals the soldier in exemplary relation to the Lord. That must fill us old soldiers with joy and pride—you too, my comrades in arms, my old Grenadier Guards.

"Germanic legionaries played a rôle in the life of the Master also; on the sorrowful way to Golgotha the leader of the cohorts is seized with such compassion for the Master as He breaks down that he requisitions Simon of Cyrene to carry the cross.

"Under the cross we discover a centurion halting on horseback. He, too, probably was a German. He is the first who, overwhelmed by the greatness of the suffering Saviour, delivers the powerful confession, 'Verily, this was a righteous man, the Son of God.'

"The intercession of the crucified Lord, 'Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do,' is not intended for the Jewish leaders but for the poor legionaries, who, acting under the orders of their superiors, must inflict dire suffering upon the Lord.

"We old soldiers may well feel proud of this intercession of the Lord. Today we are thinking of those who fell. They marched to the battlefront praying, trusting in the righteousness of their cause. True to their oath, they died for the Kaiser and the Reich, for German fame and honor. We owe it to them to assert all our strength to retain that for which they died. We promise to do that in unshakable faith and with our eyes fastened upon the Saviour of the world, who once prayed also for German soldiers. Then we, too, shall earn the praise He gave to the Roman centurion:

"'Verily, I have not found such great faith in Israel.' Amen."

ARGENTINE ZIONISTS MEET.

Delegate From Jerusalem Reports on Conditions in Palestine.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, May 14.—The Argentine Zionist Congress opened today with delegates from all parts of the republic and with the presence of Dr. Pazi, a delegate from the Zionist Federation's executive board in Jerusalem, who reported on the progress of the new Jewish colonies in Palestine.

The president of the local Zionist Federation reported on the activities of the local organization in connection with the Palestine outbreaks of last August; also on the active Argentine support being given to the Palestine movement in the International Union of Associations Favoring the League of Nations.

Senator Molinari addressed the opening session, assuring the delegates that the Argentine people sincerely sympathize with the Zionist movement.

For Lovers of Americana

If you have furnished your home in the style of the early days, you will be interested in this picturesque dinnerware. It is decorated with scenes which have been made familiar by our history books. North and South, and the westward ho! days are all represented, for the series includes Mt. Vernon, a New England farmhouse, a southern plantation, West Point, Lincoln's birthplace, and the prairie schooner.

These scenes, which were taken from authentic old prints, are printed from copper plate engravings under the glaze. This means that the colors will not dim with use.

Early American Scenes dinnerware is exclusive with Macy's in the metropolitan district. 43 piece dinner service, $19.89; 94 piece set, $44.75. The pattern is carried also in open stock.

DRIVE ON SHANTUNG THREATENS NANKING

Northerners, Shifting Plans, Aim to Cut Off Province—Armies Mass Near Suchowfu.

LUNGHAI FIGHTING GOES ON

Southern Government, With Forces Drawn to North, Menaced in Rear by Bandits.

NANKING CLAIMS VICTORIES

Reports Capture of Kwieteh, Foe's New Base in Honan, and 10,000 Prisoners in Anhwei Battle.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, May 14.—Fighting continues between the Nanking and the Northern coalition forces along the Lunghai Railway front, the seriousness of which it is impossible to ascertain at present as only a few units are in action, but Nanking reports admit the encounter will be critical when the main forces meet.

Apparently the whole scheme of the military campaign has been altered, with the Northerners temporarily abandoning their threatened anti-Hankow drive and concentrating on the capture of Shantung Province in a plan to sever Nanking's communication with her Shantung allies, thus isolating Nanking and weakening her cause. The best divisions of both sides are concentrated in the vicinity of Suchowfu in Northern Kiangsu on the Tientsin-Pukow Railway, 200 miles north of Nanking, which is the most direct route to the capital.

Shantung Border Crossed.

According to reliable local reports, while Yen Hsi-shan's forces are massed in that area, Feng Yu-hsiang, who is quiescent in Honan Province, also has dispatched a large force to strengthen Yen's. With the defection of a body of the Shantung forces the provincial border already has been crossed, increasing the menace which resulted when Chiang Kai-shek proceeded to a point near Pengpu to take command of the Nanking forces from that base.

The developments bear out the theory that the Northern plan is to isolate Shantung, and important developments are expected in that region. Although Nanking claims certain progress on that front, it is believed unlikely that any great movements will take place owing to the menace of Red bandits in the rear, who have assumed alarming strength. Moreover, if Nanking suffers a reverse in the present hostilities it is likely there will be considerable activity of these bandit forces, which include not only Reds but former soldiers, impoverished farmers and other provincials.

A survey of the existing Red bandit situation shows a wide belt of semi-Communist territory stretching from Fukien coast through Kiangsi and Hunan almost to the Yangtze Valley. In this belt official authority is entirely gone. Other forces of similar complexion are operating in South China and around Hankow.

Nanking's preoccupation with the Northern war prevents effective handling of these forces, who continue to acquire strength. There is evidence that Russians are directing some of the forces and it is believed funds for ammunition are being received by the bandit forces from foreign sources.

An article in one newspaper today says there are fourteen of these so-called Red armies in China with a total of 45,000 men, who are capable of constituting a serious military threat to Nanking if the tide of battle turns against them.

Nanking's Authority Cut Sharply.

According to the foregoing dispatch, the Nanking Government's authority has now been narrowed until it extends over only one whole province and more than half of three other adjoining provinces, as well as small but very rich and strategically important parts of a fifth and a sixth widely separated and distantly isolated provinces.

Chekiang, lying just south of Shanghai, is now the only province entirely within Nanking's control. Adjoining Chekiang on the north and west are Kiangsu and Anhwei, about two-thirds of which are controlled by Nanking, and west of Anhwei, up the Yangtse River, Nanking forces hold about two-thirds of Hupeh Province, of which the rich and important city of Hankow is the capital.

Northward, but isolated from the main area controlled by Nanking, provincial forces loyal to the Nanking Government hold Tsingtao, the seaport of Shantung Province, and the 280-mile railway running inland to Tsinanfu, the provincial capital. Rebel Northern forces under Yen Hsi-shan appear to have driven a wedge between the Shantung capital and the Nanking forces on the north-south Tientsin-Pukow Railway, thus cutting communications between Shantung and the capital city.

In the far South, Generals so far loyal to Nanking hold the important city of Canton, in Kwangtung Province, and with the help of Nanking gunboats control a fan-shaped area in the Pearl River delta extending, at furthest, 120 miles from the city of Canton.

Besides the menace of the Communist and bandit-ridden provinces which stretch in a wide belt between Canton and Nanking's principal territory, there is a large area in the South held by the "Ironsides'" division under General Chang Fa-kwei, and the armies of what is known as the "Kwangsi faction" are westward of Canton awaiting the moment for a new advance upon that city. Last December the Ironsides and the Kwangsi forces, the former semi-Communist and the latter ultra-conservative, cooperated in an attack upon Canton and were within twenty miles of the city before they were decisively defeated.

Manchuria, which has an army of nearly 300,000 men and which operates an immense arsenal at Mukden, where 12,000 hands are employed, seems to be adopting an attitude of benevolent neutrality toward the Northern rebels, though both the North and Nanking have repeatedly declared that Manchuria had promised active assistance.

Nanking Claims Victory.

SHANGHAI, Thursday, May 15 (AP).—The Nationalist Government military headquarters today announced their forces had captured Kwieteh in Honan Province, newly established base of operations of the Northern Alliance rebels.

The capture of Kwieteh followed closely a victory announced by Government forces in Anhwei Province during a six-day battle. The government said it had captured 10,000 prisoners. Casualties were believed to have far exceeded the 20,000 mark.

The fall of Kwieteh to President Chiang-Kai-shek, Nationalist leaders said, had forced the Northerners to fall back on Kaifung to consolidate their shattered ranks.

Led by Chiang Kai-shek, President of the Nanking Government and generalissimo of its armies, these forces captured numerous field guns and 7,000 rifles with their prisoners.

The rebels, beaten back in Eastern Honan, developed a new offensive in Central Honan as other columns drove southward along the railway toward Hankow, key point of Central China. They were sent by Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang. Advancing to meet the rebel threat, a Nanking force moved northward from Hankow, with a major engagement expected.

JAPANESE WILL PROTEST.

Consider Nanking's Order to Search Ships for Arms Unlawful.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKIO, Thursday, May 15.—The Japanese Government will instruct Mr. Shigemitsu, the Japanese Chargé d'Affaires at Nanking, to make representations to the Nationalist Government concerning its order for a search of all foreign vessels entering the port of Tientsin for contraband arms.

Foreign Office officials said today that the Japanese Government considered the action of the Nanking Government unlawful. Search of foreign vessels, according to the view here, is only held justifiable in case of international warfare and not in case of civil warfare, which is constant in China. It is considered doubtful here whether the Nanking Government will really go so far as to carry out its threat.

Instructions have also been sent to Mr. Shigemitsu to request the leaders of the Northern Chinese forces, General Yen Shi-shan and Marshal Feng Yuh-siang, to take due regard for the protection of Japanese nationals and their property endangered in Chengchow.

TO EVACUATE CHENGCHOW.

Americans Advised by Legation—Those at Kweihsien to Get Escort.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Immediate evacuation of Chengchow by Americans has been advised by the American Legation at Peking, the State Department was advised today. Nelson T. Johnson, American Minister, acted upon a recommendation of the Nanking Ministry of Foreign Affairs, which telegraphed on May 12:

"The National aeronautical forces are now at war at Chenchow and vicinity. Americans should immediately evacuate in order to avoid danger. It is requested that you so inform the Americans concerned by telegraph."

According to the records of the State Department, the Americans at Chengchow are Mr. and Mrs. Victor Koon and their three children of Gainesville, Texas, and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Lawton and their child of Greenville, S. C.

American missionaries at Kweihsien, who have been in danger from bombing of that city by Cantonese planes, will be escorted out, Douglas Jenkins, the American Consul General at Canton, reported to the department. Recently Mr. Jenkins asked the Commander-in-Chief at Nanking for an escort for the Americans, and he has now received the promise of an armed guard from General Huang Shao-shung. The Americans at Kweihsien include Miss Annie Baillie of Turtle Creek, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Lackey Broaddus and their two children of Lancaster, Ky.; Miss Ethel Mattley of San Francisco and Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Smith.

CHARGES LABORITES RUIN LACE INDUSTRY

SCORES BOARD OF TRADE

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 14.—A motion to appropriate funds for the expenses of the Board of Trade was the occasion in the House of Commons today for a debate on the depression in British industry and the present government's share in the responsibility for it.

The plight of the lace industry of Nottingham was singled out as a special topic because there is to be a by-election there two weeks hence and next month the tariff on imported lace imposed by the recent Conservative Government will lapse.

H. B. Betterton, a Conservative member from the Nottingham region, declared that the action of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Philip Snowden, in not providing for the renewal of the lace duties in his present budget had threatened that industry with extinction.

"When the United States recently proposed to increase its lace duties, the people of Nottingham urged the president of the British Board of Trade to protest to Washington that the proposed increase in that country would ruin England's lace business, but the president of the Board of Trade refused to make any move in the matter," Mr. Betterton said. "However, America did not raise the duties because France did protest in behalf of her own lace industry and threatened to retaliate against America if the tariff were increased.

"So the lace-makers of England have no reason to thank their own government, but the French, for the fact that the ruinous American proposals were not carried into effect."

The present total of British unemployed, as brought out in the House of Commons, is 1,700,000. There are now employed 9,798,900 insured persons between the ages of 16 and 64. This is 89,500 fewer than a month ago and about 500,000 less than a year ago.

Argentina Buys Six Planes; Plans to Get Twelve More Here

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, May 14.—The Civil Aviation Bureau has brought a fleet of six two-passenger training planes from Consolidated Aircraft and is planning to buy twelve more upon delivery of the first order.

This is said to be the largest order for American planes ever placed in Argentina and it is the first time in several years that Argentina has purchased any American aircraft. Both military and civil equipment is composed almost exclusively of heavy French planes and there have been many fatal accidents in the last two years.

Frequent demonstrations of American planes as well as the successful flight of White and McMullen, coupled with the regularity of the two American mail lines with American planes has led both military and civil aviation leaders to desire American equipment.

Messia Yanguas Says Disorganized State of Politics Forbids.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, May 14.—Messia Yanguas, who was President of Primo de Rivera's consultative assembly, said at Cordoba today he did not believe parliamentary elections would be held with "politics completely disorganized."

"It is to be supposed the elections will not be held," he said, "and I hope they won't, for it would mean a repetition of the malpractices of the past."

Ossorio y Gallardo, who has been attacking the King, was not permitted to speak at Barcelona today, indicating that the government will continue to forbid any political propaganda for the time being.

All the furnishings and effects of the room in Paris where Primo de Rivera died have been bought by popular subscription for $1,280. They will be preserved at Barcelona.

CHAPLAIN TO VISIT MOSCOW

Reds Arrange for Briton to Hold Services There.

LONDON, May 14 (AP).—H. Dalton, Under-Secretary in the Foreign Affairs department, told the House of Commons today that the Soviet Government had made arrangements for a British chaplain to visit Moscow and Leningrad from time to time to hold religious services.

The statement was made in reply to a question.

20 PASSENGERS FLY ON BIG GERMAN PLANE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 14.—The world's largest land plane, the Super-Junkers G-38, which now carries the license figures DEE-2,000, today successfully completed its first overland flight, lasting ten and one-half hours. With twenty passengers, it flew over Madgeburg, Berlin, Frankfort-on-Oder, Stettin, Luebeck, Hamburg and again Berlin, where it landed at 4:30 P. M.

Owing to the new under-carriage with wheelbrakes, an innovation no other German plane is able to boast, the landing was unusually smooth, being hardly noticed by the passengers. The start from Dessau at 6 A. M. was equally easy. In spite of the giant's heavy weight—twenty-four tons—it took off within ten seconds.

Except for its material—which, like that of all other planes of the same family, is all metal—the new plane differs greatly from all previous types. It shows many innovations and is the nearest approach to a nothing-but-wing plane—an idea for which Professor Junkers registered patents as early as 1910.

The most important of the innovations is the fact the four motors, of a total of 2,400 horsepower, are arranged within the wings, which also contain part of the passenger cabins. The thickness of the wings permits easy approach to all motors. The wing tips are so high as to permit a man to stand erect, an advantage which was demonstrated today when minor repairs were made during the flight.

The flight was supervised by a diploma engineer, Reginald Schinzinger, while Pilots Zimmerman and Göthe occupied the pilot's seats in the plane's nose.

The plane's span is 148 feet, its length 75 feet and its height 16 feet. Since Tempelhof hangars are not large enough for the monster plane, it is standing tonight in an open field. Under its wing, like a young chicken under the mother hen, stands a Junkers Junior, the world's smallest all-metal plane.

PARAGUAYANS HOLD FETE.

Celebrate 119th Anniversary of Nation's Independence From Spain.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ASUNCION, May 14.—Paraguay celebrated today the 119th anniversary of its independence from Spain in a much more elaborate and enthusiastic manner than in recent years.

Argentina and Brazil sent small warships and the sailors of the two nations who, with Uruguay, formed the triple alliance which nearly wiped Paraguay off the map, participated in the military parade, being showered with flowers from the balconies as they passed.

A shipload of Argentinian tourists arrived a few days ago for the independence celebrations and added to the general animation.

The day was celebrated at the capitals of Argentina, Brazil and Uruguay by receptions at the Paraguayan Legations, and at the schools at Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro and Montevideo, bearing the name Republic of Paraguay School in accordance with the South American custom of giving the name of sister republics to schools. The pupils of these schools correspond with pupils in the country after which the school is named. They make a special study of that republic's history and each year celebrate its independence day.

STERN'S SHOE SALON—THIRD FLOOR

"Come and get it!"

That is the camp dinner gong, the call to the feast where the table may be the solid ground and the room ceiling is the sky itself.

Ever taste fish chowder made from trout that were swimming an hour before . . . or steak broiled brown and savory on the outside fading to a rich delicious and so-juicy redness in the middle? . . .

Camping joys are inseparably bound up with the cooking utensils, the equipment and clothing that you take with you. Comfort and convenience are not even dependent on weather if you are correctly prepared.

We specialize in rough clothes and every possible article you need for camping above or below the snow line in any state or country.

BASE CAMP ON KANCHENJUNGA, April 29, via runner to Darjeeling, May 14.—The fates still tend to play pitch and toss with us. The commissariat is always a source of the greatest anxiety. Feeding dozens of Europeans is one thing, but feeding 300 coolies is another.

As the food promised by the Nepalese authorities was not at Khunza the expedition had to obtain food locally. Fortunately, enough was forthcoming to enable us to keep going and local porters carried food on to the base camp, allowing us to send back food porters to help J. S. Hannah at Tseram and other porters to help Colonel Tobin get the loads over Kang La. The expedition should have proceeded in one party, not three, as this caused many difficulties and much anxiety regarding maintaining communications and the distribution of food.

At Khunza the expedition was entertained at a monastery. After climbing flights of rickety ladders we were ushered into a large temple, the sinister gloom being broken by oil lamps before the effigies of Buddha and of the past heads of the lhamas. The monastery is a branch of the famous Khampa Dzong Monastery, but curiously enough the lhamas marry. The lhamas are also policemen, keeping order at Khunza. We were shown the rawhide whip with which this is accomplished.

The monastery band, under the direction of the head lhama, a benevolent old gentleman with a broad smile, demonstrated its talent, accompanied by the head lhama's prayer wheel and the vigorous ringing of a bell. The intervals between the music were occupied by monotonous chanting. The ceremony was completed by every one flinging rice on the floor.

We returned this hospitality with a gramaphone recital, exciting much amusement and even awe, as the gramaphone is unknown here. But "Sunnyside Up" seemed incongruous in the religious gloom of the old monastery. We left the monastery after drinking large quantities of marwa, the local liquor, which produced cheerful effects on more than one member of the expedition.

Thanks to the herculean efforts of Wood Johnson, we were able to leave Khunza, with coolie food for some days, on the last stage of the journey to the base camp, leaving the Subadar and the Ghurkha officer supervising the sending of further food to the base camp. For some distance we followed a good path, passing sylvan glades strewn with yellow primroses, and with upward glimpses at the cathedral-like peaks dominating the valley. Sometimes we encountered leisurely yak herds—mild-eyed, clean beasts with long hair, looking like children's toys. Incidentally one yak accompanied the expedition as food.

Peril From Falling Stones.

After a few miles, the path degenerated into a mere trail, and knives were often needed to clear it. Sometimes we descended into the river bed where roared the melted snow waters of Kanchenjunga amid a maze of monstrous boulders, telling of tremendous floods in which boulders as large as cottages had been carried down like pebbles. We were forced to traverse an insecure shale slope, where large stones constantly fell. Finally we toiled up the moraine of the Jannu glacier, which thrusts across the valley. The evening mists enwrapped us as we stumbled over the stony labyrinth, but once they parted, revealing Jannu's wonderful precipices, aflame in the declining sun—a fantastic vision, which Gustave Doré would have despaired of reproducing.

It was almost dark as we forded the glacier torrent to the meadows of Kangbachen, a little village of primitive chalets, near which we pitched camp. We awoke next morning with a view of Jannu and its satellites rising from the unexplored Jannu glacier. This was our first near view of the Himalayan giants, and the wedge-like summits of rock and ice, springing at terrific angles thousands of feet above, impressed us with their utter impregnability. The mountaineer's trained eye seeks routes vainly here, for, unlike the Alps, the construction of many Himalayan peaks is so indefinite that what looks like a most promising route usually ends in a complete cut-off.

Camp in Snowstorm.

Geologically, they are new mountains and the vast masses of rock flung haphazardly heavenward are not yet weathered sufficiently to afford to man a chance of treading their summits. Several inhabitants of Kangbachen are stunted and dwarf-like, probably due to intermarriage and a lack of fresh blood. There was one married couple no taller than the average European child five years of age.

From Kangbachen we followed the long terminal moraines of the Kanchenjunga glacier, traversing denuded banks with their dangerously loose stones and crossing the débris of a huge rock fall, which had apparently come down recently. We camped at Lhonak in a snowstorm. Owing to the two long marches, many porters did not arrive and spent the night lower down.

On April 26 we made the last march to the base camp. We followed the side of the moraines of the glacier, which is so thickly covered with stones on the lower portion that it resembles a roadmakers' dump. As usual, the weather was clouded and we arrived at the site of the base camp at Pangperma in a desultory snowfall which soon developed into a full-fledged storm. The base camp is in a grassy hollow, sheltered slightly from the bitterly cold winds which appear to blow with as much persistence and penetrative powers as at the Everest base camp. It was a cold welcome, with the temperature on the first night at two degrees Fahrenheit outside the tent and fifteen inside. But this was forgotten as we parted the tent flaps and peered outside the next morning.

Ice Slopes Lead to Peak.

Opposite, across the Kanchenjunga Glacier, rises the wedge-like peak, a sheer fang of rock and ice soaring over 7,000 feet above the glacier in gleaming ice slopes sliced with red precipices. Like Siniolchum, it is the embodiment of inaccessibility and the final, culminating blades of ice, built one on another in tremendous, but ordered confusion, glance frigidly down on a world that is scarcely likely ever to defile them.

They have been hacked and tortured by the winds' fierce thrusts into goblin shapes, with queer mushroom forms, daring minarets and extravagant pinnacles of fairy delicacy and thinness. To the east rise the twins, more staid peaks, yet having the dignity and grandeur of the nobly proportioned and adequately buttressed summit.

Framed in this magnificent gateway is Kanchenjunga. It is further away, yet in the distance it gains rather than loses in grandeur, so vast its scale. It is built in a series of sloping terraces, each guarded by sheer walls of ice. Sometimes great masses, tens of thousands of tons, break away, thundering madly down the mountain side on to the Kanchenjunga Glacier. Above the final terrace rise two of the highest summits—that to the east being supreme.

Selects North Ridge Route.

If the final terrace can be reached and a camp established, it is practically certain, given good weather, that the summit can be reached. It is possible to attack the three main terraces frontally, the ice walls being turned to the left. The general angle is not excessive, but the intervening ground between the first and second terraces forms a most formidable rock precipice, armored with ice.

Yet, even supposing this route is possible, it possesses grave disadvantages as the climbers would be exposed to falling stones and snow avalanches. Should they be caught in a high camp by a heavy snowfall, retreat would be impossible on account of the latter. Therefore, Professor Dyhrenfurth wisely dismisses the route as impracticable.

The only alternative is the north ridge and on this we build our hopes. To reach it, the first terrace must be gained. This is difficult, as a complicated ice wall must be overcome which will tax all the skill of the expedition's icemen. Probably, tunneling will be necessary before a way can be made over which the laden porters can be taken.

From the end of the first terrace it is proposed to establish Camp 3, as a base for operations against the formidable 15,000-foot slope of ice and rock leading up to the north ridge. It is expected three or four days will be necessary to overcome the slope and cut an adequate staircase up the ice, and to place fixed ropes and pinions as a help and safeguard to the climbers and coolies. Such work at an altitude of 23,000 to 24,000 feet will undoubtedly tax the parties' powers to the uttermost.

Leader Orders Rest.

Once the north ridge is gained, Camp 4 will be made on the east side of the ridge where it will be sheltered from the wind, which usually blows from the west. Hence, the crest of the north ridge, which is of very steep rock, may be followed, or an alternative route made across the snow slopes joining the upper part of the Bavarian route of 1929. In either case, the upper terrace will be reached where Camp 5 will be made.

One more camp is expected between here and the summit, as the going will be desperately slow up the final rocky pyramid and the 1,000-foot ascent may well represent the limit of the climbers' endurance.

Professor Dyhrenfurth wisely decreed a four-day rest on the arrival at the base camp before starting operations against Kanchenjunga. This was necessary for the porters, who have worked magnificently, and for general organization. Hannah's party has now arrived, but Colonel Tobin is not expected for some days. However, we have enough equipment to carry on with and to establish the first three or four camps.

Meanwhile every one has been busily engaged in digging themselves in and making the base camp comfortable. The large Everest mess tent has been erected, in which, three times a day, the climbers revile or praise the efforts of Tencheddar, the cook. In the evening the gramophone gladdens the assembled company, but, like us, it is susceptible to the cold which congeals its vitals so that vocalists such as Layton and Johnstone appear to suffer from the altitude too. After a chilly dinner we creep into our little tents, pulling the flaps tightly together as protection against the inroads of the nightly snowstorms, to awake to the warm, friendly sun that invariably starts the day as the snowstorms end it.

Wind Is Chief Enemy.

The rest of the period was utilized by Ulrich Wieland to ascend a peak about 2,000 feet up, which proved fairly easy. Wood Johnson and the writer attempted a higher and more difficult peak. They found heavy step-cutting was necessary along the ice ridge and were finally caught in a sudden and furious storm 150 feet from the summit and forced to retreat. Step-cutting at 20,000 feet is distinctly laborious work, while the numbing and paralyzing intensity of a storm at this height saps one's physical and mental forces to an extraordinary degree.

This wind, which daily we have seen whipping the loose snow from the Kanchenjunga ridges, is our greatest antagonist. From a distance there is something weirdly beautiful in the long, graceful streamers, trailing silently from the peak, but a mountaineer knows that were he up there he would be fighting for life amid a furious writhing tornado whose blast seems to shrink his bones and send him staggering downward with no thought save to escape its inhuman frenzy.

This is our last easy day. Tomorrow we start. The preparations are completed even to the drawing of 200 cubic centimeters of blood from some of the climbers by Dr. Richter, as prevention of the insidious effects of the altitude, plus the subsequent swallowing of pills in order to regain lost blood.

Tomorrow Professor Dyhrenfurth, Ulrich Wieland, Herr Duvanel, Wood Johnson and the writer start to establish Camps 1 and 2 and possibly Camp 3. Herr Hoerlin and Herr Schneider will follow later, for at present they are not perfectly fit.

It is expected Camp 3 will consist of a hole cut in the ice of the glacier. Professor Dyhrenfurth's war experience makes him an expert at this work. The weather will have to improve a lot, for at present it is wintry. There is talk among the old hands of a perfect spell just before the monsoon, and maybe we shall get it. Only with its aid will Kanchenjunga be climbed.

Lastly, a word for the porters. Professor Dyhrenfurth has just harangued them through Wood Johnson. "You have had a hard time," he said, "and you will get a much harder time. You will be faced with privations and danger. Let any man who wants to, go back to Darjeeling."

None did and the porters replied with burst after burst of cheers.

First Party Started April 6.

The expedition, led by Professor Günther Dyhrenfurth, which is attempting to climb the unconquered Kanchenjunga, 28,150 feet high, set out from Darjeeling in two groups on April 6 and 7, respectively.

The leader, who is Professor of Geology at Zurich, has ascended more than 700 peaks in the Alps and Hohe Tatra, mostly without guides, and including fifty-six new routes and first ascents. He is 44 years of age and made his first climb at the age of 9. Frau Dyhrenfurth is also a member of the expedition and is best known as an international lawn tennis player.

Herren Hoerlin and Schneider are regarded as the most brilliant pair of Continental climbers without guides of the present day.

Ulrich Wieland has lived since childhood on the mountains near the Austrian and Swiss border and has ascended three of the great American peaks.

Bucharest Admits She Insisted on Breaking Engagement Herself.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUCHAREST, May 14.—That Princess Ileana insisted on giving her former fiancé, Count Hochberg, his congé by word of mouth rather than leaving it to the newspapers to announce it to him was admitted tonight in responsible circles which hitherto have denied this report.

Princess Ileana, who remained in Cairo after her mother, Dowager Queen Marie, returned to Bucharest, requested that Count Hochberg, who had meanwhile arrived in Egypt, be allowed an interview. The meeting already has taken place, and it is understood that the result was a complete breaking off of all contact between the two.

FAKING OF PICTURES EXPLAINED TO COURT

French Junkman Tells of Selling Old Canvases—Art Dealer Made 133% Profit.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 14.—A French magistrate questioned today Auguste Michaud, the manufacturer who purchased the false Millet painting entitled "Winnower in a Red Cap" for $7,000.

The sale was made through a Paris dealer, Alfred Bourzat, acting for Jean Charles Millet, grandson of the painter, who is now in jail at Melun for picture frauds.

M. Bourzat testified he acted in good faith, believing the certificates furnished by M. Millet proved the picture's authenticity, but he admitted his own inability to judge. An interesting sidelight on the picture business was contained in a statement by M. Bourzat that he paid M. Millet $3,000 and sold the picture to M. Michaud for $7,000.

More evidence upon how forgeries of Millet and contemporaries were made by Paul Cazot, the younger Millet's confederate, also was obtained today from Leon Desiry, a junk dealer in the suburb Saint Ouen. He testified that M. Cazot was one of his regular customers and that he always readily purchased any old picture, no matter how worthless, provided it belonged to the epoch of the Barbizon school. Desiry said that after a year he became on intimate terms with M. Cazot and recounted how the artist once confided to him that the reason he bought the pictures from him was that he could retouch almost any old painting from the epoch, making of it a valuable picture that the keenest experts could not detect as a fraud.

Desiry's daughter, Mme. Marihart, confirmed this statement as having been made by M. Cazot.

EMPLOYER ENJOINED IN GARMENT DISPUTE

THREE GROUPS OPPOSE HIM

Manufacturers, Jobbers and Union, in Joint Plea, Assert Methods Would Disrupt Industry.

Acting on the joint plea of three groups of employers and employes that to permit Joseph Stein, cloak jobber of 463 Seventh Avenue, to break his contract with his own trade association would disrupt the contractual relations in the cloak industry, Supreme Court Justice Frankenthaler enjoined Stein yesterday from continuing to have garments made up by non-union concerns and from purchasing garments made in non-union shops.

The action was said to be the first brought by associations of employers and employes jointly to prevent an employer from disregarding his contractual obligations. Those who obtained the restraining order were the Merchants' Ladies Garment Association, an organization of jobbers of which Mr. Stein is a member; the American Cloak and Suit Manufacturers' Association, formed by the sub-manufacturers and the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Association, the union of workers in the industry.

As a jobber, Mr. Stein, it was alleged, did not employ labor directly but agreed, on entering the Merchants' Ladies Garment Association, to have his garments made for him by sub-manufacturers employing union labor. In cases where he bought garments already made up rather than ordering their manufacture by sub-manufacturers, he also agreed that such garments would come to him only from union shops, according to the allegations by the plaintiffs.

Affidavits filed by accountants for Raymond V. Ingersoll, impartial chairman of the cloak industry, assert an examination of Stein's books showed that he ordered garments from seven non-union sub-manufacturers and bought garments outright from twenty-eight non-union shops. On Oct. 26, 1929, it was alleged, Stein was found guilty of violating his agreement, fined $250 by the grievance committee of the jobbers' association and suspended. After refusing to pay the fine or to desist from his practices, Morris Hillquit and Emil Schlesinger were retained by the organizations of jobbers, sub-manufacturers and the union to apply for an injunction.

In granting the injunction Justice Frankenthaler pointed out that Stein did not deny having agreed to abide by the pledge contained in his application for membership in the jobbers' association that he would faithfully observe all agreements made by that body on behalf of its members.

"It seems to me that this agreement is enforceable by the association of which he became a member if not by any of the other plaintiffs," the Court continued. "The defendant's claim that he had no knowledge of the existence of the contract between the union and his association does not appear to be in accord with the actual facts."

Rogues Gallery of Firebugs Planned by Protective Group

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 14.—The fire marshals' section of the National Fire Protection Association, meeting in Haddon Hall, decided today to establish a rogue's gallery of firebugs similar to that maintained by the police for criminals.

The decision was regarded as an important step forward in the efforts to suppress incendiarism.

Percy Bugbee of Boston, formerly secretary of the fire marshals' section, was appointed to take charge of receiving and tabulating the photographs and to distribute them to the members in their respective cities.

It was declared that the superior methods of supervision employed in Canada had resulted in a material reduction of fires due to the activities of incendiaries. This was pronounced to be in sharp contrast with the United States, where the estimated losses from arson remain high.

DR. CLEMENS'S WILL FILED.

Physician Left $10,000 Cash to Hospital and Medical Academy.

Bequests of $10,000 each are made to the Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital and the New York Academy of Medicine in the will of Dr. James Brentano Clemens, retired throat specialist, filed yesterday for probate. Dr. Clemens, formerly an executive surgeon of the hospital, asked that the legacy to the academy be placed at the disposal of the Public Health Relations Committee, of which he was a member.

His widow, Marie Heye Clemens, 960 Fifth Avenue, gets the residue, automobiles and personal and household effects. Maurice Clemens, a brother, gets all of the testator's property in Easton, Pa., where he now resides. A daughter, Dorothy Heye Clemens, who lives with her mother, receives her father's membership in the Oakland Golf Club and any stock or other interests he may have in the club. A friend, Thomas Roberts Jr., 63 Wall Street, gets a $500 life annuity.

Dr. Clemens, who was 69 years old, died on May 5.

DIVORCES ROY D'ARCY.

LOS ANGELES, May 14 (AP).—Roy D'Arcy, former film actor and now a New York night club operator, was divorced by his wife, Mrs. Laura Rhinock Guisti, for the second time today. An interlocutory decree was granted to Mrs. Guisti after she had testified in Superior Court to her husband's "temperamental cruelty," threats to kill her and refusal to give her money.

Mrs. Guisti testified that after she remarried the actor and they went to New York he immediately began "staying out nights until 3 or 4 in the morning, and telling me it was none of my business where he had been."

Mr. D'Arcy, whose legal name is Guisti, and his wife married first in 1925. She obtained a divorce Feb 26, 1929, and one month later remarried the actor at Tijuana, Mexico. This event occurred a few days after Lita Grey Chaplin, former wife of Charlie Chaplin, announced that she and D'Arcy were to be married.

SETS FIVE POINTS FOR CHURCH UNION

SECT RIVALRY IS DEPLORED

"Paganization of Rural America Is Going On Fast," Speaker Says at Buck Hill Falls.

Special to The New York Times.

STROUDSBURG, Pa., May 14.—The Rev. Dr. J. W. Richards, president of the Theological Seminary of the Reformed Church of the United States at Lancaster, Pa., speaking this afternoon before the Institute of Religion at Buck Hill Falls, suggested five points on which a creed might be formed for a united Christian church. These were:

1. The Bible as a rule for faith and practice.
2. The Apostolic or Nicene creed or both.
3. Shifting from emphasis on doctrine to emphasis on Christian ethics.
4. Recognition of the fact that the statements of faith of all denominations are equivalent and any one is adequate.
5. Jesus as Lord and Saviour.

"The shortest possible creed which might be made can be formed from these points, and will cover all of the elements in the creeds of all the different denominations," he said.

"Some day there may come out of the chaos of denominational bitterness and jealousy a new cosmos, in which all churches, Protestant and Catholic, will be one. At this time it seems advisable that churches of similar doctrines and faiths should unite first."

In this respect Dr. Edwards cited the Presbyterian and Reformed Churches, the different branches of the Methodist Church and the different branches of the Congregational Churches.

Quick Action Is Urged.

William J. Reagan, principal of the Oakwood School of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., a Friends institution, said:

"Quakers feel more and more that they must cooperate with other groups in favor of any union organization which will allow for cooperative action without dictating too much in matters of doctrine and policies."

The Rev. H. C. Armstrong of the Association for Promotion of Church Unity at Indianapolis said:

"Must we wait before taking steps toward an all-embracing union until smaller groups have consolidated?

"If we do, we may find it is too late. The churches in some sections are disintegrating. Often the morale is broken because they are checkmated at every turn by denominational rivalry. The paganization of rural America is going on so fast that we cannot afford to wait. We must take immediate action."

Dr. B. F. Lamb, secretary of the Ohio Council of Churches, said:

"Laymen in discussing 'church unity' are interested in practical means of getting together, while the clergy are interested chiefly in creeds and doctrines.

Cooperation Program Needed.

"What we need is a cooperative program which will bring together the people of the different denominations so they will come to know and love each other. Then will follow a larger loyalty and organized union, with unity of spirit."

"The churches are dying by the score because they can't get together," said Dr. William E. Barton of Vanderbilt University. "The rural and missionary situations are very dangerous ones. Each delegate to the conference brings such pressure on the missionary body of his Church that the dollar will be given toward the support of competitive missionary work. If we eliminate bitterness of competitive spirit in missionary fields we shall have gone far toward the accord necessary for organic unity."

At the evening session R. W. Treleaven, K. C., of Ontario, Canada, presented a most comprehensive appraisal of the united Church in Canada, and Miss Margaret Applegrath, author, of New York City presented a discussion on "Youth and Church Unity."

ENGINEER TESTS THE TENEMENT LAW

His Suit in Appeals Court Attacks Requirement for Architect as Unconstitutional.

DISCRIMINATION CHARGED

Benedict, Counsel for Deegan, Insists the Court Has Already Upheld the Entire Law.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 14.—The constitutionality of Section 300 of the multiple dwellings law, which relates to plans and alterations for tenement houses, was attacked in arguments before the Court of Appeals this afternoon. A year ago the court upheld the validity of the multiple dwellings law as a whole.

The section now under attack provides that plans for alterations costing more than $10,000, or for a new tenement house, must be filed with the tenement house department of New York City by the owner or a registered architect.

Oscar Goldschlag, for sixteen years a professional engineer in New York City, filed plans for a new tenement house. The department rejected the plans on the ground that Goldschlag was not an architect. This is the test case the court is asked to pass upon.

Justice Mullan, in special term, upheld the constitutionality of Section 300, and the case was then taken directly to the Court of Appeals. A decision is expected before the court takes its Summer recess.

Joseph Sterling of New York represented Goldschlag, and Harold Riegelman, counsel for the commission which drafted the law, appeared as special deputy Attorney General. Mr. Sterling insisted that there was no doubt that Section 300 is a violation of the Constitution.

Benedict Represents Deegan.

The Tenement House Commission was represented by Elliot S. Benedict, a special assistant corporation counsel of New York City. He appeared for William F. Deegan, Tenement House Commissioner. His argument was that the court had already passed upon the validity of Section 300, in that it had found the entire statute constitutional.

In his argument, Mr. Sterling declared that the refusal of the Tenement House Commissioner to receive the plans for the erection of a multiple dwelling at East Ninety-third Street and Second Avenue, Manhattan. "Destroys one of the most important powers and privileges inherent to the practice of the appellant's profession as an engineer, limits and circumscribes the appellant's rights of fulfilling contracts with his employers, and hampers his means of earning a livelihood."

He insisted that Section 300 is "not a proper exercise of police power, but is an unreasonable and arbitrary enactment aimed at no real evil or, if there be an evil, said section has no logical approximation to end the evil to be remedied; that it creates a monopoly in a certain field of employment in favor of one profession, namely, the architect, at the expense of the profession of the engineer—a profession as well or better qualified than the achitects to function in the field from which it is excluded."

Pope Climbs Up Into the Dome To Inspect Cracks in St. Peter's

By The Associated Press.

VATICAN CITY, May 14.—Pope Pius, noted for his ability as a mountain climber, today climbed up into the dome of St. Peter's to inspect cracks which the Vatican engineers are endeavoring to repair.

Previously he had watched the restoration of the big clock in the façade of the basilica. Later he went with Cardinal Pacelli, who is the arch-priest of St. Peter's, to visit the new archives and pavement in the apse.

Hart of the Russell Sage Foundation asserted that the need for segregation of prisoners is a very serious matter. Mrs. Henry Goddard Leach of New York City, State president, presided at a board meeting.

LORD DECIES IS HOST TO LONDON GOURMETS

Diners Vote Laurel to Cognac of 1830 Vintage From Cellar of Czar Alexander II.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 14.—Lord Decies presided last night at an unusual dinner to a group of gourmets and connoisseurs in a famous wine cellar in South Audlay Street. With candlelight flickering upon myriad dusty bottles until an early hour this morning, the diners rejoiced that there are still gourmets in England.

Although there was no champagne, it was the wine list rather than the menu which was especially distinguished. Even so, the meal, which was cooked in the wine cellar, opened with plovers' eggs, a rare delicacy and the gift of a Scottish peer from his estate. Thereafter came bouillon glacé, soles, fruits, cochon de lait rôti, asparagus and peaches.

The wines served consisted of Steinberg Cabinet 1915, Château Lafitte 1899, Château Yquem 1870, port 100 years in cask and 1820 and 1830 brandy. The Château Lafitte was from Rhenoboam. The Château Yquem, king of the Sauternes, was from the English cellar of the Empress Eugenie.

Lord Decies gave the laurel to the cognacs, a bottle of 1830 from the cellars of the Czar Alexander II and one of ten years' older vintage. The aroma of both was savored from the traditional huge bowl glasses.

Sir John Lavery, the distinguished painter and one of the guests, made a witty speech in which he remarked, "The perfect chef is an artist before whom I bow." Lord Decies maintained that the English are second to none as judges of food.

20 WOUNDED IN TONG WAR.

Winnipeg Police Arrest Nine After Gambling Accusations.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 14 (Canadian Press).—Within two blocks of Winipeg's City Hall, a tong war was waged among the residents of Chinatown early today. Two bruised and beaten Chinese are in a hospital as a result of the street fracas where axes and baseball bats were wielded. Nine others are held by police without charge, pending death or recovery of the men in the hospital.

Fully a score of Orientals were injured when the clash occurred on King Street, three blocks from Winnipeg's main street., Five received medical attention and others were spirited to the residences of their families and friends when police arrived, answering a riot call.

Enmities are ascribed to the fact that some groups have been accusing other groups of gambling, occasioning police raids.

CALLS 'LUXURY' CABS A PUBLIC MENACE

Insurance Executive Urges Walker Board to Ban Big, High-Power Taxis.

SEES TRAFFIC JAMS EASED

Lighter Vehicles Would Also Add to Drivers' Profits, He Says—Would Limit Fleets to 100.

Lighter and shorter taxicabs of small horsepower are needed to relieve the outstanding evils of the industry in this city, Jack Dolton, general manager of the Jefferson Auto Mutual Casualty Company, declared yesterday, urging Mayor Walker's commission on taxicabs to do away with the long wheelbase ornate and high-powered cabs now operating. His long experience as an operator and insurer of taxicabs, he declared, has convinced him that the modern type of "luxury" cab is turned out by the manufacturer without sufficient regard for public safety and is an undesirable insurance risk.

"We don't need these 65-mile-an-hour cabs now crowding our streets," he declared. We should have cabs like those in London. If we can take two feet from each of these 20,000 cabs and cut down their horsepower and speed we could save 40,000 lineal feet of traffic space and reduce the number of accidents materially, as well as cut the operating cost. These new cabs are luxurious and have wonderful lines, but they cost money to operate, and lighter, shorter, less speedy cabs will give the same service and passenger space."

"The manufacturer has not given enough consideration to public safety," Mr. Dolton asserted. "Many of these new cabs are equipped with brakes four times too large for the cabs, so that short stops cause serious accidents. The cabs have splendid lines and enormous hoods, but no shatter-proof windshields or protective bars on windows."

Mr. Dalton declared that four out of ten taxicab insurance companies expressed great reluctance, at a recent conference, to covering taxicab risks in the new types of cars. One insurance company, he said, had great difficulty in getting reinsurance on its coverage of the cabs of the Black Beauty and Motor Cab Transportation fleets.

His insurance experience, Mr. Dolton said, indicated that taxicab fleets larger than 100 cabs were not desirable risks. The rate for individual cabs, he testified, was $28 per month, while that for fleets was $38 a month a cab. A fleet he defined as any unit of two or more cabs. He explained the lower individual rate on the ground that the individual cab owner took better care of his car and was not under the same pressure as the fleet operator to force large mileage to obtain an adequate revenue in a limited operating time each day.

"A further reduction of taxicab rates means disaster," he said. "Many cabs now operate 175 miles or more a day through our congested traffic. A 25 per cent cut in rates means about a 25 per cent increase in mileage, with a proportionate increase in danger to driver and public. The rate today is inadequate, even if you should cut down the length and power of cabs as I have suggested. If you arrange for a slight increase in rates you will encourage the use of public hack stands and make it desirable to establish such stands.

Mr. Dolton told the commission that he would supply it with statistics based upon his company's experience, covering taxicab accidents and comparative insurance risks for different types of operation. The same assurance was given by W. C. Brown of the National Surety Company, who also promised to provide statistics showing comparisons between conditions here and in other large communities.

PUT PHI BETA KAPPA FIRST.

Amherst Seniors Vote on Campus Honors—Only Four for Dry Law.

Special to The New York Times.

AMHERST, Mass., May 14.—Membership in Phi Beta Kappa is considered the most worthwhile college honor by Amherst seniors, it was revealed recently by questionnaires filled out by members of the class. Only 102 students filled out ballots, but of this number 80 votes were cast for Phi Beta Kappa. The major letter "A" as an honor received only one vote.

On the question of prohibition, four favored the retention of the Eighteenth Amendment, thirty-five were for repeal, and sixty-three for modification of the dry laws.

In answer to the question "Did you drink before coming to college?" seventy-five answered no and twenty-seven yes, while the question "Do you drink now?" brought sixty affirmatives and forty-two negative answers.

Seventy-four favored the return of automobiles to the campus, but the honor system proved to be in disfavor.

Howard H. Groskloss of Pittsburgh, Pa., president of Scarab, campus honorary society, won personal hoonrs when he was awarded four titles—the senior who has done most for Amherst, biggest drag with faculty, outstanding athlete, and the most versatile.

LUNACY INQUIRY ENDS.

Two Witnesses Say Mrs. Santonastasio Seemed Abnormal.

The final session of the lunacy commission in the case of Mrs. Mary Santonastasio, who recently pleaded not guilty, on the ground of insanity, to killing her three daughters by gas in their home at 11 Cottage Place, Port Richmond, S. I., on April 25, was held yesterday in the county court house at St. George. The commission is expected to meet at 11 A. M. on Tuesday to decide upon its report to Supreme Court Justice James A. Dunne.

Two witnesses said yesterday that the woman was "abnormal" and "irrational."

4 Army Airmen Drop in Rough Hawaiian Sea; Three Entangled in Parachutes; Fate Unknown

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HONOLULU, May 14.—Four army airmen, the crew of a bombing plane from Luke Field, were forced down in a rough sea ten miles southeast of the island of Maui shortly before noon today. An unconfirmed report says all four were saved, but it is probable the truth will not be known here before daylight, due to lack of communication.

The craft which they were flying was one of a flight of forty-six which undertook an interisland trip this morning. When motor trouble developed shortly after leaving Maui en route to the island of Hawaii, at least three of the members of the crew took to parachutes and became stranded in the sea. One man, presumably the pilot, stayed by his plane and put it down in the midst of tumultuous waves.

A naval patrol plane and two army amphibians, part of the flight, landed to rescue those in the sea.

The U. S. S. Pelican, which left Pearl Harbor this afternoon for the scene of the crash, will have to scour the sea over a twenty-five-mile radius and pick up the three ships, as the ocean is too rough to permit them to take off again.

According to Commander Herbster, chief of the naval air station, who flew over the scene late this afternoon, all the ships were riding easily and not shipping water. He expects they will be picked up by the Pelican and the U. S. S. Sunaddin, the latter being due at midnight.

Two commercial vessels and two mine sweepers from Pearl Harbor are en route to aid in the rescue. Two more patrol planes have been dispatched to the scene.

COMMUTERS' BOATS TO PLY ON HUDSON SOON

Facilities for commuting by speedboat and seaplane over a fifty-mile stretch of the Hudson River will mark the opening this Summer of the Cragston Yacht and Country Club into which has been converted the old Morgan family estate of Cragston-on-the-Hudson.

Situated on the west bank of the river between Bear Mountain and West Point, the new club, according to plans disclosed yesterday, will offer to its members the service of a fleet of six to ten speedboats running between the club and West Ninety-sixth Street.

The boats will be capable of making forty miles an hour and will run at times on a half-hour schedule. One boat already in use now covers the distance in one hour and ten minutes under favorable conditions.

The seaplane service will depend upon the airmindedness of the club's members, but landing arrangements have been supervised by Clarence D. Chamberlin. A landing site has been laid out in still water between a section of the old Morgan estate and an island. Anthony Fokker recently flew one of his planes from New York to the club grounds in seventeen minutes.

The plans for the club announced last Fall when a syndicate took over the estate have so far materialized that the club will be formally opened in the first week of July. It will be informally in use earlier, however.

The Morgan house is being remodeled. A nine-hole golf course has been completed and an eighteen-hole championship course started. The first unit of a yacht harbor has been finished. Fifty miles of trails on the club property and the nearby State park lands will be available.

'SCRUBWOMEN'S BALL' ATTENDED BY ONLY 40

Harvard Student Promoters Lay Failure to University's Ban on Advertising.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 14.—About fifteen couples and ten "stags," six of whom drove up with a horse and buggy, attended the "Scrubwomen's Ball" at Brattle Hall, Harvard Square, tonight, sponsored by the Harvard Square Deal Association to raise funds to pay each of the discharged Widener Library cleaners about $280, which, the association says, is due the women as back pay.

Two scrubwomen attended the ball as chaperons and guests of honor. They are Mrs. Mary Hogan and Mrs. Annie McIntyre, both of Cambridge.

A good deal of a stir was caused soon after 8 o'clock when six students drove through Harvard Square in a buggy drawn by a mature white horse, on whose back was mounted one of their number.

Members of the committee in charge of the benefit dance declared that its failure was due to the refusal of university officials and Harvard Square store proprietors to allow the association to place posters, advertising the dance, on the college bulletin boards and in store windows.

CELL GUARDS SLEEP ON JOB.

Probationary Keeper at Sing Sing Ousted—Instructor to Be Tried.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, N. Y., May 14.—Edward Parthmore Jr., probationary keeper, was dismissed by Warden Lawes of Sing Sing today because he fell asleep on post on the upper tier of a new cell block early yesterday morning. Lucas Bronson, the keeper assigned to instruct Parthmore in his duties, will be tried by the warden Friday. He was found asleep at Parthmore's side. The two men were guarding 600 convicts.

Captain Samuel Benjamin of the night watch investigated soon after 1 A. M., when the two guards failed to report by telephone from the cell block, as required by regulations. He found both men, according to his report, wrapped in blankets and sound asleep and he awakened them.

Parthmore was summarily dismissed because he had not completed the three months' probationary term required for civil service rating. Bronson, having been accepted as a civil service employe, cannot be dismissed without a hearing.

GET NO ROBERTS PROTESTS

Subcommittee Members Predict His Early Confirmation.

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP).—Early confirmation of Owen J. Roberts as a member of the Supreme Court was forecast today by members of the Senate Judiciary subcommittee considering the nomination, when they found at their first session that no protests were pending against him.

Senator Borah, chairman of the subcommittee, is making some inquiries about Mr. Roberts, and the information will be laid before the committee at a later session. It was explained that he undertook this because the committee has no information of an official nature before it. Senators Hebert of Rhode Island and Overman of North Carolina, the other members of the subcommittee, both have indicated their support of Roberts.

URGES CITY TO EXPAND TRAFFIC LIGHT SYSTEM

Arnheim Says 'Jay Motorists' Must Be Regulated Before Pedestrians Can Be.

The "jay motorist" must be regulated before the jay pedestrian can be, W. W. Arnheim, traffic expert, said in a statement yesterday. He pleaded for a restoration of the traffic light and the release of traffic patrolmen for enforcement of traffic laws instead of regulation.

Mr. Arnheim pointed out that, according to Article 2, Section 1A of the city traffic regulations, a driver must at all times comply with any direction from a policeman, and a policeman, in order to expedite traffic or safeguard pedestrians, may disregard any traffic light signal or established regulation when, in his opinion, an emergency exists.

The difficulty with the regulation, he said, lies in the authority given the policeman to waive the significance of the traffic light when, in his judgment, an emergency exists.

"But it is difficult to define just what constitutes an emergency," he continued. "An emergency to one patrolman may be a normal condition to another. Since it is difficult to measure human judgment, there is bound to be confusion when a vehicle driver looks to the policeman instead of to the light for direction."

According to Mr. Arnheim, many policemen direct motorists to ignore the signal and to stop on a green light or to proceed on a red one. As a result of this "arbitrary power," the public, he said, has been educated to look to the traffic policeman instead of to the light for regulation, and as a result the traffic situation is "virtually back where it was years ago, before the introduction of the traffic light."

"The light should completely control both vehicular and pedestrian traffic," he declared. "The use of the policeman's whistle should be discontinued, except in the event of a real emergency. Motorists who ignore the light and attempt to 'steal' a block or two should be summoned for such violation."

NYE IN PHILADELPHIA MAKES INQUIRY PLANS

Senatorial Investigator Listens to Leaders and Studies State's Election Machinery.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—Convinced that the Senate investigating committee would have to conduct a "thorough" inquiry into Pennsylvania's primary campaign, Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman of the committee, said after a preliminary survey of conditions here today that no hearings would be conducted before the election next Tuesday unless the remaining week is marked by sensational occurrences demanding prompt attention.

The Senator spent the day conferring with members of the Philadelphia Registration Commission, District Attorney John Monaghan and campaign managers who called at his hotel. He disclaimed any intention to interfere with the primary itself and said his principal purpose in coming here was to gain first-hand knowledge of the State's election machinery and its method of operation.

From George J. Brennan, chairman of the Registration Commission, and his associates, who have culled about 30,000 illegal names from the voting lists, Senator Nye said he obtained a general idea of the commission's functions, "including the enrolment of voters and the elimination of those not entitled to the ballot."

"It would be unfair to say that no charges have been filed with the committee," the Senator said, as he left the commission's offices. "We have had all sorts of complaints submitted, most of them dealing with the excessive expenditure of money. These complaints have come from all sides."

'POISON PEN' SUIT SETTLED.

Ridgewood Woman Accepts $13,000 Damage Award From Moschziskers.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., May 14.—Miss Sarah Mowell, former Ridgewood bank clerk, has agreed to accept $13,000 damages in settlement of her suit against Mr. and Mrs. Frank Von Moschzisker of Ridgewood, resulting from her arrest two years ago on charges of writing "poison pen" letters to Mrs. Von Moschzisker, according to an announcement today by Miss Mowell's attorney, John R. Zabriskie.

Miss Mowell, who had brought a charge of malicious persecution following her indictment and subsequent acquittal of the "poison pen" charge, received $25,000 damages in a verdict returned by a jury in Circuit Court on April 1. She sued for $75,000 damages. Last Thursday, the court reduced the award to $13,000, saying that if it were not accepted Miss Mowell could seek a new trial.

Parents' Groups to Give Dinner.

The ninth annual dinner of the United Parents' Associations of Greater New York Schools, Inc., will be given at the clubhouse of the American Woman's Association, 361 West Fifty-seventh Street, on Monday. Dr. William Hung, dean of Peking University and exchange professor at Harvard, will be the chief speaker. Miss Sibususiwye Makanya, a native Zulu girl, representing South Africa, will sing native songs and recite folk tales of her people and Miss Premala Shahane, representing India, will sing and recite. An afternoon meeting will precede the dinner.

SHIFT COOLEY TRIAL TO SUPREME COURT

General Sessions Judges Hold It Better Since They Have Been in Contact With Defendant.

CRAIN ASKS FOR CHANGE

Also Will Request That Dowling Assign a Special Jurist to Sit in the Case.

General Sessions Judge Donnellan, at the request of District Attorney Crain, transferred yesterday the forthcoming trial of Edwin J. Cooley, former head of the Probation Bureau of his court, to the criminal branch of the Supreme Court. Mr. Crain told Judge Donnellan he would ask Presiding Justice Dowling of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court to assign a special justice for the trial.

It was the first time in more than a year that a case had been transferred from General Sessions to the criminal branch of the Supreme Court, for which a court room is kept in readiness in the Criminal Courts Building.

Cooley was indicted last week on charges of alleged falsification of payrolls for the bureau last September and October on which he carried the name of his sister, Mrs. Marguerite F. Lawler, as provisional chief clerk, when, it is alleged, Mrs. Lawler also was on the payroll of a Buffalo public school as a teacher.

It was said that the nine judges of General Sessions felt that it would be better to have an outside jurist try Cooley, with whom they were in almost daily contact during his service.

The trial, it is believed, will be called in a short time, District Attorney Crain and George Z. Medalie, Cooley's lawyer, having announced they were ready to proceed.

Magistrate Simpson in the Tombs Court dismissed yesterday the criminal libel proceeding which had been brought against Cooley on a summons by Abe Klein and the latter's wife, Belle Klein, former minor employes in the bureau, who were dismissed by the General Sessions judges last March on charges made against them by Cooley.

SAYS SEWER FIRM PAID LODI OFFICIAL $2,000

Ex-Bookkeeper for Contractor Tells of Payment to Nove, Tax Collector.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., May 14.—The Sette Excavation and Construction Company, one of the three contractors engaged on the $220,000 Lodi Township sewer system, paid Charles Nove, township tax collector, more than $2,000 in 1929, John H. Shaw, the company's former bookkeeper told Harold A. Price, Supreme Court investigator, this afternoon at Hackensack.

The money, Shaw said, was paid for insurance premiums, but in the company's books only one premium for $400 was listed, and the remainder of the $2,000 was identified in the ledgers simply under the notation "to Nove."

It was the first time during the three weeks of the Supreme Court sewer inquiry that evidence was produced that money actually changed hands between a contractor and a township official, though it was indicated last week that a $25,000 "slush fund" was maintained for the officials by the company during 1929.

Shaw also disclosed that Committeeman John Planz, who was during the sewer project and still is a "laborer" on the firm's payroll, had a drawing account in the company's books and now owes the company $206. He did not explain what the debt represented.

Shaw said the Sette company also did private work for officials of the borough of Lodi, which was paid for by the borough itself in bills for sewer work.

He said that bills amounting to $2,000, for work done for Nicholas V. Monett, Mayor of Lodi; Plantz and John Turich, town commissioners, had been charged to the township. Shaw said in one instance a bill to the township was raised from $105 to $135.

When Shaw balanced his accounts on the township sewer contract in October, 1929, he found that the Lodi township committee had paid his company more than $12,000 in excess of the cost of the work and materials it had provided, he testified.

Efforts of counsel for Senator Ralph W. Chandless failed to remove the request to have the Senator produce his bank books for the inquiry.

M. W. HAFT DENIES ACCOUNT

Testifies in $313,189 Stock Lien Suit Against Six Brothers.

Special to The New York Times.

RIVERHEAD, L. I., May 14.—Morris W. Haft, president of the clothing firm of Morris W. Haft & Brothers of 1,385 Broadway, Manhattan, who, with his five brothers, is co-defendant in a suit by the brokerage firm of J. R. Schmeltzer & Co. of 26 Broadway, for a $313,189.13 lien against $315,000 worth of securities posted by the brothers as collateral, was on the witness stand nearly all day today when hearings were resumed before Supreme Court Justice Dunne here.

The brokers charge that the $313,189.13 is due them for losses to the account of Fandalan Haft, which, they say, was a fictitious name used by the brothers for trading through a joint account. Five of the brothers assert the account was used only by the sixth, Jules Haft, and the securities were posted by them not as collateral to cover losses to the Fandalan Haft account, but for each brother individually in case the brokers were able to "pick up bargains" for them.

After Morris W. Haft had identified office records and documents in support of this assertion, and had said he had warned the office manager of the brokerage firm months before the October market crash not to do any more trading with Jules, Leslie Davis, a secretary employed by the law firm of Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft, attorneys for Morris W. Haft, testified that on Nov. 8 last he tendered a check for $126,000, the amount of Morris W. Haft's indebtedness for stock losses, to the brokers. When he asked for the return of the securities Morris W. Haft had posted as collateral, however, Mr. Davis said, the brokers refused to return the collateral.

JERSEY BALLOTING BRINGS UPSETS

Mayor and Two Commissioners Lose Posts in Irvington—Voting in 7 Communities.

Several upsets resulted in the heavy voting yesterday when seven communities in New Jersey held commission elections.

A final check-up on the figures indicated that Irvington, suburb of Newark, had the worst shak-up, Mayor Greene and Commissioners Jacobi and Francis Green, giving way to new men. Nineteen candidates were in the contest.

In Phillipsburg, Warren County, the fight was unusually bitter, twenty men striving for the five memberships on the commission. Mayor William Potts put up a hard battle to keep his place on the board and won out by the narrow margin of thirty-four votes. The balloting generally was the heaviest in many years.

The final results in the seven communities were as follows:

WOMEN EARN $25 EACH TO AID HADASSAH

300 of Westchester County Attend Luncheon Here and Give $5,000 for Jews of Other Nations.

Three hundred Jewish women of Westchester County, most of whom had earned their $25 subscriptions to the luncheon sponsored by the Mount Vernon Chapter of Hadassah, the women's Zionist organization of America, met at the Hotel Delmonico yesterday. Mrs. Alexander Lamport, chairman of the luncheon, presented the fruits of their labor, a check for $5,000, to Mrs. Felix M. Warburg, chairman of the women's division of the allied Jewish campaign, for the benefit of Jews in Palestine and in other countries.

John Haynes Holmes, minister of the Community Church, said that the soul of our whole civilization is Israel, Israel's ethical and spiritual heritage. The soul of Israel in this time is Zionism, he continued, and the soul of Zionism comprises three things: The colonists on the land, the Hebrew University on Mount Scopus, and "Hadassah, doing its work of healing, providing for the future, teaching Jew and Arab alike the ways of life."

The Rev. Dr. Elias Margolis, rabbi of Emanu-El Synagogue, Mount Vernon, eulogized the late Mrs. Nathan Straus, who was to have been honorary chairman of the luncheon. "Take as your example that great Jewish woman, Lina Gutherz Straus," he said. "Well was she named 'Gutherz,' which means 'good heart.'"

Mrs. Robert Szold, national president of Hadassah, told of the work of the organization, and Mrs. Hyman Ullian, national vice president, called for a rededication to its ideals. Mrs. Emanuel Rubin, president of the Mount Vernon Chapter, presented greetings and Mrs. David De Sola Pool presided.

BANCROFT IS QUESTIONED.

Film Star Tells Prosecutor His Version of Assault at Inn.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., May 14.—George Bancroft, film star, who went before the grand jury yesterday to tell what he knew concerning the assault upon Rutger Bleecker at the Panchard Inn, Massapequa, on April 4, when Bleecker's jaw was fractured, was in conference with District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards here today. He was accompanied by his wife and his business manager, Henry Fink.

After the conference Mr. Edwards said:

"At the request of Max D. Steuer, a Manhattan attorney, I consented to have Mr. and Mrs. Bancroft with Mr. Fink come here and tell me their view of what happened on April 4 at the Panchard Inn and what they know, if anything, about what happened to Rutger Bleecker. They have told me their side of the story, and Bancroft has agreed to hold himself ready to give further information, as have the rest of his party. I have asked for a special report from the police on several angles of the matter and will know within twenty-four hours if there is further need for Bancroft to remain as a witness for the people."

Mr. Edwards refused to affirm or deny that Bancroft or members of his party had furnished the names of those who sat at the table with them on the night in question.

STORM ENDS FOREST FIRES.

New Jersey Farmers See Crops Saved by "$10,000,000 Rain."

Special to The New York Times.

HAMMONTON, N. J., May 14.—An electrical storm passed over this section this morning, followed by what fruit growers of this section characterized as a $10,000,000 rain. It was the first rain in twenty-five days and effectually ended the forest fires which have ravaged this section of the State for nearly two weeks. Salvation for the crops which were almost certain to have been failures had the drought continued was seen by farmers.

Prior to the storm more than 200 forest fire fighters had brought under control the new fire which raged yesterday afternoon, all night and early this morning between the west bank of the Egg Harbor River and the Blue Anchor Swamp. Back firing the latter gave the workers the advantage over advancing flames after 4,000 acres of woodland had been burned.

Fire wardens attribute this fire to a farmer near Broad Lane in the Cecil area who permitted a brush fire to get beyond his control.

City's Readers Borrowed Many More Volumes in 1929 Than in 1928, Report Reveals.

EXPANSIONS RECOMMENDED

The New York Public Library, through its reference and circulation divisions, supplied to the readers of this city 15,260,253 volumes in 1929, representing a gain of 364,922 volumes over 1928, according to the annual report of the library, made public yesterday by Lewis Cass Ledyard, president of its board of trustees. In the reference department the readers consulted 4,157,234 volumes, and in the circulation department they borrowed 11,103,019.

But the city's insatiable appetite for books is not limited to the volumes supplied by the New York Public Library, as is indicated by Edwin H. Anderson, director of the library, in his detailed report. He suggests that the books in use in the library systems of Brooklyn, 7,006,641, and Queens, 2,121,976, together with those lent by the Board of Education libraries, 7,610,555, for the year ended July 1, 1929, should be considered. On that basis the total volmes supplied to New York readers amounted to 31,999,425 last year, approximately five volumes for each inhabitant.

In his report as treasurer, Edward W. Sheldon lists the New York Public Library's assets at $36,823,434.91, and balances income and disbursements at $1,636,353.63.

Reference Readers Increase.

Mr. Ledyard's report shows that the number of readers in the reference department in 1929 was 1,915,415, an increase of 30,236, or 2 per cent over 1928. The number of volumes consulted increased 139,074, about 3 per cent, over 1928.

"The number of visitors to the Central Building as recorded by the doormen," continues the report of Mr. Ledyard, "was 3,243,183, as against 3,051,297 the preceding year. The actual number in each case undoubtedly was much greater as the pressure of crowds is so great that the doormen cannot make a complete record of visitors. Frequently during the year there have been more readers in the main room, which has seats for 768, than could be provided with chairs.

"In the circulation department, the number of books issued for home use by its forty-five branch libraries, the extension division, including the eleven sub-branches, and the Library for the Blind, gained 225,848, about 2 per cent, compared with 1928. This is the largest number of books ever lent by the library for home reading in any one year, the next largest having been in 1928."

Of that number of books in circulation, Director Anderson in his detailed report shows that 4,330,913 volumes, or a gain of 119,443 over 1928, were issued to 76,208 children from the children's rooms or through the extension division.

Population Shift a Problem.

Describing the constant growth and shifting of population as "the most difficult problem the library is facing," Mr. Ledyard's report says in part:

"The most difficult problem the library is facing in its circulation work is due to the constant growth and shifting of population and the resultant changes. The population is decreasing rapidly below Forty-second Street. Where residence neighborhoods have changed into business sections, a new class of users of these branches is made up of people engaged in business, and the greatest demands for the library's service are during the luncheon hours, instead of in the evenings as formerly.

"In the uptown regions of Manhattan and the Bronx, where the population is increasing most rapidly, the service by the library is far short of what is should be. Six new branch libraries are needed.

"The number of books in the circulation department at the end of the year 1929 was 1,254,840, as against 1,217,956 at the end of 1928, an increase of 36,884 volumes. With the 2,041,441 books in the reference department, this makes a total of 3,296,281 books for both departments—a net addition of 113,946 books over the number at the close of 1928."

Among the gifts acknowledged by Mr. Ledyard is a $50,000 endowment for the Library of the Blind; the original day book of the American publishing house of Benjamin Franklin and David Hall, together with a record of the firm's accounts from Aug. 2, 1759, through Jan. 3, 1766, the gift of Edward S. Harkness.

"It is interesting to observe that in the renaissance of Jewish learning, emphasis is being placed on scientific research as a preliminary basis for the development of a larger cultural and economic life of the Jewish people everywhere," continues the director's report. "The library is woefully deficient in publications of the early Hebrew presses. The demand for material on Palestine is increasing tremendously."

In the science and technology division, according to Mr. Anderson, "perhaps the most notable flurry during the year was caused by the publication of Einstein's famous paper on 'The unified field theory with its array of mathematical formulae.'"

WISE URGES TOLERANCE AT ST. LOUIS SEMINAR

Rabbi Joins Priest and Protestant Minister in Plea to End Prejudices.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, May 14.—Representatives of three religious faiths joined in an appeal for the discarding of prejudice at a "religious prejudice disarmament conference" here tonight.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York pleaded for "higher intelligence and finer sympathy," to dispel ill-will. He criticized what he termed "a policy of calculated unfriendliness toward the Jew," and said the weapons with which it must be fought are "spiritual, not carnal."

The Rev. John A. McClorey, S. J., of the University of Detroit, asserted that religion must be added to American culture "for virtue in life." Dr. McClorey decried the "dogma of religion," and asserted that speculation, private opinion and political views have no place in religion.

The Rev. Dr. Reinhold Neibuhr of the Union Theological Seminary in New York urged an emphasis upon common interests, rather than differences, by the various religious groups.

Personal and family matters proved the most attractive problem themes at the day session. Questions of intermarriage and of church laws governing the rearing of children enlivened the discussions.

Rabbi Mark of Nashville, Tenn., presented a point of view that was concurred in by many speakers, that in order to have a sympathetic understanding, one's friends of another faith must let his faith alone.

Professor Samuel S. Cohen of the Hebrew Union College said that Jews through many centuries had carried on proselyting, although never for a moment did they believe that without being a Jew there was no salvation.

"There are righteous even among the heathen," was an ancient Jewish saying. The argument against intermarriage, Professor Cohen said, is based on the desire that there shall be unity in family life.

ST. LOUIS, May 14 (AP).—A telegram received at the opening of the seminar from President Hoover said: "Please extend my cordial greetings to the members of the St. Louis seminar and my best wishes that their deliberations may advance the noble purpose of the meeting to lift the relations of the communicants of the various religious faiths to the high level of mutual understanding and cooperation."

CITY BREVITIES.

The V. M. I. Club of New York, composed of alumni of the Virginia Military Institute, will hold its annual dinner at the Hotel Brevoort tonight to commemorate the battle of New Market.

The New York Women's League for Animals, Inc., will hold a three-day rummage sale at 35 West Fifty-seventh Street, beginning Tuesday, proceeds to be used for the work of the Ellin Prince Speyer Hospital for Animals, free watering stations for horses and for sheltering and finding homes for ownerless dogs and cats.

Charles Francis Bopes of the English department of New York University will address the English Club of the Thirty-second Street Annex of Hunter College today on Japanese poetry.

THE TRUTH ABOUT your Dentist
your Diet
your Dentifrice

What they have to do with your health and why they must be intelligently selected

YOUR DENTIST

One of the world's most eminent physicians, the late Sir William Osler, said: "There is no single thing in preventive medicine that equals mouth hygiene and the preservation of the teeth."

He knew, as more and more people are learning every day, that nearly all middle-aged men and women who are suffering from rheumatism, heart disease, sciatica, neuritis, iritis, have a focal infection which delivers bacteria into the blood stream and carries it to a previously weakened spot. In many such cases the danger point is an infected tooth.

That is why physicians frequently send patients to a dentist. The dentist is the one man who can determine whether the teeth and mouth are in sound, healthy condition. As the result of his specialized training and experience, and with the help of the X-ray, he can locate any offending tooth and then successfully remove it as a source of infection, either by extraction or treatment.

Your dentist then is one of the important factors in mouth health. Select him carefully. Then visit him regularly. Don't put it off—don't wait until a toothache or signs of systemic disease force you to see him. Your general health—perhaps your life—may be at stake.

YOUR DIET

The medical and dental professions have joined hands with the bio-chemists to study the relation of diet to dental disease. An enormous amount of scientific work on this subject has been done and is continuing all over the world.

The result of these investigations is proving conclusively that proper diet is another extremely important factor in maintaining mouth health in children and adults.

Dr. Sherman L. Davis, of the Department of Dental Nutrition, Indiana University School of Dentistry, includes the following as among the causes of dental disease: acid saliva; calcium and phosphorus deficiency in the diet; Vitamin D deficiency. Dr. Milton Hanke, from his investigation on diet in collaboration with the Chicago Dental Research Club, has shown that Vitamin C is also of great importance. All of these are, of course, a question of diet.

It is essential that your foods contain plenty of tooth-building materials. To make certain, check up on your diet with your dentist or physician. It may be that you are eating the wrong quantities of certain foods and neglecting others. Your teeth and gums may be under par for the lack of essential minerals and vitamins in your diet.

YOUR DENTIFRICE

All dental authorities agree that the lack of proper mouth hygiene is another serious factor in mouth disease. Proper mouth hygiene means that food particles must be removed by brushing and by the use of dental floss. If they are allowed to remain they soon ferment, forming acids which attack the enamel of the teeth. Proper mouth hygiene also means the twice-daily use of a correct dentifrice.

A correct dentifrice will keep the teeth free of mucin plaques (the "film") which holds acid-producing bacteria close to the surface of the teeth, with a resulting destruction of enamel. A correct dentifrice will contain no harmful abrasive, yet will keep the teeth highly polished so that in the intervals between cleaning, the "film" will have difficulty in adhering to their smooth surfaces.

A correct dentifrice will not draw moisture from the gums and will not contain drugs whose constant use irritates delicate mouth-tissue. A correct dentifrice will increase the rate of flow of the saliva and stimulate its natural alkalinity—for those qualities of the saliva constitute Nature's own method of tooth and mouth protection.

Wednesday declared that to the best of his knowledge he was the only lawyer in the case. Richard H. M. Robinson, former president of the United American Line, also appeared before the grand jury, which adjourned until this morning before he completed his testimony.

May Reopen Inquiry.

In addition, the day brought forth the following developments:

Because of the willingness of several witnesses to change the testimony they gave before the county grand jury which returned eight indictments for larceny in connection with the failure of the Columbia Finance Corporation but exonerated Judge Vause, it was intimated at the District Attorney's office that the old inquiry might be reopened. Simultaneously a lawyer for the trustees of the defunct corporation announced that he had information to show that the connection of Judge Vause with the company was "anything but casual."

Trustees of the Brooklyn Bar Association, which met to consider charges that Judge Vause violated the statute prohibiting a judge of a court of record from practicing law while on the bench, voted to defer any action pending the outcome of the criminal investigations now under way.

Controller Charles Berry revealed that the United American Line in 1928 filed a mysterious claim against the city for more than $280,000. The claim, which was not pressed, alleged that the company had been damaged because it had not had full use of Pier 84, although Dock Commissioner Michael Cosgrove has asserted that the lease specifically provided that the company must make provision for the United States Lines to berth the Leviathan there.

Joseph S. Boyle, a young attorney, who was a partner with Freece in Vause & Vause, was subjected to an exhaustive examination on the leases and the fees by District Attorney Crain, after Boyle appeared at his office in response to a request subpoena similar to the one which Judge Vause failed to heed. Russell W. Hart, a director in the United American Line, also was questioned by Mr. Crain, who said Mr. Hart had promised to return today to explain some ledger entries that puzzled him. Boyle also would be questioned later, Mr. Crain said.

Crain Annoyed at Delay.

The District Attorney showed some annoyance at the failure of Judge Vause to appear for questioning, in spite of the letter which Mr. Crain sent him requesting information, and in spite of the subpoena which followed the judge's failure to reply.

"When I have finished with Boyle," Mr. Crain said, "I will give Vause a chance to talk to me if he wants to, provided he acquires that desire not later than tomorrow."

Mr. Crain had been assured by former Representative Nathan D. Perlman in the morning that although Judge Vause would not be able to appear at 10 A. M. as requested, he would visit the District Attorney's office at 2 o'clock. At 2 o'clock Mr. Perlman appeared without Judge Vause and explained that the judge was busy preparing his defense to the Federal indictment charging him and others with using the mails to defraud in connection with the Columbia Finance Corporation failure. Judge Vause would make every effort to appear today, Mr. Perlman assured the District Attorney.

On the way out of the building after half an hour's conversation with Mr. Crain, the attorney stopped long enough to assure reporters that "not a single penny of the money Judge Vause is said to have received went to any State, city or Federal official."

Lays Stress on Letters.

The letters which Mr. Tuttle made public and to which he seemed to attach considerable importance were part of a batch subpoenaed from the United American Lines after Mr. Harriman and Richard H. M. Robinson, former president of the company, appeared before the grand jury. Commenting upon them Mr. Tuttle said:

"An examination of the correspondence which I subpoenaed from the United American Lines is enlightening. It tends to show that when advanced information as to the progress of negotiations for the leases was desired or when the company wished the use of adjoining city property or other advantages, the procedure was to write a letter to Mr. Freece, who with Boyle composed the firm of Vause & Vause; that the company's letter then would be forwarded to Judge Vause in a letter from Mr. Freece, usually addressed to the judge at his judicial chambers; and that the company would then be assured by a letter from Mr. Freece that Judge Vause would have 'a conference' on the subject with a person not named and with a view to a result satisfactory to the company.

"In one instance the company wrote direct to Judge Vause for advance information as to whether the lease was to be granted to it. Obviously ascertainment of the identity of the person with whom the 'conferences' were held by Judge Vause would aid greatly in clearing up some of the present mystery."

Text of Letters.

The letters follow:

Vause & Vause,
Attorneys-at-Law,
42 Broadway,
New York.
Telephone Hanover 3340.
Feb. 4, 1925.

United American Lines.
Attention Mr. Hanlin.
Pier 86, North River,
New York City.

Gentlemen: In re Pier 86.

Yours of Feb. 2, with copy of proposed letter to the Sinking Fund Commission, was just received.

The writer took the matter up with Judge Vause, who retained the copy of the letter enclosed, stating that he was to have a conference very soon in regard to this matter and would advise us later with respect thereto.

Very truly yours,
VAUSE & VAUSE.
Par Hans P. Freece.

The second letter dated Oct. 22, 1925, Mr. Tuttle said, seemed to bear the signature of Mr. Hanlin. It said:

My Dear Judge:

Am handing you herewith copy of letter just received from our chief engineer in connection with the situation on Pier 84.

If it is the intention to approve the lease of Pier 84 to this company, we would be very glad indeed to have something definite that we can work on so that we can go ahead and make our arrangements for the occupancy of the pier, as otherwise we would be very badly handicapped in our operations.

Yours very truly,

The signature was scrawled.

The next letter, Mr. Tuttle said, was signed by Mr. Hanlin. It follows:

Dec. 10, 1925.

Messrs. Vause & Vause,
42 Broadway, New York, N. Y.
Gentlemen:

In connection with the permits for Piers 84 and 86. Will you not kindly make sure that these permits give us the right to the bulkheads between Piers 84 and 86 and to the north of Pier 86?

As it is now, our operations are being considerably interfered with by stone boats and other material boats discharging and loading on these bulkheads and occupying water which we need for our own operations.

You will no doubt recall that this matter was discussed when the commissioner was at Pier 84 and it is our recollection that he notified the chief engineer to advise the wharf master that the bulkheads should be turned over to us.

Yours very truly,
H. R. HAMLIN,
Executive Assistant.

Still another letter read:

Dec. 12, 1925.

Hon. W. Bernard Vause, 120 Schermerhorn Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Dear Judge: United American Lines, Piers 84 and 86.

Enclosed herewith is copy of letter this day received from the United American Lines, which speaks for itself. Will you be good enough to assist me in this matter, and advise of the results?

Thanking you, I am
Very truly yours,

The letter bore the initials H. P. F. and Mr. Tuttle said presumably it had been written to Judge Vause at his chambers by Freece.

Hints at Reopening Case.

The intimation that the county grand jury inquiry into the possible connection of Judge Vause with any crime that had been committed relative to the failure of the Columbia Finance Corporation came inadvertently at a conference with District Attorney Crain. He had referred inquiries about persons who wished to alter their earlier testimony to Thomas Kane, an assistant assigned to look into the matter.

"It may mean that we will reopen the investigation before the grand jury, because——."

"Do you want me to tell about that?" asked the assistant.

"You seem to have covered it very well," Mr. Crain remarked dryly.

While this interlude was taking place in the District Attorney's office more was being said about the same phase of the matter by Lionel Golub, attorney for the trustees of the defunct financial corporation.

"The connection of Judge Vause with the operations of the defunct Columbia Finance Corporation," he said, "has long been known to the trustees in bankruptcy, Harold M. Kennedy and to myself, and the only questions have been whether such connection was an innocent or a guilty one and the full extent of the judge's contacts with the operations of the Columbia Finance Corporation.

"Apparently reliable information now in my possession would seem to indicate that Judge Vause's connection was anything but casual and that he is in position to throw considerable light upon the management of the bankrupt concern.

"The examinations held under Section 21-A of the bankruptcy act and information brought to me recently at my office, coupled with the existing indictments require that Judge Vause personally be examined in the Bankruptcy Court, and it is my duty as attorney for the trustee in bankruptcy to conduct such an examination, especially in view of a weekly salary of $150, which Louis N. Vause, a brother of the judge, received for services which never seem to have been rendered."

Mr. Golub also asserted that he had received no reply to a letter he sent Judge Vause on May 9 requesting him to appear in Federal Court, Brooklyn, for examination on May 22. Although the lawyer said he could not believe that Judge Vause would refuse to appear voluntarily and "thereby permit the drawing of any unfavorable inferences," he added that he was prepared to issue a subpoena if necessary.

City Rejected Claim.

Details of the claim the United American Lines filed against the city on Dec. 27, 1928, were revealed by Controller Berry in response to inquiries. The claim was filed by C. J. Beck, vice president of the company, with Robert Jordan, who succeeded Mr. Freece as head of the Bureau of Law and Adjustment after the latter resigned in August, 1926, at the Controller's request. The text follows:

"We hereby make claim for damages in the sum of $15,000 per month by reason of the lease to us, of which we have not had the full beneficial use granted to us under the terms of our lease for the period ended July 1, 1928, and for such other relief as may be developed in the examination of our claim."

Ralph E. Ittelson was attorney for the company. After Deputy Controller John H. O'Brien had been assured by Dock Commissioner Michael Cosgrove that the company had made no complaint to him, but had paid its rental promptly without protest, it was decided to disallow the claim. Although the line sought damages over a period of more than twenty-nine months, bringing the total claim to more than $280,000, lawyers for the company did not press the claim or even put in an appearance at the final hearing June 17, 1929.

Tuttle Defends Course.

Although he explained that he did not wish to become involved in a controversy which might divert public attention from the "grave matter now under public scrutiny," Mr. Tuttle took cognizance of the criticism of his action contained in the letter Samuel Untermyer wrote the judge's counsel in declining because of his ill health to defend him on the mail fraud charge. Mr. Untermyer said Mr. Tuttle had gone beyond his authority and had invaded Judge Vause's constitutional rights.

Mr. Tuttle said that in laying the facts he had unearthed relative to the pier leases before Judge Crain he was merely following the instructions of the grand jury.

"The grand jury could do no less," he said, "without making themselves parties to the suppression of information vital to the interests of the city. If now ingenious counsel desires to invent an excuse whereby a judge on the bench is to maintain silence on matters touching deeply the city's welfare by invoking his constitutional privilege as to self-incrimination, I shall have to leave the matter to public opinion."

Sugar belongs in the diet ...ASK YOUR DOCTOR!

"Sugar makes essential foods, which have roughage, minerals and vitamins, more palatable."

SHOULD SUGAR HAVE A PLACE IN THE DIET? Here are some interesting facts—information which your doctor would give you.

Sugar is a preferred fuel food. When eaten in any form, it combines with oxygen in the body. Seventy-five per cent of its energy goes into heat and the rest supplies power to the muscles.

Sugar makes essential foods, which are the vehicles or carriers of roughage, mineral salts and vitamins, more palatable. It modifies harsh acids, heightens bland flavors.

Consider how many fruits and vegetables that you eat are sweet. How unpleasant they would be without this palatable flavor. Often, however, certain familiar vegetables lose the sweetness they possessed when fresh picked, because their sugar has been converted into starch. In such cases it is proper to add a dash of sugar in cooking them to restore their original flavor.

Think of these facts as you plan your meals. And in addition to using sugar as a flavor remember that simple wholesome desserts have their place in balanced meals. The normal diet calls for sugar. Ask your doctor! The Sugar Institute.

FINDS SUPPLY MEN EXPLOIT DENTISTS

Dr. Fisher Asks State Society to Fight Manufacturers Who "Degrade" Profession.

SEES FAKE SCIENCE TAUGHT

Dr. Guilford Tells Convention Here More Practitioners Are Badly Needed—2 Get Medals Tonight.

An attack on unscrupulous dental supply makers as exploiters of dentists was made yesterday by Dr. William C. Fisher, president of the Dental Society of the State of New York, at the convention of the society at the Commodore. Dr. Fisher told the 5,000 dentists at the meeting that this exploitation is bringing about a strained relation between certain manufacturing groups and organizations of dentists.

"The ethics of some commercial houses have been so perverted that because of the fervent hope to sell merchandise certain manufacturers today dare to enter educational fields, put themselves up as teachers, give so-called demonstrations and post-graduate courses and in other ways exploit the dental profession," Dr. Fisher declared. "These methods have neither the desire to help the dentist nor the willingness to benefit the public as motivating factors. They are employed solely for one object—to sell merchandise."

Urges Drive on Exploiters.

Explaining that the condition he attacked was of recent origin, Dr. Fisher urged his listeners to fight all attempts tending to degrade the dental profession. The growing antagonism between the dental profession and commercial organizations ultimately may destroy the friendly relationship which has existed between the two groups if steps are not taken immediately to destroy its causes, he declared.

"This does not mean that our profession could not avail itself of useful information and knowledge, often gathered by these business organizations," he continued. "This information is often of a valuable scientific nature and we are glad to have it. We can even properly have these scientific employes of commercial organizations personally present to us their findings, but first let the invitation be from the profession and the place and manner under the direction and approval of a professional society."

Dr. D. Austin Sniffen, dental surgeon at Bloomingdale Hospital, White Plains, presented a report tending to show that there is no relation between tooth infection and mental disorders. The report was based on extensive investigations at the Bloomingdale Hospital.

Finds Germs Attack Nerves.

Dr. Sniffen also declared that the investigation showed that germs of pyorrhea can affect the nerves of teeth, contradicting the general impression that the nerve is not subject to germs which attack the teeth structure.

The impression that teeth are inert structures having no life except in the nerve pulp was declared to be a fallacy by Dr. Charles F. Bodecker, Professor of Oral Histology at Columbia University. Fillings in teeth are consequently of greater importance in so far as live and dead tissues are concerned than dentists have thought in the past, he asserted.

In a report read last night by Dr. L. A. Timmerman, nutrition and cleanliness were declared to be the chief factors in the health not only of an individual's teeth but of his entire physical system. Dr. Dudley Guilford of Philadelphia told the meeting that the country is "woefully" deficient in the number of dentists. He said that if practicing dentists today devoted their lives to the care of the patients they already have without taking on new ones they would have more work than they could possibly handle.

At the annual dinner of the society tonight the presentation of the William Jarvie Fellowship Medal will be made to John V. Mershon. Colonel Robert T. Oliver, president-elect of the American Dental Association, will be the chief speaker.

IRVINGTON HOUSE DRIVE ON.

McKee Opens $500,000 Campaign—Whalen a Contributor.

Fifty school children from the east side, led by a group of welfare workers, looked on yesterday at City Hall as Acting Mayor Joseph V. McKee opened the campaign to raise $500,000 for the rebuilding of Irvington House, non-sectarian home for children with heart diseases, by accepting a contribution of $1,000 from Abe N. Adelson of 565 Fifth Avenue, a builder. Irvington House in Westchester was destroyed by fire April 30.

Immediately after the ceremony at City Hall a city-wide drive was launched. Mrs. David Schulte, a member of the committee, accompanied by a group of the school children, visited Police Commissioner Whalen in his office and sold him a campaign brick. The price he paid was not made public, but whatever it was he turned about and resold the brick to Mrs. Schulte, adding that money to the fund.

Mrs. Irma B. Levy is president of Irvington House. She headed the delegation at City Hall. Others in the group were Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Greenbaum, Ernest Rosenfeld, Mr. and Mrs. David Schulte, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Straus. The Straus National Bank at Fifth Avenue and Forty-sixth Street is accepting funds for the home.

BONDY HEADS LAW ALUMNI.

Columbia Association Elects Federal District Court Judge.

Judge William Bondy of the United States District Court has been elected president of the Alumni Association of the Columbia University Law School for 1930-31, it was announced yesterday. Governor Roosevelt, who was graduated from the school in 1907, was elected to honorary membership.

Judge Bondy has received four degrees from Columbia: A. B. in 1890, A. M. in 1891, Ph. D. in 1892 and LL. B. in 1893. In 1924 Syracuse University conferred the honorary degree of D. C. L. upon him. He succeeds Charles J. McDermott, '89, former Kings County Judge.

The new officers follow:

President—William Bondy.
First Vice President—Charles C. Burlingham, '81.
Second Vice President—Richard G. Babbage, '86.
Third Vice President—Mortimer W. Byers, '98.
Secretary—Albert G. Redpath, '22.
Treasurer—Lauson H. Stone, '28.
Standing Committee—Harold R. Medina, W. Bruce Cobb, Goldthwaite H. Dorr, George Z. Medalie, Justice Townsend Scudder, Archibald Douglas, I. Maurice Wormser, G. Forrest Butterworth, Henry Root Stern, Howard Osterhout, Young B. Smith and Herbert A. Koenig.

The association now has 2,500 members, 1,000 more than any other alumni association in the university.

TEN STUDENTS HONORED.

New York University Dramatic Society Presents Awards.

Ten New York University students were honored yesterday by the university's dramatic society. The "D. S." pin, given to those most active in the production of one-act plays, was awarded to seven undergraduates.

JACK KNAPP, for service in obtaining student subscriptions to the 1929-30 season of the Washington Square Players.
SIDNEY NATHANSON, the Tau Delta Phi award for service to all dramatic society activities.

Those honored with "D. S." pins were:

Dorothy Marburger,
Joseph Sudakoff,
Pasquale Goldring,
George Kahn,
Leona Levine,
Samuel Schoenholz,
Alan Holzweiss.

Complete Roberts Dinner Plans.

Final arrangements for the testimonial dinner for Dr. John S. Roberts, district superintendent, to be given at the Hotel Astor on Saturday night, in recognition of twenty-five years of service in the public schools, were made last night at a meeting of the Sixty-two Association at the hotel. Dr. Gustave Straubenmuller, associate superintendent of schools, will preside. The speakers announced include Dr. William J. O'Shea, superintendent of schools; Dr. George J. Ryan, president of the Board of Education; District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain and Dr. John H. Finley.

CRAIN INVESTIGATING THE PLAY "LOST SHEEP"

Acts on Truth Society's Complaint of Portrayal of Clergyman and Family.

District Attorney Crain announced yesterday that he had ordered an investigation of a complaint that the play "Lost Sheep" at the Selwyn Theatre in West Forty-second Street was objectionable in the meaning of the law, because of alleged insulting portrayal in the life of a Methodist clergyman and his family. Franklin Ford, president of the Defenders of Truth Society, Inc., wrote the letter of complaint to the prosecutor. Mr. Crain assigned Assistant District Attorney Wallace, who has specialized in such work, to investigate "Lost Sheep."

George Choos, coproducer with Jack Donahue of the play, said yesterday that he had as yet not been officially informed by the District Attorney's office of any complaint filed against his play.

"Thomas M. Love and Louis Breitinger, representing the Philadelphia Board of Theatre Control, commonly called the board of censors, witnessed a performance of the play in Atlantic City before it was booked for Philadelphia," Mr. Choos said. "Both sanctioned the Philadelphia booking, but suggested that the name of Martin Luther, as used in the play, either be deleted or that a substitute be found. Accordingly, we decided upon the name of John Bunyan instead. In both cities innumerable clergymen have seen the play and I have yet to hear of any objections."

Arch Selwyn, who operates the Selwyn Theatre, where "Lost Sheep" is running, said, "I have had no complaints concerning the indecency of the play. I don't think there is anything offensive in it."

ILL, HALTS MURDER TRIAL.

Judge Later Resumes Hearing for Accused Father and Daughter.

The trial in Jersey City of 22-year-old Lillian Russo and her father, Vincenzo, of Hoboken, for the murder of Russo's brother, John, on July 25, was halted shortly before noon yesterday when the presiding judge, Thomas H. Brown, suddenly became ill.

Judge Brown was seen to grow pale and was urged by court attendants to adjourn court, but he insisted on proceeding without a delay. A few minutes later his distress compelled him to stop the trial. He was aided to his chambers by several physicians. The doctors said Judge Brown had an acute throat infection. Against professional advice, Judge Brown insisted on returning to the bench fifteen minutes later.

Alexander Russo, a brother of the accused man, testified that the relations between the girl and the victim "were cordial," which was in conflict with the girl's charge that she "hated John Russo because he had dishonored her." She swooned during the testimony and the trial was adjourned until today.

"HEAVY DUTY" tells you what it is—
but not how fine it looks!

When Goodyear puts the words "Heavy Duty" on the side-wall of a tire, everybody knows those words mean extra strength, extra service, extra wear.

But in its new Heavy Duty balloon, Goodyear now puts something more—an outward beauty quite as superior as its inner excellence.

This great new tire is ruggedly handsome, massively proportioned, and around either side-wall below its extra-thick and extra-safe All-Weather Tread runs a single identifying stripe of silver.

A striking feature is the way in which the outer rows of All-Weather blocks are prismed down into the side-walls, as fresh and unhackneyed a modeling as distinguishes modern sculpture.

Goodyear builds this new Heavy Duty balloon tire for those who want to drive fast and far without worry, and are willing to pay a little extra for that privilege.

If you want to dress up your car and soothe down your anxieties, go see the nearest Goodyear Dealer, and have him change over your tires to new Goodyear Heavy Duty balloons today!

Goodyear can give you greater tire values because Goodyear builds more than
of all the tires sold in America, the remainder being divided among some forty manufacturers. "More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind."

Two Senate Committees Subject Naval Treaty Delegates to Sharp Questioning

SECRETARY ADAMS EXPLAINS THE TREATY TO THE SENATE NAVAL COMMITTEE.

SENATORS SHARPLY EXAMINE STIMSON

had developed in the construction of the 8-inch-gun, 10,000-ton cruisers. Designs for the latest of such ships are now under revision at the Navy Department with the view of giving them greater protection without loss of gun-power or speed.

To Give Details Only Secretly.

"I have a very definite reason," Admiral Pratt said, "that has come up lately that makes me see a greater advantage in the 6-inch-gun cruisers than ever before."

He declined to give the details to the committee except in executive session.

He revealed, however,, that the "style" of the 8-inch-gun, 10,000-ton cruisers was "cramped," while the 6-inch-gun cruisers, in his opinion, had good all-around protection. The changes now being made in the 8-inch-gun, 10,000-ton cruisers, he said, included placing armor on the turrets, whereas those constructed thus far had armor only on the sides.

Secretary Adams, who frequently appeared non-committal during the severest criticism of the treaty by naval affairs committeemen, admitted that concessions in cruiser tonnage had been made to obtain Japan's signature to the pact. It was obvious from the beginning of the questioning that Senator Hale had called Mr. Adams, not so much to obtain information about the treaty or the navy, since the Senator had a mass of information at his finger-tips, but to inquire into the Secretary's ideas concerning the results to be expected from the treaty provisions.

The sole instance in which questioner and witness expressed complete agreement was as to the cost of building new warships and replaced worn-out ones, estimated at $1,000,000,000. The figure was named by Mr. Adams when inquiry was made by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts.

"Don't you think it disappointing to the people of the United States that a conference to reduce naval armaments should cost $1,000,000,000?" asked Senator Walsh.

"But remember," Senator Hale injected, "there has been no building for ten years."

Points of Criticism Raised.

The chief points on which criticism of the treaty were indicated by members of the two committees in their examinations of Secretaries Stimson and Adams and Admiral Pratt were:

1. Whether the treaty gives the United States parity with Great Britain in naval strength.

2. Whether the treaty actually does not restrict the United States to build up to only sixteen 10,000-ton cruisers prior to the next naval conference in 1935, instead of up to eighteen such cruisers, as apparently guaranteed by the treaty's terms.

3. Whether the provisions for replacement of cruisers are not such that Great Britain could build new cruisers to the disadvantage of the United States.

4. Whether Japan received ratios in cruisers and submarines that were unjustifiably larger in comparison with the 5-5-3 ratio established in the Washington treaty of 1922.

5. Why the United States conceded a greater ratio to Japan without insisting on abrogating or modifying the provisions of the Washington treaty which forbid the United States to increase its fortifications in the Philippines and Guam.

6. Why the United States consented to build 6-inch gun cruisers instead of insisting on the right to put its allotted cruiser tonnage into 8-inch gun vessels, as it had insisted in the Geneva naval conference of 1927.

7. Will not building up the American Navy to the tonnage permitted by the treaty cause the government to spend $1,000,000,000, instead of reducing its naval construction costs?

Johnson Dwells on Parity.

Senator Johnson, by insistent questioning of Secretary Stimson for an hour and a half, sought to develop whether the United States, in being permitted to complete only sixteen of the 8-inch-gun, 10,000-ton cruisers by the expiration date of the treaty Dec. 31, 1936, was failing to attain parity with Great Britain in that class.

He also inquired whether the provision did not also automatically limit the tonnage in small cruisers for the United States through the technical wording of the treaty and whether the table of replacements in the treaty was not such that Great Britain could build new cruisers in the next five or six years to the great disadvantage of the United States.

Mr. Stimson, aided at times by the interposition of Senators Reed of Pennsylvania, a delegate at London, and Swanson of Virginia, contended that the California Senator was under a misapprehension that the treaty provided for gradual construction of cruisers by the United States until parity was to be achieved, just as the Washington treaty had provided for gradual replacement of battleships with the view of attaining parity between the two fleets in 1942. Nor did the replacement tables give Great Britain any undue advantage in building new cruisers, her rights in this regard being limited, he insisted.

Pursuing his examination into other phases of the treaty, Senator Johnson brought up the question of the increased ratios allowed Japan, running on the average to 70 per cent, instead of the 60 per cent granted Japan in battleships by the Washington treaty.

He inquired what justification existed for the increased ratio at this time, with the United States still not permitted to increase its fortifications in the Pacific possessons.

Japan Bound Also.

Secretary Stimson said that Japan could not increase its fortifications either, as that subject had not been touched in the London treaty, and maintained that the ratios given Japan were not excessive, in view of Japanese building in auxiliary vessels since the Washington conference, which had exceeded considerably the building of the United States.

Senator Johnson, however, was not convinced. At the close of the hearing he remarked ironically that he had been "satisfied" by the answers, "satisfied" that they had not met his questions and that there was a very serious situation to consider relating to the future problems of the Pacific Ocean.

In response to other questioning Mr. Stimson revealed that the American delegation had made a proposal for the United States to build a new 35,000-ton battleship, in place of the Wyoming, as a "trading point" against the British.

The suggestion was made, he explained, with an alternative proposition to the effect that the United States might elevate guns in modernizing its battleships. This latter right was acceded to by the British and the plan for the new battleship was dropped. The delegation, Mr. Stimson added, wanted the modernization program rather than the new battleship, particularly because of the expense that would be involved in the construction of a new capital ship.

Admiral Pratt, in expressing the hope that the United States would build up to the limits set in the treaty, estimated that to do so would cost about $800,000,000 during the life of the treaty and if the program were spread over the period until 1940, a course he favored because of technical advantages of construction, the cost would be $875,000,000. Should battleship replacements be made after the expiration of the treaty, a course he also favored, he estimated the total cost by 1940 as $1,071,000,000.

Secretary Stimson declined to say categorically whether he favored building to the treaty limits, explaining that this was a matter for the navy and Budget Bureau, but said he had not worked for a "paper navy" at London.

Cost Eased in Reference to Japan.

Prompted by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic delegate at London, as to what the construction costs would be should the London treaty fail of ratification, Admiral Pratt said:

"That would depend upon how much Japan would build. She's stopping construction under the treaty. We would have to do the construction I have outlined plus what Japan would do if the ratio was to be maintained."

Returning to the question of cruiser gun strength, Senator Johnson asked Admiral Pratt if he had ever gone on record as favoring the 8-inch over the 6-inch gun vessel.

"Perhaps I have," the Admiral said.

Other committee members, and particularly Senator Robinson of Indiana, sought to develop this point and as to whether the inclusion of 6-inch-gun cruisers in American building did not represent a departure from the stand taken by the United States at Geneva in 1927.

Admiral Pratt would not be drawn into the latter matter, but maintained that the almost 50-50 division of 8-inch and 6-inch gun cruisers for the United States under the London Treaty was highly desirable.

In a night action, for example, he said, the 6-inch-gun ship would be superior to the 8-inch because of the more rapid fire of the 6-inch gun and the fact that these guns were so placed along the side that they could all be brought into action simultaneously against an enemy destroyer attack, whereas only two of the 8-inch guns on a 10,000-ton ship could so be brought into action.

Valueless Against Destroyers.

The 8-inch gun was superior at long ranges and in clear weather, he said, and was excellent for the protection of commerce, but was of "about the value of a 12-inch gun" in repelling a destroyer attack.

Asked whether the British mercantile marine would be more than an offset to American cruisers, Admiral Pratt said that it would be impossible to build enough cruisers to offset a merchant fleet of a preponderance of, for example, 200 ships converted to naval uses and armed with 6-inch guns. On the other hand, he said, a 6-inch-gun cruiser would be far superior to a converted merchantman.

"I was glad," he added, "to get some of the 6s in place of all 8s in the treaty."

The Foreign Relations Committee dismissed Secretary Stimson at noon after three days of testimony and concluded with Admiral Pratt after an hour. It will have before it tomorrow Secretary Adams, who will be followed by Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, retired, who was one of the American delegates at the Geneva conference of 1927, and by Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol of the Navy General Board and several of his associates.

Stimson's Records in Diary.

At the outset of the sitting, Senator Johnson sought to develop from Secretary Stimson whether any records had been kept of the deliberations within the American delegation at London or of the conversations between chiefs of delegations.

Mr. Stimson said that there had been no records other than personal "aide memoires" made by the American delegates. He had kept one such record of his conversations, he said, in a diary which he would be glad to show the committee, but not make public. The secretary-general of the conference, he added, had kept records of conversations among chiefs of delegations, but these related largely to questions of procedure.

The whole idea, Mr. Stimson explained, was for the negotiations to be on an informal plane. There was, of course, a record of the general conference meetings, such as plenary sessions.

Senator Johnson then inquired as to the strength of the British battleships Rodney and Nelson in relation to American battleships, but was told by Mr. Stimson that the matter could better be discussed by naval experts. Mr. Stimson indicated, however, that they were not of the great superiority that frequently had been credited to them in the press.

As to Parity in Battleships.

Asked how the American delegation had proceeded in an effort to attain parity in battleships with Great Britain, Mr. Stimson said:

"There were two ways to make the American fleet at least the equal of the British fleet under this treaty. One was to modernize the vessels, providing that course could be made clear and not involve any criticism with Great Britain. The other more drastic method and more expensive method was to build an additional modern vessel like the Rodney or the Nelson, against one of the old vessels of our fleet.

"Both of those methods are put into the written suggestion that we first proposed to the British. As a result of that we had no difficulty in getting what we desired, the consent of the British to the first method."

Pressed further, Mr. Stimson read the text of the alternative proposal:

"In order to realize now the parity of battleship tonnage, which was ultimately contemplated by the Washington Treaty by balancing the Rodney and the Nelson, the United States may lay down one 35,000-ton battleship in 1933, complete it in 1936 and on completion scrap the Wyoming.

"Modernizing existing ships includes increase in gun elevation."

"Both were asked?" said Senator Johnson.

"If you wish to ask why it was offered, it was because we wanted to have a matter to negotiate on," replied Mr. Stimson.

"I see that it was a trading point," Senator Johnson said.

"A trading point, quite valuable even in international conferences," Mr. Stimson said.

Possibly More Than Parity.

Q.—There was complete agreement concerning the proposal among the American delegations? A.—There was complete agreement that that proposal should be made. There was a feeling, I think, on the part of some that it was asking for considerably more than parity.

Q.—Did you have that feeling? A.—Well, I think that that is not quite a proper question to ask.

Q.—Well, we will let that ride if you think that it is not proper. A.—We were negotiating and it was thought to be a wise matter negotiation, but I think I can say without any consideration that the purpose which was most desired was the modernizing of the ships.

Senator Johnson then turned to Article 18 of the treaty and noted that in the cruiser category the United States was to have, for ships with guns of more than 6.1-inch caliber, 180,000 tons. Asking if that should not be 160,000 tons, he continued:

"You will observe Article 16 reads: '1. The completed tonnage in the cruiser, destroyer and submarine categories which is not to be exceeded on the 31st of December, 1936, is given in the following table.' That is the completed tonnage, 180,000 tons to the United States.

Stimson Notes Modification.

"It is modified by the provision in Article 18 on the other page and it is also modified, or at least connected with the provision in the article giving the option change (to 6-inch gun cruisers)," said Secretary Stimson.

Q.—By the very modification it seems to me conclusively that instead of 180,000 tons, the figures should be 160,000 tons. A.—Not with those figures necessarily. But they show that we will not have more than 160,000 tons completed on the last day of December, 1936.

Q.—But the table states 180,000. A.—And the provision you speak of in Article 16 is the maximum. It uses the words "shall not exceed."

Q.—And then the table states the amount 180,000 tons, which is not correct. A.—If you will excuse me, sir, it is correct in the statement, that we shall not exceed that, and the following clause shows the condition in which we will be in December, 1934.

Q.—Now, pursuing that, upon that 180,000 tons of cruisers, with guns more than 6.1 inch, depends, does it not, our tonnage in smaller cruisers? A.—How do you mean, sir?

Q.—For instance, we have 180,000 tons of cruisers with guns of more than 6.1 inch. Then we are allowed because of that amount of tonnage in the larger cruisers, 143,500 tons in the smaller cruisers? A.—Yes.

Q.—The amount allowed us in the smaller cruisers is dependent upon the amount that we have in the larger cruisers, is it not? A.—Only in the sense that if we exercise the option we have a right to have more smaller cruisers.

"As I see it, Mr. Secretary," Senator Swanson suggested, "Great Britain gets fifteen 10,000-ton 8-inch-gun cruisers. We can exercise the same option and build fifteen 10,000-ton 8-inch-gun cruisers, and if we exercise our option, then we have a right to take the same tonnage that she has in 6-inch-gun cruisers if we exercise the option to build ten 10,000-ton 8-inch-cruisers, with that one, by another section, to be completed in three years. We will have one complete in 1936; we will have one on which we worked two years, allowing one not being completed; we will then have one taking two additional years to complete."

Optional Cruiser Provisions.

"That is right, as I understand it," Mr. Stimson replied. "My understanding is that Article 16 states the maximum to a progressive building up of two forms of cruisers. The one relation between the number set for the 8-inch cruiser and the number set for the 6-inch cruiser is the number of additional 6-inch cruisers that we are entitled to have in case we do not build numbers 16, 17 and 18.

"Apart from that, the two clauses are entirely independent. That would give us, the exercise of that option would give us more than 143,000. We agreed in this treaty not to build those last cruisers until the time set down in Article 18. If before that time, or before any one of them were laid down, we should decide not to lay that cruiser down at all, we should be entitled to an additional tonnage in 6-inch cruisers at the rate of 1½ tons in the 6-inch for every one ton in the 8-inch that we gave up."

Mr. Stimson then stated that in the Washington Treaty and the London Treaty the process was for a gradual construction toward an ultimate result.

"As a matter of fact," he added, "in the Washington Treaty that ultimate result was not reached until 1942. That was a method which was made necessary by the difficulties of adjusting construction of two navies one to another, and in our treaty where we followed the same method but to a much shorter, briefer period, it was made necessary also by the fact that we started from zero almost and the other people were away ahead of us.

"Now, if you are talking about parity through the treaty, Senator Johnson, you certainly cannot blame the American delegation for not furnishing you parity right hot off the griddle as soon as this treaty is signed and ratified, when we start with exactly two cruisers of the 8-inch type in the water. All we could do was to start the process, all we could do was to lay the framework for future construction, and these provisions, which, if you will pardon me, I think you are reading a wrong intrpretation into, these two provisions would be the elements of that construction.

Human Limit on Building.

"Now, they left—I want to make this perfectly clear—they left the United States in a position where there was no restriction as to the speed with which we could develop. We could build 150,000 tons of 8-inch cruisers or 143,000 ton, 6-inch cruisers; no legal restriction, but simply the human restriction that you cannot build a cruiser in less than three years, and you cannot build 300,000 tons of cruisers without existing plans in a very much longer time.

"We were advised that the restrictions placed by Article 18 on those last three cruisers, the provisions which you have called attention to, were no greater restrictions than wise and prudent construction would make necessary anyhow. In other word, if we went ahead and built the cruisers that we could build on the basis of distribution between the two classes of cruisers in the wisest way from the point of naval policy, we would not reach those numbers 16, 17 and 18 anyhow, apart from any restrictions, until the date set in Article 18."

Senator Johnson asked if the reason for the insertion of Article 18 was the impossibility for the United States to build the cruisers before the treaty expired, and was told by Mr. Stimson that it was one of the reasons, but that that was a matter properly for consideration in executive session of the committee. The insertion, the Secretary said, was made at the instance of "one of the members of the American delegation."

"Is there any explanation as to the tonnage that Great Britain and Japan shall have of that character in the treaty?" asked Senator Johnson.

"May I interrupt?" said Senator Reed. "There did not need to be, because they have it already."

"They have it already," said Secretary Stimson. "They were to stop still. They were to stop still while we drove past them. And this is a simple agreement as to the rate at which we will drive past."

Others Have Their Tonnage.

"Then Great Britain has the tonnage; Great Britain has 146,000, the British Commonwealth, and 108,000 for Japan, so that there was no necessity for any restriction or any exception as to the time of their building; so that during the life of the treaty thay had their tonnage complete?" asked Senator Johnson.

"They do and they will have it whether there is a treaty or not, the only difference being they will be free to build more if they do not have a treaty," said Mr. Stimson.

Q.—They will be free to build more? Does that imply that the United States will not be free to build more? A.—It will certainly be free to build more, but it will over a long ways beyond now.

Q.—By reason of the conference that was held in 1922? A.—By reason of the failure of the conference which was called in 1922, and not by reason of the conference of 1922.

Q.—Not by reason of the success of the conference, but by reason of the failure of the conference? A.—The failure left cruisers free, and other nations went ahead and built and the United States did not.

Senator Robinson of Indiana took up the questioning, contending that the treaty at one point stipulated eighteen 10,000-ton cruisers for the United States and at another point restricted this to sixteen during the life of the pact. There seemed to be some confusion, he said.

Mr. Stimson replied that there was no confusion, that one merely stated the maximum while the other section limited the construction during the treaty.

Reed Adds to Explanation.

A more complete explanation was given by Senator Reed, who said:

"Article 16 gave the limit as 160,000 in the way it has been suggested, then Article 19, which nobody seems to have noticed, would provide our laying down those last two. That is a perfectly good reason for stating it 180,000, the limit which must not be exceeded as given in Article 18.

"Now it is a fact that the last two vessels will be laid down but will not be completed by the end of 1936, but if the figure as stated at 160,000 tons in Article 16 had been under the provisions of Article 19, which provides the laying down, we would not be able to lay down those last two until after the expiration of the treaty. Consequently it was necessary to state the figure at 180,000 tons in order to permit us to lay down those two ships while the treaty is in force."

Senator Pittman remarked that Article 16 gives the wording "completed tonnage" and Article 19 refers to "laid down tonnage," and suggested that Articles 19, 18, and 16 would be in harmony if the words were "completed and laid down."

Senator Johnson then directed the questioning to replacements of cruisers and asked why various ages, according to the time ships were laid down, were assigned to these vessels under the treaty. Secretary Stimson explained that, whereas the normal age limit was twenty years, sixteen years had been assigned to some.

"First," he said, " we were asking Japan and Great Britain to stand still while we built up. They asked to have the privilege of replacing some of their vessels a little earler in order to give employment to their dock yards, and to keep them going during that period enough so as not to go out of commission.

Aid in Replacing Destroyers.

"The second reason was that it was beneficial to us, not so much in cruisers, although it gives us an advantage there. It permits us to replace two of our old cruisers. We have ten of the Omaha class. They are coming over age very soon after that time. It would permit us, if we desire, to spread out the replacement of those vessels.

"But in the corresponding provision as to destroyers it may be highly important for the United States, because we have a great mass of destroyers of practically the same age which will all become over age at the same time; therefore this provision permits us to spread the replacement of those destroyers so as to be more convenient to our labor problem and our dock yards."

Senator Johnson: "Does not the change enable Britain within the life of the treaty to replace most of her cruisers?"

Secretary Stimson: "Not to any serious extent, because she is also limited by another provision which says that apart from the cruisers under construction on the 1st of April, 1930, the total replacement tonnage of cruisers to be completed in the case of the British Commonwealth of nations, prior to the 31st of December, 1936, shall not exceed 91,000 tons."

At the request of Senator Swanson, Mr. Stimson agreed to have experts prepare detailed tables covering conditions under replacement schedules for the Navy.

Johnson Asks As to Japan.

Senator Johnson then took up the Japanese situation, referring to the "very high compliment" paid the Japanese delegation and government by Secretary Stimson yesterday before the committee, and sought to develop that Japan was bound by the 5-5-3 ratio of the Washington Treaty as to all categories of vessels, instead of merely battleships and aircraft carriers that are dealt with in the Washington pact.

Mr. Stimson maintained, however, that there was a difference of opinion over the point. He had used the 5-5-3 ratio as to all categories himself on behalf of the United States, he added, and had heard counter-argument on the side of the Japanese.

"I think there is a statement in the record of the Washington Conference," he continued, "which we have asserted was made at that time. The Japanese, if they had gone on and made a treaty, would have done so on that basis. But they did not go on and make the treaty and we have heard it asserted afterwards that there was a misunderstanding on our part."

Senator Johnson: "Our people generally believed that the naval ratio of 5-5-3 existed or was recognized as between Great Britain, the United States and Japan. Yet there was a demand at Geneva in 1927 by the Japanese for 70 per cent, which was not acceded to. The demand was made, I assume, by the Japanese in the conference in London as well, was it not?"

Secretary Stimson: "Made before that. The Japanese sent formal notice in the shape of diplomatic notes last Autumn to the effect that they would not accept the battleship ratio in auxiliary tonnage, but would desire to have it, as I recall it, 100 to 70, or 10 to 7."

Senator Johnson: "Do you know what it was that induced the arrangement of 5-5-3 on the part of Japan at the conference that was held in Washington?"

Secretary Stimson: "I would rather not speculate on that."

Senator Johnson: "Are you not familiar with the fact that it was the abandonment of our bases in the Pacific Ocean that brought about the 5-5-3 ratio?"

Naval Bases a Factor.

Secretary Stimson: "I am very familiar with that fact entering into the negotiations, but I would rather not speculate on what the prevailing factor was. It is a little improper for a man who has charge of the foreign relations of the United States to speculate in public before the newspapers as to the action that may have entered into the minds of other nations."

Senator Johnson: "I do not wish you to do so, of course, but you are familiar with the fact that entered into the negotiations?"

Secretary Stimson: "I am."

Senator Johnson: "That is, the naval bases entered into the question of naval ratios?"

Secretary Stimson: "It certainly entered into the question of the naval ratios so far as those ratios were fixed in 1922 by the Washington treaty. It can hardly be said to have entered into the fixing of ratios which were not a subject of treaty before that time.

"On the contrary, this is not a question pertinent solely to Japan. Every other nation, France and Italy included, took the same contention as to the auxiliary fleet. For instance, France and Italy were limited by the Washington treaty to a ratio of 1.75. They flatly refused to consider any such ratio for their auxiliary fleet in London.

"On the contrary, they all said that those matters were not settled by the Washington treaty, but were left open and must be made a matter of new negotiation, and I think that was a perfectly proper contention on their part. The Washington treaty by its terms only settled the relative proportion of two classes of the fleet and left the people free to go ahead as they have been doing for nine years at their unbridled discretion in building since.

"Therefore, when we met in London and suggested the treaty of limitation as to these matters which had been going on for nine years without any recollection, we confronted an entirely different situation, a situation in which, instead of the United States having a ratio of superiority to the other nations, in almost all the categories we were inferior.

"They naturally said: Why, it is rather an astounding proposition for you to come in and ask now, in the year 1930, when we have got a fleet of such and such a number and you have a fleet of very much less built, you should ask us to accept, because there was some discussion nine years ago or other and at another time which did not result in the treaty, that we should accept those figures now."

Stimson Stresses Delicacy.

Senator Johnson: "Just let me say on that, you have met the argument there and very favorably, Mr. Secretary; but assume that the United States has abandoned its Pacific Ocean bases in order to obtain a ratio of 5-5-3, a ratio in which the battleship ratio would prevail in all categories; assume that that was the understanding of the United States, then you would not think it was such a harsh thing and take the matter up and insist upon a 5-5-3 ratio, would you?"

Secretary Stimson: "I should have——"

Senator Johnson: "Let it pass—let it pass."

Secretary Stimson: "You see, Senator, it is a little difficult. I am like a man with one hand tied behind my back. I cannot permissibly tell you how hard we negotiated in these conferences without that fact going all over the world in the press and making the matteer more and more difficult for the purpose which we are after."

Senator Johnson then asked Mr. Stimson if he thought the London treaty "means ultimately an enormous saving of money and a lifting of an unnecessary burden, that the treaty absolutely stops the race in naval armament."

Mr. Stimson replied that he thought "most of those statements are justified."

Senator Johnson: "That was said in the 1922 treaty."

Secretary Stimson: "But I thought you were speaking of this treaty."

Senator Johnson: "I was."

Senator Swanson remarked that "we simply agreed in the Washington treaty, and agree in this treaty, that we would not enlarge our bases, but we have a perfect right to keep in repair, in good condition, the bases as they existed in the Washington treaty."

Secretary Stimson: "The treaty does not touch that, but Senator Johnson's statement was quite imperfect. He spoke as if we abandoned our bases. We did not abandon them. We agreed not to increase them, and Japan accepted the same agreement. It was reciprocal."

Pratt Analyzes Treaty Elements.

In beginning his statement, after Secretary Stimson had been excused, Admiral Pratt read a prepared statement outlining the basis of his views as chief adviser to the American delegation at London. In this he contended that, although the treaty might not be entirely satisfactory from the naval standpoint, this might be offset by such elements as good-will and costs.

This statement was as follows:

EFFECT OF TREATY.

Introduction.

1. In analyzing this treaty, I select three governing factors: (A), good-will; (B), naval effectiveness; (C), costs.

Upon the evaluation of these must the decision be arrived at: is the treaty to be placed in the good or bad class so far as the United States as a whole is concerned?

2. In so far as Factor B is concerned, viz., naval effectiveness, must the treaty be judged by the naval technician, and as his analysis decides on this point alone, so must the treaty be registered as good or bad from the naval point of view only.

3. However, even though not satisfactory entirely from the naval point of view alone, this factor (B), naval effectiveness, must be balanced against Factors A and C, viz., good-will and costs, before the treaty as an entirety can be fairly judged and placed in the class good or bad.

Contingency of War Discussed.

4. Depending upon whether a country is faced with immediate need for preparing for war, or whether a country is in a state of peace, with a hope of continuing this state of peace, will the three factors assume different relative values.

If a country is faced with war and must prepare for it, Factor (B) assumes paramount importance over (A) and (C) and must be the guiding factor. In this particular case, limitation of naval armament in any degree is a detriment to a country in her efforts to prepare for the contingency of war, and in proportion to the wealth and power of a State is this limitation of armament detrimental from the purely military point of view.

This goes without saying, for a rich country can swamp and impoverish a less wealthy country through the very act of unlimited building. It can always, if it so wishes, maintain a superior force.

However, it should be recognized that a country so doing faces the imminence of war, whether involuntary or voluntary on her part, and if the latter rôle be her choice, then she subjects herself to the liability of being placed in the aggressor class.

If, on the other hand, the imminence of war does not exist, voluntary or involuntary on her part, and a state of peace does exist, with the hope of its continuance, then the Factors (A), good-will, and (C), costs, do assume a much higher value relative to (B) and must be given appropriate values relative to (B) ranging up and down the scale, from superiority to equality with (B) depending on many world and national considerations entirely outside the purview of (B).

5. Since the Factors (A) and (C) do not fall within the legitimate scope of effort of the purely naval technician, this analysis will confine itself to a review of Factor (B), naval effectiveness, as it is influenced by the terms of the treaty.

Says Limitation Should Precede.

II. ANALYSIS OF FACTOR (B).

6. The first fact facing the naval adviser is this, that the terms of the conference call for limitations and reduction of armament and that the composition of the conference consists not of one united body of nationals, but of several bodies of nationals, each actuated by its own aims, motives and necessities.

This demands, if agreement is to be reached, mutual concessions and considerations of other national points of view.

A second fact is evident, viz., that we cannot proceed with the process of orderly reduction of armament until we have succeeded in imposing limitation upon all types of fighting naval craft.

To attempt reduction before limitation is a disorderly process. To enter into the field of limitation without previous adequate preparation from the statesmen, the technicians and from the material point of view is to enter at a disadvantage.

7. From the technical point of view of the naval adviser, his immediate problem is, as effecting limitation, to secure (a) parity on the one hand, and (b) the status quo, for a proper ratio of naval strength on the other.

And finally, in whatever agreements are arrived at, he must endeavor to see that no terms are arrived at which seriously prejudice the naval position of the United States.

Combat Strength a Basis.

8. Now, in effecting actual parity, and in securing desirable relative ratios in combatant ships, the problem can be looked at from two viewpoints: (c), naval sea strength in the broad; (d), fleet combat strength.

The introduction of the element, limitation of naval armament, affects the technical viewpoint in the matter of emphasis to be laid upon one or the other of the two factors (c) and (d).

Without limitation, the technician can plan for combatant types in sufficient strength to acquire not only equal fleet combat strength, but a sufficient excess of combat types to overcome many if not all natural advantages residing in another power due to the possession of a larger merchant marine, naval bases, &c.

With limitation entering into the problem, in the endeavor to secure parity, this broad view comprehended under (C), naval sea strength in the broad, is not permissible.

A more restricted view must be taken, and we must view our problem from the angle of (D) fleet combat strength, which is a definite measurable quantity, else we introduce into the picture intangible quantities, the insertion of which will cause one side to the argument to put forward claims for parity which the others will easily class as superiority and which in truth from this angle never can be measured accurately.

Problem Found Complicated.

9. Again can we hope to secure parity in naval combatant types which are the subjects of limitation, if, during peace, we inject the question of trade routes, either of the enemy to be broken down or our own to be protected?

This problem is further complicated by the fact that peace trade routes are not the war trade routes, neither are the purposes of trade the same in peace as in war, nor the proportions borne by neutrals, combatants, great sea powers and lesser sea powers the same.

The arguments which can be advanced by one set of claimants justly in opposition to the views of another are so many that the problem becomes too complicated for solution and amicable agreement.

An agreement along these lines may be forced, but it is extremely doubtful if it can be called just, and it most certainly will not be, in all probability, an amicable agreement.

On the other hand, in war sea power is maintained as it has always in the past by the combat strength of the fleet in being. As is its strength, composition, organization, training, location and operation, so goes the war, and with it a hundred incidentals, such as where your trade routes lie and what they may be; what real pressure, over and above unexpected raids, you may put on the enemy trade, and even what proportion of his or yours may pass into the hands of neutrals.

The measure of fleet combat strength is a tangible thing; it can be made with reasonable accuracy, and in the endeavor to attain parity between nations in naval strength or to secure satisfactory relative strength it offers probably the best road along which limitation can travel and arrive at agreement. It was the estimate of fleet combat strengths which was used in attempting to arrive at agreement through the instrument of this treaty.

Lists Types to Consider.

III—COMPARISON OF FLEET COMBAT STRENGTH.

10. In making this comparison we must go to categories of combatant types, unless we accept the French global thesis, which, after all, only places the extreme total tonnage limit, but does not restrict competitive building within that limit.

The types to consider are:

1. Battleships.
2. Aircraft carriers.
3. Exempt types.
4. Destroyers.
5. Submarines.
6. Cruisers.

The treaty hinges about these types and the proportion allocated to each power.

Take (1) battleships first. The number has been reduced in the proportion 15-15-9. The tonnage proportions are as equitable as it is possible to make them. The strength factor of each fleet will, with the remodernizing of our fleet and the elevation of guns, be fairly commensurate with the above figures.

2. The aircraft carrier tonnage was not touched. It remains as in the Washington treaty.

3. The agreeemnt on the exempt class is satisfactory and equitable. It is not an important class. It takes in merely worn-out ships and special ships outside the combatant categories. No concessions made in this type have the slightest effect on the strength of the combat fleet.

Safe Peace Margin in Destroyers.

4. The destroyer tonnage has not been reduced below a safe peace margin, and is not less than that which we would operate in peace for fleet training purposes. Its proportions are 10-10-7. It is a type easily built at reasonably short notice and is a type which in war we would hardly have enough of. The concession of 10-10-7 now in this type does not materially affect fleet combat strength in time of war.

5. The submarine. The proportions in tonnage are 10-10-10, but by this concession total tonnage is reduced. The total abolition of submarines would be an excellent thing for United States naval policy, but failing this, the tonnage figure set at 52,700 is not below our irreducible need, in case the submarine is not abolished.

5. The cruiser. It is about this type that the fight wages and the question is raised whether we sacrificed any of our naval strength. This problem was solved also on the basis of fleet combat strength. The tonnage proportions of the 8-inch type are 10-8.1-6; in the 6-inch type 10-7.5 between Great Britain and ourselves, and 10-7 between ourselves and Japan. Regardless of the superior merits of the 8-inch type claimed by some for individual ship action and long distance raiding on enemy trade routes, I prefer for fleet work a more even distribution of the two types of cruisers. The 8-inch and 6-inch, and the present arrangement of 18-inch and 18-6 inch units as allowed under the treaty is better for fleet needs than an all 8-inch cruiser tonnage.

6. From the viewpoint of fleet combat strength, I feel that the treaty is most satisfactory.

IV.—ADDITIONAL POINTS.

There is one additional feature which makes this treaty particularly acceptable from the naval point of view. Now for the first time in our history we can lay down a definite program extending over a period of time and visualize a navy which is not a creature of great ups and downs in the matter of a naval building program.

We should be able to iron out the humps caused by such excessive building as happened in the 1916 battleship program and the 1917-1918 destroyer programs, and through which agency we should be able to forestall any great naval depression. Moreover the added life to each combatant category as specified in this treaty over the figures mentioned in the American proposal of 1922 has materially reduced the yearly naval wastage.

the fifteen-cruiser program as authorized by Congress would involve full hearings by the Committee on Naval Affairs of the Senate."

"The effect of the London treaty is materially to change this program," he added.

"The purpose of these hearings," he continued, "is to bring out for the use of the Senate and for the information of the country as exhaustive information as it is possible to get as to the effect of the London treaty on the national defense of the country."

Hale Sees Need for Publicity.

He prophesied undoubted ratification of the treaty by the Senate, "if radical changes in naval policy" involved in the treaty "can be defended, and proof be given that it is to the advantage of the national defense of the country to subscribe to all of the terms of the treaty."

"If the treaty, as it now stands," he continued, "will hold water in every respect, there can be no possible objection to throwing the full light of publicity upon it. If it will not hold water, it is in the highest degree essential that its defects should be known and understood.

"I believe that this committee will approach the whole matter from a fair standpoint. I think that very few members of the Senate have as yet the naval knowledge necessary to act intelligently upon the treaty. If we can in some manner help to furnish that knowledge to the Senate our time will not have been wasted.

"Certain confidential matters of a military nature will have to be taken up in executive session. In such cases the press and the public will understand why they will have to be excluded from the hearings."

Japan's Fleet "More Modern."

Secretary Adams began his testimony by reading a prepared statement in which he asserted:

"Japan has steadily built destroyers, and her fleet is more modern than ours."

The financial aspect of the treaty was brought to the front immediately by Senator Walsh, who asked:

"Isn't the whole question whether or not the navy needs more appropriations to carry out the treaty program?"

Before Secretary Adams could answer, Senator Hale said:

"We'll bring all that up later," indicating that the examination of Secretary Adams might be continued for some time.

Taking up the articles of the treaty in order, Senator Hale asked if Japan had not been favored in the scrapping of battleships, pointing out that she loses only one to four for Great Britain and two for the United States. Secretary Adams testified that this was purely a matter of proportion.

It was Article 18, however, which caused the most contention. It is this paragraph which grants the United States eighteen 8-inch-gun cruisers, but stipulates that only fifteen may be laid down in the near future. The sixteenth would not be laid down until 1933 and would not be completed until 1936, the end of the life of the treaty, with the other two following later.

Adams Defends Compromise.

At that point, under questioning by Senator Hale, Secretary Adams said that this was part of the compromise necessary to win Japanese approval of the treaty.

It was in this connection also that Secretary Adams suggested that it might be well not to lay down all the cruisers at this time. Pointing out that most of our fleet had been built during the war, especially the destroyers, he said that soon there would be the possibility of the navy having an obsolete fleet. Thus, he said, it would be well to have unused tonnage in reserve, as well as to make it possible to incorporate future improvements in design in some of the proposed vessels.

"Don't you think," Senator Walsh asked, "that it is disappointing to the people of the United States that a conference to reduce naval armaments should cost a billion dollars?"

"But remember, there has been no building for ten years," Senator Hale interrupted. The value of the fleet is about $2,000,000,000, he said, with the life of naval craft averaging about twenty years, and added:

"The American people should realize that it costs $100,000,000 a year to keep it going."

Navy Board Ignored Hale Hints.

Charges that the naval delegation might not have followed the recommendations of the naval board were made by Senator Hale, with the indication that he would go into them thoroughly later.

Through a long series of questions

CONCESSIONS BY US DEFENDED BY ADAMS

he inquired about the methods of making decisions, which Secretary Adams said frequently originated in private conferences and later were discussed in open sessions. Senator Shortridge of California asked that the records of these discussions, where records were kept, be made public.

"Great Britain has retained everything offered her last Summer," Senator Hale continued. "All of the concessions have been made on our side. Their fleet is based on their needs, but ours is not based on our needs."

He indicated that he felt America had sacrificed the protection of her trade routes in time of war through permitting the number of eight-inch gun cruisers to be cut.

"We got only combat parity," he added. To this the witness replied that the possible need of protecting trade routes is a matter for future speculation.

Cruisers figured prominently in another phase of the hearing when Article 21, known as the "escalator article," came up for discussion. This provides that any of the three contracting parties, when endangered by an outside power, may build over its quota, providing it notifies the other parties to the treaty of its intention. They, in turn, then may build up to parity with the first.

Britain Insisted, Says Adams.

"Great Britain particularly insisted on that clause, didn't she?" asked Senator Hale.

"That is a fair statement," answered Secretary Adams.

The witness agreed that there was little possibility of the United States wishing to build above its quotas, thus being left in the position of following the lead of Great Britain when more cruisers may be deemed necessary.

"Whatever we did there," continued Senator Hale, "would be based on what the British naval authorities do?"

"It might be so construed," replied Secretary Adams.

"Therefore, we get very little benefit and probably will be forced to build ships we don't want?"

"I don't like the word 'probably,'" said the Secretary. "We may be forced to, but I don't think there is any possibility we will."

Senator Hale brought out that this remote eventuality, which would be brought about only through unsettled conditions on the European Continent affecting Great Britain, might have one result important to us, in that if the British build more cruisers the allotment of the United States would automatically be increased.

"Would this mean that if Great Britain built more 6-inch-gun cruisers the United States could build an equal tonnage of 8-inch-gun cruisers?" Senator Hale asked.

Additional Building Conceded.

"It could if it so wished," Secretary Adams replied.

"Even if the United States had not built up to its full allotment of 6-inch-gun cruisers?"

"Yes," replied the Secretary.

It had previously been brought out that there is considerable disagreement over the comparative value of the 10,000-ton cruisers when armed with 8-inch guns and with 6-inch guns. The former have greater firing power, but sacrifice protective armor to the weight of the guns, and are more vulnerable in battle. But they have been said to be more desirable as raiders cruising far afield in wartime.

Senator Shortridge, whose questioning was confined principally to the amplification of some points brought out, asked one question which brought a smile to the Secretary's face. After a long discussion of the many technicalities concerning comparing the strength of individual boats and classifications, the California Senator asked:

"Can you give us the actual fighting strength of the various navies?"

"It is impossible to do that," replied Secretary Adams, "without going over a great mass of statistics—and indulging in much guesswork."

Armed Merchantmen Discussed.

Pointing out that the treaty requires submarines hereafter to warn merchant vessels before sinking them and to see that passengers and crew are removed safely, Senator Hale asked if this meant that a submarine should come to the surface and warn an armed merchantman possibly capable of sinking her.

"That question depends on whether a merchant vessel becomes a warship by carrying guns," he replied. "This particularly is the knowledge of the Secretary of State."

"I understand no agreement was made regarding the arming of merchantmen?"

"No," replied the witness.

Returning to the question of Japan's rise in the ratios of naval strength, Senator Hale searched for the reason, asking:

"During any negotiations last Summer, was there any indication that the 5-5-3 Japanese ratio was to be abandoned?"

"I can't answer that. It was in the hands of the President," Secretary Adams replied.

"Was there such an indication when the delegation went over to London?"

"We had notice from Japan that she might seek more tonnage," continued the Secretary, saying that the delegation was "open-minded" on the subject.

"Can you state when we first considered giving up the 5-5-3 ratio?"

Adams Denies "Trade" With Japan.

"No," said Secretary Adams, and immediately denied without qualification that the raising of Japan's standing had been given as a trade for the signature of the Pacific power to the pact.

"In your opinion," continued Senator Hale, "what ships should we build before 1936?"

"To answer that question," said Secretary Adams, "would take a long period of study. We have two tentative building programs mapped out. One of them would provide for hurrying through the building, the other would occupy until 1940, but which one is the best still is in doubt."

Admitting that Japan has superiority in cruisers, that her destroyers, while fewer, are newer, and that the same condition applies to her submarine fleet, Secretary Adams asserted that concessions with her were made on both sides, inasmuch as Japan, in effect, was asked to stand still while this country catches up with her in new building.

Economy in Battleships Cited.

While declining to answer definitely, because of lack of information, Senator Walsh's demand as to whether economy would result from the treaty program, Secretary Adams pointed out that ten battleships, which would have cost $400,000,000 if built as permitted by the Washington treaty, will not be laid down.

When Senator Hale recalled that France and Italy are permitted to build 70,000 tons of battleships because of "unused tonnage" from the Washington treaty, Secretary Adams pronounced as "remote" the chance that this would affect Great Britain or the United States.

Questioned concerning two points in the treaty which permit unlimited building of vessels under 600 tons, said to be particularly desired by Japan, and the construction of two 5,000-ton minelayers by Japan, the Secretary pronounced the first class of vessels built in large numbers a waste of money, and testified that the minelayers might have been had by the United States had it so desired. The small ships mentioned are principally tenders and like boats, with their armament strictly limited.

Dartmouth Shivers in Shorts on Cold Day To Emancipate Man From Enslaving Style

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., May 14.—Despite chilly weather, 500 Dartmouth undergraduates showed their knees to the world today in a drive to lead man to sartorial freedom in "shorts."

Leaders from nearly all the campus organizations enthusiastically supported the idea, which was sponsored by the Dartmouth undergraduate newspaper. Every revolution has its counter force, however, and "knee independence day" was made more colorful by the rise of an "anti-shorts movement." The counter-revolutionaries appeared in raccoon coats, sheepskins, gloves and overshoes. They suffered from the heat as the others braved blustery winds and endeavored to hide their unconcern, even if they could not hide their shivering knees.

The conservatives, however, were a small minority, and failed to deter the main body of undergraduates from their serious purpose of emancipating man from the dictates of conventional and enslaving clothes.

Contrary to expectations, the athletes were most timid in baring their legs to public view. "Sheep" Wolf, Len Clark and Hank Barber, football players, donned their shorts bright and early, but Al Marsters, who was expected to be one who would lead the way, backed out and appeared in flannels, full style.

The best-dressed students on the campus began to show their ingenuity, even in abbreviated fields to work upon. Ankle socks and neckties were matched and made to harmonize with "shorts" of all colors. Linen, colored flannels, khaki twill and balloon seamstripes set off the more colorful pairs.

Sweaters or coats seemed to harmonize with the shorts and golf socks were popular, because, no doubt, of the low temperature.

Charles K. O'Neill, '31, of Bridgeport, Conn., associate editor of The Daily Dartmouth, who is credited with originating the shorts movement, is carrying on his work with a crusader's seriousness. He wants Dartmouth men to set an example not only for other college students but for all the males in the country.

"This is no idle matter of a day," he said to the readers of The Dartmouth. "It is possibly the most logically radical movement since males stepped out of armored vests and trousers late in the Middle Ages. And the college will continue their rugged romping all through the Spring, yea, unto the fifth and sixth generation."

NOT ALL ADMIRALS FOR PACT IN LONDON

A. V. Alexander Implies in Commons Board of Admiralty Is Not Unanimous.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 14.—It is probable that during an informal debate on the naval treaty in the House of Commons tomorrow the Government will admit that all the members of the Board of Admiralty do not approve of the results of the recent naval conference.

This was intimated today by A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, in reply to a direct question from the opposition as to whether the term "Board of Admiralty" invariably included all the sea lords. The question was provoked by the fact that Lord Parmoor had said in a debate in the House of Lords last week that the Board of Admiralty was unanimously in favor of the treaty.

The term in its collective sense, Mr. Alexander said, did include all the sea lords, but in its administrative sense it meant the First Lord of the Admiralty acting after consultation with the board and normally with the concurrence of that board.

"But in matters of high policy," Mr. Alexander said, "circumstances may conceivably arise in which a decision has to be taken without that concurrence."

Mr. Alexander still further strengthened the impression that there was no unanimity by saying that Lord Parmoor had "spoken inadvertently" when he said the Board of Admiralty was unanimous for the treaty. Mr. Alexander would give no further answer to the question but said the matter would be made plain tomorrow.

Outside of Parliament the naval treaty was adversely criticized today at the annual meeting of the Navy League. Admiral Sir Sydney Fremantle said it was "a thoroughly bad treaty but good in spots." The good spots, he said, were the saving of $300,000,000 on battleships and the submarine agreement and the stabilization of the navy during the next five years in the matter of personnel and material. He condemned the treaty because of the small numbers of cruisers and destroyers allowed to England and because England had renounced her right to take such measures as she saw fit in her own defense.

BRITISH LAUNCH SUBMARINE

CHATHAM, England, May 14 (AP).—The submarine Rainbow, of 1,475 tons, the first of her class in the Royal Navy, was launched today. There are three other submarines of this class and twelve others in hand to replace thirty-six submarines which will automatically become obsolete by the end of 1932.

If no more are laid down, the British submarine strength then will be cut from fifty to thirty.

The naming ceremony today was performed by Mrs. Addison, the wife of Vice Admiral Addison, the director of dockyards. After a religious ceremony a bottle of Australian Burgundy was broken over the bow of the vessel.

1,250,000 Study by Mail.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 14.—Correspondence schools have a total enrolment of 1,250,000 students, or more than that of resident colleges, universities and professional schools in the United States, according to Dr. J. S. Noffsinger of Washington, who spoke today at the opening of the annual convention of the National Home Study Council, of which he is a director. "Home students are paying approximately $60,000,000 annually for instruction, or about $48 each," said Dr. Noffsinger.

TOKIO WAR COUNCIL TO GET NAVAL PACT

Emperor Will Call Supreme Military Body to Study the London Treaty.

TAKARABE RETURN AWAITED

Diet Closes After Approving Major Issues, Including Added Budget, Urged by Government.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKIO, May 14.—Emperor Hirohito will convene the Supreme Military Council to review the London naval treaty from the point of view of national defense upon the return of Admiral Takarabe to Tokio, it was learned today from reliable quarters. The council is composed of the Ministers of War and of the Navy and the highest officers in both branches of the military service.

The council is rarely called in times of peace. It is believed that the meeting of the council will bring to a head the controversy between the two opposing naval groups, the one headed by Admiral Kanji Kato, chief of the naval staff, standing for a big navy and fighting the London treaty, the other backing Admiral Takarabe, who has definitely aligned himself with the government by signing the London pact.

Admiral Takarabe is expected to outline to the council the circumstances which developed at London and led to his concurrence in the London treaty.

While officials here declined to say today on whose request the Emperor would act in convening the council, it is believed a memorandum presented to the Throne by Admiral Kato immediately after the Japanese delegation had been instructed to accept the Reed-Matsudaira compromise may be the reason.

While there are all kinds of rumors to the effect that either Admiral Takarabe will resign as Minister of the Navy or Admiral Kato as chief of the naval staff, these are entirely speculation. The resignation of Admiral Takarabe is not looked for in authoritative quarters. If Admiral Takarabe should resign he would probably drag the government down with him, and it is considered almost certain he would not take a step which would be sure to hamper the future of the London treaty.

Admiral Kato might resign but he could in all probability be replaced without much difficulty.

Admiral Takarabe is expected in Tokio the latter part of this week or early next week, having delayed the trip from Harbin ostensibly on account of ill health but actually to avoid reaching Tokio before the Diet closed. Admiral Takarabe is believed to have been willing enough to face the Diet but to have been urged by the government to stay away in order not to cause further embarrassment to the government.

The government emerged with the upper hand from the session of the Diet, which was brought to a formal close this morning after approving the major issues which the government had sponsored, including a supplementary budget and an increased appropriation for compulsory education. Although the Opposition attacked the government fiercely on the naval treaty it was unable to muster enough support to introduce a vote of no confidence, fearing such a vote would reveal its weakness.

Discussions did, however, develop over the constitutional controversy which may complicate to some extent the course of the London treaty in the Privy Council, which may be called to ratify it and whose functions are also to interpret the Constitution.

Norway Expects Royal Heir.

LONDON, May 14 (AP).—A dispatch to The Daily Mail says that Crown Princess Martha of Norway is expecting an heir. She has been absent from social affairs for some time and is not likely to appear at public functions until late in the Summer. As Princess Martha of Sweden she was married to Crown Princess Olaf of Norway on March 21, 1929.

a heavy rain to be present at the first filibuster since Southern Democratic members eight years ago hid in every nook and corner around the Capitol to avoid a quorum for consideration of an anti-lynching bill.

After the quorum was counted a demand for a roll-call on a preliminary motion to pass the bill tied up proceedings for another forty minutes. Then it developed that the opposition intended demanding an engrossed copy of the bill. This would have required at least an hour more, so the House adjourned with the understanding that the bill will be brought up again on Friday.

Supporters of the measure are confident it will be passed. The regulars indicated that they wanted most of all to stave off action until members could think over their opposition to the White House.

The bill was introduced by Representative Ketchum of Michigan, former lecturer for the National Grange, and was declared to have the backing of "every recognized farm organization in America." Stanch administration followers went in droves to the support of the measure.

Representative Wood charged them with "cowardice," but this did not stop them. He told them they were afraid to vote against anything that had the label "farm relief" on it, and that instead of using courage to vote their own consciences, they were "passing the buck" to the President.

The bill appeared to have little or no opposition when introduced. No one asked for time to oppose it. Only one member objected. Representative Collins of Mississippi wanted to know if the measure was not simply one for the "creation of a few more social jobs" to allow some "dapper young Americans to sport around in foreign countries with spats and canes."

Mr. Wood strolled on to the floor as if he did not know what was up. He had just come from an Appropriations Committee meeting. When he found what bill was being considered, however, he jumped into the fight. The bill had been slated to pass about 4 o'clock.

ITALY AND FRANCE SEEK TREATY BASIS

Briand and Grandi Plan to Take Up Political Before Naval Questions.

BALKANS ARE A FACTOR

French Foreign Minister Drops Sarre Plebiscite Demand Conditionally on Economic Solution.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, May 14.—While the Franco-Italian conversations continued here today, with M. Briand the guest of Signor Grandi at tea, it became evident that they were planning before entering into the details of naval limitation to try to settle first the political questions separating them and that these involved almost the whole European situation.

Italy, aside from her demands in Tunis and on the Tripolitan frontier, is understood to be seeking to have France recognize her priority in the Adriatic and, it is rumored, in the Balkans and the Eastern Mediterranean. As part of this policy, Italy is understood to want the Franco-Yugoslav alliance ended, possibly through Yugoslavia entering an eventual Franco-Italian friendship treaty.

Drops French Sarre Demand.

On the other hand, the French are seeking to forestall the Italian attempts to strengthen their hand by playing in with the Germans, Hungarians and other elements as dissatisfied as Italy with the status quo. In this connection it was learned today that M. Briand, after his conversation yesterday with Dr. Julius Curtius, Foreign Minister of Germany, had dropped a demand which the French hitherto have always insisted on, that a plebiscite be held in any event before the French would withdraw from the Sarre.

The position now is said to be that if the negotiations which the French agree to push on the economic side of the Sarre question are satisfactorily concluded, France will be willing to return the Sarre to Germany not only before 1935 but without the plebiscite fixed for that date in the Versailles Treaty.

Another thing which appears to be greatly influencing M. Briand's policy is his plan for a European federation. If it stimulates him to seek a friendly general settlement with Italy, it remains true that he wants above all to have Germany behind it, for in that event he believes it would be difficult for Italy to stay out and it would facilitate a naval settlement.

It is understood the Quai d'Orsay is sending M. Briand's questionnaire on a European Federation today to all the French Embassies and Legations in Europe, to be given to the various chancelleries Saturday and to be released to the press at the same time. On the political side it is said it poses a question as to whether the powers believe the European States ought to form a treaty of mutual assistance—much the same idea as the French proposed for the Mediterranean in London.

As further evidence of the European scope of the Franco-Italian problem, M. Briand today saw in succession the Foreign Ministers of Poland, Yugoslavia and Greece and will see Dr. Curtius again tomorrow. There will be only one day more for the two powers to prepare their hands in the conversations here, for the Council session is expected to end at noon tomorrow. It is possible there will be another Briand-Henderson-Grandi talk tomorrow before the latter two take afternoon trains for home.

Mussolini May Reflect Work.

One reason for Signor Grandi's quick departure is understood to be a desire to confer with Premier Mussolini before the latter makes what promises to be an important speech Sunday at the Fascist concentration in Florence. The tone which Mussolini then takes may give some reflection of what has gone on behind the scenes here.

The Franco-Italian negotiations, as far as diplomatic channels go, will be conducted, it is said, through the French Ambassador at Rome. The British are favorable to the Italian suggestion to have a meeting of political experts during the Summer, but M. Briand, it is said, wants to have another talk with Signor Grandi before entering that stage.

The Italians are said to be using the decision of the Council of Ambassadors of Nov. 9, 1921, to promote their claim to priority in the Adriatic. In that decision the British, French and Japanese recognized such priority for Italy as far as Albania was concerned, when they agreed that any modification of the Albanian frontier would be a strategic danger for Italy and that if the League Council ever needed to intervene in Albania, Italy could be entrusted with the task.

The French, it is assumed here, will not do anything likely to weaken Yugoslavia.

It is worthy to be recaled, however, that when the French were negotiating their Yugoslavian treaty in 1924 they invited Italy to participate, but Premier Mussolini refused. He made a separate friendship treaty with Yugoslavia, which expired a few years ago and never has been renewed. The situation thus seems at least ripe for a triangular Franco-Italian-Yugoslavian settlement.

Woman, 101, Officially Dead; Clerk Won't Change Listing

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAN JUAN, P. R., May 14.—Officially dead and possessed of a death certificate, but very much alive in fact, is Juana Gonzalez, a 101-year-old widow resident of Pueblo Viejo, Porto Rico's first town, founded by Ponce de Leon. Its name means "Old Town" or "Old People."

The question of how to cancel the certificate has been referred to the Attorney General, with the possibility that a court order, or even legislation, may be necessary.

Two grandsons of Señora Gonzalez, believing her dead, took all legal steps and made other preparations for burial. The purchase of a coffin and obtaining of a burial permit required more than five hours. Returning home, they found their grandmother was alive and the death certificate was useless.

A physician's statement convinced the Guaynabo civil registry clerk that Señora Gonzalez was not dead, but he could find no law permitting cancellation of the registry entry.

YUGOSLAV BOMB PLOT CAUSES ARREST OF 50

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BELGRADE, May 14.—Another bomb plot against the Yugoslav dictatorship, this time apparently organized largely by Serbians, was revealed by the police today, three weeks after its detection. A gendarme in Vrpolje station on April 22 found a bomb with the fuse already sputtering under a train which was conveying a loyalty deputation to Belgrade. He cut the fuse with his bayonet.

As a result fifty persons, including former Deputies, Mayors, other politicians and members of the former Serb-Croat Peasant Democrat party, have been arrested. Most of them are Serbians.

During the trial today of Dr. Vladimir Machek and twenty-three other Croatians on the charge of conspiring against the dictatorship, evidence was produced to show that the former gendarmerie lieutenant, Colonel Vilko Begich, was one of Dr. Machek's personal friends. Colonel Begich, whose alleged confessions to the police and the examining magistrate constitutes the burden of the charge against Dr. Machek, withdrew the confessions today on grounds that they had been extorted from him either after torture or while he was in a semi-delirious state from pneumonia contracted in prison after brutal mistreatment by Zagreb police.

It was said that when he was confronted by Dr. Machek last December before Police President Belekovich he tried to commit suicide from remorse at having been compelled to accuse his friend falsely.

Dr. Machek has called off the hunger strike, which he declared Saturday.

PICTURE THIEF SENT TO PRISON IN BRUSSELS

Daglio Saint Croix, Notorious Museum Robber, Gets 2½ Years and Fines.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BRUSSELS, May 14.—Daglio Saint Croix, a notorious picture thief and leader of a gang of museum robbers, was sentenced in Brussels today to two years and six months of imprisonment and fined.

He was accused of a long series of thefts from museums in all parts of Europe. During a single week, according to testimony at the trial, he succeeded in stealing three pictures from the Courtrai Museum, a portrait of Cardinal Frankenberg from the city of Malines, and ten pictures from the Ververs Museum. He worked under numerous aliases and with many accomplices, and his description was well known to the police when he arrived in Belgium.

A plain-clothes guard in a museum in Brussels recognized him, but Saint Croix, sensing himself watched, made no attempt to steal anything. All the museums and antiquarians in Brussels immediately were notified. He soon attempted to sell an old master to a dealer who detained him until the police arrived and captured him with the stolen painting in his possession.

WILL CELEBRATE JULY 4.

Germans Will Dedicate Stresemann Monument on That Day.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, May 14.—The German People's Party has chosen July 4 as the day to lay the cornerstone of a monument at Mayence to their late leader, Gustav Stresemann, as the "Liberator of the Rhineland," it became known here today.

This is one of the reasons, it is understood, why Foreign Minister Julius Curtius, who plans to make the dedication speech, is especially eager to have all French troops withdrawn by the end of June. When the French in conversations here reminded him that withdrawal might be delayed by the necessity of their making, before they left, an inventory of property for the German owners of 4,000 buildings the troops have been occupying, Dr. Curtius promised to give special orders to expedite these formalities.

FINDS CATHOLICISM STRONG

Cardinal Hayes Sees Church In America Resisting Onslaughts.

The Catholic Church is stronger today in America than it ever was, despite the many influences attempting to undermine it, Cardinal Hayes told the United States Catholic Historical Society at a meeting in the Catholic Club, 120 Central Park South, last night. He pointed to the various expressions of faith by Catholics, and to the recent holy communion breakfasts of the police, fire and United States postal departments.

Praising the work of the society, the Cardinal declared it prevented the Catholics of today from forgetting the deeds of Catholics of previous generations.

The latest publication of the society, the twelfth volume of the monograph series, "Pioneer Catholic Journalism," by the Rev. Paul J. Folk of St. Andrew's University, Austin, Texas, was presented to the Cardinal.

HOLD COMMUNIST PAIR FOR ANNOYING SAILORS

Two Communists, a man and a woman, were arrested last night after they had become involved in an argument with sailors in front of the Astor, where they had been distributing leaflets to men in uniform, urging them to demand 50 per cent increases in pay and rations, the right of electing their own officers, and the eight-hour day, including guard duty. A third Communist escaped.

The prisoners, who said they were John Mideau, 30 years old, a food handler of 450 West Thirty-sixth Street, and Miss Lena Cleaver, 22, a clothing operator of 337 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, were locked up in the West Forty-seventh Street police station, charged with disorderly conduct. Both said they were members of the Young Communist League of 26 Union Square.

Three women who pleaded guilty yesterday to disorderly conduct following their arrest after distributing Communist circulars to sailors, were each given an option of a $10 fine or five days in jail, when arraigned before Magistrate Francis X. McQuade in Washington Heights court. The trio refused to pay the fines.

The women are Rena Fish, 24 years old, of 600 Mace Avenue; Rebecca Ginsberg, 45, of 1,321 Franklin Avenue, and Rebecca Berkstein, 29, of 2,085 Bronx Park East, all of the Bronx.

By agreement of counsel, Magistrate Henry F. Goodman in the Yorkville court yesterday adjourned until June 3 the proceedings against William Z. Foster, Robert Minor, Israel Amter, Harry Raymond and Joseph Lester, Communist leaders. The defendants are charged with felonious assault. Foster, Minor and Amter are serving jail sentences following their recent conviction in the Court of Special Sessions. They were arrested during the Communist demonstration in Union Square on March 6.

CONNOLLY IDLE IN JAIL.

But He and Seely Are Expected to Get Regular Jobs Today.

Maurice E. Connolly, former Borough President of Queens, and Frederick B. Seely, formerly his chief engineer, are still waiting to be assigned to jobs for their year's stay at the penitentiary on Welfare Island as a result of the postponement of the meeting of the classification board yesterday, Warden Joseph A. McCann disclosed.

However, the classification board is scheduled to interview the prisoners at 10 A. M. today, when prison duties are expected to be assigned to the two men and three other prisoners. The latter were formerly employed by the New York County Clerk's office, but were convicted of falsifying the records and entered Welfare Island with Connolly and Seely.

LONDON TERRACE—
world's largest group of apartment houses—one of the diversified Mandel Plan operations.

Are you trying to get along on what you earn?

That's the way most of the failures in life are made . . .

YOUR ability and capacity to work are limited. That's the way it is with everyone. You do what you can. And you earn according to what you can do. You work up to your limit and there you stick.

You've got to have more than one-man-power earnings to be a real success in life. You have to learn to put money to work.

Money never sleeps. It doesn't get sick or old. It can work in any industry and in any part of the world. It need never be without a job. Even a small amount of capital, if put to work, conserved and skilfully managed, will quickly grow and gain the power to earn more than the unaided efforts of any average man or woman.

The Mandel Plan keeps money safe, but busy. It's meant for people who haven't time to become experts in conserving and employing money. You can take advantage of the Mandel Plan equally well whether you have $110 or $110,000 to invest in it. The coupon will bring you details without cost or obligation.

REDUCED RATES for Telephone Service to EUROPE

NOW IN EFFECT

ALL rates for transatlantic telephone service to Europe have been reduced by $15.00 for the first three minutes and $5.00 for each additional minute. The rate for a call from New York to London is now $30.00 instead of $45.00.

Most points in western Europe can be reached directly by telephone. Transatlantic calls may be placed in advance of the time wanted without charge. The service is available during the 24 hours.

For three minute conversations, the rates from Zone 1 (New York, New Jersey, the New England States, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and District of Columbia) to representative cities are as follows:

London	$30.00	Danzig	$35.25	Stockholm	$36.75
Brussels	33.00	Geneva	34.50	Prague	36.75
Luxembourg	33.00	Rome	36.00	Oslo	37.50
Paris	33.75	Vienna	36.00	Budapest	37.50
Amsterdam	33.75	Madrid	36.00	Warsaw	37.50
Berlin	35.25	Copenhagen	36.75	Helsingfors	38.25

SEES WAGES RISING AS PRICES GO DOWN

C. G. Stoll of Western Electric Says Company Pay Has Advanced 115% Since 1914.

PUTS PRICE GAIN AT 20%

Holds Progress in Management Is Responsible—Association Also Hears David Lawrence.

A rising wage scale while prices are being lowered in the Western Electric Company, the manufacturing subsidiary of the Bell Telephone System, was reported yesterday by C. G. Stoll, vice president in charge of operations of the subsidiary, who spoke at the closing session of the annual Spring convention of the American Management Association in the Astor.

Mr. Stoll said that wages in the Western Electric Company were at present 215 per cent, considering the 1914 wage scale at 100 per cent. Prices on the products of the company, he said, are only 20 per cent higher than in 1914.

"Economic conditions account for part of this desirable condition," he said, "but a contributing factor has been the fact that the Western Electric Company is organized for progress in management. The only way to achieve progress is to organize for it. The question is, 'Is there a better way?' is constantly being applied to all operations in all departments in this company, which does a business well in excess of a million dollars a day.

"Not only are studies looking toward the discovery of a 'better way' made in the manufacturing, installation, merchandise and distributing departments but in the so-called 'white collar' groups as well. During the past year 248 clerical, accounting and office methods cases were studied with changes in methods brought about as a result which made possible a saving of almost $1,500,000."

Mr. Stoll showed graphically that the savings resulting from development work in the manufacturing department during 1929 were in one year double the cost of development.

David Lawrence Speaks.

David Lawrence of The United States Daily spoke on "Industry's Public Relations." He thought that business men have been too timid in the past in interpreting themselves to the public. He pointed out that business news had taken a place of increasing importance in the newspapers of the country and urged that companies acquaint newspapers at once with important happenings connected with their organizations.

The government, Mr. Lawrence said, is becoming more sensitive to business cooperation, as well as to its protection and regulation. He cited as an example the government campaign for the elimination of waste. Business executives going to Washington to discuss their problems, he said, would find a cordial reception.

It was announced that the board of directors of the association had established an insurance division, the purpose of which will be to discuss insurance primarily from the buyers' point of view as a means of protecting the company against business risks. A shop methods division was also created to deal with the general field of industrial engineering.

List of Officers Elected.

TWO DIE IN AUTO CRASH.

Gordon Stiles, Writer, and Woman Are Killed Near Warwick, N. Y.

WARWICK, N. Y., May 14 (AP).—Gordon Stiles, magazine writer and foreign correspondent, and Miss Hortense Pellew were killed in an automobile accident near this village last night. A small coupe which Mr. Stiles was reported to have borrowed skidded from the Warwick-Chester highway on a curve and struck a tree. Stiles died instantly and Miss Pellew a short time after the crash.

Stiles was foreign correspondent for The Chicago Daily News for several years and was said to have been one of the few American newspapermen in Germany at the time of the revolution which resulted in the collapse of the Hohenzollern dynasty. His divorced wife and a seven-year-old daughter live in Grand Rapids, Mich.

18-HOUR AIR SERVICE TO PACIFIC PLANNED

Plans for the establishment within six months of a year-round eighteen-hour coast-to-coast commercial airplane service were announced last night by Colonel Roscoe Turner at a private dinner given to him in the Hotel New Yorker in recognition of his flight from Los Angeles, which ended in his forced landing at Curtiss Field, Valley Stream, L. I., on Tuesday night.

Colonel Turner explained that the service is designed only for the transport of securities and currency and not for passengers, pointing out that it would be valuable for bank and other business transactions. With the constant improvement of airplane equipment, he said, such a service is now possible.

He claimed that the coast-to-coast flights, which will include stops at various points, will be made in spite of bad weather conditions, explaining that the application of the new theories of high-altitude flying will enable the pilots to climb above bad storms, which are seldom higher than 15,000 feet. As a safeguard for pilot, plane and cargo, he said the planes will be equipped with huge parachutes capable of bringing the ships safely to earth in case of necessity, and also with fireproof safes for the valuables.

He said he will make three more round-trip flights from coast to coast to gather data for the proposed new service.

Colonel Turner said the service will be operated by his backers, but he declined to name them. However, he admitted that Earl Gilmore, president of the Gilmore Oil Company of Los Angeles, is bearing all the expenses of his experimental flights.

SAYS 200,000 CHILDREN HAVE HEART DISEASE

Dr. Wynne Declares Parents Can Prevent High Mortality by "Common Sense."

About 200,000 children of school age in the United States have heart disease, Commissioner of Health Wynne declared yesterday in his weekly radio talk broadcast from station WEAF. Dr. Wynne declared that organic heart disease occupies first place in the cause of deaths today, and that one in every five of the population dying at the age of 10 succumbs to heart disease.

He said that the chief cause of heart disease in early life is acute rheumatism that announces itself in the form of growing pains and joint pains, tonsilitis, infection of the joints and St. Vitus's dance. "It is within the power of parents," he asserted, "to prevent heart disease in their children. That power is the result of common sense. It belongs to the mother and father who take their child to the doctor once a year for a thorough health examination; who provide their children with adequate and wholesome foods, and with plenty of fresh air and sunlight and sufficient rest and cleanliness."

Dr. Wynne concluded his address with an appeal for financial aid for Irvington House at Irvington-on-Hudson, a convalescent home for children suffering from heart ailments, which was razed by fire a few weeks ago. Dr. Wynne asserted that Irvington House has taken care of more cardiac children than all other cardiac homes combined.

SUICIDE'S WILL ATTACKED.

Christine Norman's Husband and Mother Charge Fraud.

Objections to the will of Miss Christine Norman, actress, who committed suicide March 6 by plunging from the twentieth story of the Hotel Warwick, have been filed in Surrogate's Court by her estranged husband, Enos S. Booth, lawyer, who lives at 2 East Eighty-sixth Street, and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Jamison, 956 Fifth Avenue. This was disclosed yesterday, when Surrogate O'Brien designated May 26 for trial of the suit.

The testament, filed March 7, made no provision for either of the contestants. The largest bequest, $50,000, jewelry, personal effects and an eighth of the residue, went to the actress's friend, Miss Claire Cassell of the Hotel Wentworth, former tennis player. The second largest bequest, $40,000 and an eighth of the residue, went to John H. Hayden of New Rochelle. Varying smaller bequests were made to relatives, friends and employes.

The testatrix's mother and husband accuse Mr. Hayden "or others acting in concert with him" of practicing fraud and undue influence in the execution of the will.

Quimby Gets Stay of Sentence.

Sentencing of Milton C. Quimby, aged 65, convicted on Tuesday of mail fraud in connection with the failure of the private bank of Clarke Brothers, Park Row, was postponed yesterday until this afternoon by Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard, on motion of Frank Aranow, Quimby's counsel, who said he thought his client was "pathologically wrong." Quimby, he added, needed time to raise funds to press an appeal. The defendant faces a maximum sentence of fifty-five years. John W. Cutler, tried with Quimby, was acquitted.

SALT LAKE CITY GAINS IN RESIDENTS

Outstrips New Bedford, Fall River and Trenton in Census Enumeration.

MILL CITIES SHOW DECREASE

California Sets a New Record for Losses as Well as Gains—Key West Decline Heavy.

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP).—Salt Lake City, out where the West is rambling right along, has passed New Bedford and Fall River in Massachusetts and Trenton in New Jersey, in cities of the 100,000 class in the 1930 census. The Utah city was passed in turn by San Diego, Cal.

City.	1930.	1920.
Salt Lake City	140,058	118,110
Trenton	122,610	119,289
Fall River	114,348	120,485
New Bedford	112,804	121,217

Salt Lake increased by 18.6 per cent and Trenton by 2.8 per cent. New Bedford lost by 6.9 per cent and Fall River by 5.3 per cent.

Nashville, Tenn., increasing by 24.2 per cent, remained slightly above Salt Lake, and Norfolk, Va., increasing by 10.7 per cent, a bit below it.

San Diego, one of nine new cities on the 100,000 or more list, totaled 147,847, a few thousand in advance of Salt Lake. The other eight cities which have thus far been added to the list are Fort Wayne, Ind.; San Juan, Porto Rico; Knoxville, Tenn.; South Bend, Ind.; Somerville, Mass.; Utica, N. Y.; Lynn, Mass., and El Paso, Texas.

Another California Record.

California, which has set the record for increases, also hung up a new record for decreases, just in time to keep that record from being snatched by Florida.

Vallejo, Cal., decreasing 31.91 per cent, with a present population of 14,360, as against 21,107 in 1920, has done more falling off than any town of more than 10,000 thus far reporting.

Florida came in as a decrease contender with a 30 per cent loss to Key West. The present population is 13,118, as against 18,749 in 1920. The next highest decrease was that of Astoria, Ore., with 28 per cent.

The decrease in Key West in the past ten years was attributed by census officials to the moving of large cigar manufacturing plants, following labor strikes. The city's peak population in 1910, 19,945, was attributed to the fact that many persons moved to Key West during and after the Spanish American War, and to the growth at that time of the cigar industry.

Providence, R. I., twenty-seventh city in 1920, has been passed by five Southern cities, Atlanta, Houston, Dallas, Birmingham and Memphis, and by one Mid-Western city, Akron, Ohio.

Their present population order, with their 1920 rankings is Atlanta thirty-third, Houston forty-fifth, Dallas forty-second, Akron thirty-second, Birmingham thirty-sixth and Memphis fortieth.

In cities of 500,000 or more population, Milwaukee, with a 24 per cent increase, edged closer to Buffalo, whose increase had been 12.9 per cent. The 1930 populations are Buffalo 572,913 and Milwaukee 568,962.

Deaths and Births Balance.

ELMIRA, N. Y., May 14 (AP).—The grim reaper and the stork competed during the last ten years to a draw in the village of Reading Centre, just north of Watkins Glen. Its population of 898 in 1920 showed no change when the final figures were announced today by District Supervisor Clifford H. Calkins.

Decrease in Herkimer County.

UTICA, N. Y., May 14 (AP).—With a population of 63,212, Herkimer County, fifth largest in the State, has lost 1,750 since 1920, or 2.69 per cent, according to an announcement made today by J. Phil Bannigan, supervisor of the Third District.

With an area of 1,459 miles, the average population per mile in the county, on the basis of this year's census figures, is slightly more than forty-three persons.

Quincy, Mass., Leads New England.

BROCKTON, Mass., May 14 (AP).—Quincy today held claim to the largest increase in population recorded thus far by census enumerators in New England cities. The population, announced today, is 71,965, an increase of 24,089, or 50.3 per cent since 1920.

Brockton, with a population of 63,695, showed a loss of 2,559, or 3.8 per cent.

The large gain in Quincy was attributed to extensive development of residential sites in recent years for persons employed in Boston. The city's industrials, chiefly shipbuilding and granite quarrying, were not credited with assisting to any marked degree in the population increase.

Quincy is sometimes referred to as the city of Presidents, inasmuch as it was the home of John Adams and John Quincy Adams, respectively second and sixth Presidents of the United States.

More Patrons for Ford's Inn.

LOWELL, Mass., May 14 (AP).—Sudbury, in which is located the Wayside Inn, gained 87 in population during the last ten years, census returns today showed. Sudbury now has 1,208 residents.

Oakland, Cal., Has Increase.

OAKLAND, Cal., May 14 (AP).—With census officials today reporting the 1930 population of Oakland as 284,213, an increase of 67,952, or 31.42 per cent over 1920, the count in eight sister cities grouped about San Francisco Bay passed well beyond the 1,000,000 mark.

A population of 418,930 is contained in the neighboring cities of Albany, Berkeley, Piedmont, Oakland and Alameda. Across the bay 735,761 persons are grouped in San Francisco, South San Francisco and Daly City. The total for the metropolitan area is expected to approach the 1,200,000 mark.

Other Population Figures.

Other census results reported yesterday by The Associated Press include:

Depew, N. Y.—6,536; increase 686, or 11.73 per cent.

Lancaster, N. Y.—7,043; increase 984, or 16.24 per cent.

Hartford, Conn.—161,324; increase 23,288, or 16.79 per cent.

Ansonia, Conn.—19,860; increase 2,217, or 12.56 per cent.

Quincy, Ill.—39,221; previous 35,978; gain 3,243, or 9.01 per cent.

St. Augustine, Fla.—11,930; increase of 5,738, or 92.6 per cent.

Reno, Nev.—18,493; increase 6,477, or 53.9 per cent.

Long Beach, Cal.—141,390; increase 85,797, or 154.33 per cent.

ROCKLAND COUNTY GAINS.

Population Increase Since 1920 Is Put at 13,981.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 14.—James F. Arbuckle, district census supervisor, today announced complete returns for Rockland County, the second county in the State to be reported completely for the 1930 census. Rockland has a population of 59,529, an increase of 13,981, or 30.6 per cent, over the 1920 population of 45,548.

The population by municipal areas was given as follows:

Haverstraw (town)	11,571	9,027	26.9
Spring Valley	3,044	3,818	3.3

The town of Ramapo includes the villages of Hilburn, Sloatsburg, Suffern and Spring Valley. The census counted 348 farms in Rockland County.

The only returns for Westchester County came from the township of Cortlandt, with a population of 24,357. This is a 11.1 per cent gain over the 1920 population of 21,023. Cortlandt includes the villages of Buchanan, Croton-on-Hudson and Peekskill.

The separate figures for the villages are:

Peekskill	17,439	15,868
Croton-on-Hudson	2,436	2,286
*Buchanan	1,342	.....

*Not incorporated until 1927.

INQUIRY IN BABIES' DEATHS.

Berlin Physician Says Eight Victims Were Inoculated With Tuberculosis.

BERLIN, May 14 (AP).—The death of eight babies in the Luebeck Home for Infants and the serious illness of twenty-four others today caused an inquiry by the health authorities.

The home's physician said the children were inoculated with tuberculosis germs from cows, a method commonly in use, it was stated. All the victims showed symptoms of tuberculosis after the treatment, which was ordered stopped immediately.

Sculptor Calls on Hoover.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Professor Enrico Glicenstein, a Polish sculptor who lives in Rome, was presented to President Hoover today by Ambassador Filipowicz. The sculptor, who is also a dry-point etcher, has modeled various busts and full figures, his subjects including Abraham Lincoln, Lord Balfour, Rear Admiral Byrd, Mayor Walker, Paderewski and Dr. John H. Finley.

SEES MANHATTAN LOSING CENSUS LEAD

Supervisor Asserts Brooklyn Will Take Title of Most Populous Borough.

VISIONS RESIDENTIAL SHIFT

In Four Generations Manhattan Will Contain Only Offices and Shops If Trend Continues, Says Corsi.

If Brooklyn holds its present strength, and the census figures seem to indicate that it will, that borough will take from Manhattan the official distinction of being the most populous county in the United States, Edward F. Corsi, supervisor of the twenty-third census district, declared yesterday before the Harlem Board of Commerce at the Hotel Theresa, Seventh Avenue and 125th Street.

Manhattan will thus lose a preeminence it has held since the first census was taken in 1790, and its doom will be sealed as a residential section, he said. Mr. Corsi predicted that in four generations Manhattan will become completely depopulated of residents if the present trend continues and the island will consist of one great mass of skyscrapers, offices, shops and factories.

"The vision of Manhattan connected with New Jersey, Long Island and Connecticut by means of bridges, tunnels, subways and airports is inevitable and it is even possible that Central Park will become the great air base of the city," he predicted.

Tells of Immigrant Problem.

Speaking of the immigrant problem on the east side he said that taking the census in that section had been difficult because of the diversity of races and tongues. "In one enumeration district we encountered nineteen nationalities and in the twenty-third supervisor's district alone thirty-two nationalities," he said. "The greates decline in Manhattan population is in those sections where living conditions have been the worst. At least 80 per cent of the loss in Manhattan is on the east side, particularly in those sections inhabited by the so-called 'newer immigration.' "

An increase of 5,002 in the population of the Twelfth Assembly District in Brooklyn was reported yesterday by Mrs. Maude A. Neale, supervisor for the thirtieth census district in Kings, who announced the total for that area, which embraces the Park Slope section, to be 82,874. The count in 1920 was 77,872.

A special representative of the Director of the Census will arrive this morning from Washington for a conference of census supervisors of Manhattan and the Bronx at the office of Bruno P. Saloschin, census supervisor of the twenty-second census district.

Warren County.
Washington Township	1,005	1,002
Oxford Township	1,735	2,035
Sussex County.
Frankford Township	1,074	936
Green Township	535	454
Franklin Borough	4,176	4,075
Branchville Borough	663	588
Hampton Township	581	592
Fredon Township	412	269
Andover Township	494	473
Hardyston Township (x)	946	1,928
Morris County.
Chatham Township	1,115	736
Madison Borough	7,473	5,523
Hanover Township (x)	2,516	8,531
Butler Borough	3,390	2,886
Chester Township	1,453	1,195
Jefferson Township	1,249	1,226

(x)—Annexation of territory from Hardystown and Hanover Townships by other municipalities accounts for decreases.

Paterson Gains 2,393.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., May 14.—The 1930 population of Paterson was announced today as 138,267, an increase of 2,393 in the past ten years. The combined increase of the thirteen townships and boroughs in Passaic County was 20,803.

Westfield Total 15,718.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., May 14.—The population of Westfield is 15,718, according to census figures made public here today, compared with 9,063 in 1920, an increase of 6,655. The Westfield figures bring the Union County total to 135,150 with Elizabeth, Plainfield, Union and Scotch Plains still unreported.

12 SURETY FIRMS FORM NEW BAIL BOND BUREAU

Plan Aims to End Gouging of Clients and "Cut-Throat" Competition of Agents.

Organization of a bail bond bureau composed of twelve of the leading surety companies was announced yesterday by Albert Conway, State Superintendent of Insurance. Plans were completed at a meeting of insurance executives in the board room of the American Surety Company, 100 Broadway, he said.

Mr. Conway said that the establishment of a central bureau for the furnishing of bail bonds was the result of efforts begun several months ago when a committee was formed to consider plans for the elimination of "cut-throat" competition between individual agents. The participation of large surety companies in the plan, he said, would put the writing of bail bonds on a definite and secure basis.

Robert M. Nugent of the National Surety Company will be manager of the bureau, which will begin operations within a very short time, Mr. Conway said. He added that the bureau would charge the legal rate of 3 per cent interest for furnishing bail bonds and profits would be distributed to the surety companies on an equal basis. Other surety companies are expected to join the bureau, he said.

The suggestion for establishing such a bureau was made by Mr. Conway following inquiries into charges of excessive fees and gouging by bail-bond agents. Establishment of the central bureau was completed after investigation into the situation by a committee composed of the following:

R. R. BROWN, president of the American Surety Company, chairman.

EDWARD G. LUNT of the Great American Indemnity Company.

SPEEDS WORKING PERMITS.

Education Board Arranges for Physical Test of Pupils.

Anticipating a large number of applications for working certificates by public school pupils during the Summer, the Board of Education has designated several hundred schools throughout the city where Board of Health physicians will conduct the necessary health examinations, beginning next week.

Dr. William J. O'Shea, superintendent of schools, yesterday sent a circular to principals instructing them to send pupils who wish to obtain employment to the neighborhood school designated as an examination centre.

"While no child who has a definite intention of taking up employment should be denied the privilege of the physical examination, your attention is called to the fact that at the present time it is exceedingly difficult to obtain employment," Dr. O'Shea wrote. "Employed minors are getting new jobs only with the greatest difficulty, and newly certificated applicants obtain work, as a rule, only after long delays. Accordingly, principals should dissuade prospective applicants from taking the physical examination unless there is a very real necessity to obtain work or some evidence that a position will be available. A written request from the parent for the child to take the physical examination should be required."

MILLER ACTS TO HALT MANHATTAN EXODUS

ten years, or sooner, may not be altogether in error," Mr. Miller declared.

The builders cooperating in Mr. Miller's program have promised to start construction of a multi-dwelling house unit within twelve or fifteen months from the time he requests them to do so. It is contemplated that the houses will be built in groups, so that several blocks at a time may be improved with new dwellings, and new residential neighborhoods thereby created.

Will Call Meeting.

To prevent competition and to make arrangements to keep the details of the new apartments as low as possible, yet financially profitable to the owners, Mr. Miller will call a meeting of the builders within the next fortnight.

"The concerns named will demonstrate that the construction in the Borough of Manhattan of multi-dwelling houses with rooms bringing an average rental of $21 a month will be financially and economically profitable to those who undertake the purchase of the necessary land and construct the necessary buildings thereon," Mr. Miller said. "They will demonstrate that this is not only profitable to the builders but also to the purchasers of such dwelling houses after they have been constructed."

Mr. Miller said that the builders, architects and business concerns cooperating in the plan regard the improvement as "the most far-reaching ever attempted in this or any other generation in its resultant salutary benefits to the city."

In support of his plea against the continued depopulation of the borough, Mr. Miller declared:

"The total building construction started in the Borough of Manhattan during the year 1929 is estimated to cost, when completed, about $575,000,000; during 1928 the building construction in Manhattan amounted to about $343,000,000, and in 1927 it amounted to about $259,000,000.

"During 1929 only one multi-dwelling house was constructed in the Borough of Manhattan where the rental per room amounted to about $18 to $20 per month. In 1928 no multi-dwelling houses whatsoever were constructed providing for that rental per room, and in 1927 eleven such buildings were constructed where the rental amounted to about $18 to $20; so that in 1927, 1928 and 1929 the total number of buildings constructed of the character enumerated totaled only the trifling number of twelve.

"In 1929 there were only four such dwellings constructed in the Borough of Manhattan where the rental per room was from $20 to $25 per month, and in 1928 there were only thirty-seven dwelling houses constructed in the Borough of Manhattan where the rental per room was from $20 to $25 per month.

Building to Be Razed.

Meanwhile the available supply of moderate rental dwellings in Manhattan is diminishing. During the coming twelve months the city will demolish 365 buildings in connection with the Chrystie and Forsythe Street improvement, and about 75 buildings as a result of the Allen Street widening. About four blocks of dwelling houses have already been demolished to make way for the approach to the 178th Street bridge and, in addition, two entire blocks of multiple dwelling houses will there be demolished during the coming year for this approach. Also, there will be demolished in the neighborhood of 125th Street about two blocks of these houses for the approach to the Triborough Bridge.

"The New York Central Railroad Company will in the very near future demolish over 625 buildings in connection with the New York Central-West Side improvement, of which 219 are being utilized entirely for dwelling purposes. Over on the east side, between Eighty-first and Eighty-third Streets, two square blocks of tenement houses will be demolished by the General Realty and Harriman interests, affecting about 20,000 to 25,000 persons.

"Many other buildings in the neighborhood of First and York Avenues between Sixtieth and Eighty-sixth Streets are to be demolished in the near future. In addition, the Board of Transportation has demolished or will demolish 233 buildings in connection with the Houston, Essex and Rutgers Street Subway."

ARE YOU BECOMING AN INTESTINAL CRIPPLE?

HAVE you drifted into the habit of taking a laxative whenever you feel a bit out of sorts? Thousands of people have become intestinal cripples just that way. At first laxatives may seem harmless — they may be as easy to take as candy — but prolonged use of them causes dangerous habits. Physicians are constantly warning the public against this growing danger.

Be careful with laxatives. Don't risk your health. When you think you really need one, see your doctor.

If you occasionally become sluggish, take Squibb's Liquid Petrolatum. It is effective and it is safe. Not a laxative but a harmless lubricant. Doctors universally approve it for general use in combating constipation. Can't harm the smallest child. It is safe to use even during pregnancy. Does not build fat. Cannot cause a habit.

Get Squibb's Liquid "Pet" at any drug store. Keep a bottle in your medicine cabinet. Squibb's Liquid "Pet" is entirely odorless and tasteless. So be sure to ask for Squibb's.

By MAJOR GUY C. CAMPBELL.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

FORMBY, England, May 14.—Miss Glenna Collett triumphed over the English champion, Miss Molly Gourlay, in the women's British championship today, but only one other American, Miss Helen Hicks, survived in a day of wonderful golf.

After a long, long day of glorious sunshine on the Formby links, the championship resolved itself into a truly international affair. England is represented in the last eight by Miss Enid Wilson, Miss Diana Fishwick and Miss Sylvia Bailey; Scotland by Miss Hilda Cameron and Miss Kathleen MacDonald, and Ulster by Miss Daisy Ferguson.

Tomorrow morning Miss Collett will meet Miss Cameron, Miss Hicks will have to do battle against Miss Wilson, Miss Fishwick will play Miss Ferguson and Miss MacDonald's opponent will be Miss Bailey.

I had hoped to be able to see and describe many matches—all those, at least, in which the American players were engaged—but one match and one alone claimed all my time. That was the match that began at 10:05 this morning and did not finish until 1:20, and then far out on the links. This was the epic encounter between Miss Collett and Miss Gourlay, and as a match it was one of the most thrilling, interesting struggles I have seen in a long and varied experience.

Miss Quier Loses at Eighteenth.

All three invaders in the lower half of the draw were repulsed, though not without putting up a really good fight. Miss Edith Quier fell to Miss Ferguson, a young player from Ulster, on the eighteenth green.

Both played excellently, with Miss Quier holding the advantage until the fifteenth hole, where Miss Ferguson squared the match. The short sixteenth was halved, but Miss Ferguson won the seventeenth and halved the last hole, and that was that.

Miss Van Wie was the next casualty, but this didn't occur until the nineteenth hole, where Miss Kathleen MacDonald from the far north of Scotland got her 4, whereas Miss Van Wie did not. The golf, says my informant, was a little scrappy. Miss MacDonald was 1 up at the turn, but coming home Miss Van Wie turned the tables on her and became dormie 1, only to lose the last hole to a good 4.

Last came Mrs. Stewart Hanley, who was beaten by Dr. Marion Alexander of Strule on the seventeenth green. Of the three other American women who supported Miss Collett, Mrs. Federman won her fourth-round match with ease by 7 and 6 and Miss Maureen Orcutt won very convincingly from Miss Rudgard by 3 and 2, but Miss Helen Hicks had to go to the nineteenth before disposing of Mrs. Percy Garon after being dormie 3.

Afternoon Play Anticlimax.

The morning left Britain still with the services of Miss Wilson, Miss Corlett, Miss Fishwick and Miss Garnham among the more fancied players. The afternoon play came rather as an anticlimax after the terrific battles of the morning. Miss Collett made mincemeat of Miss Brown and Miss Hicks beat Mrs. Federman comfortably by 4 and 3.

Miss Orcutt, however, did not do herself justice against Miss Wilson. She outdrove her, but when that has been said there is no more to say. She missed a short putt on the second green. Miss Wilson holed a long one of thirty feet against her, and after that blow she could never get going.

Miss Collett won because she was able to make just the better use of her opportunities. She played only one hole badly, the fifteenth, and was able to play three match-winning shots at the nineteenth, twentieth and twenty-first holes.

When the strain must have been becoming almost unbearable, Miss Gourlay lost because she also lost her touch on the greens for a time in the middle of the match and because in the tie holes, until the crash came, she was playing wonderful recovery shots. But no one can do that indefinitely. Otherwise there is nothing in it and the next time it might go the other way, as it did at Sunningdale. Here is the story of the match in detail:

Miss Collett Wins First.

On the first hole—410 yards—through a cross-wind blowing from left to right, both hit good drives. Miss Collett played the odd with her spoon, the ball finishing twenty yards from the hole, pin high. To the right, Miss Gourlay replied with an iron shot that was two yards nearer the hole, but a little short and to the left. Miss Collett ran up to within a yard of the hole. Miss Gourlay putted four feet past and just lipped the hole with her fourth, and Miss Collett holed out to win the hole.

At the second—380 yards in the same direction—both again hit good drives and again Miss Collett played the odd with her spoon, Miss Gourlay taking an iron. Both laid their long putts close to the hole, and that was a half in 4.

Miss Gourlay won the long third—504 yards straight ahead—with a fine 4, the result of a perfect approach that pulled up sharply on the little plateau on which the hole was cut, leaving her a five-yard putt. Miss Collett played an equally good pitch and run for her third, but just failed to get her 4.

The fourth—323 yards in the opposite direction—was well halved in 4, Miss Collett being dead in 3 and Miss Gourlay holing out from seven feet. To the short fifth—165 yards against the wind—both pulled their tee shots, Miss Gourlay with a long iron and Miss Collett with her spoon. But, whereas Miss Gourlay was bunkered, Miss Collett's ball was wide and lay on the grass. She chipped up too hard. Miss Gourlay got out and a half in 4 resulted.

Miss Gourlay Goes Ahead.

They were all square and at the sixth—415 yards against the wind—Miss Gourlay got in front for the first time after two good drives. The English girl, playing the odd, carried the guarding line of hills with a long, low brassie shot. Her ball pitched on the downward slope and finished hole high to the right near enough to make a 4 certain. Miss Collett's second was caught in these same hills, from where she failed to get down in 2.

The seventh—475 yards against the wind—was halved in 5, a feature on this hole being the two third shots. Miss Gourlay's was a high approach from the middle of grassy hills, Miss Collett's was a pitch from a difficult downhanging, sandy lie that finished six yards short of the pin, from where she came within an ace of holing her putt for a 4.

At the eighth—352 yards against the wind—her putting touch was rewarded, for after both had hit good drives she played a quite perfect high approach which pitched close to the hole and ran seven feet past. She ran down her putt for a birdie 3, Miss Gourlay meanwhile having laid her long putt within holing distance of a 4. That made it all square once more.

The ninth is a long one-shot hole of 184 yards against the wind. Both were on the green, but some way from the hole. Miss Gourlay took three putts, Miss Collett got down in 2, and that was 1 up in favor of America. The scores were Miss Collett 37, Miss Gourlay 38.

Miss Gourlay Takes Tenth.

The long tenth went to Miss Gourlay, Miss Collett playing a bad pitch and run from just over 100 yards short, and then taking three more to get down.

At the eleventh—395 yards down the wind—it was Miss Gourlay who missed a putt of seven and a half feet in 4. And at the twelfth—405 yards down wind—after having the better of the play to the green, she missed another, this time of six feet, to win in 4. These two misses were to cost her dearly.

To the thirteenth—400 yards and down wind—Miss Gourlay was in trouble all the way. She half-topped her drive into a bunker in the middle of the course, was past the green in 3 and lifted her head when playing her chip back, took a 6 to Miss Collett's 4 and was 2 down with five to play.

It looked as if the odds were on America and still greater odds when Miss Gourlay got a hard half in 4 at the dogleg fourteenth—417 yards—leaving Miss Collett 2 up with four to play.

But then came one of those sudden changes so peculiar to golf which altered the whole complexion of the match. The fifteenth hole is just over 400 yards long. The green lies in a girdle of hills. Miss Gourlay lay behind the hills to the left, Miss Collett well placed in the gap.

Both were short in 3, then Miss Gourlay hit again. Miss Collett was woefully short with her reply, missed the next and was only 1 up with three to play.

Affects American Star.

This seemed to have a definite effect on the American girl, for after Miss Gourlay had played a good tee shot to the green of the short sixteenth—135 yards—Miss Collett pulled into a deep bunker on the left of the green. She just got out with her second, was too strong with her third, missed her fourth and a match that had seemed virtually over was all square with two to play.

In the light of what came afterward, the seventeenth was the decisive hole in the match. To the seventeenth—464 yards down wind—both hit good drives. Then Miss Collett pulled her second wildly, but the ball when bound for some horrid country hit a spectator in the crowd and bounced back to the edge of the fairway.

Miss Gourlay replied with a brassie shot that finished beyond the long grassy bank that flanks the right of the green.

At first it seemed as if Miss Collett had made poor use of this rub-of-the-green, for she pulled her pitch and run into a pot bunker that guards the left entrance to the green.

From there, however, she made a magnificent recovery and then, after Miss Gourlay had played her third two yards past the pin, holed a most gallant putt to save herself from inevitably being 1 down with one to play. Miss Gourlay was thus left with a difficult, curly, downhill putt to win and she just failed.

The eighteenth hole—370 yards down wind—was not without its moment, for Miss Collett's putt of two yards to make sure of a 4 was one of those that often slides out. The scores home were Miss Collett, 43; Miss Gourlay, 42, giving Miss Collett an 80, Miss Gourlay 81.

5,000 in the Gallery.

Out streamed the crowd, by now 5,000 strong—a large gallery for a working day in England—and out these two golfers had to go also. The play to the next two holes was dramatic.

To the nineteenth both hit good drives through the crosswind blowing from left to right, but whereas Miss Collett put a wonderful spoon shot for her second to within eight feet of the pin, Miss Gourlay dubbed her second and was forty yards short of the hole. Then she played one of the most courageous shots I ever have seen—a pitch and run that came up and up to the hole and finished not two feet away.

In the face of such a reply only a Walter Hagen could be expected to hole a 3 for a victory. Miss Collett failed and on they went.

Drama at the 20th Also.

The twentieth, played through the same crosswind, was in result a repetition of the nineteenth, but even more dramatic. Two good drives were followed by two not such good seconds, Miss Gourlay being wide of the bunker to the right of the green, Miss Collett nearly in it.

Miss Gourlay played her third too hard and ran 25 feet past. Miss Collett laid her third by the hole side. And then it did look as if all were over, but not at all. Miss Gourlay went quietly up to the ball and hit it sweetly and truly into the hole for a half.

After that, however, came the anteclimax. Miss Gourlay topped her second to the twenty-first into a cross-bunker, got out, and after hitting her third over the green, fluffed her fourth and was short with her long putt, Miss Collett, meanwhile, lying within ten feet of the hole in 3. Miss Gourlay made the sign of surrender and hurried over with hands outstretched to congratulate a great and deserving opponent.

I may live to follow golf matches in a motor bath chair, but I shall never see a better match than this.

St. Louis Open Golf Dates Changed.

The St. Louis open championship, originally scheduled for July 17, 18 and 19, will be held on July 2, 3 and 4. The event at first conflicted with the dates of the metropolitan open championship and officials of the M. G. A. received word yesterday of the change of dates.

WALKER CUP TEAMS BEGIN PLAY TODAY

JONES IN SECOND EVENT

Paired With Willing Against Hartley and Torrance—Americans Are Favorites to Win.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SANDWICH, England, May 14.—Sixteen amateur golfers, divided into teams representing the United States and Great Britain, will be lined up by their respective captains, Bobby Jones and Roger Wethered, for foursomes play in the Walker Cup matches over the St. George's championship course tomorrow.

The order of play for the singles on Friday was not announced and the list in sealed envelopes—a time-honored custom by which the rival captains inform each other of the line-up—will not be handed to the match secretary before tomorrow evening.

Pairings for the foursomes tomorrow follow:

Robert T. Jones Jr. and Dr. O. F. Willing vs. Rex Hartley and T. A. Torrance.

Roland Mackenzie and Donald K. Moe vs. Sir Ernest Holderness and J. A. Stout.

Harrison R. Johnston and Francis Ouimet vs. William Campbell and John Nelson Smith.

The pairings reveal that at the top of the list Jones has placed Von Elm and Voigt against the strongest pair on the British side.

Neither Side Is Surprised.

Neither side expressed any surprise at the composition of the other's line-up, although some on the British team expected to find the Johnston-Ouimet combination higher up in the list. The only possible weakness in the British side is Rex Hartley, the strongest man among the young players, who has an injured hand which may stiffen tomorrow.

The course, which measures 6,751 yards from the back tees, with a par of 72, has dried out in fine shape after today's sun, although some are prophesying that the higher plateau greens will be like fire after the morning's dew has drawn off tomorrow. Onlookers tonight said that the glossy sheen was much like an over-ironed billiard table cloth, which betokens slipped putts and makes putters nervous.

The Americans visited Canterbury Cathedral this morning and after a long automobile drive practiced golf, which was not too encouraging, in the afternoon. There were several clubs i na bag marked "R. T. Jones Junior" on the faces of which these white patches marking the point of impact were not quite in the centre. There were several shots which were not Bobby Jones's shots at all.

Jones Consistently Outdriven.

The American captain was consistently outdriven by Von Elm in a foursome in which he was partnered with Dr. Willing, and at the fourteenth hole he muffed a spoon shot from a hanging lie in fifteen handicap style. The ball was scuffled into a ditch fifty paces ahead, and Von Elm seemed so surprised at the master's exhibition that he topped his shot as well.

But a worse episode occurred at the next hole, where, playing a chip with a niblick from back of the green, Jones got only one-third of the way to the cup and seemed so disturbed at lifting his head that he replayed the shot half a dozen times before the large gallery until he was satisfied that he had got it right.

Jones and Willing trailed all the way to the last green through the rough and finished one down to Von Elm and Voigt. Most of the British team followed the latter part of this match, and one remarked:

"That's the most encouraging thing we have seen since we've been here."

Americans Chief Attraction.

It has been said that the majority of golfing enthusiasts crowding this ancient cinque ports town have come not to see the Americans play the British in the Walker Cup matches, but to see the Americans play golf. Bobby Jones since he reached the top of his form has never disappointed a British crowd yet but he will have to produce a better exhibition during the next two days than he put out today or some will think they have had a wasted journey.

Captain Wethered said tonight that he was anticipating an enjoyable game and added, "it may break a little closer than some people think." The general estimation tonight is that the odds are in America's favor to retain the cup which Britain has never won.

A British crowd is quick to select its favorites and the quiet, unassuming Von Elm is firmly established as a favorite now. He is the only member of the American team who has been consistent in his putting since practicing here and the way he rolled the ball up to the pin over those treacherous slopes today won him applause. He was getting hold of his iron shots out of cuppy lies and was punching a fine ball from the tee.

Francis Ouimet with that long-shafted putter of his was not too happy on the greens and in a meditative mood made frequent recourse to so large a cigarette case—which more than filled his hip pocket—that one spectator referred to it as a tin trunk.

There is one thing that has not escaped the notice of the British critics. The Americans are living at Ramsgate as a team while the British players are scattered all along the south coast of Kent and it looks as if they will enter tomorrow's matches as individual players.

Hartley came down to the course this morning with the news that he had cut his hand. He had shown what good form he is in by beating Dr. Willing in the play-off for the Saint George's Challenge Cup on Sunday but today the tall, slim youth who bears a striking resemblance to the Prince of Wales, had his left hand bandaged and covered by a stout leather glove. He said he was picking up a glass when it slipped and in "making a grab for it, I drove the stem deeply into the fleshy part of the palm."

"I don't mind that so much," he added, "but I am not accustomed to playing with a glove and I shall be conscious of it."

Practices Despite Injury.

Hartley went out in a five-ball match which included Robert Harris, T. A. Bourn, the new British closed amateur champion, and Raymond Oppenheimer who was in the original Walker Cup sixteen. Hartley's handicap was obvious at the first hole and after a bad approach shot with a mashie he removed the bandage from beneath the glove. He shook his hand as if in pain after he had muffed an iron shot to the ninth and it then looked as if one of Britain's stars was on the wane.

Harris, who knows every fold on every green at St. George's, was showing the youngsters how to putt today and seldom was his second putt more than a tap into the cup. His selection of line was uncanny.

No wonder the Americans have said St. George's course knows no law of gravity for there are several greens which appear to a newcomer to slope from left to right and only after the ball is struck does the player realize he has "borrowed" from the wrong side.

Tolley Gets Par on First Three.

Roger Wethered and Tolley took out a couple of Scotsmen—J. A. Lang and William Campbell. Tolley was the only man to get a par on the first three holes, but bungled the fourth by topping his drive and afterwards lapsing into the mediocrity of his three companions.

The most noticeable thing about Tolley's game is his improvement in approaching from short distances since his recent American tour, and this may be said to be true of Wethered too. These two are not to be beaten Friday without a grim struggle. Not one in this group used a steel-shafted club from the tee.

The teams will be sent off tomorrow by Tom Mills, veteran starter of St. George's, who claims to have walked so many times around the course that he has covered a distance equivalent to twice around the world. Sandwich weather is described locally as "foxy," but the barometer seems set at fair tonight.

Miss Collett's Team to Meet French Women Stars May 27

PARIS, May 14 (AP).—A Franco-American golf event, with the American women's team now campaigning under the leadership of Miss Glenna Collett meeting eight French women players captained by Mlle. Simone Thion de la Chaume, has been arranged for May 27. The matches will take place either at Chantilly, where Mlle. de la Chaume won the French national championship May 5, or at La Boulie.

Besides Mlle. de la Chaume the French team will be composed of Mme. Roger de Vilmorin, Mme. R. Thion de la Chaume, who as Mlle. Nanette La Blan defeated her sister-in-law to remain in the running for the French title in 1928; Mme. P. Munier, Mme. A. M. Vagliano and Mlle. D. Esmond. The two other players to complete the team of eight will be selected later.

DARWIN FEARS AMERICANS.

But Insists British Team Has Good Chance to Win.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 14.—Writing in the London Times today, Bernard Darwin says that typical English weather would be the American golfers' worst enemy in the Walker Cup matches at Sandwich.

"I only wish the wind was colder, much colder with a little sleet thrown in," Darwin remarks, "but unhappily for the British prospects, the weather forecast is fair to mild tomorrow.

"The Americans have not had a long time in which to grow acclimated and how much they feel the cold was shown by one or two of them wearing mittens even on as balmy a day as today, when the British golfers were stripping off waistcoats and mopping brows.

"I think, however, they have now run into form. I went out this afternoon to watch the foursome between Jones and Willing and Von Elm and Voigt. The play was almost monotonously accurate. Voigt looks a demoniacally good putter and hits the ball a beautiful, free blow with his aluminum putter which has a square handle with no leather on it."

Speaking as an Englishman, Darwin admits he came away "not in the wildest of spirits," but insists that the British team has quite a good chance "and all sorts of wonderful, beautiful things might happen."

Darwin thinks Captain Wethered has chosen his men wisely. "Undoubtedly, this is a good British team and if it plays as it should—and I see no signs of any inferiority complex—it will take a good deal of beating before it yields."

WRIGHT'S 75 LEADS IN GOLF AT LEEWOOD

DOWNPOUR MARS THE PLAY

By LINCOLN A. WERDEN.

Special to The New York Times.

CRESTWOOD, N. Y., May 14.—Elmer Wright, Leewood's 16 year old club champion, added to the honors he has gained over his home course by leading the seventy-eight competitors and winning the low gross award today in the first of the Westchester County Golf Association's one day tourneys.

Young Wright, playing before the downpour of the late afternoon drenched most of the entrants, turned in a 75, one of the best rounds he has ever had at Leewood and was four strokes in the van of Leo Kaufmann of Gedney Farm, who was in the last twosome to finish.

Although Kaufmann's score brought him no prize, it did bring considerable satisfaction, for he battled through the rain, from the first tee to the home green, to get it. He went out in 38 but finally gave away shots to the elements on the closing half when he was forced to a 41.

MacNeish Turns in a 90.

H. F. MacNeish, tournament chairman of the home club, who made two holes in one during a week last year, played in the worst of the rain and finished with a 9 at the eighteenth for a 90, his ten handicap placing him out of the prize winners.

J. N. Helmke Jr. of Leewood captured the low net trophy with a score of 84—16—68, while his club-mate, S. G. Cowan, took the second prize with 93—25—68, the first award going to Helmke because of his lower handicap. A special prize arranged for Leewood members in the tournament was awarded to T. M. Kellogg who had a 90—16—74.

Wright Plays Like Veteran.

Young Wright, one of the best of the Westchester juniors, scored without the aid of a single birdie, and although his best round for the course is a 74, he played today with the regularity of a veteran, being over par on only four holes, two on the first nine, and just two more on the second.

KAESCHE'S 77 WINS LOW GROSS HONORS

Leads Field of 89 in Met. One-Day Tourney on Essex County Country Club's Links.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., May 14.—Max Kaesche, former Princeton golfer who has been club champion several times at the Ridgewood and Elmwood courses and was medalist in the New Jersey State amateur championship at Deal in 1926, returned the low gross score in the Metropolitan Golf Association's one-day tournament at the Essex County Country Club today.

Kaesche had a card of 42—35—77 against par of 36—35—71 for the difficult east course. R. H. Lansdell of Hackensack, with a total of 78, was the only other player under 80.

Despite threatening skies this morning and a steady rain in the afternoon, a field of eighty-nine competed. Kaesche finished his round before the rain started and the adverse conditions proved too much for the later starters, among whom were many low handicap players.

A gross score of 83, and a handicap of 16, for a net of 67, gave first prize to Frank Kilgallen of the Tibbetts Brook Golf Club, a Van Cortlandt Park organization.

The second net prize went to William Inhoffer of the Branch Brook Club of Newark. He had 93—24—69. Four players tied at 72 for third net. They were J. J. Loftus of Hillcrest, T. J. Corkrey of Branch Brook, Kaesche and Lansdell.

Matsuyama Defeats McGill.

Kinroy Matsuyama defeated Edward McGill, 200 to 11, in an 18.2 balkline billiard match at Lawler Brothers' Brooklyn Academy last night. The match lasted seven innings with Matsuyama having a high run of 129 and McGill one of 9.

MISS MADDOX GAINS IN GREENSBORO GOLF

Defending Champion Eliminates Miss Waring in 2d Round at 20th Hole.

GREENSBORO, N. C., May 14 (AP).—Mrs. Leon Solomon, Memphis (Tenn.) star, won her way to the quarter-final round of the women's Southern golf tournament today, defeating Mrs. W. D. Irwin of Greensboro, 3 and 2, in a second-round match.

Miss Margaret Maddox of Atlanta, defending champion, eliminated Miss Helen Waring, Pinehurst player, on the twentieth hole. Mrs. Dave Gaut, Memphis, defeated Miss Clara Woolridge, Little Rock, the Arkansas State champion, 3 and 1. Mrs. Carl Leibold, Birmingham, bowed to Mrs. Harry Dodge, Jacksonville, 3 and 2.

Mrs. W. L. Pierce, Charlotte, defeated Mrs. A. Taylor, Atlanta, 7 and 5. Mrs. Kinnon Rodwell, Savannah, also came through the second round, defeating Miss Dean Van Landingham, Charlotte, 3 and 2. Mrs. E. C. Hollins, New Orleans, proved no match for Miss Anne Kennedy, Tulsa, Okla., and disposed of her, 6 and 5.

The medalist, Mrs. Marion Turpie Lake, New Orleans, advanced to the quarter-finals by beating Mrs. W. H. Willard, Charlotte, 4 and 3.

SHIMON REGAINS CUE TITLE.

MILWAUKEE, May 14 (AP).—Max Shimon, Milwaukee, tonight regained the national amateur three-cushion billiard championship by defeating Joseph Hall, San Francisco, former titleholder, by a score of 150 to 146 in 236 innings.

Brooks Pocket Billiard Victor.

Charles Brooks defeated Jou Jennes in the second part of the play-off for the third place in the Greater New York Billiard Room Association amateur pocket billiards tournament at the Bay Ridge Recreation Academy in Brooklyn last night. The score was 75 to 68.

England, Austria in Soccer Tie.

VIENNA, May 14 (AP).—England and Austria played a draw in an International Association football match today. Neither side scored.

ENGLISH PAIR BEATS H. SMITH AND DIEGEL

Compston and Mitchell Triumph in 36-Hole International Match, 9 and 8.

GAIN LEAD IN FIRST ROUND

Americans 7 Down After Failing to Win a Hole During Morning Eighteen.

NORTH MANCHESTER, England, May 14 (AP).—Archie Compston and Abe Mitchell defeated Leo Diegel and Horton Smith today in an international professional golf match at 36 holes, nine up and eight to play.

The British combination of Compston and Mitchell finished the morning round seven up, without losing a hole. They had a best ball of 68, against 75 for their American rivals.

Diegel and Smith got back two holes at the start of the afternoon round, only to have the English pair win the twenty-first, twenty-third, twenty-fourth and twenty-sixth and halve the others to end the match on the twenty-eighth green.

Compston's play was the best of the four. His 73 for the first eighteen was the best individual round of the day. Neither of the Americans was in his usual form and Smith had bad luck with his putts, which frequently lipped the cup.

PODSEN BILLIARD VICTOR.

Defeats Busch, 25-24, at 3-Cushions—Wendrow Beats Ryan.

Edward Podsen and Sidney Wendrow were victors in matches played last night in the eighth annual Captain Ennis memorial three-cushion billiard tourney at Lawler Brothers' Brooklyn Academy. Podsen turned back Irving Busch, 25 to 24, each recording high runs of 4, while in the other match Wendrow defeated Frank Ryan, 25 to 14. Wendrow had a cluster of 3, one more than Ryan's.

Canadian and U. S. Teams to Meet in Davis Cup Play at Bala Today

U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAM STARTS PLAY TODAY

LOTT TO MEET RAINVILLE

Will Take Part in Other Singles Competition—Doubles Listed for Tomorrow—U. S. Favorite.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—The opening gun in the third American campaign for the reclamation of the Davis Cup will be fired by John Van Ryn tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, when the East Orange (N. J.) youth meets Dr. Jack Wright of Canada in the first round tie between the United States and the Dominion at the Philadelphia Country Club at Bala.

The responsibility of starting their respective countries off on the right foot fell to these two players by lot at noon today, when the draw was made at the Penn A. C. in the presence of Garnett H. Meldrum, president of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association; Chairman Joseph W. Wear of the American Davis Cup committee, Captain Fitz-Eugene Dixon and a host of other officials and players.

Following upon the match between Van Ryn and Wright, G. Martin Lott 2d of Chicago and Marcel Rainville of Montreal, the other two singles nominees, will play and complete the day's program.

Final Matches on Saturday.

On Friday Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas, will face Wright and Willard Crocker in the doubles, and on Saturday, when the final two singles will be held, Lott is scheduled to play Wright and Van Ryn to meet Rainville.

In the event that a decision in the tie should be reached with Friday's match, there is a strong likelihood that John Hope Doeg of Santa Monica, Cal., the new member of the 1930 American team, will be substituted on Saturday for either Lott or Van Ryn.

The fact that the strapping Californian, the youngest member of the team, failed to be designated in the singles does not mean that his rôle is necessarily to be restricted to that of an alternate in the future should the United States eliminate Canada.

Van Ryn's play has been particularly impressive since he started out in the Mason-Dixon championship at White Sulphur Springs some three weeks ago, and, in view of the fact that Wright defeated Doeg in the Canadian championship last Summer, Chairman Wear and Captain Dixon deemed it advisable to use the former Princeton captain.

Draw Favors Canada.

On the eve of the inauguration of play in the American zone the United States stands as a pronounced favorite. The luck of the draw favored Canada, since Wright, her ablest player, meets the home team's No. 2 man, but, regardless of that fact, few concede the wearers of the Maple Leaf even an outside chance.

The Americans have benefited by far more match-play practice than have their rivals, only one of whom, Rainville, competed in the Southern tournaments, and should be better prepared to put their best foot forward. Last year's tie between the two countries resulted in a 5—0 victory for the United States at Montreal, and the prevailing opinion is that the play here will result in another clean sweep, though considerable respect is entertained for Wright's ability.

The Canadian champion, who returned only a short time ago from a big-game hunting expedition to Africa, is qualified, when at his best, to extend any member of the American team. Whether he has had sufficient practice to bring his game to its peak remains to be seen.

Rainville, who won the second singles berth on his team in competition with Crocker and Gilbert Nunns, has been giving an excellent account of himself in the practice matches and took a set from Lott at Pinehurst last month. But in spite of the decided improvement in his play it is to be questioned whether his game has the necessary vitality and force to prevail in either of his engagements.

Lott Impressive in Practice.

Lott has been showing to much better advantage in practice than he did in the South and in this form he is not likely to be beaten, while Van Ryn has been hardly less impressive.

In the doubles Canada appears to have less of a chance than she does in the singles, for Van Ryn and Allison have hit the invincible stride that ran roughshod over the best teams of Europe last Summer. So, if any match is to be salvaged by the Dominion players, the opening one between Wright and Van Ryn looks to offer the most encouragement.

A large turnout that should fill the stands at the Philadelphia Country Club to capacity is looked for tomorrow when this city will stage its first Davis Cup match since the French lifted the trophy at the Germantown Cricket Club in 1927.

An all-day rain kept the players of both teams indoors today, but the forecast for tomorrow is clear skies.

FRENCH NET STAR HURT.

Boussus Suffers Torn Ligament in Leg—Future in Doubt.

PARIS, May 14 (AP).—Christian Boussus, France's most promising young tennis player, is laid up with a torn ligament in his left leg and may be out of tennis all Summer. He is ranked No. 5, immediately behind the "four musketeers," Henri Cochet, Rene Lacoste, Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon.

Boussus's severe injury, coming on top of the announcement of Lacoste's retirement; the poor form displayed by Cochet and Borotra; the fast-aging of Brugnon, never a top-notcher in the singles, although probably one of the best doubles players in the world, has rendered French tennis fans somewhat anxious as to the fate of the Davis Cup this Summer.

HARRIS GAINS AT TENNIS.

Reaches Final Round in Private Schools Title Tournament.

Two semi-final round matches were played yesterday in the Private Schools tennis championship tournament on the West Side Tennis Courts. George Harris of the Horace Mann School reached the final in the singles tourney, when he turned back Maynard of the Barnard School in straight sets, 6—3, 6—0.

Cockrell and Herbst of the Barnard School gained the final in the doubles by conquering Hubbel and Armstrong of the Flatbush School, 6—1, 6—2.

Tilden Triumphs in Singles Over Two German Net Stars

COLOGNE, Germany, May 14 (AP).—Bill Tilden defeated two of Germany's foremost tennis players today and won a third victory in mixed doubles.

The American champion beat Otto Froitzheim, No. 2 in the German ranking, 6—1, 6—2, 6—3, and repeated his victory of yesterday over F. Frenz in a two-set match, 6—2, 6—4.

Tilden and Miss Cecille Aussem of Germany won from Miss H. Krahwinkel and F. Kuhlmann, 6—1, 6—4.

U. S. TENNIS PLAYERS HEAD FRENCH DRAW

Mrs. Moody-Miss Ryan Seeded in Top Half of Doubles for Hard Court Title Play.

PARIS, May 14 (AP).—With formidable American teams in all three divisions, the draw was announced today for the French hard-court tennis doubles championships, which begin on Monday. The singles draw will not be made until next week, as the organizers are still awaiting belated entries.

In the women's doubles the California combination of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Miss Elizabeth Ryan was seeded in the top half of th draw. A third Californian, Miss Helen Jacobs, is paired with Miss Jeanne Sicard of Belgium.

Another strong team consists of Miss Ella de Alvarez of Spain and Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall of England. Miss Joan Fry and Miss Ermyntrude Harvey form a dangerous British entry.

In the men's doubles Bill Tilden and Wilbur F. Coen Jr. will encounter stern opposition from such teams as Jacques Brugnon and Henri Cochet, France; Jean Borotra and René de Buzelet, France; J. Colin Gregory and Ian G. Collins, Great Britain; Jack Crawford and E. F. Moon, Australia, and Tackeichi Harada and Tamio Abe, Japan.

Miss Jacobs and Coen are to join forces in mixed doubles. Tilden's partner will be Miss Cecille Aussem, German star, while Miss Ryan is paired with Borotra. Mrs. Moody will confine her efforts to women's doubles and the defense of her singles title.

HEGNER IS WINNER IN PRINCETON FENCING

Takes First in Foils, Gains 3-Weapon Championship and Is Second in Epee.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 14.—Casper F. Hegner of Denver, Col., won the Princeton University fencing tournament which was brought to a close today with completion of the épée division. Hegner captured a first in the foils and three-weapon championship and second in the épée division.

The tournament was open to all members of the university, with a separate division for freshmen. The winners and runners-up in the tournament received gold medals and in the freshman division bronze medals were awarded for the first two places.

The following received medals:

Sabres—Furst and Blossom. Foils—Hegner and Waters. Epée—Lobenstein and Hegner. Three-weapon championship—Hegner and Neary.

In the freshman division Pecora was the leader with two firsts in the foils and sabres. Medals were awarded as follows:

Foils—Pecora and Tutt. Sabres—Pecora and Nichols. Epée—Martin and Forbes.

O'CONNOR IS ELECTED BY AMATEUR FENCERS

Chosen to Succeed Breckinridge Who Declines Presidency, but Is Named on Board.

The fortieth annual election of officers of the Amateur Fencers League of America was held last night at the Fencers Club in this city. F. Barnard O'Connor was elected president, succeeding Henry Breckinridge, who declined the nomination. Instead, Mr. Breckinridge was elected to the board of governors.

Dr. Graeme M. Hammond was named honorary president and John Allaire, honorary vice president. Lieutenant George C. Calnan, U. S. N., was elected vice president, and Leon M. Schoonmaker, secretary-treasurer.

In addition to Mr. Breckinridge, seven others were named for the board of governors. They were Hudson Budd, Arthur S. Lyon, Pieter Mijer, Leo Nunes, Curtis C. Shears, Harold Van Buskirk and Percy Wiesenaur.

An amendment to the constitution to permit the board of governors to name three more vice presidents, not residents of New York, was proposed, but action will be taken on this matter next year.

GOLFER SCORES AN 88 IN 50-MINUTE ROUND

Lathrope, Princeton Junior, Runs From Shot to Shot and Uses Two Caddies.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 14.—Palmer J. Lathrope of New York City, a junior at Princeton University, played eighteen holes of golf in fifty minutes with a score of 88 yesterday. His classmates had contended that he could not negotiate the course in less than an hour and under 100.

The Springdale golf course, over which he played, has a yardage of 6,186. Lathrope ran the distance from shot to shot and used two caddies. One went ahead to locate the ball and the other carried the bag and teed up the ball while Lathrope was putting.

The Tiger golfer played the first sixteen holes in forty-five minutes and then sprinted for the finish to the last two in five minutes for his total of 88, one of the best scores he ever has turned in. It was the third time that he had broken 90 over the course.

Coach Stevens Names Greene as Only New Assistant—Noble to Retire.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 14.—Yale will make only nominal changes in its football coaching staff next Fall, according to the announcement of the personnel of the resident staff, made tonight by Dr. Marvin A. (Mal) Stevens, who will next year complete his third season as head coach.

Dr. Stevens will have six assistants who, with the exception of Captain Waldo W. (Firpo) Greene of the 1929 eleven, will be the same as last Fall.

Lawrence M. Noble, a member of last year's staff, has announced his retirement from football and hockey coaching because of plans to begin law practice in New York City next Fall. He will be graduated from the Yale Law School next month.

According to Dr. Stevens, the staff will be made up as follows: Head Coach, Dr. Stevens; assistants, Adam Walsh, Charles A. Comerford, William A. Webster, Ray W. Pond, W. W. Greene and Century A. Milstead.

Dr. Stevens, Comerford and Walsh will be in charge of the varsity, while Webster, Pond, Greene and Milstead will direct the development of the substitute players.

The Yale football candidates will report Sept. 15. The schedule for next Fall calls for nine games, one more than has been the case since 1922. The first game will be against the University of Maine on Sept. 27.

HARVARD GOLFERS WIN FROM BOSTON COLLEGE

Stover Equals Par of 70 to Beat Tobin, 9 and 8, as Team Triumphs, 9-0.

BOWLING IS FEATURE OF CRICKET MATCHES

LONDON, May 14 (Canadian Press).—The ball beat the bat in English cricket matches today and runs were hard to get. Even the Australian batsmen found their match in the Lancashire trundlers and after dismissing the county for 176 had lost five wickets for only 63, an indication of what may happen in the tests if the wicket favors the bowlers as it did today.

Some fine bowling feats were:

R. Perks, four wickets for 15 runs for Worcestershire against Middlesex, and C. F. Rott, five wickets for 30 runs.

Wilfrid Rhodes, seven wickets for 37 runs for Yorkshire against Cambridge University.

I. A. R. Peebles, six wickets for 37 runs for Oxford University against Leicestershire.

Clarence Grimmett, six wickets for 57 runs for Australia versus Lancashire.

A. G. Slater, five wickets for 45 runs for Derbyshire against Sussex.

M. J. C. Allom, four wickets for 85 runs for Kent against Somerset.

Scores when stumps were drawn follow:

Lancashire, 176 (Eckersley, 54); Australians, 63 for five wickets.

SIX CLUBS TO COMPETE IN MET. CRICKET LEAGUE

MANHASSET BAY Y. C. LISTS EIGHT REGATTAS

Three Are Long Island Sound Association Events—Spring Races Set for June 17.

Five regattas, in addition to its allotment of three in the Yacht Racing Association of Long Island Sound program, have been scheduled by the Manhasset Bay Yacht Club, it was announced yesterday by Howard L. Curry, chairman of the race committee.

The association dates are June 17, Spring regatta; Sept. 13 and Sept. 27. This left a long gap in which to inject special events. The first will take place on June 22, and then there will be a race for Class M and O boats, the forties, thirties and eight meters, with a prize for the best corrected time, as well as awards in the separate classes. On June 29, the star boats will have an inning.

Victory and Interclub craft will compete for the Carlicle Cup on July 13, and the Atlantic Coast boats will have a race. On July 27 and Aug. 10 the star craft will get together again.

The Victories, Interclubs and Atlantic Coast classes will meet on Aug. 17 in a corrected time affair, also with separate prizes.

Junior skippers also have been recognized at Manhasset, with an enrolment of more than fifty youths up to 18 years of age. They will have races in a one-design class, with a sailing instructor, and a houseboat will be provided for headquarters for them.

56 Schools Enter Meet at Penn.

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—Fifty-six high and preparatory schools from six States, the District of Columbia and Canada will compete in the twenty-eighth annual University of Pennsylvania interscholastic track and field championships Saturday afternoon at Franklin Field.

731 STARS ENTERED FOR HARVARD MEET

Athletes of 34 Colleges Will Take Part in I. C. 4-A Track Championships.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 14.—Thirty-four colleges have entered a total of 731 athletes for the fifty-fourth annual track and field championships of the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. meet, which will be held in the Harvard Stadium May 30 and 31.

After an eleven-year absence the University of Michigan once again will be represented, sending eleven men for the meet, headed by Eddie Tolan, star sprinter. In its last appearance at the I. C. 4-A meet Michigan finished third to Cornell and Penn with a total of 25½ points.

The track and field teams of Pittsburgh and Army will be absent, as the former has a dual meet scheduled with West Point.

The total entries by colleges:

HEAVY MAST LIFTED FROM ENTERPRISE

New Stick, 500 Pounds Lighter, to Be Stepped in America's Cup Yacht Today.

RESOLUTE'S CANVAS RECUT

Vanitie Also Moored at City Island as Storm Sweeps Sound—Races Tomorrow and Saturday.

By JAMES ROBBINS.

While a cold easterly storm swept Long Island Sound yesterday, the new America's Cup yacht Enterprise and the two old ones, Resolute and Vanitie, lay at City Island, forlorn-looking creatures instead of beautiful ones. Resolute and Vanitie tugged at moorings and Enterprise lay at a pier of the Robert Jacob shipyard there and was stripped of her rigging. This was for the purpose of changing her mast to a lighter wooden one.

The 168-foot spar she had in her was unstepped in the morning. Soon she appeared a wreck on deck. She was littered with tackle and gear, and carpenters changed the position of some of her cleats. As they removed each one, they plugged the bolt holes in the pine deck. Then they planed off the surface, and there were shavings everywhere.

Smaller Strips in New Mast.

The mast taken out of Enterprise weighed 4,900 pounds without its fittings and 6,100 with them. The lighter one, which will be stepped early this morning, is the same height and the same diameter at 27 inches above deck, its thickest point.

It will weigh 5,600 pounds with the fittings, or 500 pounds less than the heavier one. Smaller strips of spruce were used in its construction.

It is figured that the lighter mast of Enterprise will make the racer less tender to the wind. She heeled considerably when the breeze reached twenty miles an hour in her race with Resolute. Then there will be a great saving in weight aloft if the lighter stick stands up. She still has a mast to try that was made of duralumin, which is used in the construction of dirigibles.

Enterprise can be weighted down much further in the water if thought advisable. She never has been brought down to her sailing length. W. Starling Burgess, her designer, has thought best to try her out as she is before adding any more ballast.

Lively in Light Breeze.

In her light condition she is extremely lively, as was demonstrated in the light breeze in which she raced Vanitie. With each added breath of air she stepped out with a pick-up that would have made an automobile designer envious.

Resolute had her wider spreaders placed on her mast yesterday, and her mainsail was in George Ratsey's hands being recut.

An endeavor will be made to get Enterprise fully rigged again by tonight, when Resolute's sail will be ready, and it is planned to take the two boats out for races tomorrow and on Saturday.

It is possible that Vanitie may join them in those contests. Vanitie is waiting for Weetamoe to be commissioned at the Herreshoff yard in Bristol, R. I., but nothing had been heard yesterday as to when the latter would be ready. It had been hoped to get her under sail out in Narragansett Bay today for a rig testing.

Twelve months ago we started to plan it. A 1930 MURIEL. A better MURIEL than we've ever made or you've ever smoked. But a MURIEL that could sell for a 10c piece.

It took an entire new factory equipment to do it...with the latest and finest machines. Machines as precise as a skilled artisan's hands...but 500 times as fast. It took the largest leaf contracts that MURIEL has ever placed to do it...to secure the first-pick of the world's finest crops at bed-rock price.

The result? Pure savings. Part of them we've put right back into even finer tobaccos. Part we've added in the individual Cellophane wrappers...they keep your cigars fresh many times as long as foil. And the balance is handed right back to you...with your change at the cigar store...in the form of a 20% price cut. Ask for the 1930 MURIEL...perfecto size...Cellophane wrapped...10c.

HARVARD NINE WINS; 25 PASSES IN GAME

B. Ticknor, Going Route, Issues 14 Bases on Balls, but Mates Stop Bates, 14-9.

YIELDS ONLY 4 SINGLES

Crimson Batters Three Rival Hurlers for 15 Hits—McGrath Out at Plate Stretching Triple.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 14.—Ben Ticknor, starting his first game as a pitcher for Harvard's varsity baseball team, staggered through nine innings as the Crimson won a seesaw and long-drawn-out game, 14 to 9, from Bates on Soldiers Field today.

Ticknor issued fourteen bases on balls, but yielded only four singles, which were scattered over as many inings. He fanned five batsmen, and, on most occasions, when he wasn't generous with his tickets to first, he was puzzling to Bates.

In the opening inning, Bates sent ten men to bat, receiving only one hit and scored a half dozen runs. Ticknor passed five men and this combined with an error and a line single gave the Maine team six runs. It was the only inning in which Ticknor was in serious trouble.

Harvard had to fight an uphill battle. The Crimson corralled fifteen hits off a trio of hurlers from Maine, while eleven passes they received also aided them. Captain Frank Nugent led the hitting with three singles while Ticknor scored three runs. Ed McGrath hit a triple with two on base and attempted to stretch it into a homer, but was out at the plate.

Miss Hovey's Oriole Launched; 30-Meter to Be Raced Abroad

BOSTON, May 14 (AP).—Miss Elizabeth Hovey's new boat, the Oriole, which she will race against Germany and Sweden abroad this Summer, had her initial taste of salt water today at the local shipyard in which she was built. Miss Hovey, America's first girl skipper to engage in international competition, won one of the series of races with Germany last Summer at Marblehead.

The new Oriole, of the 30-meter class, is built on extremely long and narrow lines, with considerable overhang fore and aft. Miss Hovey, a resident of Newton, now is abroad and will remain there until she makes her bid for recovery of the President Hoover trophy, which Germany's yachtsmen took to Europe last year.

WESLEYAN BEATEN BY AMHERST NINE

Loses in Little Three Contest by 9 to 3—Grosskloss Hits Two Homers.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., May 14.—Amherst won a Little Three contest from Wesleyan today, 9 to 3. Nichols pitched well for the visitors and had an easy assignment. Sweet was strong until the ninth, when the Wesleyan infield went to pieces and four runs resulted.

Grosskloss had a great day at bat, knocking out two homers. Coons and Dee each got a three-bagger.

NAVY NINE SWAMPS WILLIAM AND MARY

Schultz Holds Losers to 4 Singles, While Mates Hit Hard to Triumph, 14-0.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 14.—The Naval Academy baseball team defeated William and Mary today, 14 to 0.

Hard hitting, helped by errors on the part of the visitors, enabled the Navy to pile up its large total, while Schultz was holding the Virginians to four singles.

LAFAYETTE NINE DEFEATS THE ARMY

CUSTER'S PLAY A FEATURE

Victors' Shortstop Drives in 4 Runs—Losers Score All Their Tallies in Fourth.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., May 14.—Lafayette, consistently a winner over Army at baseball, defeated the cadets, 11 to 3, today. The last five innings of the game were played in a driving rain.

Coughlin, a southpaw, was hit hard by Lafayette. Ballantine, also a left-hander, let the cadets down with four singles, two of these coming in the fourth inning when Army did all its scoring. After that inning Ballantine was invincible.

Custer's hitting was opportune, the Lafayette shortstop driving in four of his team's runs. Two Army errors, Munday's sacrifice and Custer's single to right gave Lafayette two runs in the second inning. Three more came in the fourth on three hits, one of them a triple by Munday, Reaser's sacrifice and errors.

ERRORS HELP BROWN WIN.

Lowell Textile Outhits Victors, but Loses by 7 to 3.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 14.—Although Brown made only five hits off Allard, two of which went out of the infield, against thirteen, including four doubles, two triples and a home run, off Bowie, the Bruins scored a 7-to-3 victory over Lowell Textile today.

Erratic throwing to bases gave Brown 5 of its 7 runs, while Lowell runners were stranded or cut down trying to stretch their hits.

Sutton's Mountain Lad, 20-1, Captures Chester Cup Race

LONDON, May 14 (AP).—Mountain Lad, owned by Chester H. Sutton, won the Chester Cup race at Hurst Park today. Mountain Lad is by Alan Breck—Maid of the Mountains.

W. M. Singer's Paul Caret was second and Baron Baeyen's Dark Hillock third. Eighteen ran.

Mountain Lad won by half a length and there was three-quarters of a length between second and third. The betting against each, respectively, was 20 to 1, 13 to 2 and 100 to 8. The distance was two and a quarter miles.

The stakes were £2,550 (about $12,750) and extras, and in addition the owners of the first three horses received, according to traditional usage, a champion Cheshire cheese valued at £5 (about $25).

HARVARD VARSITY ROWS SIX MILES

Hovey Shows Up Nicely at the 4 Seat as Eight Paddles Over Rough Course.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 14.—Charles Hovey is fitting in nicely at the 4 seat of the Harvard varsity crew which John W. Hallowell was forced to vacate due to an attack of the grip.

In today's six-mile workout for the varsity crew on the Charles River, which was rather rough, the boat went through the choppy waves at an amazingly smooth clip. It was Hovey's third day in the varsity shell and he has acclimated himself very nicely.

Coach Burt Haines of the freshman eight worked his charges hard this afternoon. He sent them upstream for about four miles and they rowed about four miles down the river. The workout finished with some racing starts.

WILLIAMS WINS ON HOMER.

YALE EIGHTS END DRILL FOR REGATTA

Varsity and Jayvees Remain Unchanged for Carnegie Cup Race Saturday.

SHIFTS IN YEARLING SHELL

Urquhart Returns to Bow Position and Burke Comes Back to Old Place at Five.

Special to The New York Times.

DERBY, Conn., May 14.—Fred Spuhn, Yale freshman crew coach, has again shifted the positions in the 1933 shell which will compete against Princeton and Cornell on Lake Carnegie on Saturday. Walcott has left the shell and Jimmy Urquhart, who occupied the seat until last week, has returned. Johnny Burke, who went to the second boat last week in a shake-up involving three oarsmen, returned to his former seat at 5.

Today's rowing closed practice on the Housatonic in preparation for the triangular regatta at Princeton. Coach Leader has made no changes this week in either the first or second varsity shells.

The first boat will row exactly as against Columbia and Pennsylvania two weeks ago, but last week three shifts were made in the second.

YALE SETS FOOTBALL HOUR.

Will Continue to Start Major Games at 2 o'Clock.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 14.—Yale athletic officials announced tonight that there will be no change in the hour for starting the major football games this Fall. They will continue to get under way at 2 o'clock.

A shift to a 1:30 P. M. starting time was urged by several alumni in The Yale Alumni Weekly recently, but the officials stated that the matter has been fully investigated, was taken into account when the hour was originally established and that any change has been proved impracticable.

TWO CHANGES MADE IN PRINCETON SHELL

FIRST EIGHT BEATS JAYVEE

Wins by Length and a Half in Race Over Henley Course—Drill Held in Driving Rain.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 14.—Hal Hawkey, stroke on the Tiger jayvee crew, replaced Johnny Clingerman at stroke in the varsity boat today as Coach Chuck Logg sent the Princeton crews through a drill on Lake Carnegie in the driving rain. Hal Jones was at his seat at bow in the first shell, following a two days' assignment with the jayvees.

The varsity rowed in the new Henry B. Thompson shell today, covering the trip to the dam with no outstanding occurrences. The Nassau oarsmen kept a steady stroke practically all the way, with no particular emphasis placed on any phase by Coach Logg. The Tiger mentor appears to be content in keeping the Nassau sweepswingers in good condition for Saturday's race.

On the return trip to the boat house, the varsity defeated the jayvees by a length and a half in a race over the Henley course. The Nassau first boat kept the stroke between 33 and 34, until near the finish, when a short sprint was staged to enable the varsity to forge ahead.

This Golf Suit realizes that you have to work some of the time

THE SPALDING GOLF SUIT is the most authentic Golf suit made. It's full of comfort and ease-in-action that only Spalding can give to athletic clothing.

But it realizes that you can't spend your entire life at play or at taking it easy. So it's styled carefully . . in unquestioned good taste . . so correctly that you can wear it to the office without broadcasting the fact that the foursome is meeting that afternoon.

Hand-tailored of the finest fabrics Scotland produces. Fitted with finicky care. And marked at a price you'll agree is surprisingly low.

Others $50 and $75

What's that!

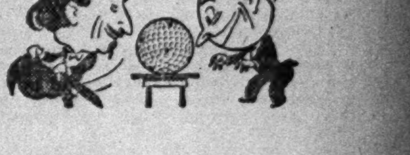
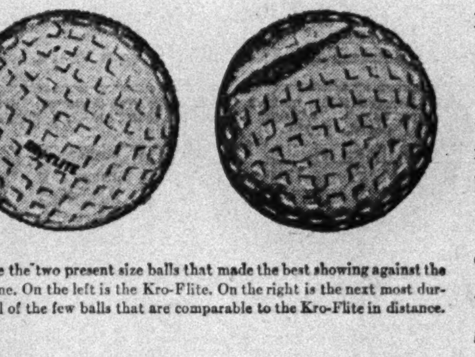
Then let us introduce you to the Kro-Flite!





Here are the two present size balls that made the best showing against the Guillotine. On the left is the Kro-Flite. On the right is the next most durable ball of the few balls that are comparable to the Kro-Flite in distance.

KRO-FLITE is the toughest golf ball in the world. If you can cut it, you're one of those supermen who can bend iron pipes, tear up telephone books, and bite holes in silver dollars. If you can cut it, you can do something that not even the Guillotine has ever done.

This Guillotine is a heavily weighted steel knife that drops on a golf ball, hitting it exactly as a clubhead does on a viciously-topped iron shot—only harder! It is the most ruthless test ever given to a golf ball.

Time after time, these Guillotine tests have been made with every good ball in the world. And in every single instance, the Kro-Flite has carried off first honors . . . the Kro-Flite alone has come through unscathed.

Most of the other balls were total losses. All the others were cut so badly they were utterly unplayable. Yet the Kro-Flite never showed more than a barely visible dent. Any Kro-Flite that ever went to the Guillotine came from under that blade sound and perfectly able to play through an abnormally long life of golf.

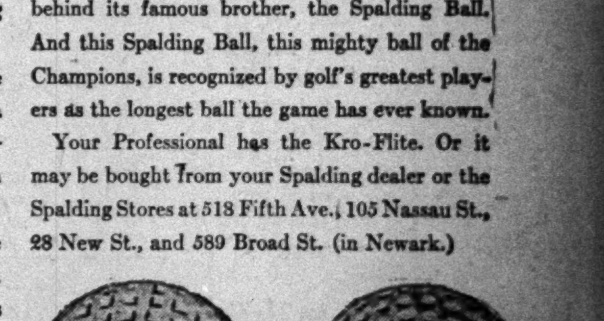
And when the larger 1931 size came along, every ball made in it was put to the Guillotine. The results were the same. The Kro-Flite again captured first honors . . . and proved that it is the toughest ball in the world, old size or new.

The Kro-Flite has distance, too!

The Kro-Flite not only is the toughest ball in the world, but it is the only ball that combines first-grade distance with maximum durability.

In recent Driving Machine tests at Chicopee, Mass.; Putney, England; and Pinehurst, N. C.;—with balls in the present size, and balls in the new 1931 size—Kro-Flite fell but a trifling distance behind its famous brother, the Spalding Ball. And this Spalding Ball, this mighty ball of the Champions, is recognized by golf's greatest players as the longest ball the game has ever known.

Your Professional has the Kro-Flite. Or it may be bought from your Spalding dealer or the Spalding Stores at 518 Fifth Ave., 105 Nassau St., 28 New St., and 589 Broad St. (in Newark.)



And here are the two balls in the new 1931 specifications that made the best showing in the Guillotine test. On the left is the Kro-Flite, still the Champion. On the right is the next most durable ball of the same group.

SUN FORWARD FIRST IN THE GARDEN CITY

ALL SIX FAVORITES BEATEN

Butler Colors Score Double in First Two Races With Stormy Dawn, 8-1, and Awake at 40-1.

By VERNON VAN NESS.

Jamaica rang down the curtain on its Spring meeting yesterday in a downpour of rain through which five ran in the feature race, the Garden City Claiming Stakes, for a winner's share of $2,725. The prize went to Mrs. J. P. Smith's Sun Forward, while the Rancocas Stable's Zeal was second and W. R. Coe's Moine third. Further back came the favorite, the Wheatley Stable's Flag Day. The winner paid 4 to 1.

Jockey Hendrick's ride on Zeal, poorly judged, was a big factor in the outcome. He took Zeal to the front at the snap of the barrier and quickly had him four lengths to the good. By this time the racing strip had become sloppy, but it seemed to the liking of Zeal and he plowed along ahead of Sun Forward, which was next, until rounding into the homestretch. At this point Harvey, on Sun Forward, brought the big gelding into sharp contention and came bounding up on Zeal from the outside.

Danger threatened beyond doubt, yet Hendrick, who had been sitting up on his mount, continued in that posture, and even when Sun Forward reached him at the eighth pole he did not put his charge down and ride him for a hard finish.

Zeal Displays Courage.

He did go to the whip, but that was of no avail as Harvey let Sun Forward run and he, likewise, went to the whip and rode for a hard finish. Zeal displayed much courage and hung on for dear life, but he could not quite last and at the finish post Sun Forward had a head the better of it.

Moine, always next to the two leaders, finished third. Burke, on Flag Day, which picked up 122 pounds, never got his charge into a real contending spot and finished fourth. Wood God was the other starter.

The victory of Battler in the sixth and final race marked the defeat of all six favorites. Fire Belle finished second and Marette third.

After two other efforts in the past three days Andy Schuttinger, who trains for the veteran sportsman James Butler, landed first in the opening race. The winner was the 4-year-old colt Stormy Dawn, at 8 to 1. Under a finely judged ride by Robertson the colt got up in the last fifty yards to beat Chatford, with Shady Lady third.

Storm Threatens at Start.

The approaching storm, which signaled its advent just before the first race, should have been a hunch to bet on the Butler colors, but there was no apparent reason to back his Awake in the second race. This was a race for maiden 3-year-olds and it drew a big field, with Memories Dear, the favorite, at 9 to 5, and Awake held at 40 to 1.

At that price, the colt, a full brother to Stormy Dawn, did not look a bit temping to those who follow the form. But when it was all over Awake was home three lengths in front of Memories Dear, with Royal Light third.

Rain began falling as the second race finished. It grew brisker during the third, when Bud Broom came up in the stretch to win the Willoughby Handicap at six furlongs, beating Ramoneur by a head, with Rapid Transit third, a head further away. Justinian and Lahor were held equal choices at 13 to 5. Just after the third race ended the rain came down in torrents, driving the crowd from the lawns to shelter beneath the stands.

Bud Broom was kept close up under restraint. He came very fast in the final furlong and was up to win in the last stride. Ramoneur opened a wide lead early, but weakened fast in the final sixteenth. Rapid Transit got on the outside and closed gamely. Lahor received a very poorly judged ride. Justinian tired chasing the early pace. Partisan finished fast.

Scratched—Perkins, Jack Biener, Mombasa, Macedon and Host.

Sun Forward, at home in the going, was kept close to the pace, moved up very fast in the last sixteenth and won going away. Zeal opened a wide lead in the first three furlongs, saved ground, but was weakly ridden at the end. Moine closed with a rush in the stretch. Flag Day broke slowly and lacked speed. He was never able to improve his position. Wood God was outrun from the start.

Panetian, showing good speed in the sloppy going, raced Chicleaf into defeat and drew away to win galloping. John Mill was outrun to the stretch, where he closed with a rush and was an easy second. Chicleaf had plenty of speed, but quit to a walk. Sweep Past closed some ground. Malaita was allowed to gallop along.

GALLANT FOX GOES DERBY ROUTE IN MUD

Sande Pleased With Result as Belair Colt Is Clocked in 2:19 Pulled Up.

HIGH FOOT IN FAST TIME

Covers Mile and Eighth Driving in 2:00—Tannery Still Holds Spotlight in Louisville.

By BRYAN FIELD.

Special to The New York Times.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 14.—The most formidable candidates for the fifty-sixth Kentucky Derby had workouts at Churchill Downs this morning, and the difference of opinion as to what the training moves indicate is so wide as to be amusing.

If you happened to be in the Eastern camp, then the move of Gallant Fox was a conclusive indication that he is a superior mudder, the main point on which there has ben doubt. But if you were from the Kentucky camp, the Belair stud color-bearer, which won the Wood Memorial and Preakness, is a sulky, nervous fellow with no liking for bad going.

In support of the latter opinion is the time of 2:04 for a mile and an eighth over a muddy track and 2:19 pulled up for the full Derby distance. To be sure, this was not at all fast. And the quarters were woefully slow: First quarter in 0:25 2-5; the half in 0:54; three-quarters in 1:22 and mile in 1:51.

But, withal, Earl Sande had this to say:

"My doubts about the old Fox over a heavy or muddy course are gone. I am more than ever convinced that he is the kind of horse that can run on any kind of track, and I have no worry about the outcome Saturday. There was no attempt to make fast time and I had the horse in my lap."

High Foot Impresses.

High Foot was clocked in 0:24, 0:49 1-5, 1:16 1-5, 1:45 and 2:00 for the mile and an eighth. This was pretty smart time when compared with Gallant Fox's performance. However, the Easterners pointed out that High Foot was driving in his work with nothing much left, while Gallant Fox was just breezing with al his speed in reserve. Notwithstanding, High Foot's time was the fastest of the morning.

William Ziegler Jr.'s Gone Away, the horse which finished on the heels of Whichone and in front of Boojum in the Champagne Stakes last season, also was worked a mile and an eighth. His time was 2:01 and he went with blinkers. Gone Away is given little or no consideration here but he is likely to be up there and running at the finish just the same. He turned the mile this morning in 1:45 2-5.

Sydney, scratched from the Derby Trial yesterday, was given a workout over the Derby route of a mile and a quarter about the time the others were out, and he was caught in 2:16.

The time for the first quarter was 0:24 2-5, the half 0:49 2-5 and the mile, 1:46 3-5. Sydney is one of the more obscure eligibles but is considered a sure starter Saturday.

Light Workouts Held.

Short dashes were given Crack Brigade and Gallant Knight, respectively Easterner and Westerner, and each regarded as having an excellent chance for the big race. Gallant Knight went the half in 0:52, and the New York horse did three-eighths in 0:36.

Strange as it may seem, there is a great undercurrent of opinion which holds that E. R. Bradley's Breezing Through and Buckeye Poet are very formidable. This was supposed to be one of the poorest years for Bradley 3-year-olds. Last year neither one of the pair mentioned above did anything of note. So far this season they have taken the dust of other horses.

Tannery still holds the spotlight here, and a future book quotation from the East that his price is 6 to 1 has excited a lot o ftalk. Certainly anybody willing to lay 6 to 1 against Tannery in Louisville would be swamped with business. Tannery had a workout last Monday and will get another before race day.

John F. Curry, head of Tammany Hall, and party of sixteen other New Yorkers were entertained in the clubhouse today by Colonel Daniel O'Sullivan, Matt Winn's personal representative. While Louisville is comfortably filled and visitor still has to dig around to get a room, as yet there is no tremendous pressure on the city.

LORD DERBY VISITS THE ELMENDORF FARM

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 14 (AP).—Lord Derby arrived today on his visit to Kentucky, which will begin with a round of entertainment at homes of thoroughbred stock breeders and will come to a climax with his attendance at the Kentucky Derby on Saturday.

Traveling in J. E. Widener's private car as his guest, Lord Derby arrived from Washington shortly before noon. He was taken first to Elmendorf, the Widener stock farm. He said he was particularly anxious to inspect the stud farms and to see Sickle, his stallion, which was imported last year by Mr. Widener under a three-year lease. He also planned to see two thoroughbreds from his stock, Light Brigade, at the farm of former Senator Johnson N. Camden in Woodford County, and Pharamond II, at Hal Price Headley's farm.

BELMONT TO BEGIN SPRING MEET TODAY

17 Named to Start in Toboggan, With Osmand, Winner Last 2 Years, Top Weight.

EIGHT LISTED FOR CHASE

Beelzebub to Carry 150 Pounds, the Heaviest Impost—Session to Last 23 Days.

Belmont Park, the Newmarket of America, begins its twenty-three-day Spring session this afternoon and the program for the opening day of the Westchester Racing Association's session is one that it would be hard to beat.

The Toboggan Handicap probably never had drawn a finer starting field than has been named over night and if all go to the post the race promises to be a sensational one. Sharing opening day's honors on the card will be the International Steeplechase Handicap and it, too, has attracted a very classy field of jumpers for its hard two-mile test.

The Westchester Association's famous racing plant is in the very best of shape. Its beautiful floral and tree settings have sprung forth in all their Spring verdure and the racing strips both on the main track and the Widener course are in the very best of shape.

Osmand Carries Widener Silks.

The Toboggan will be down the Widener chute and seventeen 3-year-olds and older horses are named to face the barrier. Changed track conditions, due to yesterday's rain, may affect the number of entrants. Of the group named to start, Osmand will carry top weight and the silks of Joseph E. Widener, president of the Westchester Racing Association. In the last two runnings of the race, which now will be contested for the thirty-seventh time, the sterling Widener gelding has finished in front. He may do it again today, and if he does he will be the first to have scored a triple in the old race.

Osmand, however, will have the sternest opposition he ever faced. He will have to beat such as Jack High, Judge Schilling, Sarazen II, High Strung, Finite, Maya, Lace, Flying Heels, Petee Wrack, not to mention Twink, Balko, Capture, Eddie Ahearn, Hilaria and Grattan.

First Run in 1890.

Last year Osmand won with 129 pounds up and he was favored overnight for today's race, being held at 3 to 1. Flying Heels, High Strung, Twink and Balko are held at 6 to 1. The distance of the race is six furlongs, and Osmand stepped the distance last year in 1:10 3-5, just two-fifths of a second slower than the Widener Course record, set by What'll I Do, in 1926. Osmand has worked nicely this Spring.

The Toboggan first was run at Old Morris Park in 1890, when August Belmont's Fides was the winner. Hastings, Octagon, Banstar, Voter, Roseben, Campfire, Naturalist, Billy Kelly, Mad Hatter and Chance Play have been winners in recent years.

The International Steeplechase Handicap has attracted eight named overnight. Top weight goes to Beelzebub. He will take up 150 pounds. Pitted against him will be Flower Rock, Canterbury, Laufjunge, Mr. Jingo, Crumpler, Stalker and Brush About.

The meeting at Belmont Park, marked as it is by the renewal of many rich and historic stakes, the richest in money value being the Belmont Stakes on June 11, will be further heightened by the presence on next Monday of Lord Derby, famous British breeder and patron of the sport. In fact, Monday at Belmont officially has been named Lord Derby Day, and the afternoon will witness the running of the Sansavino Handicap, named in honor of Lord Derby's English Derby winner of a few years ago.

Horses, Riders, Probable Odds For Toboggan Handicap Today

The horses, weights, jockeys and probable odds for the thirty-seventh running of the Toboggan Handicap, $5,000 added at six furlongs, to be run as the feature of the opening at Belmont Park this afternoon are as follows:

Brooke Entry Beats Bellfont in Rose Tree Hunt Club's Steeplechase Feature.

Special to The New York Times.

MEDIA, Pa., May 14.—Autumn Bells, owned by George Brooke, 3d, romped away with the Corinthian Plate in the two-and-a-half-mile steeplechase which featured the opening of the Rose Tree Hunt Club's Spring meeting today. The plate was presented by William du Pont Jr.

Capably handled by Edward Allen, Autumn Bells, the favorite, led throughout the long and difficult rain-swept course, with second honors going to Spencer Ilsley's Bellfont and Edward Roberts's Four Courts a close third.

THE SUMMARIES.

FIRST RACE—Agricultural Stakes (six furlongs on the flat)—Won by Harvey Nicholson's Timmy; second, Harvey Nicholson's Uncle Remus; third, Vernon K. Melhado's White Way.

SECOND RACE—The Hunting Hill Plate; 3-year-olds and upward (one mile on the flat)—Won by George Brooke 3d's Sport Royal (McKinney); second, John J. Nesbitt's Sun Clover; third, George Brooke 3d's Torrent.

THIRD RACE—The Corinthian Plate; steeplechase; for 4-year-olds and upward; gentleman riders (two and a half miles over brush)—Won by George Brooke 3d's Autumn Bells; second, Spencer Ilsley's Bellfont; third, Edward Robert's Four Courts.

FOURTH RACE—The Bayard Taylor Plate; steeplechase; for thoroughbreds (three and a half miles over a fair hunting course)—Won by Howard Bruce's Hubar; second, William J. Clothier's Bay Boy; third, T. W. Durant's Pantheist.

FIFTH RACE—The Glen Ridge Plate; for 3-year-olds and upward; gentleman riders (one and a half miles on the flat)—Won by John J. Nesbitt's Rubigny; second, Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords's Diogenes; third, T. W. Durant's Barley Corn.

Giants Falter in Fourth and Lose to Cards; Luque Hurls Robins to Victory

CARDS' 6 IN FOURTH TURN BACK GIANTS

GRABOWSKI, BELL EFFECTIVE

Former Gives 3 Hits in First Four Innings and Latter 1 in Final Five at St. Louis.

By JOHN DREBINGER.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, May 14.—The Giants' grand sweep through the West slowed down to a point today where it seemed to be moving in the opposite direction, for quite incredible as it may sound, two Cardinal pitchers, Al Grabowski and Herman Bell, held the mighty sluggers of John McGraw to four hits.

While McGraw tinkered furiously with his high-powered offense machinery which so suddenly has gone dead, Freddy Fitzsimmons came down with a crash in the fourth inning as six runs whistled by his ears to make the day's misfortunes complete. This astonishing outburst gave the Cardinals the game by 7 to 3, stretched their winning streak to eight straight and sent the Giants off the field in a daze. The latter are still in first place, ahead of the Cubs, but only by a margin of 16 points, which is scarcely any margin at all.

Fitz's collapse in the fourth was a painful piece of business to McGraw, who, seasoned and skillful campaigner that he may be, appears to be at his wit's end trying to find a pitcher who can finish a ball game the same afternoon that he is selected to start.

St. Louis Scores in First.

Fitz dropped a run behind in the opening round, but this the Giants deftly wiped out in the third when the left-handed Grabowski skidded a bit from his course and issued two passes after Hogan had singled. This filled the bases and Bill Terry with a rousing double emptied them.

In the next round, however, the luckless Fitz blew everything, and to make the situation all the more annoying the Cards but for a misplay by Eddie Marshall doubtless would have had no runs at all. With runners on first and second and one out Gelbert slapped one at Marshall, who fielded the ball perfectly, but as Eddie turned to throw to Jackson for what seemed the start of a certain double play, the ball slipped out of his fingers, and instead of the Cardinals being out Fitz was on the ropes and the bases were full.

Then the deluge came. Fisher, batting for Grabowski, grounded out, but drove in one run. Douthit doubled to right and drove in two. Adams clubbed another double to right to tally Douthit and Frankie Frisch put the finishing stroke to the job by whacking a ball right out of the park for a home run.

Giants Subdued at Bat.

This cluster of six completely overwhelmed the Giants, who somehow could not strike a blow in self-defense. They had made only three hits off Grabowski in the first four innings, and off Herman Bell, who hurled the last five, the McGraw men made one.

LUQUE HOLDS REDS, ROBINS TRIUMPHING

Frederick's Homer With Two On in Sixth Breaks 3-3 Tie and Clinches Victory.

By ROSCOE McGOWEN.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 14.—The dynamite in the bats of Glenn Wright and Johnny Frederick blew the Robins into exclusive possession of third place and overcame the Reds, 7-4.

The Robin captain collected a home run, two triples and a single in four trips to the plate, his lusty walloping accounting for three runs, while Frederick's round-trip blow with two men on base broke a 3-3 tie and sent the Flatbush flock winging out in front in the sixth inning.

Wright Also Star in Field.

In addition to his powerful hitting, Wright played a brilliant game afield, his best play cutting off a run in the first inning, when, with Bob Meusel on first, Kelly lifted a high fly to short left, and Rube Bressler, running hard, came in to attempt the catch. As Bressler came in, Wright went out, and when Rube missed the ball the Robin shortstop recovered it, turned and made a line throw to Lopez to catch Meusel at the plate.

At the moment the Reds had scored two runs, the Robins having tallied one on Frederick's single, Walker's bad throw and Herman's infield out. The two Red runs resulted from singles by Callaghan and Walker, a double steal, and a single by Meusel.

Meusel Hits Home Run.

In the Robins' third, with two out and Wally Gilbert on second following his walk and Herman's long sacrifice fly to centre, Wright hit a tremendous drive into the distant right field bleachers to tie the score. Luque settled down thereafter and was scored on only once more by his former team-mates when Bob Meusel hit a line drive over the left field wall for a home run in the sixth.

Finn started the Robin rally in the sixth with his second single and, after two were out, Luque dropped a Texas League single into short left field. At this juncture Frederick boosted a home run into the right field seats. Wright's second triple off Ray Kolp to start the seventh, followed by Bissonette's long sacrifice fly to Callaghan, gave the Robins their seventh run.

Sports of the Times

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By JOHN KIERAN.

IN the wake of the unhappy Cagle incident comes the feeling that Army football has been hit a staggering blow. In the first place, the Army has been building up in football and at a rapid pace in the last half dozen years. In one day, much of that ground was lost. There is the unfortunate fact that many of Army's victories in recent gridiron campaigns were scored largely through the efforts of a player who was illegally wearing the Academy uniform.

Every one understands the Army's innocence in the matter, but the position is none the less painful. Then there is the wider problem of the famous Army-Navy debate. Cagle was one of the "extra inning" players against whom the Navy protested on general principles. The Army's loss is the Navy's gain for purposes of future argument on the three-year rule for varsity competition, even admitting that this is an isolated case and Army records can still produce a creditable average for men who played more than three years at football.

Without kicking a fellow when he is down, which isn't fair football and certainly not cricket, it must be said that Cagle never hit any line a harder blow than he hit the whole football program at the Point. As for Cagle himself—sic transit gloria.

Hitting the Chutes.

The Pirates fell fast after they slipped out of first place in the National League. It was bound to come. They were lucky in their replacements but it was too much to expect that any club could lose Grimes, Traynor and Lloyd Waner without feeling the effects sooner or later.

Just when Traynor and "Little Poison" will be available for duty is a matter of conjecture. There are rumors that the younger Waner may be out for an extended period, possibly the whole season. Even rabid Giant and Robin rooters will hope these rumors are unfounded. It's a treat to watch a great player on the diamond, even in an alien uniform. The whole game of baseball suffered a loss when George Sisler dropped out of baseball for two years on account of bad eyesight due to sinus trouble.

It is probable that all Polo Ground rooters hope that Hornsby's injured heel won't keep him out of the regular line-up of the Cubs for long. They want the Giants to beat the Cubs and the Pirates, but there will be much less satisfaction in victory if it comes over rival teams that are badly handicapped.

Revising the Estimates.

At the end of the first month of the campaign in the National League, it appears that some pre-season estimates must be revised and corrected. Toward the end of the exhibition tour with the White Sox, the Giants looked ragged in several spots and none too strong in pitching. The pitching is still a matter over which John McGraw is wrinkling his brows but otherwise the Polo Grounders have been going great guns.

Those who picked the Cubs to repeat in the Heydler circuit are now bracketing the Giants with last year's pennant winners and rightly so. The Cubs may have better pitching but the Giants have shown a terrific punch. Neither club is strong in reserves, which gives a chance to the pursuing Robins, Pirates, Reds and Cardinals. Of these four clubs, the Robins are the hardest to figure. They may go right to the top or slide well down the ladder.

The Robins are by all odds the most colorful crew in the league. Babe Herman alone carries enough color to paint a battleship. Uncle Robbie is a quaint and colorful character and Dazzy Vance is a drawing card all around the circuit. It's a three-ring circus playing a baseball loop, but if it ever gets going at full blast, the Flatbush Flock will perch high up this season.

A Scientific Review.

A correspondent has examined the batting averages of both leagues and offers an explanation of the higher averages in the Heydler circuit. It is his opinion that the difference is due to the smaller parks in the National League, and not to better pitching in the American League. Quoting in part:

"Do you wonder that nearly every slugging minor leaguer who finds his way into the National League makes good, especially if he lands with teams like Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis or Brooklyn? If O'Doul, Klein and others of their ilk had to play under major league conditions such as are found in most American League parks, they would never be heard of. Rookies like Smead Jolly and Dale Alexander get tough breaks when an American League team buys them.

"Playing in small parks does not give the skillful team a chance to exhibit its skill. It is only the long flies that count. They go into the stands or over the fences for home runs. Even the infielders suffer because of the lively ball. Of course it may be pointed out that sometimes low-score games are played in small parks. But we must not forget that these games are exceptional.

"The home-run barrage is a joke to real baseball fans. The Cubs hit four in one inning. What kind of baseball is that? The magnates should look to it that they don't ruin the game with this lively ball.

"L. W."

Still Confused.

That leaves the situation still confused. There are, as L. W. insinuates, many baseball fans who despise the lively ball, but what of the thousands who are demonstrating their disapproval by rushing through the turnstiles in a way that bids fair to set a new attendance record for both leagues?

The argument about the size of the parks is not entirely convincing. There are small and large parks in both leagues. Braves Field and Redland Field are large parks in the National League. The Yankee Stadium and Comiskey Field are large parks in the American League. It would be necessary to study the architects' drawings of all parks before registering a decided opinion in this matter.

But there is one point that hits L. W.'s argument a centre shot. The Browns and the Cardinals play in the same small park in St. Louis. At the latest check-up the Browns had a club batting average of .240 and the Cardinals a club batting average of .315. Of course the Cardinals have played more games at home. Very well. For the whole of last season the Browns had a batting average of .276 and the Cardinals a batting average of .293. Can anybody suggest another solution?

GOLDMAN OUTPOINTS DOYLE IN SIX ROUNDS

Oscar Goldman of the east side earned the decision over Mickey Doyle of the west side in the six-round feature at the New Lenox Sporting Club last night before a crowd of about 1,500. The weights were Goldman 122, Doyle 125.

Johnny Gaito, Yonkers, 129 pounds, stopped Long Sing Que of China, 127¼, to win in 2:16 of the second session of a six-round contest, Referee Jack Denning stopping the fight when it was apparent that the Chinaman was outclassed. The other six-rounder also was abbreviated, Mike Collins, Fordham, 159 pounds, stopping Billy Harris, Harlem, 157½, in 2:41 of the first.

In the other four-round bouts Dominick Faillace, Mamaroneck, 147 pounds, scored a technical knockout over Charlie Gewertz, Bronx, 146, in 2:59 of the second round, and Mickey Marino, Bronx, 158¾ pounds, fought a draw with Pete Cataldo, Harlem, 159¼.

RECOMMENDS CARNERA BAN

N. B. A. Committee Would Suspend Italian Indefinitely.

CHICAGO, May 14 (AP).—Indefinite suspension of Primo Carnera, Italian heavyweight giant, was recommended tonight to the National Boxing Association, controlling the sport in twenty-nine States, by a committee appointed to investigate Carnera's bouts since his invasion of the United States five months ago.

The recommendation would bar Carnera from appearing in any State affiliated with the N. B. A. and may prevent his next engagement, a match with Myer (K. O.) Christner of Akron, Ohio, scheduled for Detroit on May 31.

MALCEWICZ THROWN BY STECHER IN 32:53

Joe Stecher, former heavyweight wrestling champion, brought his famous scissors hold back to New York last night and scored a brilliant victory over Joe Malcewicz of Utica at Madison Square Garden before a crowd of 2,000.

Stecher displayed all the agility and cleverness that enabled him to stay among the top flight wrestlers for so long and he forced his opponent into submission in 32 minutes 53 seconds. The winner weighed 220 pounds, 19 more than Malcewicz.

Reginald Siki, Abyssinian wrestler, threw John Grandowich of Czechoslovakia, in a bout which was featured by Siki's aggressiveness.

The victor carried the battle to his rival at all times and had Grandowich in danger several times before he finally pinned him with a double wrist lock and head grip in 11 minutes 24 seconds. Siki weighed 219 pounds and Grandowich 225.

Renato Gardini, 197 pounds, was returned the winner over Mike Kondos, 195, when the latter withdrew after twenty-nine minutes of a thirty-minute bout.

Carlos Henriques of Spain wrestled to a draw with Harry Barry Morse of Jersey City in a twenty-minute bout. Henriques weighed 183 pounds and Morse 195.

In the opening bout, listed for twenty minutes, Abdul Khan, 190 pounds, pinned Jean Bruce, 195, after 11 minutes 32 seconds. The winner secured the victory with a half nelson and body hold.

George Zarynoff of Russia won the decision over Harry Mamas of Greece in a twenty-minute bout. Zarynoff weighed 192 and Mamas 190.

Carol Novina of Brooklyn required only 2 minutes and 40 seconds to throw Charley West, Cleveland, in the final bout of the program. Novina, who weighed 190 pounds, pinned his opponent with a flying headlock. The loser scaled 185.

KIRILENKO WINS ON MAT.

Throws Clinkstock After 33:20 at the Ridgewood Grove.

Matros Kirilenko, Russian wrestler, threw Jim Clinkstock, Indian grappler, in 33:20 of a finish match at the new Ridgewood Grove last night. Kirilenko downed his opponent with a crotch and body hold after dazing him with several flying mares. Kirilenko weighed 217 pounds and Clinkstock 245.

In other 30-minute bouts Herb Freeman, 233 pounds, and George Hagen, 210, grappled to a draw, and Tony Rocco, 195, pinned Oscar Nygren, 195, in 16:15.

Cyclone Ress of Germany, 193, and Ray Steele of California, 212, wrestled to a draw in a 30-minute semi-final.

George Manich, 205, Yugoslavia, downed Andy Zaharoff, 220, of Russia, with a crotch and body hold in 10:15 of a 30-minute match.

CANZONERI BEATS FARR.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 14 (AP).—Tony Canzoneri, former world's featherweight champion, defeated Johnny Farr of Cleveland tonight in a slow and dull ten-round feature bout. Canzoneri weighed 131½ pounds. Farr 132½.

Sammy Gelber, New York, 124¼, won an eight round decision in the semi-final over Romeo Dubois, New Haven, 124, and Johnny Pena, New York, 120¼, defeated Paris Apice, Providence, 122½ in a six-round bout.

ALCIBIADES SCORES BY 2-LENGTH MARGIN

Headley's 3-Year-Old Filly Beats Honey Locust in Churchill Downs Feature.

UNDER THE ROSE THIRD

Tires After Leading Field Under Pressure to Stretch—Victor Pays $9.20 for $2 Play.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 14 (AP).—Alcibiades, a 3-year-old chestnut filly by Supremus—Regal Roman, from H. P. Headley's string, was home first in the Lily of the Valley Purse, the feature number on today's card at Churchill Downs. Honey Locust from J. N. Camden's Stable was second and Under the Rose from the Keeneland Stud was third.

The race was for 3-year-old fillies over the six and a half furlongs distance and was worth $1,200 to the winner. Alcibiades completed the journey in 1:22 4-5 and paid $9.20 for a $2 mutuel ticket.

Racing closely behind the pace until the stretch turn was reached, Alcibiades was given her head, and, taken to the outside where the footing was best, quickly drew into the lead to win easily by two lengths.

Honey Locust raced evenly in third position to the home stretch, where she closed gamely to take the place by half a length from Under the Rose. The latter led the field under pressure to the stretch, where she tired, but lasted to take the small end of the purse.

SCHMELING DELAYS SIGNING CONTRACT

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

Differences of opinion over the exact wording of the agreement which is to bind Max Schmeling to the Madison Square Garden Corporation for at least a year if he beats Jack Sharkey for the world's heavyweight title in the Milk Fund bout at the Yankee Stadium on June 12, yesterday upset plans for Schmeling's signing of a contract for the Milk Fund match, as well as the Garden document.

Frank J. Bruen, vice president of the Garden, spent the day in Endicott, N. Y., at the training camp of the German youngster, having gone there to sign Schmeling. He was forced to remain over night and to summon William B. Saxe of the firm of Chadburne, Stanchfield and Levy, Garden attorneys, to approve a revised document. It is expected the difficulties will be settled today.

Acceptance of the revised agreement will pave the way for the issuance of a boxer's license to Schmeling by the State Athletic Commission.

Matchmaker Johnny Attell announced yesterday that Dexter Park Arena in Richmond Hill will open its doors for the outdoor season on June 2 with a card featuring a ten-round bout between Leo (One Punch) Williams, conqueror of Georgie Courtney, and Izzy Grove, Bronx.

On June 3 the Queensboro Stadium in Long Island City is to open, Matchmaker Al Weill having signed Maxie Rosenbloom and Georgie Hoffman for a heavyweight feature.

The New Collar for 1930
THIRTY FIVE CENTS Each
Three for One Dollar

The foremost contribution of our time to a man's good appearance is the Van Heusen Collar. Instead of accepting the inappropriate and often definitely untidy line of the collar-attached shirt, Van Heusen has replaced it with an easy, natural curve, and a more beautiful texture. So well does it accord with the custom-tailored styles of today that the modern man hardly can be considered well dressed unless he wears a Van Heusen Collar.

TARIFF BILL RUMORS.

Senator SMOOT is reported to be very "pessimistic" about the chances of the House agreeing with the Senate on the tariff bill. But that is only the normal condition of the Utah Senator. He never exudes optimism. Many a legislative fight he has given up in advance. Therefore, the fact that his present state of gloom is so thick as to cover the possibility that the tariff bill may die in a deadlock between the two houses of Congress hardly warrants accepting this counsel of despair. Soon he may be found predicting that the measure will pass Congress by a fixed day and be signed by the President at a given date.

Public opinion adverse to the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill has been expressed on a scale and with an intensity almost unparalleled. Many Republican newspapers, ordinarily docile under the party yoke, have been frank and emphatic in expressing their dislike of it. They think it wrongly conceived and likely to be highly unpopular. Few of them go so far as to call upon President HOOVER to veto the bill, but if he should do so, or if Congress should finally throw up its hands and go home without passing any bill, something like a sigh of relief would run through the whole country.

The evident probabilities are that this will not happen. Out of the conference committee a compromise may be expected finally to emerge. If it rules out the farm debenture clause, there will undoubtedly be heard angry cries in the Senate, and the subject may lead to a long but losing debate. If enough Senators really wish to kill the bill, all they have to do is to keep the farm debenture in it, knowing that Mr. HOOVER could not then possibly sign it. But such an outcome is unlikely. To take away from certain interests the high duties which they think they won after a long struggle would be as dangerous as robbing a bear of her whelps. Political and party considerations will also weigh heavily. A Republican Administration would go great lengths to avoid confessing that the tariff work of Congress for a whole year had been thrown away as worthless. Thus, while the tariff mess at Washington is pretty bad at present, some way of floundering out of it will in all probability be found. This does not mean that the country will approve of the result, which it will submit to only with many misgivings and fears.

THE PRESIDENT'S VACATION.

Among the penalties of the Presidency is one which attaches political significance to his every move. If he remains in Washington throughout weather which for three months turns asphalt into soup, his opponents say that he is playing to the galleries. If he goes away, they declare that it is for the purpose of currying sectional favor. When the President is a fisherman, as Mr. HOOVER is, all the old jokes about "fishing expeditions" are resurrected. Undoubtedly the President hopes, when he goes West this Summer, to fish in comparative privacy and peace. Undoubtedly local committeemen with long reception badges, and members of Congress imploring him to make speeches as he passes through their constituencies, will be hateful in his eyes. Some Presidents have liked the inevitable combination of politics with holiday trips. Everything in Mr. HOOVER's make-up supports the sincerity of his wish to drop his public presence for a while.

Will he be able to do it? The history and temperament of the American people make it doubtful. The present troubles of the Republicans in the West impel political advisers to recommend "a few speeches." The vanity of local communities, translated into appeals to Senators, takes them to the White House full of foreboding if the President should pass through Podunk without saying a few words from the back platform. If Mr. HOOVER during his journey insists upon any considerable part of that privacy which more fortunate citizens may enjoy, his political enemies will represent him as unsympathetic with "the people." For every word he utters, for every speech he is dragooned into making, there will be at least one critical statement through the Democratic National Committee press bureau.

Most Presidents have dreaded more the imputation of personal coldness than the charge that they hunt votes. Mr. HOOVER would doubtless like to follow the reasoning set down in THE TIMES yesterday by Mr. WILL ROGERS: "We only elected him; we didn't marry him." He would humanly enjoy leaving the cameramen and reporters and reception committees and politicians stranded at the gates of the national parks. Having defined fishing and prayer as pursuits which men prefer to follow alone, the President would probably enjoy doing both for a while all by himself. If he can approach anywhere near his heart's desire in this matter, he will have broken one of the shackles of his high place.

TO INVESTIGATE LAST YEAR'S STOCK MARKET.

Almost exactly a year ago, the commotion and controversy prevalent in Wall Street over the money situation had invaded Congress. The speculative mania on the Stock Exchange was then at its height. The Reserve Board, although still opposing a higher bank rate, was publicly warning member banks against undue expansion of speculative credits. Spokesmen for the speculators were denouncing the board and demanding a lower, not a higher, bank rate; stock market loans by other than banking lenders, attracted by the bid of 9 to 15 per cent, were a billion dollars larger than a year before. The speeches made in Congress were as confused and incoherent as the talk on Wall Street's sidewalks.

Their only tangible result was a resolution, submitted in the Senate May 24, 1929, for a "full and complete investigation" of every question suggested to anybody's mind by the confused events on Wall Street. Senator KING's resolution actually specified twenty-one separate topics of legislative inquiry; they included, among many other matters, such questions as "whether member "banks have afforded unduly large "accommodation to brokers," "the "effect of the operations of the Fed-"eral Reserve System in contribut-"ing to the high rate of interest," "the different types of trading on the Stock Exchanges," whether the laws should be amended so as "to limit the volume of loans made "for carrying on 'marginal trans-"actions,'" and even "whether the "effect of the direct discounting of "member bank notes by Reserve "Banks had proven harmful."

It was evident that a committee following these instructions would be likely to sit until the end of time. The Banking and Currency Committee, to which the resolution was referred, ended by reporting it with an amendment "to strike out all after the word 'Resolved,'" and by substituting a practical program of inquiry. This substitute was adopted last week by the Senate. As it stands, the resolution directs that the committee, "in order to provide "for a more effective operation of "the national and Federal Reserve "banking systems," conduct a general inquiry into the essential facts and report such recommendations for new legislation as it may see fit. In place of the Utah Senator's twenty-one heads of inquiry, the committee is instructed to examine into the following larger questions:

> The administration of these banking systems with respect to the use of their facilities for trading in and carrying speculative securities; the extent of call loans to brokers by member banks for such purposes; the effect on the systems of the formation of investment and security trusts; the desirability of chain banking; the development of branch banking as a part of the national system, together with any related problems which the committee may think it important to investigate.

Probably it is time for such an inquiry; which, indeed, has been made more urgent by the Autumn sequel to the great speculation than by last year's earlier events. The excitement, rancor and economic illusion which prevailed when the craze was at its height have disappeared. With the present clarified atmosphere, it is a closed chapter which the Banking Committee or its subcommittee is instructed to investigate, and the inquiry has the legitimate purpose of discovering, if possible, how to prevent recurrence of the disasters of 1929. The Banking Committee, taken as a whole, is unfortunately not of the highest quality; but it contains some members of weight and experience, notably Senators GLASS and WAGNER, and a subcommittee will probably conduct the inquiry. It was a subcommittee of a not much more enlightened Banking Committee which in 1912 and 1913, as a sequel to the "Money Trust" propaganda, eventually constructed the present Federal Reserve law.

MERIT VS. POLITICS.

Positions in government service, whether Federal, State or municipal, may be filled either with or without examination, which is generally competitive. As the merit movement gathers strength in any community, more and more places are listed in the so-called "classified" service. Exemptions afford a rough test of the relative weight accorded politics and fitness. The annual report of the executive committee of the Civil Service Reform Association reveals a notable contrast in this respect between the New York State and city services. In the last decade State exemptions have decreased more than 30 per cent. During the same period city exemptions have increased more than 50 per cent.

There may be an attempt to explain away these figures, but they reflect a trend which is widely recognized. Throughout Governor SMITH's administration the merit system, defended vigorously by the State commission, forged steadily ahead. Under Mayor WALKER's administration the pressure of politics has grown more and more insistent. At Albany Colonel GREENE, State Superintendent of Public Works, has made enemies among the politicians and friends among those interested in good government by repeatedly reducing the number of places in the patronage class. In New York it has grown to be the custom for Mayor WALKER's appointees to rush immediately to the Municipal Civil Service Commission to plead for exemptions. There is something disgusting about the spectacle of Dr. SCHROEDER, the vigorous head of the new Department of Sanitation, leaning heavily on the district leaders and surrounded by politicians scuffling over the places like vultures over a corpse.

INDIVIDUAL BY INDIVIDUAL.

President RYAN's emphasis upon the need of the "individualization" of school children, especially of "problem children," is approved by the new philosophy of education. The end which it has in view is to enable each one of the millions of school children to profit by his school experience, "that he may subsequently "derive out of life the fullest possible "amount of satisfaction and happiness." The concern of our democracy is that all children shall be sent to school. That concern is, however, having new definition and expression in that it is rather in the education of "every child" than in that of "all children." The "evangel of individualism" is superseding the "divinity of the norm." Faith in the latter has let "averages" determine policy and measure progress, without regard to what happens to the individual child.

No child is typical, but through classification it has been attempted to bring into groups children most nearly alike. There are, however, always some who do not submit to any grouping. With these, individualization is necessary if they are to be "educated" and equipped for a useful place in society. That wise and experienced social worker, the late Miss MARY E. RICHMOND, said of social case-work that it consisted of those processes which develop personality "through adjustments "consciously effected, individual by "individual," between men and their social environment. Education consists in like patient adjustments. It has been called, in fact, an adaptation to environment. This is an acceptable definition if adaptation also includes that of the environment to the individual.

Individualization is at first an expensive process, but it is likely to prove economical by saving at the other end—making self-supporting citizens of those who would otherwise become dependents or delinquents. Moreover, the theory of equal opportunity to every child requires in practice a differentiation of treatment and training. One remembers the beginning made by Miss ELIZABETH FARRELL years ago in the individualized education of the distinctly atypical in Public School No. 1. The benefits of such attention have been extended to children in other schools, and clinics have been established. But provision on a greater scale is now rightfully put by President RYAN among the major needs of the system in New York. Truancy is but a symptom of that need. The real ill is deeper, is individual, and is not subject to cure by any mass panacea.

PROGRESS IN MENTAL HYGIENE.

It will appear almost incredible to many people that only fifteen years ago mentally sick men and women were generally cared for by untrained "keepers," restrained by strait-jackets and housed in damp, miserable quarters. Indifference and hostility to change in customary methods have been so successfully replaced by scientific care for the mentally afflicted that it is hard to realize how rapidly the change has been made. The National Committee for Mental Hygiene modestly describes itself as "a gadfly that stimulated others to action." Yet the evidence presented in its report of the twenty years since its inauguration, printed in the current issue of Mental Hygiene, is conclusive proof that it has been instrumental in crystallizing the sentiment which had been forming into scientific attack on the abuses common two decades ago.

It is a long road from correction of abuses to prevention of conditions which made the unhappy lot of the insane possible. The goal is still a long way off, for there is yet a shortage of trained psychiatrists able to apply methods of preventing mental disease. But work has progressed to the point where the main attack is now made on the beginning of mental ailments wherever they appear in a community.

During the first few years of its existence the committee gathered information and established a statistical service which have since been of great value to many governments and organizations anxious to follow in its steps. The United States Census Bureau, for example, had a sadly incomplete list of the public institutions for the insane in this country. So efficient did it find the committee's system that in 1926 it took over at its own expense the entire business of collecting and tabulating in this field as it had been started and continued for the preceding twelve years by the committee. The results of those years of research and the recommendations made for fixed standards of mental disease classification have led hundreds of institutions in this and other countries to adopt its methods.

It is the hope of the committee that at some time in the future its activities may be limited to leadership. Already its point of view and its technique have been adopted by many medical and social agencies. Its concepts touch almost every field of human striving for improvement. Influenced by its success, many local communities have organized their own programs along the lines pursued by the committee. People realize that childhood is the strategic time for work against mental disease which may lead to delinquency, neurosis or crime. Dealing only with children who have already come to the attention of the juvenile courts is not enough. Preventive work must begin before the "problem child" reaches a court clinic. The wider and deeper service which will prevent much of the misery now due to mental sickness has been indicated by the committee. It remains for other organizations to carry it on under "the leadership of "stimulation, of giving direction, "of stabilization, of coordination" still offered by the committee.

THE BACKGROUND IN INDIA.

It is certain that the progress of events in India since the World War has done something to bridge over the divisions and dissensions that characterize its more than 300 million inhabitants. But as serious factors in the present serious situation these divergencies are still to be reckoned with. We cannot draw the same sharp demarcation line as twenty years ago between the British provinces and the native States; a former high judicial officer of the native State of Baroda assumed Mahatma GANDHI's place as leader of the civil disobedience movement. The separation between Hindu and Moslem is not so sharp as it was before 1922, when the British policy against Kemalist Turkey served to bring Hindu and Moslem together in India. There are not wanting Moslem supporters of the anti-British movement today. Nevertheless, it is well to keep in mind the variations which confront the British Government. There is no doubt that less ground for anxiety exists in the native States than in British India, less among the Mohammedan minority than among the Hindu majority.

On an area of 1,800,000 square miles in India there lived in the year 1921, the date of the last census, a population of 320 millions. Something less than 250 millions were under direct British administration. Something more than 70 millions lived under the rule of more than 550 native princes, ranging down from Hyderabad, with a population of nearly 13 millions, and Mysore, with half that population, through Gwalior and Baroda to fairly minute principalities. In all India the Moslems, with 70 millions, are outnumbered more than 3 to 1 by 217 million Hindus. The Moslem proportion is larger in British India, with 60 million Moslems against 163 million Hindus. But, oddly enough, the Mohammedans have a clear majority among the 47 million inhabitants of Bengal, the original home of the Nationalist movement in India and still its intellectual stronghold. Culturally, the Hindus throughout India stand far above the Moslems, and the antagonism between the two is not entirely religious. The village money lender to whom the Moslem peasant pays heavy toll is usually a Hindu.

In what may be called the technology of revolution, and particularly of revolution in modern times, a more important distinction than one between races and religions is that between urban or industrial and rural population. Revolutions are made in towns and often have their beginnings in labor troubles. A trolley strike in times of discontent is a symptom to be watched. Now India, while overwhelmingly an agricultural country, with an industry in its infant stage, nevertheless has so vast a population that even a small percentage of industrial workers mounts up impressively. In 1921 there were 16 million industrial workers, 2 million transport workers and half a million miners. India is fifth among cotton manufacturing nations, first in jute, and well advanced in iron and steel. In 1921 a League of Nations report listed India among the eight leading industrial countries of the world.

WHAT COLLEGE MEN WILL WEAR.

Thousands of tailors must be hopefully sharpening their needles, while guardians of other people's morals must be distressed, on reading that a number of Dartmouth students have decided to defy the conventions and expose their knees to the civic and academic eye. Backed by the college paper, these revolutionists have dared the student body to follow their example or else admit that they are "sissies." Like other reforming minorities, they do not flinch from terrorism in defense of a cause. Outside Dartmouth an overpanted humanity (male mostly, married and helpless) will watch with fevered eagerness the progress of this audacious defiance of sacred customs.

When a few years younger, these rebels could have worn shorts in public without fear of condemnation. Most of them doubtless did. Nor does it suffice that Boy Scouts, explorers, Tyrolean guides, Indian civil servants at play and an occasional hardy American golfer are permitted to wear shorts. The convention is absolute that if any male in town or college between the ages of 16 and 60 wishes to discard long trousers when appearing in the presence of his fellows he must have his "shorts" baggy and carefully concealing the knee—preferably fastened just below it by a buckle. To omit the buckle and strap is to provoke criticism. To permit the "knickers" to end in thin air is to invite ostracism.

Dartmouth's hopes of changing college styles may be shattered by the innate conservatism of undergraduates. Even where conventions are most unconventional, woe betide the individual who defies the college custom. In California it is "not done" to wear trousers that have been cleaned and pressed. One class may wear only corduroys on the campus; another may not appear in anything but "blue jeans." There are neckties sacred to the members of student social organizations, and if one who does not belong is seen in these colors he is forthwith socially decapitated.

If the Dartmouth movement succeeds, and mankind is emancipated from the tyranny of too much wool about the calves, the upholders of public morals may remember the Igorots. Disliking not only long "pants" but even shorts such as the Boy Scouts and the Dartmouth independents use, the Igorot troops prevailed on the American military authorities in the Philippines to permit them to wear all the paraphernalia of the American soldier—hat, blouse, wide-last shoes, &c.—but to go as pantless as they had come into the world. Came a day, however, when some New England missionaries saw them pass in review. Shocked, they protested to every official in Manila and Washington. Today the Igorot troops are well panted. Let the Dartmouth reformers beware!

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Now the Jaywalkers.

Parking and pedestrian control are two of the most delicate and difficult aspects of the traffic problem. Having had his say about parking, Commissioner WHALEN is about to try his hand at disciplining the jaywalkers. He announces that he is going to try to "save the lives and limbs of pedestrians in spite of themselves."

That is just about what it amounts to, for the pedestrian is a skittish animal, not easily amenable to regulation. The commissioner's own annual report contains conflicting evidence on this point. On page 119 he speaks of the "growing lack of cooperation on the part of the public, both pedestrians and drivers of vehicles." On page 86 he refers to his special efforts at effecting pedestrian control in the theatre district as "successful from the start," the public having shown itself "most willing to wait until the traffic lights gave them the right of way."

Although there may be two opinions as to that, there is unfortunately no question about the accident statistics. They show a sinister rise in the curve of jaywalking accidents of all kinds.

If this unnecessary toll is to be reduced, police, courts, engineers and pedestrians must somehow cooperate. The Hoover report, to which the commissioner refers, advances three fundamental propositions: (1) That at ordinary uncontrolled crossings the operator of the vehicle shall yield the right of way to the pedestrian; (2) that every pedestrian crossing a roadway at any other point than at the regulation crosswalk shall yield the right of way to vehicles, provided that the driver must still exercise due care for his safety; (3) that at intersections where traffic is controlled pedestrians crossing the roadway "on the green" shall have the right of way over vehicles making a turn—a very necessary provision here in New York.

For Whom Is Football?

Those who, after reading the recent bulletin of the Carnegie Foundation on college athletics, were convinced that football games are run as popular amusements will be surprised by a statement of Mr. WOODCOCK, manager of athletics at Yale University. Opposing a suggestion in The Alumni Weekly that Yale games in late November, and particularly the Harvard game, begin at 1:30 P. M. hereafter instead of 2, Mr. WOODCOCK pointed out that this would interfere with class work. As if this were not heresy enough, he added that, after all, the games belong primarily to the players!

That such views should come from an athletic manager of one of our great colleges is startling. Thousands of people, including the alumni, who do not wave banners, and the pseudo-alumni, who do, had long ago concluded that the Autumn football contests are very much like theatrical shows. It was vaguely realized that the men in the elevens are students, but no one supposed that their studies were permitted to interfere with their duties on the gridiron. In recent years there have been college teams which traveled thousands of miles in the course of the football season. Faculty members who protested were howled down by alumni sentiment.

It is a big change to get such opinions as those expressed by Mr. WOODCOCK at Yale. Perhaps the Carnegie Foundation bulletin is working in deep ways toward its mission of reform.

The Human Factor in Flying.

While it is reassuring that 140 naval planes were flown for three days in all kinds of formations over New York without an accident, a single fatal crash prompts doubt whether the hazards of flying will not always deter travelers from using the airplane. The logical way of looking at the matter is to consider that occasional accidents must be set off against hundreds of flights successfully completed.

Every day flying is becoming safer because greater attention is paid to the training of pilots. There is no better authority on the subject than Brig. Gen. FRANK P. LAHM of the Air Corps of the army. In a letter to Aviation he discusses "the human factor in flying." Flying can never be absolutely safe, because pilots will always make errors. Most of the flying accidents—as high as 63 per cent—are due to mistakes of pilots. As a rule, the greater the number of flying hours the less the probability of a fatal error.

There are, General LAHM writes, "mechanical pilots" who usually do the right thing but fail "under stress." Greater attention is paid by instructors to headwork and judgment than to technique. The too-confident pilot is carefully watched. Study is made of the "reflexes" of all students. Experience counts more than youth. General LAHM says that the best ages for completing the Air Corps training centre course are from 22 to 26.

Railroad to Steamer.

The successful routing of transatlantic passengers from the Pennsylvania Station to the pier in Brooklyn from which the North German Lloyd steamer Europa sailed night before last has been acclaimed as opening a new page in the handling of ocean traffic.

In Europe this system is common. At Havre, and at Liverpool, Southampton and Bremen, the trains draw up alongside the steamers and the transfer is rapidly and easily made. Here, owing in part to the fact that New York is itself the objective of so many tourists, whether coming or going, there has been little incentive to establish through rail connection with distant cities. Most passengers have preferred to stop off in the city.

For those in a hurry to go through from or to a Western destination this new experiment will be of great interest.

Reasons for Jaywalking.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The main trouble with traffic regulations in this city as I see it is that the north and south bound lights are held so long that many pedestrians pay no attention to them. No wonder the New York Pedestrian becomes impatient. In other cities left-hand turns around busy street corners are entirely out of order, and "U" turns are prohibited altogether.

POTENT NIGHT.

Where swords of dreams are drawn in mystic rite;
These lyric blades, all burnished silver white,
Reveal the poet-fencer's strength and grace.
Then Night lifts up her veils of shadow lace,
You see her form of eery, strange delight:
The eyes return to steal a second sight
And watch the moods that change her lovely face.

A touch of melancholy almost a pain,
The hopes and fears that go with love, romance,
Deep, subtle thoughts no reason can explain,
Adorn Night's dear poetic countenance.
And when she wills, all common prose is slain
By those who wield her sword or rainbow lance.

BENEFITS OF HIGH SCHOOL.

The Extent to Which They Are Realized Depends on the Student.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The letter in THE TIMES from a high school senior interested me because I am not long out of secondary school myself, being only a college freshman.

The writer's fault is due, I think, to his lack of knowledge of the purposes of a high school. In my opinion, a secondary school, through its curricular and extra-curricular activities, should give the student a reading knowledge of a foreign language, that he may have a proper start for his college course, which should give him an appreciation of other countries' philosophies and literatures. It also should give a good knowledge of the literature of his own country, and a knowledge of how to use his mother tongue fluently, both in writing and speaking. It should also give him a knowledge of world history, its formation and development. Because of the importance of science in our modern civilization, it should also give him some training in chemistry, physics and biology.

The writer complained that high school has not prepared him to earn a livelihood. It is most certainly not the purpose of the academic course in the secondary schools to train the student to earn a livelihood; rather the purpose should be to train him for college. If a student wishes to enter business or the factory immediately after graduation, he should enter the technical school. And even then, because of the high degree of specialization demanded in industry, a technical school education would not furnish him with an ability to earn much of a livelihood; rather it trains him for a comparatively low wage. The highly paid positions are held by men who have had much more than a secondary school education.

Toward the end of his letter the writer said that if he wanted to earn a livelihood he would have to discard everything he had learned in high school. However, he claims some knowledge of English literature and tennis. Surely he does not intend to be working all day. Will not these things help him to a more pleasurable leisure time?

As to his cry that he does not know the names of his Representatives and the names of city officials other than the Mayor, he might be interested to know that such things as newspapers exist. The fault in this complaint of his must lie within himself when you consider the amount of space the newspapers devote to political questions.

At Least a Temporary Metaphor.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Under your editorial page heading, "Topics of the Times," for May 10, you say "Ossa and Pelion are outworn. Some one should invent a new metaphor to describe the skyscraper growth in this city, with one vast structure piled almost on top of another."

While you are awaiting a better answer to your appeal, would the following serve as at least a suggestion?

The steel skeleton of every skyscraper is also termed its "ossature." And the modern city dwellers who live and work under the shadow and within the cells of such a colossal beehive may properly be called "pelones," which means "bald, or nearly so." Continuance of almost sunless existence in present city environment, and of devotion to the wearing of head coverings which deprive the hair of all benefit of health-giving rays even outside the dark doorways, seem to be completing the "pelonic" condition of modern man.

Thus, in place of the outworn phrase of "piling Ossa upon Pelion," we have the rather alarming and yet all too accurately fitting expression of "piling ossatures upon pelones."

The Camels Really Did Swim.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Having read your article "Camels Came and Swam," my services with the English forces in Sinai and Palestine might be useful information.

I was attached to the Imperial Camel Corps, a fighting unit of riflemen mounted on trotting camels or dromedaries. The camels were purchased mostly from Lower Egypt and the Sudan.

We frequently swam the Suez Canal with them, and when washing the camels in the sea near El Arish and Gaza we had no trouble in persuading them to swim.

The Second Battalion, I. C. C., crossed the Wadi El Arish in flood—about three feet of water. This was forded without falter, all ranks remaining mounted. As far as my memory serves me we had as little trouble with camels in this respect as the cavalry had with horses.

Park Avenue Tunnel Openings.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE TIMES reports that it is planned to close more of the openings over the Park Avenue tunnel. No attention seems to be paid to the great danger from fire that is involved. Experience in the subways has shown that burning insulation gives off dangerous fumes, causing panic and suffocation. On the original subway it was necessary to spend half a million dollars for additional openings for ventilation in case of fire and for cooling in the hot weather.

The large square openings north of Eighty-sixth Street should be left at their present size—this will not interfere with the widening of the pavement—and additional openings built south of there equal to those provided on our four-track subways, to supplement the present inadequate ones. Fire exit stairways should also be built equal to those on the subway.

COOLIDGE AND BORGLUM.

Further Comments on the Historical Inscription.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

My pen, the ability of which Mr. Gutzon Borglum praises so courteously, returns the compliment to his chisel. His instrument is, indeed, far mightier, in that what it carves upon the granite face of Mount Rushmore will endure for thousands of years—perhaps outlast the nation, as similar inscriptions in Egypt and Persia have done.

I regret, however, that Mr. Borglum did not specify the particulars in which the said pen is "completely at variance not only with the spirit, the very soul, of the Declaration and Constitution, but with the letter." Nor, in his statement this morning as to the particulars in which he departed from the text of Calvin Coolidge, does he clearly face the issue. According to the document itself, our independence was declared by "the Representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress assembled"—representatives twice removed from the people. Mr. Coolidge's text was an accurate condensation of this. According to Mr. Borglum's revision, "the people declared * * *" Thus he imputes to the document of 1776 the idea of a direct democracy which was not adopted by any national leader until well along in the nineteenth century. In 1787 the Constitutional Convention consciously and explicitly intended a representative republic as opposed to a direct democracy; and, in spite of the democratic movement of the nineteenth century, that is what we have today.

Similarly obscurantist is Mr. Borglum's statement as to the guarantee of liberty in the Constitution. Mr. Coolidge was careful to state that it was to be a liberty "under the law"—a strictly ordered liberty—which every student of the Constitution knows to have been the intention. Mr. Borglum struck out these words. His reason is that, according to the Declaration, liberty is a natural as opposed to a constitutional right. He thus interprets, and indeed abrogates, the supreme law of the land in order to make it conform to a document of eleven years previous which did not have, and was not intended to have, any such positive legal significance—and the political philosophy and equalitarian temper of which were, in point of fact, opposed radically to the intent of the Constitution.

Highly disquieting are those words of Mr. Borglum's, "the spirit, the very soul." So far as my poor pen can see, the inscription as he revised it reads out of the Constitution its very soul and spirit—and reads into it the contrary spirit of our own brief day. For all time, thanks to the mightier chisel, the granite face of Washington seems destined to preside over words that flout his clearest and most vigorous convictions—and knock the great charter of our Republic into the cocked hats of the men who framed it. Then, indeed, will they one and all be unknown men.

Surely the true historic method is to state what the leaders of 1776 and 1787 actually accomplished. If later generations improved upon their handiwork, as many among us think, the fact should, in all fairness, be noted in its due course, under the portraits of the leaders of that advance. Give time and the man their due.

Bureau of Investigation Not New.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the Brooklyn section of today's issue you repeat the statement originally made by you on Friday and repeated in your editorial comment yesterday to the effect that a new bureau of investigation and statistics is to be set up in the Finance Department, with 226 employes, at Controller Berry's request.

The Bureau of Investigation and Statistics is anything but a new bureau. It is one of the divisions of the Finance Department mandatory by subdivision 6 of Section 151 of the Charter (before its recent amendment locally). It was built up by the Mitchel Administration so that the functionalized budget for 1915 provided a staff of fifty-eight statisticians, accountants and examiners, and a total of eighty-nine employes, with a payroll of $179,500.

When the Hylan Administration came into office there were sixty-three employes and a payroll of $127,990 provided. This staff was decreased to thirty-four in 1926 and now the civil list shows only twenty-nine—poorly paid. The payroll is $92,350. Controller Berry's resolution of last Friday merely provided for the addition of ten engineers, inspectors, &c., to this bureau, with salaries amounting to $33,060, out of the total of 226 employes to be added to his staff.

The Central Park Boulevard.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the recently published report of the Museum of Natural History, Dr. Osborn again makes effort to have our city authorities provide a broad boulevard across Central Park.

It is unfortunate that one who has done so much to make us all his debtor should range himself in the ranks of those who would destroy one of the finest parks in the world. That this would be the result of such a proceeding we know from Mr. Olmsted, who put himself on record against it. The New York Chapter of the Society of Landscape Architects has given generously to a careful study of the subject, and we have a confirmation of Mr. Olmsted's views.

Can it be possible that any one who knew Theodore Roosevelt can believe that he would wish a structure erected as a memorial to his love of nature should gain in stateliness of approach at the expense of one of the finest expressions of nature herself?

GARDEN CLUB SHOW HELD IN NEW JERSEY

COLORFUL POOL IS FEATURE

Many Society Gardeners Vie for Prizes—Tulip Group Is Largest in Competition.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., May 14.—A garden pool bordered with blossoming shrubs and garden flowers in lavender, yellow and blue was one of the special features at the fifth annual flower show of the Oranges, which opened this afternoon at the Hotel Suburban, East Orange, under the auspices of the Civics Committee of the Woman's Club of Orange, the Garden Club of the Oranges and the East Orange Garden Club. Mrs. Helen Lohrke is general chairman.

A gift flower bureau and an exhibit of glassware and pottery were among the special attractions.

Winners of first prizes in the tulip exhibit included Mrs. Herbert S. Gay, Mrs. N. B. Hersloff, the Jenkins estate, Mrs. Harrison Crawford, Mrs. Carl Egner, Mrs. Hendon Chubb, Mrs. B. F. Adams, Mrs. William Dane, Mrs. Joseph Gay, Miss Mary Whaley, Mrs. Robert D. Carter, Mrs. J. Lester Parsons, Mrs. A. B. Thatcher, Mrs. Rollins H. Wiggin and Mrs. G. C. Hannahs.

In the violet classes the Misses Kirkland and Mrs. Franklin Howard were the leaders, while the prize for pansies went to Mrs. Berry Hiss. The best collection of perennials was exhibited by Mrs. Franklin Howard. In the flowering shrubs, trees and vines section, winners included Miss Whaley, Mrs. William Dane, Mrs. Peter Fowler and Miss Margretta Fort. Prizes for table decorations went to Mrs. Wilson Farrand, Mrs. G. C. Hannahs and Mrs. Berry Hiss.

Mrs. W. F. Carey Gives a Tea.

Mrs. William F. Carey gave a tea yesterday at 15 East Sixty-ninth Street for the executive officers of the Charity Carnival of 1930, held recently in Madison Square Garden for the benefit of the Judson Health Centre. Motion pictures of the pageant, "Romance," which featured the carnival, were shown. There were addresses by Dr. Eleanor A. Campbell, founder and director of the Centre; Mrs. Arthur B. Claflin and Mrs. Edward F. Hutton, honorary chairmen of the carnival; Mrs. Eugene W. Ong, executive director and Miss Lila Agnew Stewart, director of presentation. Reports of the carnival's proceeds were made by Mrs. T. Raymond St. John and Mrs. Archibald G. McIlwaine.

Professor of Metallurgy at Northwestern Dies Here of Pneumonia.

Dr. L. J. Weinstein, who recently was appointed Professor of Metallurgy at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., died of pneumonia yesterday at the home of his brother-in-law, Dr. Samuel Sheff, 25 West 103d Street. He had just returned here after delivering a series of lectures at the university.

Dr. Weinstein was born in Russia forty-nine years ago and came to this country at the age of 6. After graduating from City College he was an instructor in metallurgy at Columbia and New York universities. During the World War he was connected with the Bureau of Standards, doing research work in the hope of finding a substitute for platinum. He was a member of the Chemists' Club of this city.

JUDGE L. E. KNAPPEN DIES.

Grand Rapids (Mich.) Jurist Had Retired From Circuit Court of Appeals.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., May 14 (AP).—Judge Loyal E. Knappen, retired member of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, died here late tonight. He was 77 years old.

Born in Hastings, Mich., on Jan. 27, 1854, Loyal E. Knappen was graduated from the University of Michigan in 1873. For a time he practiced in Hastings. Then he was made prosecuting attorney of Barry County. From 1880 to 1888 he served as United States Commissioner and afterwards went to Grand Rapids and resumed the practice of law.

He became a District Judge for Western Michigan in 1906 and a United States Circuit Judge in 1910. From 1904 to 1911 he was Regent of the University of Michigan.

FRANK E. MATHEWSON.

Technical Director in Jersey City High School Dies Suddenly.

Frank E. Mathewson, director of the technical and industrial department of the Dickinson High School of Jersey City and secretary-treasurer of the Eastern Arts Association, died suddenly Tuesday at Washingtonville, N. Y.

A native of Chicopee Falls, Mass., he began teaching in the night schools of Springfield, Mass., and later taught in the day schools of that city. From there he went to the East Side Technical School of Cleveland, Ohio; then to the Wentworth Institute of Boston. In 1912 he was called to Jersey City to organize the department of the Dickinson High School, which he directed at his death.

ROBERT HOLMES.

Noted Canadian Artist Dies Suddenly After an Address.

TORONTO, Ont., May 14 (Canadian Press).—Robert Holmes, artist, died suddenly here tonight immediately after delivering an address before students of the Ontario College of Art.

Mr. Holmes was Canada's foremost floral painter and one of her most distinguished artists. He was the oldest member of the faculty of the Ontario College of Art.

Tonight he had been asked to respond to a talk by L. Reid of the college staff on "The Future of the College." He spoke humorously, referring to the third year and graduating classes as the wild flowers of which he knew so much.

Gustave E. Greiff Dies in California.

SAN JOSE, Cal., May 14 (AP).—Gustave E. Greiff, expert marksman and former captain of the New York Athletic Club rifle team, died here last night after a fortnight's illness.

Bumblebee in Auto Causes One Death and Injury to 3

Special to The New York Times.

NEWCASTLE, Pa., May 14.—A bumblebee which flew into the automobile of L. W. Bartlett of this city was responsible last night for the death of one person and the injury of three others.

Mr. Bartlett, who was driving the car, took one hand off the wheel to ward off the bee and lost control. The machine crashed into a pole and its four occupants were removed to a hospital.

Mrs. Bartlett died four hours later. Her husband suffered serious injuries and their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Haufler, and her son Charles were sent home after treatment.

JAMES H. EAST DIES; FOE OF OUTLAWS

DOUGLAS, Ariz., May 14 (AP).—James H. East, pioneer peace officer and one of the captors of "Billy the Kid," notorious outlaw, died here yesterday at the age of 77.

From the time in the '80s when Pat Garrett, New Mexico's crusading sheriff, pinned a deputy's star on East and led him and a few others on a successful hunt for the "Kid" and his gang of outlaws, until his death, East was a guardian of the law.

For the last two years he had served as police judge of Douglas.

East was born in St. Louis. Seventeen years later he was a Texas cowboy. He learned his trade so well that when Garrett organized his forces to fight the "Kid" he brought East from Texas and made him one of the posse.

After Garrett's men had captured the "Kid" and slain his cronies, East was chosen to take the outlaw to General Lew Wallace, then Territorial Governor of New Mexico, at Albuquerque. For the next four years East was sheriff of Oldham County, Texas. On a trip through Dodge City, Kan., with cattle for northern ranchers, he met and married Miss Hattie Boulding, a native of Virginia. She survives him.

In 1903 he came here. Seven years later he became Chief of Police, serving two terms before he went on the bench.

JOHN P. BUCHANAN.

Former Governor of Tennessee and Confederate Veteran Dies.

Special to The New York Times.

MURFREESBORO, Tenn., May 14.—John P. Buchanan, who was elected Governor of Tennessee as a coalition candidate of the Farmers Alliance and the Democrats in 1890, died here today after a long illness. The former Confederate soldier was 82 years old and had been a farmer since he retired from public life.

Former Governor Buchanan was born in Williamson County, Tenn., on Oct. 24, 1847. After returning from the Civil War he resumed farming. He served as a member of the House of Representatives of Tennessee for two sessions, 1887 and 1891. Becoming a leader in the Farmers Alliance in the latter year, he was elected president of the organization and nominated for Governor by the Democrats. He served one term, being defeated for renomination by Peter Turney, then Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the State.

During his term of office the famous "Coal Creek war" occurred, when military forces were sent to subdue armed miners who rose in protest against employment of convicts in the mines. Mr. Buchanan was the dean of an unusual group of former Governors, eight of whom survive.

SAMUEL DINKELSPIEL DIES.

Retired Merchant Was a Leader in Jewish Life in San Francisco.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—Samuel Dinkelspiel, a leader in Jewish life here, died suddenly this morning at his home. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Beatrice L. Dinkelspiel; a daughter, Mrs. James H. Schwabacher, and a son, Lloyd W. Dinkelspiel, widely-known attorney.

Mr. Dinkelspiel was president of Temple Emanu-El, the largest and oldest Jewish congregation in the West, and had followed his religious and civic interests since his retirement a few years ago as head of L. Dinkelspiel & Co., one of the largest wholesale dry goods firms on the Pacific Coast. At that time the company was consolidated with the Walton N. Moore Company. The son of an old San Francisco family, Mr. Dinkelspiel was born here June 16, 1864.

DR. FRANK B. BERGEN DIES.

Medical Officer of Schools of Roosevelt, L. I., Was 58 Years Old.

Dr. Frank B. Bergen of Roosevelt, L. I., died at his home there yesterday after a long illness in his fifty-ninth year. He left a widow, a son, John T., and a daughter, Mrs. Leroy Post.

Dr. Bergen was born at Bergen Beach, Brooklyn, which was named after his father and was in large part owned by his family. He received his medical degree from the Long Island College Hospital. For the last twenty years he had practiced in Roosevelt, where he was the medical officer for the local schools, president of the Exchange Club and former president of the Republican Club.

Dr. Charles E. Price.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—Dr. Charles E. Price, for nearly three decades a practicing physician in this city, died in the Philadelphia General Hospital today. He was born in Mauch Chunk, Pa., fifty-three years ago, and attended Jefferson Medical College here. He was a captain in the Army Medical Corps during the World War. A widow and three children survive.

A. Morris Carey.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, May 14.—A. Morris Carey, a minister of the Society of Friends and a member of an old and influential Baltimore family, died early today at the age of 69. He was president of the Carey Machinery and Supply Company. He was a graduate of Haverford College.

Mrs. Mary Abbott Viehmann.

Mrs. Mary Abbott Viehmann, widow of Anthony Viehmann, formerly Mayor of New Brunswick, N. J., and president of the New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce, died Tuesday at her home, 151 East Eighty-third Street, aged 58. A son and two daughters survive.

FUNERAL OF NANSEN SET FOR SATURDAY

Explorer's Family Accepts the Offer of Norway to Pay Cost of Cremation.

LEAGUE SENDING AN ENVOY

The Storthing Holds Special Session in His Honor—Hindenburg and Others Sympathetic.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

OSLO, May 14.—All members of the Storthing, the Norwegian Parliament, stood with bowed heads today in tribute to Fridtjof Nansen, the great explorer and statesman who died yesterday.

After a moving eulogy by President Hambro of the Storthing it was decided that Dr. Nansen should have a national funeral on Saturday, the twenty-fifth anniversary of Norway's separation from Sweden, and should receive the honors due to one of the greatest sons of modern Norway.

Normally Oslo is gaily dressed for its Independence Day, with flags fluttering from all public buildings. This year, however, thousands will march in the solemn procession to University Square, just opposite the Royal Palace, where the King, Queen and all members of the government will gather around the coffin. Just before the ceremony all work in Oslo will cease for two minutes of silence.

The great popular procession which was to have celebrated the jubilee of independence will be abandoned, and the marchers instead will join the funeral cortège on the great explorer's last journey.

A stream of telegrams reached Dr. Nansen's home today from all parts of the world. The first to arrive was from King Haakon, who is at Trondhjem, and another came from Queen Maud in England. Others came from the Norwegian Government, from geographical societies the world over and from sovereigns, princes and statesmen.

The League of Nations informed the Foreign Office it would send a special representative from Geneva to attend the funeral.

League Council Pays Tribute.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, May 14.—Dr. Voyislav Marinkovitch, the Foreign Minister of Yugoslavia and President of the Council of the League of Nations, paid tribute to Dr. Nansen today as "one of the greatest figures in the ten-year history of the League," the foundation of which "opened a new road to a man whose exploits already had made him "the greatest living example of spirit and dauntless courage."

After reviewing Dr. Nansen's work for the repatriation of war prisoners and refugees, Dr. Marinkovitch stressed the explorer's great influence and authority in the League Assembly.

The Council session opened with a tribute to the explorer and one of the principal subjects discussed was the handling of 200,000 Greek and Turkish refugees, the work of which was inspired and in large degree directed by Dr. Nansen.

Hindenburg Wires Condolence.

BERLIN, May 14 (AP).—President von Hindenburg and Foreign Minister Curtius expressed sympathy today for the death of Dr. Nansen. President von Hindenburg said in a message to King Haakon of Norway:

"His daring achievements as an explorer and self-sacrificing devotion to the welfare of mankind will never be forgotten in Germany."

Dr. Curtius, in a telegram from Geneva to a Berlin correspondent, said:

"At the bier of the great statesman, noble character and tireless explorer, Fridtjof Nansen, whom all humanity mourns, Germany bows her head in veneration and gratitude."

CALL NANSEN GREATEST OF MODERN EXPLORERS

Cambridge Professors Pay Tribute to His Methods and Equipment He Developed

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAMBRIDGE, England, May 14.—For scientific achievements and perfection of methods of polar travel, Dr. Nansen takes first place among the explorers of his generation, according to two Cambridge University authorities.

"Dr. Nansen was the first to modernize sledging and the first to devise specialized Arctic equipment," explained Major Frank Debenham, director of the Polar Research Institute, who has accompanied several expeditions both to the Arctic and to the Antarctic.

"The Nansen cooker and the Nansen sledging tent are still necessary units of modern expeditions. Moreover, he was the first to live off the land, so to speak, thereby dispensing with heavy packs on longer journeys."

From the success of the Fram's voyage, Mr. Nansen was led to the oceanography field for his greatest scientific contributions, in Major Debenham's opinion. "Nansen's data has never been challenged, and for geographers he is likely to remain an authority on the configuration of Greenland and the Arctic regions," added Major Debenham.

"Moreover, his polar theories are particularly well balanced, as has been shown by the recent investigations, which have proved many of his conjectures correct.

"The life and work of Nansen prove that the attainment of the North or South Pole is not essential to great achievement," said J. M. Wordie, the geographer of Sir Ernest Shackleton's 1914 expedition, and Professor of Geography at Cambridge.

"Nansen demonstrated the route from Franz Josef Land was the logical way to the Pole, for he made use of the ocean currents to carry him northward instead of trying to buck against them, as former explorers setting out from Greenland had done."

EXPLORERS MOURN NANSEN.

Club Lowers Its Flag and Cables to His Family.

The Explorers' Club here ordered its club flag lowered to half staff yesterday on account of the death of Dr. Fridtjof Nansen and sent the following message to the explorer's family in Oslo, Norway:

"In the death of Dr. Nansen Norway has lost one of its most eminent citizens and the world an intrepid explorer and humanitarian.

"The Explorers' Club extends its deepest sympathy. His passing has removed one of its most distinguished medalists and members."

BYRD'S CREW SHOCKED BY NANSEN'S DEATH

Dr. Coman Tells of Sadness on City of New York and Sense of Personal Loss.

By DR. FRANCIS D. COMAN.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ABOARD THE BARK CITY OF NEW YORK, May 14.—A note of sadness has fallen over the ship since we learned early today of the death of Fridtjof Nansen. For many of us who have felt his influence since "Farthest North" first appeared, the loss comes as a personal shock. Our very association with the present expedition is due largely to the opportunity it offered of humble emulation in but one phase of this great man's activities, the collection of significant polar data. But even more in our sojourn on the border of the frozen waste we have prayed for such a spirit as his—patient, ingenuous and unswerving in overcoming difficulties, and for receptive eyes which, like his, could discern beauty and grandeur above discomfort.

Although Dr. Nansen's use of the ski and of the Eskimo dog team revolutionized polar travel, he was the last one to parade his accomplishments in spite of the fact that all subsequent polar explorers have capitalized his lessons and inventive genius. There were no heroics about this modest spirit and yet few, if any, could equal him either in actual physical endurance or in his chosen field of scientific investigation. The broader fields he filled after he retired from active polar research seemed but a natural development of his search for beauty and his simple faith in an ultimate goodness in the world.

With his bereaved ones, while we mourn, we can feel a solemn pride that we at least have been fellow-mortals with this glorious Viking and that once in a very great while a nation will give to the world a man like Dr. Nansen.

PRAISES DR. NANSEN AS NORWAY'S IDEAL

Wilhelm Morgenstierne, Norwegian Consul General in New York, who was secretary to Dr. Fridtjof Nansen during the negotiations with the United States War Trade Board in 1917 and 1918 for food supplies, yesterday paid the following tribute to his illustrious compatriot, who died in Oslo Tuesday:

"Dr. Nansen embodied the spirit of open diplomacy, which I believe to a large extent was responsible for the success in securing for Norway, the first of the neutral countries, a satisfactory trade agreement with the United States.

"He combined strength and forcefulness with the most kind and considerate of ways toward those who worked for him. Dr. Nansen always seemed to me to be an extraordinary combination of the man of action and the dreamer. He was a skald in the sense of the saga, the warrior and the poet combined. He seemed to possess perennial youth when with people much younger than himself. Especially when roughing it in the open he was the youngest of them all.

"Nansen was Norway's first citizen and he was the ideal and great example of our youth, embodying in his rich personality those traits which we would like to consider typically Norwegian. At the same time I think that all will agree that he was a great and lovable citizen of the world."

When the news of Admiral Byrd's epochal flight over the South Pole was received, Dr. Nansen sent the following letter to a member of the staff of THE NEW YORK TIMES:

"I have just received a set of Byrd's reports of his wonderful flight to the Pole in THE NEW YORK TIMES. I do not know whether it is sent by you; but whether it is or not, I wish to congratulate you and THE TIMES upon the great achievements of Mr. Byrd and his excellent expedition; it is splendidly done! And then I send you all my best wishes for Christmas and the New Year. I do wish it may give me the treat of meeting you again."

The letter was dated Lysaker (near Oslo), Dec. 29, 1929.

Julius Loeb.

Julius Loeb, member of Loeb & Mayer, wholesale and retail butchers in Far Rockaway, died yesterday of heart disease at his home, 135-07 Rockaway Beach Boulevard, Belle Harbor. He was 50 years old. Mr. Loeb had lived in the Rockaways since 1888. He succeeded his father, Abraham Loeb, in the business that the elder Loeb had founded. A widow, Mrs. Henrietta Loeb, survives. Mr. Loeb was a member of the Rockaway Beach Hospital, the Rockaway Beach Board of Trade, the West End Democratic Club and several fraternal orders. Funeral services will be held tonight at his late home.

W. J. BRENNAN DEAD; NEWARK OFFICIAL

Director of Public Safety for Last Twelve Years Victim of Pneumonia.

WAS LONG A LABOR LEADER

A Former President of Essex Trades Council—Created Family and Traffic Courts.

William J. Brennan, Director of Public Safety in Newark, died yesterday forenoon at the Presbyterian Hospital there, from pneumonia, at the age of 57.

The commissioner caught cold on a visit to the Pequannock watershed over the week-end, and was taken to the hospital on Monday. His illness was complicated by kidney disease. There was improvement on Tuesday, and his physicians thought he would recover, but a sudden turn for the worse came yesterday morning.

Mr. Brennan was serving his fourth term as City Commissioner, having been successful in the first election, in 1917, under the new form of government by commission. In the elections of 1925 and 1929 he headed the list of candidates by several thousand votes. Ever since his first election he had directed the Department of Public Safety. Death came exactly a year from the date of his last election.

Previously Mr. Brennan had served on the Board of Police Commissioners, having been appointed Jan. 1, 1917, by Mayor Thomas L. Raymond. He was a leader of organized labor in Essex County and the State when he entered politics. He was an independent Democrat.

Born in French Park, County Roscommon, Ireland, on Dec. 26, 1872, Mr. Brennan came to this country in 1892 and became a stationary fireman at Trenton. Within two years he moved to Newark, and ten years later was business agent of Local 55, International Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen, serving until 1917, with the exception of two years. He was vice president of the brotherhood from 1908 to 1911, and for five terms was president of the Essex Trades Council. From 1908 to 1912 he was on the executive board of the New Jersey Federation of Labor.

As head of the Police and Fire Departments, Commissioner Brennan was known as a strict disciplinarian but was quick to recognize meritorious work. The Family Court was created by him for the protection of female first offenders, the public being excluded from its sessions. He also created the Traffic Court, and later instituted the system of towing to garages cars parked on certain downtown streets during afternoon rush hours. The practice was subsequently discontinued. He was the author of a censorship ordinance, passed a few weeks ago, which gave his office the power to revoke the licenses of shows considered objectionable.

Mr. Brennan lived at 119 North Munn Avenue with his wife and eight children and his mother.

The body will lie in state at City Hall today. Funeral services will be held tomorrow. Arrangements have not been completed.

Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, on hearing of Mr. Brennan's death, commented on the evidence of their commented on the esteem which the people of Newark had shown for him and on the commissioner's efficiency as a public servant, adding:

"If I were asked to say what were his most prominent attributes I would answer they were his devotion to the cause of labor and loyalty to his friends. His work in behalf of labor was at all times well done, and his influence in its cause was recognized throughout the county. He was labor's champion, and in his death labor has suffered an irreparable loss."

GEORGE D. ROSE.

Cashier of the Otis Elevator Company Dead in Yonkers.

George D. Rose, cashier of the Otis Elevator Company, died on Tuesday night at his home, 26 Woodstock Street, Yonkers, in his sixty-fourth year. He had been suffering from heart disease for three weeks.

Mr. Rose was born in New Paltz, N. Y. When a young man, he entered the employ of the Otis Company. Thirty years ago he married Miss Lorena A. Renfrew of Pittsfield, Mass., who survives him. Funeral services will be held at the house tonight at 8 o'clock.

BUYS COMMUNION BEAKERS.

F. P. Garvan Pays $2,500 for Relics at Northford, Conn.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., May 14.—Eight silver communion beakers, dating back to pre-Revolutionary days, were sold this week by the Old First Congregational Church of Northford for $2,500 to Francis P. Garvan of New York City, a collector of ancient silverware. Mr. Garvan will lend the set to Yale University for exhibition purposes.

Because they could not be used now and there was no safe place in which to keep them, the church voted recently to sell the relics, which were first used by the congregation previous to 1780.

Two of the beakers were made by Chittenden, a New Haven silversmith. They are about five and a half inches in height and have the silversmith's name on them. All are of hammered construction.

FROM THE FOUNDER'S WRITINGS

Proverbs are the Children of Daily Experience

With many of us, the riddle of life is still to be solved. Those who traveled before us, along the same roads, have left footprints as they struggled, fell down, hoped, despaired or persevered, which ought to be of value to us as we journey on in our confidence of being able to reach the goal we have in view. The biographies, examples and cherished rules that influenced the lives of our fathers are great helps for each other.

JOB TO DR. WALKER ASSAILED IN REPORT

Civil Service Association Sees Politics in Naming Mayor's Brother to School Post.

CALLS IT "FLAGRANT ABUSE"

Failure to Include Court Clerks in Competitive Service Also Attacked.

STATE COMMISSION LAUDED

Exemptions Seen Reduced by 30% While City Increase Was 50%—Group Elects Officers.

The annual report of the executive committee of the Civil Service Reform Association attacked the State and New York City Civil Service commissions yesterday for their alleged failure to include clerks of the municipal and magistrates' courts in the competitive service.

Presented at the annual luncheon meeting yesterday at the Down Town Association, 60 Pine Street, the report was severe in its strictures against the Municipal Civil Service Commission because of the employment of Dr. William H. Walker, Mayor Walker's brother, as medical examiner in the Department of Education under a "contractual relationship," approval of which was characterized as "a flagrant abuse of discretion."

Sees Political Manoeuvre.

"For over three years Dr. Walker had been serving illegally in such a position although he received no salary from the city," the report asserted. "The commission had established an eligible list to fill this and two similar positions with a salary of $4,500 per annum each. The present plan permits Dr. Walker to serve on a part-time basis and receive as much as $6,500 a year. Competitive examination has been demonstrated to be practicable for this type of position, but the commission lent itself to the machinations of the politicians in approving the special exception for Dr. Walker."

Samuel H. Ordway, president of the association, commenting on the Walker appointment, said that the law committee was taking up the situation to see if something could be done about it.

Abraham Kaplan, president of the Municipal Civil Service Commission, commenting on this phase of the report, said:

"The Civil Service Reform Association, in issuing its statement as to the status of Dr. Walker, has overlooked a number of material elements. Originally, there was a permanent title in the budget of the Board of Education—'Medical Examiner'—in which Dr. Walker was serving temporarily. The Board of Education found it advisable to abolish the permanent budgetary title of medical examiner. The title, in which Dr. Walker was serving temporarily, is no longer in the budget. The Board of Education filed an application with the Municipal Civil Service Commission requesting permission to employ Dr. Walker from time to time to make special medical examinations, and to pay him at such times as his services are rendered out of a special contingent fund. Dr. Walker is in the same position as medical examiners employed from time to time by the Corporation Counsel's office.

Asserts Facts Are Confused.

"In attempting to create the impression that Dr. Walker is now serving in the permanent budgetary title of medical examiner, the Civil Service Reform Association is confusing the facts.

"As to the assistant court clerks in the municipal and magistrates' courts, these titles have been in the exempt class for a great many years."

In referring to the failure by city and State commissions to include clerks in the municipal and magistrates' courts in the competitive service, it was charged in the association's report that the exemption of these clerks from examinations is "obviously based on political considerations."

The report praised the Legislature for adopting the Hewitt-Hutchinson resolution calling for a survey of the salaries and conditions of employment of more than 27,000 employes in the State civil service, and it urged a reclassification of positions and uniform standardization of salaries in all departments of the State Government.

Praises State Commission.

Discussing reduction of exempt positions in State and city services, the report approved of the work of the State commission in this particular, saying that the State commission has reduced the number of exemptions 30 per cent in the State service, whereas New York City's exemptions have increased by 50 per cent since 1920.

The report further criticizes the large number of exemptions recently approved by the city commission in connection with the newly created Department of Sanitation and calls it "manifestly a palpable attempt to provide the political organization with additional patronage."

The city commission was commended in the report for reducing the number of provisional or temporary appointments from 2,500 in 1927 to less than 750 at the present time.

Mrs. Charles Bennett Smith, chairman of the State Civil Service Commission, who was present, agreed with the report that it was time to amend the laws creating the municipal and magistrates' courts.

George McAneny was elected vice president in place of Charles Evans Hughes, who resigned when he was appointed to the United States Supreme Court bench. The other officers re-elected were:

SAMUEL H. ORDWAY, president.
NELSON S. SPENCER, chairman, executive committee.
A. S. FRISSELL, treasurer.
THEODORE HETZLER, assistant treasurer.
H. ELIOT KAPLAN, secretary.

Ellen Shaw Barlow, C. C. Burlingham, Horace L. Deming, William G. Low, William Church Osborn, Elihu Root, Felix M. Warburg, Mrs. Everett P. Wheeler and George W. Wickersham were named vice presidents.

Indian Is Hanged in Wyoming.

Brakeman Paralyzed on Rails Is Saved by His Red Lantern

CORNING, N. Y., May 14 (AP).—The red lantern which was a part of his daily life for fifteen years as a New York Central brakeman early today saved his life for Arthur J. Howe, 39 years old, of this city.

Temporarily paralyzed by a fall from the caboose of a freight train near Beaver Dam, Howe lay across the tracks unable to move and heard another train on the same track whistle in the distance and saw its headlight bearing down on him.

A few inches beyond his reach lay his red lantern, still burning, despite the tumble. Exerting every effort, Howe inched himself within reach and feebly waved it above his head, just in time to bring the onrushing train to a halt within a few feet of his helpless body.

At a hospital here his worst injuries were said to be shock and a badly wrenched back.

3,000 MEN OF FLEET AT NAVY CLUB DANCE

Party at Astor Last Big Event Before Battleships Depart for Virginia Capes.

MANY VISIT SHIPS IN RAIN

Salt Lake City Will Sail on Sunday to Pick Up Hoover at Newport News.

Three thousand officers and men of the fleet were the guests of the National Navy Club at a dance at the Astor last night. The event was the last large-scale entertainment for the fleet during its visit to New York. With the sailing hour set for 2 P. M. Monday, many of the remaining working hours will be occupied with loading supplies.

Rear Admiral Louis R. de Steiguer, commandant of the Third Naval District, headed the reception committee for the dance. Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, commanding the Fleet Base Force, was a guest of honor.

In spite of the rain which drenched the city yesterday, visitors continued to inspect the battleships and cruisers anchored in the Hudson. The Salt Lake City, new 10,000-ton cruiser, anchored off Dyckman Street, was visited by many who had read of the new ship's performance. Final check-ups yesterday showed that the cruiser maintained an average speed of about 32.7 knots for four hours and at times reached 32.9 knots. Her designed speed was 32.5 knots. Engineer officers said she would be able to maintain a speed of 33 knots if necessary.

The Salt Lake City will sail Sunday afternoon, a day in advance of the fleet, to pick up President Hoover and his party at Newport News, Va., and take them to sea off the Virginia Capes, where the President will review the fleet Tuesday.

Bernard Hall, first class seaman attached to the battleship Wyoming, appeared in the West Side Court yesterday to testify against Charles F. Burgess, manager of the Roseland Dance Hall at 1,658 Broadway, who is charged with discriminating against the United States naval uniform. Hall said admission had been denied to him at the dance hall when he tried to buy tickets for himself and a young woman. Magistrate Louis B. Brodsky explained to Hall that the case probably would not come up in the Court of Special Sessions while he was in port and with the sailor's consent the charge was reduced to one of disorderly conduct, on which Magistrate Brodsky has summary jurisdiction. The magistrate reserved decision until Friday.

This evening Pacific Lodge, No. 233, F. and A. M., will entertain the Masons of the fleet at the grand lodge room of the Masonic Temple, Twenty-third Street and Sixth Avenue. Sir Harry G. Armstrong, British Consul General in New York, will present a silver cigar box to the wardroom mess of the U. S. S. Wyoming at 4 o'clock this afternoon as the gift of the British Government in recognition of services by the Wyoming in the loss of the Vestris.

DR. DENNIS INDUCTED AS EARLHAM PRESIDENT

Thirty-six Universities and Colleges Represented in Ceremonies at Indiana College.

Special to The New York Times.

RICHMOND, Ind., May 14.—Dr. William Cullen Dennis, former international lawyer, counselor and agent for the American Government in several arbitration cases, was inaugurated today as sixth president of Earlham College. He was inducted into office by Dr. Walter C. Woodward, editor of the American Friend and chairman of the college trustees.

Representatives of thirty-six universities and colleges were present in the inaugural assembly. Among the guests was Orville Wright, coinventor with his brother of the airplane, upon whom Earlham conferred an honorary degree a few years ago.

Professor Rufus Jones of the philosophy department of Haverford College and Dr. R. L. Kelly, former president of Earlham and now permanent secretary of the association of American colleges, received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws during the inaugural ceremonies.

Some of those present will have an active part in the deliberations of the Institute of Polity which begins a three-day session at the college tomorrow. This event, largely sponsored by President Dennis, promises to be of wide interest, its proceedings centring about American relations with Latin America and the Far East. Francis White, Assistant Secretary of State, will be the spokesman for the government.

Hailstones Kill Texas Farmer.

LUBBOCK, Texas, May 14 (AP).—Bruises suffered yesterday when J. C. Clack, a farmer, was caught in a severe hail storm while working in a field, have caused his death. The victim succeeded in reaching his home, but died shortly afterward. Property in the vicinity was damaged considerably.

CALLS ROOSEVELT 'POLITICAL MINDED'

Attorney General Ward Here Attacks Governor for Vetoing Bill He Approved.

DENIES HE SOUGHT POWER

Tells Young Republican Club, in Brooklyn, State Legal Work Needs to Be Unified.

Attorney General Hamilton Ward, in discussing last night before the Brooklyn Young Republican Club Governor Roosevelt's veto of the bill approved by the Attorney General, giving that official the right to review and advise upon the actions of the counsel for the various State departments, said that the Governor was "too politically minded" in assuming this bill to be an infringement upon his powers under the Moreland act when actually it had only to do with proceedings in courts of record. Last night's meeting was held at the Brooklyn Club, 131 Remsen Street, Brooklyn.

The Governor's impression that this bill was designed to invade his powers under the Moreland act, Mr. Ward said, had evidently come from comments which the Attorney General made before the New York Republican Club at the time of the City Trust investigation. In that speech, the Attorney General said, he had prophesied that Frank H. Warder, then State Superintendent of Banks, would be made the "goat" of the matter and that no one else would be punished.

"You know whether my prophecy was right or not, don't you?" Mr. Ward asked. "Well, let me tell you, as a result of that comment I made, Mr. Robert Conklin of my office, who had been sitting with the investigators in an advisory capacity, was told that he would have to sit out in the audience. That is where the Governor gets his idea that I was trying to invade the Moreland act.

Not Grasping for Power, He Says.

"This was no grasping for power on my part," Mr. Ward insisted. "In fact, I purposely refrained from making any such suggestion during my first year in office in order that I might not be accused of grasping. If this bill had passed, the added obligations and powers granted by it would have fallen upon my successor in the Attorney General's office, not upon me personally. That is something which the Executive must have failed to realize, and his veto was a proof that he was looking for politics where politics did not exist.

"I would have been unfaithful to the trust reposed in me by the Legislature in asking me to make a study of the needed reorganization of legal departments had I not recommended that they all come under the control of a single department, and that the State's legal department."

The Attorney General outlined the conditions he found in the Attorney General's office after he took over its duties.

Instead of one Attorney General, he said, he found that there were about half a dozen and the different departments had individual counsel. As a result, he asserted, many cases were even being carried to the Supreme Court without any supervision from the Attorney General's office.

"The first thing I did after surveying the state of affairs was to call together for a conference the various counsel for the departments. It was generally agreed that such a state of affairs as existed was wasteful and needed reorganization. Certain bureaus, the Department of Education, the Public Service Commission and the Department of Taxation and Finance had problems of such a nature that they had to have separate counsel.

"It was recommended at this conference that no State-employed counsel should conduct any action affecting the interests of the State or its people in courts of record except on approval by the Attorney General, and that whenever questions of constitutionality, either State or Federal, arose in any litigation the excepted counsel should notify the Attorney General in order that he might participate in the suit if the interests of the State required such participation.

"I ask any one if any of these recommendations look as if they were inspired by politics rather than a desire to improve conditions."

Separate Counsel for Park Boards.

Mr. Ward called attention to the fact that there was a separate counsel for each of the nine distinct park commissions of the State. In his veto message, Mr. Ward said, Governor Roosevelt remarked that as each of these counsel had functions which were peculiar to the park departments he did not want them disturbed. Such an attitude the Attorney General characterized as shortsighted, because, he said, under the present arrangement there was an expense of unnecessary thousands of dollars to the State.

"I cannot help but feel that this bill of which I approved was in the interests of a better administration of the law business of the State," Mr. Ward declared. "It is my sincere belief that it was non-political in its character and that the reason given for its veto had no real application to the problem itself nor to the circumstances involved. There is such a thing as being too politically minded."

$170,000 FOR TWO PICTURES

Prices at London Sale Surprise Most of the Bidders.

LONDON, May 14 (AP).—Two pictures offered at the West End auction rooms today created a surprise, inasmuch as they realized £34,000 (about $170,000) in a few minutes of bidding.

The first was a hitherto unrecorded Rembrandt bearing his signature and the date 1658, which brought £18,500.

The other was a Flemish school portrait of Dame Elizabeth Bullen, for which the purchaser paid £15,500.

Five Reds Get 90-Day Sentences.

LOS ANGELES, May 14 (AP).—Five alleged Communists, one a woman, were under ninety-day jail sentences each today for disturbing the peace. The quintet was charged with nearly causing a riot at the Roosevelt High School, April 25. Yetta Stromberg of San Bernardino, Abraham and Martin Shapiro, Israel Shuman and Tuffy Mallet were those sentenced. Their attorney served notice of appeal after their conviction yesterday and bonds of $500 each were fixed.

Woman Pensioner Sues City for Salary, Too; Court Intimates Her Demand Will Be Granted

Miss Honora B. Gelston, an Assistant Corporation Counsel, who was retired on pensions as a school teacher because of disability several years ago, brought an action in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn yesterday to compel Controller Berry to pay to her $1,312 alleged to be due as part of her annual salary of $4,500 as Assistant Corporation Counsel.

Mr. Berry is withholding her pay, his counsel informed Justice May, because of the annual pension of $479 which she draws from the teachers' retirement fund. He contends that under Section 1560 of the city charter she is not entitled to draw a pension and a salary for a public office at the same time.

Justice May, to whom Miss Gelston applied for a peremptory writ of mandamus to compel payment of her salary, reserved decision but said he might be obliged to grant the application. He added, however, that he believed the Controller was justified in opposing the application until its determination by a court.

Controller Berry was represented by Miss Gelston's colleague, Assistant Corporation Counsel William E. C. Mayer. He said that Miss Gelston applied for retirement in 1923 because of disability, which consisted of total deafness in one ear and impairment of the hearing of the other. The Teachers' Retirement Board granted her application on Dec. 12, 1923, and allowed her an annuity of $479, he declared. On July 24, 1924, she was appointed an Assistant Corporation Counsel, Mr. Mayer informed the court, and since then has been drawing both the pension and her salary.

When the Controller learned that she had been drawing both the teacher's pension and the Assistant Corporation Counsel's salary he refused to pay her salary until such time as she might return the total of $1,750 which she has received in pension payments.

Miss Gelston contended yesterday that the Controller had no right to withhold her salary and that if the Teachers' Retirement Board had a grievance against her it could proceed against her directly. She said, after the hearing, that two years ago there had been a question raised as to her right to the pension and the retirement board threatened then to bring an action against her but failed to do so. She said that she felt justified in accepting both the pension and the salary because one was a State matter and the other a municipal one.

CITY BARS PAYMENT ON USELESS TRUCKS

TWELVE COST $6,400 EACH

Sales Commission Is Deducted and Also Sum Spent for Hire While Repairs Were Being Made.

After extended hearings in which testimony showed that twelve street cleaning trucks bought for Queens had been out of service 164 days out of 300, Deputy Controller Frank J. Prial cut the $80,000 bill for them yesterday to $56,645.

The testimony showed that the sale of the trucks was negotiated by Edgar K. James, formerly a confidential inspector for Borough President George U. Harvey. James arranged the purchase after leaving his city position and was to receive a commission on each truck. On this account the Deputy Controller deducted $600, and also deducted $20,055 for three trucks he found virtually useless. He also cut from the bill the amount spent for truck hire by the city while the defective trucks were being repaired.

Maurice J. Freeman, chairman of the regular Democratic Citizens' Committee of Queens, precipitated an investigation into the transaction with a letter last March to Alderman Timothy J. Sullivan, chairman of the Aldermanic Committee on Public Letting. He charged that Queens was paying almost $2,010 more for each truck than Asbury Park, N. J., paid for similar equipment. On the request of Raymond G. Pollard, Commissioner of Public Works, the Board of Aldermen approved the purchase of the trucks without public letting.

Mr. Pollard said the trucks were furnished by the Auto-Car Company and were the best on the market for garbage and ash collection. Six were equipped with special Atla bodies and six with Collecto bodies and they cost about $6,400 each. The market price for each truck was $8,500 and Mr. Pollard said he had saved about $24,000 on the purchase through calling for "informal bids." Mr. Prial found that the Asbury Park trucks were equipped with light motors, which accounted for the difference in price. He was emphatic in saying that the city would not pay for useless equipment and that the truck manufacturers would have to sue the city to recover the full amount of their claim.

TWO DIE IN HAITIAN CLASH.

Six Others Wounded in Attempt to Collect Tax.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, May 14 (AP).—Reports were received in Port au Prince today of a clash on May 12 between a Garde d'Haiti force and the inhabitants of a place near Abricot which resulted in the death of two of the inhabitants and the wounding of six. One of those killed was a woman.

The Garde force, consisting of ten men, was commanded by Lieutenant William Paul, who is a first sergeant in the United States Marine Corps. Lieutenant Paul enlisted in Brooklyn in 1916 and was commissioned in the Garde d'Haiti.

The clash grew out of efforts of tax collectors to serve judgment in a delinquent tax case which was in the nature of a test, since much opposition to the tax laws has been shown in this region.

A settlement was about to be made, reports of the clash said, when about 200 peasants armed with machetes and clubs appeared and would not permit payment of the tax. They began storming the customs officials and the Garde. Finally the Gardes fired in the air and over the heads of the crowd, which failed to disperse and continued throwing stones.

To avoid bloodshed the Garde and officials were stated to have withdrawn to Abricot. The casualties were discovered in the vicinity of the encounter later, and the report said they appeared to have been caused by stray shots. Lieutenant Paul reported that no order to fire into the crowd had been given.

CLINTON INQUIRY IS ENDED ABRUPTLY

State Committee Unexpectedly Stops Interviewing Prisoners on Alleged Brutality.

STORIES ARE KEPT SECRET

Dr. Kieb Predicts Exoneration of Guards, Who Defend Measures as Necessary.

DANNEMORA, N. Y., May 14.—The investigation of conditions at Clinton prison here by a committee of the State Commission of Corrections was abruptly adjourned today until an indefinite date. No testimony was taken this morning, although Walter W. Nicholson of Syracuse, who acted as spokesman for the committee, had previously said: "We expect to take testimony all day Wednesday and Thursday and I cannot tell how much longer."

The sudden termination of the hearing was marked with the same secrecy with which the committee has proceeded from the beginning. Scheduled to start today, the investigation actually got quietly under way on Monday. The stories told by convicts brought in handcuffs from the isolation cells, where they have been kept since the outbreak last July, were kept secret.

Whether the evidence supports or refutes charges of brutality the committee members have refused to disclose.

Dr. Kieb Hears Wall.

Dr. Raymond F. C. Kieb, Commissioner of Correction, who is at the prison today with the State architect going over plans for the construction authorized by the Legislature, was outspoken in his belief that the charges of brutality will not be substantiated. Although ex-officio a member of all committees of the Commission of Corrections he has not attended any of the hearings, because any investigation of prison conditions is in effect an investigation of his administration, since he is head of the prison system.

As Dr. Kieb passed the prison gate today at noon the wail of the 191 men confined in the isolation cells could be heard outside the prison walls above the music of the band which plays daily as the men march into the mess hall. The individual howls and shrieks of the penned men were lost, but the diapason of sound welled over the walls. This chorus of discontent is a sure indication of the temper of the prisoners and is reflected by the tense watchfulness of the guards.

Guards Defend Measures.

The committee has given no indication of when it will resume its inquiry but has very plainly indicated that it prefers to work in secrecy. Even the fact that the hearing had been adjourned did not become known until Dr. Kieb said that the members had left the prison. Guards were evasive, and in response to direct queries merely said: "Oh, they're somewhere around."

The guards quite frankly believe that the committee will give them a clean bill. Their position is that, faced with desperate men after the attempted prison delivery last July, strenuous measures were necessary, and they took them.

It was part of the job to be done, they feel, and their amazement is not that there should have been charges of brutality, but that there should be any need for an investigation. One, more vocal than most of them, for in their job they learn to be close-mouthed, shouted derisively to newspaper correspondents as they left the gates.

"Well, what are we, white as snow or black as coal?"

Slew Wife With a Rolling Pin.

PORTLAND, Me., May 14 (AP).—Kenneth Williams, 20, of Yarmouth, was indicted for murder by a Cumberland County grand jury late today after he had confessed to the slaying of his 18-year-old wife with a rolling pin because of "general dissatisfaction with conditions at home." The body of Mrs. Williams, a prospective mother, was found at the foot of a barn stairway of Ernest R. Smith, a neighbor. She was passing through the barn to the Smith home for a game of cards when she was killed.

WALSH SUBPOENAED; IGNORED CRAIN NOTE

Too Busy to Appear Before Grand Jury as Requested by District Attorney.

DOYLE REPORTED DEFIANT

Both the Federal and county grand jury investigations of matters bearing upon the conduct of the New York City Board of Standards and Appeals met obstacles yesterday which the authorities will attempt to surmount today by more aggressive action than has yet characterized either inquiry.

The failure of William E. Walsh, chairman of the Board of Standards and Appeals, to reply to a letter from District Attorney Crain asking him whether he would waive immunity and appear before the grand jury, caused the issuance of a request subpoena for Mr. Walsh to appear at Mr. Crain's office at 2:15 P. M today. In the absence of Mr. Walsh the subpoena was accepted on his behalf by William J. O'Gorman, secretary of the board. He said the chairman had left his office for the day and that he would give him the subpoena this morning.

Mr. Walsh said over the telephone later that he knew nothing of the service of the subpoena, but would receive it today if it had been left at his office in the Municipal Building. He admitted he had received a letter from Mr. Crain on Tuesday asking him if he would appear before the grand jury and waive immunity from prosecution. Mr. Walsh would not commit himself on the question of whether he would waive, but said he had telephoned Mr. Crain's office and told the District Attorney he had been busy on Tuesday at a meeting of his board.

The chairman said he was busy yesterday as well cleaning up matters brought up at the Tuesday board meeting. Without further reference to the subpoena, he asserted he would reply to Mr. Crain's letter as soon as his official duties would permit.

Threat of Contempt Action.

The obstacle to the further progress of the Federal grand jury investigation was Dr. William F. Doyle's reported refusal to answer certain questions not, in his opinion, having a direct bearing upon the bankruptcy of Mrs. Lottie Cutler of Passaic, N. J. It is understood that his attitude throughout his three appearances before the Federal grand jury has been that the government had no right to ask him certain questions.

United States Attorney Tuttle said last night that if Dr. Doyle did not make satisfactory answers before the grand jury today he would "take the matter before a Federal judge." Such a procedure ordinarily means a possible citation for contempt. Mr. Tuttle would not admit that this was his purpose, saying he did not like to use the word "contempt" in this case.

Mrs. Cutler, whose testimony before a referee in bankruptcy in Paterson, N. J., precipitated both the Federal and county grand jury investigations, told the referee she had paid $10,000 to obtain a permit from the Board of Standards and Appeals for a gasoline station in Jamaica, Queens, and that $5,000 of that amount had been paid in cash to Dr. Doyle.

Dr. Doyle, a former veterinarian and later head of the Fire Prevention Bureau of the Fire Department, denied he had ever received any sum of money in cash from Mrs. Cutler, but admitted he had handled her case before the board and had been paid by her in two checks, the first a $250 "retainer" and the second for either $1,500 or $1,750 as his fee.

Mr. Tuttle said that Dr. Doyle had requested the privilege yesterday of conferring with his counsel, former General Sessions Judge Alfred J. Talley, before answering certain questions put to him in the grand jury room. Mr. Talley, according to Mr. Tuttle, was in the grand jury anteroom, but, in view of the fact that another important matter was being held up by the questioning of Dr. Doyle, the United States Attorney felt he could not wait for a conference between lawyer and client.

Mr. Tuttle decided to put off until today taking any action in the matter, presumably thus giving Dr. Doyle an opportunity to confer with his attorney.

Missing Witness Appears.

The appearance at Mr. Tuttle's office yesterday of Miss Elsie Blum of 101 State Street, Camden, N. J., prevented the issuance of warrants for the arrest of her and her sister, Mrs. Cutler. Mr. Tuttle had said on Tuesday that unless Mrs. Cutler and Miss Blum were heard from yesterday he would apply for warrants for their arrest.

Miss Blum told Assistant United States Attorney J. A. Wilson that she had been in Philadelphia and had learned of Mr. Tuttle's desire to see her and her sister only through the newspapers. She said also that she felt certain she could locate her sister and that both would appear at Mr. Tuttle's office today. At Mrs. Cutler's home, 96 Third Street, Passaic, it was said by neighbors last night that she was visiting her sister in Camden.

Miss Blum was served yesterday with a subpoena to appear on Monday before the county grand jury.

District Attorney Crain's proposed questioning of complainants in the presence of reporters did not materialize yesterday. Mr. Crain and Assistant District Attorneys Albert B. Unger, Thomas F. Kane and Morris Panger waited in their offices until after 5 P. M. in the hope that complainants would appear to tell of alleged criminality in connection with the conduct of the Board of Standards and Appeals. Mr. Crain said he would be prepared to hear complainants from 2 to 4 P. M. today.

The county grand jury will resume its inquiry today, when, it is understood, Mr. O'Gorman will be a witness, as will also Herbert Ascher, an attorney, of 475 Fifth Avenue. Mr. Ascher is to appear also before the Federal grand jury. Mr. Tuttle told him yesterday to report at the Federal Building as soon as Mr. Crain excused him. Other witnesses expected before the Federal grand jury today are Dr. Doyle, Mrs. Cutler and Miss Blum.

Talkies Put in Governor's Mansion.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 14 (AP).—Former Governor Smith had his movies, but Governor Roosevelt will have his talkies. Talking motion picture apparatus has been installed in the billiard room of the executive mansion to make possible private showings of the new type of pictures. It will be put in use when the Governor returns from his vacation at Warm Springs, Ga.

Mr. Rogers on Matrimony And Good Football Playing

To the Editor of The New York Times:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 14.—The poor U. S. Army suffered its greatest defeat yesterday. It was left humiliated and prostrated on the field by an old age-worn, motheaten marriage certificate.

In delving through old historical documents, it was found that Private Red Cagle possessed an incumbrance in the way of a wife. So today the Secretary of War yanked him out of the West Point line-up and sent in fourteen single men to replace him.

No wonder the Navy quit playing them. You can't beat boys that are doing it "for the wife and kiddies" and not for just the glory of the campus. This of course will cancel all games by Red after he "went matrimony."

The whole thing looks like another scheme to discredit the present Republican Administration, as Red is a Louisiana Democrat.

The moral is, if matrimony aids all players like it did him, Knute Rockne's Notre Dame team must all be bigamists.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

ENGINEER GUILTY ON SEWER CHARGES

Great Neck Board Official Convicted of Violating Public Officers' Law.

CLEARED OF ILLEGAL FEES

C. H. Watson Was Head of Company That Sold Materials for Work He Supervised—Faces Year Term.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., Thursday, May 15.—Carl H. Watson of Great Neck, supervising engineer of the Belgrave Sewer Commission and president of the Gregory Coal and Lumber Company, was found guilty of violation of the public officers' act in connection with the sale of materials by his company to a contractor employed by the commission, in a verdict returned at 1:30 A. M. today by a jury in the Supreme Court.

The jury, which received the case at 2:15 P. M. yesterday, found Watson not guilty on the first count of the indictment against him, charging him with taking illegal fees.

Watson was continued on bail for sentence next Tuesday. He faces a maximum sentence of one year in jail or a $500 fine or both.

In charging the jury Supreme Court Justice Humphrey added that "as a matter of law, the thing he did was unlawful, but the question whether he showed willful intent to carry on as a seller of goods while supervising the use of those goods" remained for them to determine.

The defense, directed by Charles R. Weeks, had urged in summing up the case that Mr. Watson was not a public officer under the meaning of the statute, and that to convict him of taking fees illegally on this charge it was necessary to prove his criminal intent to violate the law. There was no fraud or criminal intent shown by the defendant in delivering the materials to the contractor, Mr. Weeks contended, and it was, therefore, not in violation of the penal statute. There was no secrecy about his work in the two positions, which he believed it was honest to hold, Mr. Weeks added.

Calls Business a "Racket."

District Attorney Edwards told the jury that the chief question to consider was whether Watson, as president of the company which supplied the material for the job, over which he presided as supervising engineer, did not violate the statute.

"In other words, Watson was placed in a position of trust," said the District Attorney, "and put the machinery in motion, which gave his company this business. These few men started 'a racket' for that district with all the attendant fees and increased business. The Gregory Company advanced $7,000 on the preliminary plans to have the district formed. Watson, the supplier of the material, wanted to get the work started right away."

Justice Humphrey, in his charge, pointed out that the dispute in the case was whether during the making of the contract Watson unlawfully had received through his corporation something which he was not entitled to receive as supervising engineer of the construction of the sewer.

"According to Section 1868 of the statute," he continued, "the defendant was a public officer, clothed with power to exercise discretion and paid from public funds, and if you find he willfully accepted a profit in the discharge of his duties, he is guilty of a violation of that provision of the statute. The question is not the extent of the profit, but whether he knowingly and willfully accepted it."

MINISTER'S SUIT HEARD.

Court Reserves Decision in Divorce Action of John R. Reeves.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., May 14.—Vice Chancellor Vivian M. Lewis reserved decision today following argument in the divorce suit of the Rev. John R. Reeves of Asbury Park, former pastor of the First Reformed Church of Hawthorne, N. J. Mr. Reeves accused his wife, Margaret D. Reeves, of misconduct with Charles D. Petry, choir singer. Petry is the father of three grown children.

In summing up, former Assemblyman John M. Ward criticized Mr. Reeves for having sent his two young children to the witness stand to testify against their mother. Mrs. Reeves's counsel said the minister was a "betrayer of his wife and his God."

St. Mark's Staff Honors Dr. Tilton.

Dr. Benjamin T. Tilton, chief surgeon of St. Mark's Hospital, Eleventh Street and Second Avenue, was honored last night at a testimonial dinner at Luchow's Restaurant, 110 East Fourteenth Street. The dinner was given by the members of the medical staff of the hospital in appreciation of Dr. Tilton's services among the poor of the east side during the last twenty years.

CITIES SERVICE GIVES $42,750,000 RIGHTS

TIME LIMIT SET AT JUNE 16

New Securities, Underwritten by Syndicate, Callable at Not Exceeding 105.

WIDE EXPANSION PLANNED

Construction and Acquisitions for This Year Are Estimated at $155,000,000.

Rights valued at about $42,750,000 are to be given to holders of Cities Service Company common stock of record May 29, permitting the purchase of $120,000,000 of 5 per cent convertible debentures, due 1950, as a result of financing plans adopted by the directors at a special meeting Tuesday, Henry L. Doherty & Co. announced yesterday. Total assets of the Cities Service System surpassed $1,090,000,000 at the close of 1929.

Holders of Cities Service stock will receive the right to purchase $4 principal amount of the debenture for each share of stock held, or $100 principal amount for each 25 shares owned. The rights must be exercised and debentures paid for on or before June 16. On the basis of yesterday's price of 38⅛ for Cities Service stock and about 30,000,000 common shares to be outstanding on the record date, the rights are worth $1.42½ each. They were traded in "when issued" on the New York Produce Exchange securities market yesterday between 1 7/16 and 1 7/16, ending at the latter price.

Between Dec. 1, 1930, and June 1, 1931, the debentures are convertible into Cities Service common stock at $27.50 a share. The conversion price increases $1.25 a share every six months until June 2, 1935, when it reaches $38.75 a share. The conversion privilege expires Dec. 1, 1935. The indenture will contain provisions designed to protect the conversion privilege against dilution.

Rights Will Be Transferable.

The rights will be transferable so that stockholders may buy or sell rights sufficient to purchase even amounts of the debentures in any denominations desired. Based on the present market price for Cities Service common stock, a $100 debenture which can be exchanged after Dec. 1 for 3.64 shares of common stock would be worth about $138.

The issue has been underwritten by a syndicate headed by Harris, Forbes & Co., Halsey, Stuart & Co., and the Harris Trust and Savings Bank. The debentures will be in coupon form, in denominations of $100, $500 and $1,000. They are callable at various prices, not exceeding 105. Debentures called for redemption will be convertible at any time up to and including the date fixed for redemption.

The proceeds of the issue, together with surplus earnings for the year, will provide for construction, additional investments and extensions to the properties of the company and subsidiaries planned for the calendar year 1930.

The expansion program involves a total expenditure of about $155,000,000. The forthcoming offering of debentures, in the amount of about $120,000,000, therefore, will provide for all new capital requirements for 1930, except such projects as may be decided upon subsequently and such refinancing operations as may be undertaken.

Similar A. T. & T. Financing.

The offering is the largest public utility financing this year with the exception of the offerings of bonds and stock by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. The plan of financing, while a new departure, resembled to some extent the offering to stockholders of $219,000,000 of convertible debentures by the American Telephone and Telegraph a year ago.

Among the $155,000,000 expenditures of Cities Service scheduled for this year is the construction, in participation with the Insull interests and several large oil companies, of a $100,000,000 natural gas pipe line system extending from the Amarillo field in Texas to Chicago and Eastern points.

Cities Service early this year acquired control of the $55,000,000 Federal Light and Traction Company, which owns a group of electric light and gas properties operating in many States and in Canada.

More than $100,000,000 was spent for additions, improvements and acquisitions in 1929. The largest part of this expenditure went into the expansion of the company's oil producing, refining and marketing and natural gas properties.

The company had 359,000 stockholders at the end of 1929, while security holders of the company and subsidiaries totaled 750,000.

The competitors are Cadets Mae Winchell, New York; Annetta Turkington, Atlanta, Ga.; Lillian Tucker, San Francisco, and Paul Robb, Chicago. Their subject will be "The Value of the Salvation Army to Society."

STATE DEATH RATE DROPPED IN MARCH

INFANT MORTALITY LOWER

Rate Is 70 Per 1,000 Living Births —Cancer, Homicide and Suicide Rates Up, Report Shows.

The March, 1930, State death rate, 13.9 per 1,000 population, was the lowest for that month since 1927, which in turn had had the lowest rate since 1885, according to the current issue of Health News, weekly publication of the New York State Department of Health. The infant mortality rate, 70 deaths under one year per 1,000 living births, has been lower only once in March.

Mortality from the important diseases of childhood and of the respiratory system again was below normal this March, several low death rate records being shattered, but unprecedented death rates were recorded as the result of cancer, with 140 deaths per 100,000 population; suicide, with 20.5 deaths per 100,000 and homicide, 7.1, all three of which reached new all-time maximum records for any month. A new maximum record for automobile deaths in March was set, 20.3 per 100,000.

Death rates from diphtheria, 4.1 per 100,000, and scarlet fever, 2.1, declined to new low points for the month. The rates from measles, 1.6 per 100,000 and whooping cough, 3.3, have been lower only once in March. Mortality from influenza, 14.6 per 100,000, and pneumonia, 160.2, has never been lower in March and the death rate from tuberculosis, 83.6, has been lower only once, in 1929.

Birth rates per 1,000 population for March, 1930, were 18.3, as compared with 18.4 in the same month last year and 20.4, the average for March from 1925 to 1929 inclusive. The death rate for March, 1929, was 14.1 per 1,000 and the average for March for the five-year period was 15.3. The infant mortality rate for March, 1929, was 73 and for the five-year period 76.

The total number of cases of reportable diseases was 26,793 in March this year, as compared with 26,421 last year and 32,135, the average for the five-year period, the average rate per 100,000 population having been 2650.6 this March, 2,644.7 last March, and 3,301.6 for the period including 1925 through 1929. Pneumonia lead in the number of cases, there having been 4,191 cases this March, 4,182 last March, the five-year average having been 5,166.

MRS. ROOSEVELT ASKS 'VISION' IN EDUCATION

Tells Graham Alumnae Colleges Fail to Prepare Children for Problems of Life.

Because present-day education fails to prepare children to take part in adult life, emphasis should be shifted from the manner of teaching academic subjects to the more fundamental problem of preparing children for the life they must lead, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said yesterday in an address at the annual luncheon of the Graham School Alumnae Association at the Ambassador.

"There are many changes in nursery schools and elementary schools, but fewer changes in the colleges today," Mrs. Roosevelt said. "We ought to be putting a great deal more emphasis on the fact that primarily we are preparing our children to enter life. In the education we are giving them wo do not really prepare them to do anything. They come out of college and ask what they are going to do next.

"We give must attention to the way in which we teach academic subjects, how to make them more vivid and interesting. But in our schools and colleges we are not giving our children early enough a vision of the things they might do."

Mrs. Roosevelt, herself a former school teacher, urged that children be taught that the purpose of their study is to enable them to deal with the problems of the day.

Mrs. King Smith was elected president of the association, Mrs. W. M. Hartshorn vice president, Mrs. Lewis M. Borden second vice president, Mrs. Walter F. Murray secretary, and Miss E. Ballantine secretary. Mrs. Rutherford Trowbridge, retiring president, was toastmaster.

WILL AID URUGUAY CENTRE.

Dr. C. C. Burlingame Sails Tomorrow to Develop Medical Group There

Joseph Richling, Consul General of Uruguay, announced yesterday that the South American Republic will erect a medical centre on the plan of the Columbia-Presbyterian Hospital centre of New York. He said also that Dr. C. Charles Burlingame of this city had been appointed to collaborate in the development of the enterprise, and will sail for South America tomorrow.

Mr. Richling explained that the medical centre will be financed by the government and will incorporate the elements of medicine, teaching and research in a single group.

General William Barclay Parsons, chairman of the joint administrative board of the Medical Centre, said:

"We welcome the announcement that a sister republic is to establish a medical centre of great international importance to which we will look for great contributions to the science of medicine and the art of healing."

CAGLE AND WIFE HERE, REMAIN IN SECLUSION

Christian K. Cagle, West Point football star, whose secret marriage two years ago to Miss Marian Haile of Louisiana, in violation of the rules of the military academy, resulted in his resignation, came to New York yesterday afternoon and joined his wife a few hours after she had arrived here from her home.

They kept in seclusion, stopping, it was believed, at the Astor, although officials of that hotel denied that they were there. It was announced at the Astor, however, that Cagle would give out a statement at the Astor at 11 o'clock this morning. It was also said that he had gone to Montauk Point, L. I., last evening. No trace of him could be found there.

Cagle left West Point by automobile shortly after noon yesterday, making his departure in secret, aided by the officers of the academy. They desired to save him as much inconvenience and annoyance as possible, it was explained.

Although Cagle had committed a court-martial offense first by getting married while a cadet and second by hiding this fact from the academy authorities, Major Gen. William R. Smith, superintendent of the institution, said that "the great academy is not going to get excited over one little cadet, at least not while I am here."

General Smith that Cagle was "a foolish boy," adding, "he has thrown away his prestige and his diploma."

Mrs. Cagle arrived at the Pennsylvania station at 11:45 A. M. from Louisiana on the Crescent Limited. She declined to be interviewed and ran the gauntlet of photographers. She went at once to the Astor and spent the afternoon resting, awaiting the arrival of her husband.

Cagle's arrangement to be assistant football coach of the Mississippi A. and M. College apparently has been completed, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Jackson, Miss., last night. It said that President B. M. Walker of the college had announced that Cagle would report on Sept. 1 to begin a two-year contract.

MRS. RIGAUD'S CLAIM ON MALONE IS DENIED

The application by Mrs. Gladys Rigaud, former wife of Edward J. Barber, steamship company head, to compel her former attorney Dudley Field Malone to turn over $15,000 of $375,000 paid for her by Mr. Barber on the ground that he kept that sum in excess of his agreed fee, was denied yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Gavegan. The court ruled that Mrs. Rigaud's right to the $15,000 was not sufficiently clear to warrant the summary order asked for, and that if she had any claim she should enforce it in a lawsuit. She asserted that Mr. Malone took $55,000 after agreeing to charge only $40,000.

Mr. Malone contended that he had recovered $375,000 instead of $300,000 for Mrs. Rigaud from her former husband, and that the increased recovery warranted him in charging an additional fee. Remarking that "there is such a conflict in the affidavits as to render it impossible to summarily dispose of his motion," Justice Gavegan said that "without a trial it cannot be determined whether the lawyer's explanations are to be accepted."

"Concerning Mrs. Rigaud's allegations as to a balance of $1,510 due her out of an item of $5,000, Justice Gavegan pointed out that Mr. Malone had submitted a photostatic copy of a check paid to her for that sum. The court also commented on a letter written by the lawyer to his former client, which she contended was an admission that he had charged her twice, and said:

"I am unable to understand the letter as she interprets it."

SAILS, RISKING DEPORTATION

Berengaria Passenger May Be Barred by England.

Among passengers who sailed yesterday on the Berengaria was Israel Balaban, 68 years old, a retired wholesale grocer, who departed without being certain that he will be permitted to land in England.

Balaban came from Russia in 1880 and took out first papers. He said he had voted for eight Presidents, and believed he was an American citizen until he applied for a passport and was informed by the State Department that he was not. The Department of Labor granted him a return permit. The French Consulate declined to give him a visa, but his sons, who have been conferring with the British Consulate, hope to arrange his landing in England.

John Field, English promoter, who had been detained at Ellis Island since he arrived, ten days ago, sailed on the liner for London to face charges that he withheld $300,000 in a bankruptcy proceeding. Gertrude Lawrence, English actress, also sailed.

REPORTS JAIL FIRE RISKS.

Dorman Urges Sprinklers, Guard Wall and Exits at Raymond St.

Fire Commissioner Dorman recommended changes to the Department of Correction yesterday for the elimination of fire hazards at the Raymond Street jail in Brooklyn after making a three-day fire survey there.

He advised the erection of a fireproof wall across one end of the jail, the erection of fire-escapes, installation of a sprinkler system and the construction of two additional exits. The changes will cost about $150,000, and an appropriation will be asked from the Board of Estimate by Richard Patterson Jr., Commissioner of Correction. Commissioner Dorman will make surveys of the other seventeen municipal penal institutions. The Fire Commissioner opened a school for firemen assisting fire-prevention inspectors yesterday.

Eckener Notifies Rio de Janeiro to Expect Dirigible May 23.

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 14 (AP).—Dr. Hugo Eckener today notified military authorities that the Graf Zeppelin would arrive here the morning of May 23 on its South American flight and would stay two or three hours, held down by a crew of soldiers.

Arrangements have been made whereby persons can see the big airship from a distance for about 60 cents, but if they wish to go near it the charge will be about $6.

CAPONE FREE AGAIN AFTER NIGHT IN JAIL

Miami Judge Releases Gangster and 3 Companions Because of Absence of Any Charge.

ARRESTED AT PRIZE FIGHT

Habeas Corpus Writ Balks City's Campaign for the Second Time Within a Week.

MIAMI, Fla., May 14 (AP).—Alphonse (Scarface Al) Capone walked from the municipal jail today, freed for the second time within a week by a habeas corpus writ that countered Miami's official campaign to arrest him as often as he is found in the city limits.

Freed with Capone were three companions arrested with him at a boxing bout last night. They were Nick Circulee, Albert Prignano and Sylvester Agoglia. Circulee and Prignano were also arrested last Thursday with the Chicago gangster.

Circuit Judge Thompson issued the writ today to free the racketeer and his companions after they had spent seventeen hours in jail, following their detention on an investigation charge. Judge Thompson also signed the writ that freed Capone and his companions from custody last week.

The judge said he did not take the position that a warrant was always necessary before an arrest could be made, or that the arresting officers must see a crime committed. He held, however, that the city had not shown sufficient legal cause to hold the men further.

Mayor Appears as Witness.

Witnesses at today's hearing were Mayor Reeder, S. D. McCreary, Director of Public Safety; F. H. Wharton, City Manager, and Chief of Police Reeve.

McCreary said the arrests followed his order, issued following numerous complaints from Maimi citizens regarding the gangster's presence in the city. Capone frequently comes to Miami from his Winter residence on Palm Island, Miami Beach.

Capone, whose quiet demeanor last night contrasted with his angry protests at the time of his arrest last week, played cards with his companions in their joint cell for some time last night, police said.

Early today, after declining the jail breakfast, Capone sent out for more elaborate meals for himself and the other men.

The order to arrest Capone was suspended temporarily early this week when he petitioned the Circuit Court for an injunction forbidding his arrest without a warrant. The order again was placed in force, however, when Judge Thompson declined to hear the petition until a similar action on file in Federal court was withdrawn.

Proceedings to padlock Capone's Palm Island estate as a nuisance are pending in the State courts.

LAUDS CITY TRAFFIC RULE.

Former Mayor of Glasgow Also Says New York Is a Go-Ahead Place.

New York's traffic, considering its volume, is admirably controlled, according to Sir Matthew W. Montgomery, former Lord Mayor of Glasgow, Scotland, who is visiting America for the first time. "It's a go-ahead city," he said. "So far I like everything about it—the skyscrapers, docks, stores and hotels, but your trams are out of date and prices are high, fearfully high."

It was the traffic signal system that impressed him most, he declared. Sir Matthew said he intended to tell Glasgow officials of the success of New York's system. Today Sir Matthew hopes to meet Commissioner Whalen and to confer with him on other details of New York's traffic management. He intends to visit Philadelphia, Washington, Niagara Falls, Toronto and Montreal before returning on June 13 to Scotland.

RUMANIAN BANDITS CAUGHT.

Five Who Robbed C. S. Dewey and Companions Confess Crime.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUCHAREST, May 14.—The five bandits who on May 6 held up the motor car in which Charles S. Dewey, American financial adviser to the Polish Government; Charles A. Davila, Rumanian Minister at Washington, and Countess Jan Szembek, wife of the Polish Minister, at Bucharest, were returning from a banquet given by Prince Bibesco at the Castle of Mogoscala and robbed them, were arrested last night.

The robbers, who are well known to the police, confessed fully, and part of the jewelry they stole has been recovered.

SON SLAYS FATHER OF NINE.

Montana Boy Quickly Acquitted After Fatal Family Row.

LEWISTOWN, Mont., May 14 (AP).—Firman P. Housel appeared sullen at breakfast. After the meal he began abusing his wife and nine children, culminating his tirade by striking a daughter in the face and hitting Mrs. Housel with a stool.

A rifle stood against a wall. Herschell Housel, 17-year-old son, raced his father to the weapon. The youth reached it first, leveled the gun and shot and killed the parent.

A coroner's jury yesterday exonerated the youth after three minutes deliberation.

Admirals at Radio to Discuss Navy.

Rear Admiral T. P. Magruder, who was the ranking active naval officer at the London Naval Arms Conference, will be heard at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon over WEAF'S network as he discusses the results of the conference at a luncheon at the Hotel McAlpin, to be held under the sponsorship of the Metropolitan Council of Exchange Clubs. Other speakers and their topics will be: Rear Admiral A. J. Hepburn, on "The Fleet in Action;" Rear Admiral Horance Laning, commander of the scouting fleet and next president of the War College, "The Navy as a Means of Defense;" and Rear Admiral F. H. Schofield, of the New Mexico, on "The Fleet as Coast Protection."

To Broadcast Speech by O. L. Mills.

Ogden L. Mills, Under-Secretary of the Treasury, is to be heard over WABC's nation-wide network between 9 and 9:30 o'clock tonight as he speaks on "Some Aspects of the Economic Outlook" at the dinner of the American Association of Advertising Agencies. The Columbia Broadcasting System is furnishing a group of entertainers for the dinner but this part of the program will not be heard on the air.

RADIO BOARD DEFENDS ORDER AGAINST WGBS

Cites 'Superabundance' of Broadcasting Here in Upholding Assignment to WICC.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The Federal Radio Commission today filed in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals a statement of facts in connection with the appeal of broadcasting station WGBS of Astoria, L. I., against the commission's order taking the station off 600 kilocycles.

The station had received a temporary assignment of 600 kilocycles. Municipal broadcasting station WNYC and WMCA, both of New York, operating on 570 kilocycles, notified the commission that the assignment was causing interference with their broadcasts, there being a separation of only 30 kilocycles, instead of the usual 50. Following a hearing the commission ordered WGBS off 600 kilocycles.

The station obtained a stay order of the court and is still operating on 600 kilocycles. In the meantime, the commission has granted a license to station WICC, Bridgeport, Conn., to operate on that frequency. The court ordered that the grant should be rescinded.

In connection with the assignment to WICC, the commission states that "New York City has more radio broadcasting facilities than any other place in the first zone; it has a superabundance of radio broadcasting service, whereas there are only four stations in the entire State of Connecticut."

The Rev. A. K. White and Bishop Alma White asked the commission for a construction permit for a new broadcasting station to be erected at Zarepath, N. J., by the Pillar of Fire Alma White College, to use 100 watts power and to operate three hours a day on 1310 kilocycles.

DR. MYERS PRAISES METHODS OF HOOVER

SEES GAIN IN POPULARITY

Princeton Professor Calls Senate Egotistical and Scores Borah for Deserting Executive.

Herbert Hoover was termed "America's blueprint President" in an address last night at the Twenty-third Assembly District Republican Club, 90 Bennett Avenue, by Dr. William Starr Myers, professor of political science at Princeton University. The speaker praised the Hoover Administration, condemned the Senate and took Senator Borah to task, saying, "If he persuaded Hoover to promise a special session of Congress, while the latter was campaigning in 1928, it was his duty to have cooperated with the President to the last ditch."

"When I call Hoover our blueprint President I use the term as one of highest commendation," Professor Myers said. "Hoover is often charged with trying to pass the buck—if you don't know how to do a thing appoint a committee. He's accused of appointing too many commissions. I do not think that is a valid criticism. These commissions are not administrative, they are fact finding. Hoover wants a blueprint before he starts. In my opinion he is making a great contribution to the practical governing of this country."

"The Senate," he said, "is one of the most egotistical bodies on earth. The idea of Senators is to pass legislation which will help them on Nov. 5 next. They want no blueprints. Had Mr. Robinson first been nominated for the Supreme Court, there would have been the same trouble there was over the nomination of Judge Parker. I believe tariff delay was largely responsible for the stock crash last Fall. Congressional income tax legislation was also responsible. People did not sell their stock and take profits, but held on to it, pyramiding their holdings, largely because of the high tax."

Professor Myers praised the foreign policy of the administration and spoke of the London naval conference as a "diplomatic triumph," saying he does not believe in "disarmament by example" but in "proportional limitation of armament."

"I predict," he said, "President Hoover will be stronger than many people think in 1932. To my mind the most outstanding feature of American government today is the development of executive leadership. The people are looking more and more to the President."

Will Honor Sir Josiah Stamp Here.

The Academy of Political Science will give a luncheon on the Astor roof on June 2 in honor of Sir Josiah Stamp, it was announced yesterday by Miss Ethel Warner, executive director. Sir Josiah is president of the London, Midland & Scottish Railway Company, a director of the Bank of England and a governor of the London School of Economics and Political Science. Thomas W. Lamont, a senior trustee and former vice president of the academy, will preside.

ANITA POTTS WEDS JOHN H. MARSHALL

Ceremony Performed at Home of Bride's Mother by the Rev. John La Farge, S. J.

BRIDE'S SISTER ATTENDANT

The marriage of Miss Anita Potts, elder daughter of Mrs. Rockhill Brevoort Potts and the late Mr. Potts, to John Hunt Marshall of Chestnut Hill, Mass., took place yesterday afternoon at the home of her mother, 220 East Sixty-second Street. Only relatives and a few intimate friends were present at the ceremony, performed by the Rev. John La Farge, S. J.

The bride, who was escorted by her uncle, William Brevoort Potts, wore a gown of ivory-colored satin made on simple lines with long sleeves, and a court train, over which fell in graceful folds her veil of old duchess lace, a family heirloom. She carried a Leikens bouquet of lilies of the valley and white orchids. Miss Polly Potts was her sister's only attendant. She wore a costume of yellow chiffon, with a picture hat of natural straw, and carried a bouquet of yellow Spring flowers.

Mr. Marshall, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Franklin Marshall of Providence, R. I., was attended by Edward Dane of Boston, as best man. There were no ushers.

The ceremony was followed by a reception to which extra guests were invited. Among them were the parents of the bridegroom; Mrs. James A. Logan and Miss Aileen Tone, aunts of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell P. Blagden, Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Howard G. Cushing, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Fairfax Cary, Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Hollins Jr., Miss Hope Hollins, Mrs. Richard Wharton, Mrs. S. Huntington Wolcott and Miss Edith Wolcott of Boston; Mr. and Mrs. George C. Clark Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Eliphalet N. Potter Jr., Mrs. F. Lothrop Ames, Mrs. Charles Morgan, Mrs. Walter E. Maynard, Miss Audrey Maynard, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley L. Pickman of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Iselin, Mrs. John S. Lawrence, Miss Katharine Barnes, Miss Winifred Loew and her fiancé Richard Trimble, and Roger W. Cutler of Boston.

Mr. Marshall and his bride sailed last night on the Vulcania for a motor trip in Italy and France. On their return in July they will live in Boston.

Other Weddings

Bickmore—Daniell.

Miss Katharine Lozier Daniell, daughter of Griswold Boyce Daniell of Ardsley-on-Hudson, N. Y., was married to Jesse C. Bickmore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Bickmore of Halfway House, Ardsley, yesterday afternoon in St. Barnabas's Church, Irvington-on-Hudson. None but members of the two families were present at the ceremony, performed by the Rev. William Neely Colton, the rector.

Mr. Bickmore and his bride, after their wedding trip, will live in Ardsley. The bride is a great-granddaughter of the late John Daniell, founder of the firm of John Daniell & Sons, of which her father is a member.

Fox—Augur.

Miss Kathryn Blodgett Augur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clayton Augur of Hilholme, Suffern, N. Y., was married to Noel Bleecker Fox of 401 West End Avenue on Tuesday at the home of her parents. The ceremony, which was attended only by immediate relatives, was performed by the Rev. Kenneth McArthur, a cousin of Mr. Fox.

The bride was attended by her twin sister, Mrs. Clifford M. Markle of New Haven, Conn. Alanson Gibbs Fox was his brother's best man. After a wedding trip to Europe the couple will live in this city.

Ericson—Walden.

The marriage of Miss Doris Walden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Henry Walden of 142 Boulevard, Passaic, N. J., to the Rev. Eric Gideon Ericson of this city, will take place on June 12 in St. John's Church, Passaic. The Rev. Albert J. M. Wilson, the rector, assisted by the Rev. Dr. J. Gottfried Hammarskold, rector of St. Johannes's Church, Yonkers, N. Y., will officiate.

Whatley—Lampke.

Word has been received by relatives here of the marriage on May 10 at the Shofield Barracks, Hawaii, of Miss Margaret Virginia Lampke, daughter of Captain and Mrs. Louis James Lampke, formerly of Fort Benning, Ga., to Lieutenant Vachel Davis Whatley, U. S. A., who is stationed there. The ceremony was performed in the post chapel.

Strong—Morgan.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 14.—Miss Dorothy March Morgan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Morgan of Milwaukee, was married at noon today in the Central Congregational Church at Berkely and Newbury Streets, this city, to Robert Chamberlain Strong, son of the Rev. and Mrs. William E. Strong of Newtonville. Only the members of the immediate families were present at the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Boynton Merrill of Newton.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was unattended and the bridegroom dispensed with a best man. There were no ushers. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the University Club.

The bride is a graduate of Vassar, class of 1928, and the bridegroom was graduated from Dartmouth in 1924. He is executive assistant to President Hopkins of Dartmouth, and after June 1, he and his bride will be at home in Hanover, N. H.

Thomas—Machen.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 14.—Miss Elizabeth Bailey Machen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hudson Machen of Ardmore, was married to John Lewis Thomas, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. Quincy Thomas of Conshohocken, in St. Mary's Church, Ardmore, this afternoon. The Rev. Louis W. Pitt, the rector, officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attended by Miss Celeste de Longpre Heckscher and Miss Charlotte Thomas as maids of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. R. GARDEN PARTY TODAY AT BARTOW MANSION International Garden Club to Entertain at Pelham Bay—Other Events.

The International Garden Club will hold its annual May garden party this afternoon at the clubhouse, the old Bartow mansion in Pelham Bay Park. The hostesses will be Mrs. Edward Ringwood Hewitt, president of the club; Mrs. Robert Waller, Mrs. W. Henry Harrison, Mrs. Philip A. S. Franklin, Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee, Mrs. Charles Cooper, Mrs. H. Clinton Backus, Mrs. Elihu Root Jr. and Mrs. Lewis Gawtry. Tea will be served in the orangerie.

The gardens at the mansion have been under the supervision of Mrs. Frederick H. Allen, whose estate, Bolton Priory, is not far away. The Japanese cherry trees, tulips, lilacs and dogwood are now at their best. During the afternoon a Russian balalaika orchestra will play in the tulip garden.

Three Long Island gardens will be opened to the public this afternoon for the benefit of the Wayside Home for Girls in Valley Stream. They are on the estates of Mrs. Roswell Eldridge at Saddle Rock, Great Neck; Mrs. Clarkson Cowl at Kings Point, Great Neck, and Mrs. Benjamin Stern in Roslyn.

All have fine tulip gardens. The Eldridge place has also an interesting rose garden, and several vine-covered pergolas offer views of Long Island Sound. The gardens on the Cowl place are notable for their simplicity. The gardens of Mrs. Stern are laid out in terraces sloping to Hempstead Harbor, and the residence offers a vista over a valley.

'JOURNEY'S END' TO CLOSE AT LAST

Sherriff Play Will End 13 Months' Run at Henry Miller's Theatre on Saturday.

55 COMPANIES PLAYED IT

401 Performances Here Had Brought $819,873 by March 1—Two Other Plays to Close.

After a run of more than thirteen months at Henry Miller's Theatre, "Journey's End," the war play by R. C. Sherriff, will close on Saturday night. The New York production, for which Gilbert Miller and Maurice Browne brought over an English cast, opened on March 22, 1929, and scored an immediate critical and financial success. On March 1 of this year the New York company, which at one time was one of fifty-five which were simultaneously performing "Journey's End," had played 401 performances to gross receipts of $819,873.

On the same date, four other North American companies had played 647 performances to total gross receipts of $907,284. Within recent months "Journey's End" has also appeared as a novel by Mr. Sherriff and Vernon Bartlett and is now being presented on Broadway in motion picture form. The London production, which opened at the Savoy Theatre on Jan. 21, 1929, is still playing.

"Berkeley Square," the second current play of which Mr. Miller is coproducer, will also close on Saturday night. The play, by John L. Balderston, was produced by Mr. Miller and Leslie Howard at the Lyceum Theatre on Nov. 4, with Mr. Howard and Margalo Gillmore in the leading rôles. Mr. Howard will leave shortly for the West Coast to fulfill a motion picture contract, and will go on tour in the play in the Fall. "Berkeley Square" previously had been announced to close on May 24.

A third closing on Saturday night will be "The Plutocrat," in which Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coburn have been appearing at the Vanderbilt Theatre since Feb. 20.

KANSAS GIRL READS MISS TALLEY'S FUTURE

Two girls from Kansas met yesterday morning in a room of the Savoy-Plaza, high above New York's crowded Fifth Avenue. It was a significant meeting, for, as the cameras clicked, one of the pair said she was able to read the other's future. She found there the prospect of the movies—and she envisioned an "Al Jolson career rather than a Galli-Curci."

Although born in the same State, three weeks apart, Marion Talley, opera star turned farmer, and Gene Dennis, "the girl psychic," had never met. It is likely their meeting would not have taken place at all save for the efforts of a kindly publicity man. He it was who brought them together, introduced them and then asked Miss Talley if she cared to hear of the future.

"Your best work will take you into pictures," said Miss Dennis. "I see ahead a short one and a long one. Perhaps the long one is on an operatic subject; but the other—which will be first—will show your simplicity. You have been nothing but a voice so far, but I think that in the next two years the 'It' will be brought out. And you will be much happier.

"You are not finished with the stage yet; your career is not over. But the rôles you have had were not to your advantage. This will bring a new atmosphere to you. And you will succeed. I see an Al Jolson career for you, rather than a Galli-Curci."

During the progress of the prophesy Miss Talley said nothing.

At the conclusion of the seance Miss Talley was asked whether she planned to go into the movies. She said that "I am not doing any negotiating, but several concerns are trying to interest me." She explained that she has been in New York most of the Winter and that the Kansas farm to which she was about to retire last year is getting along nicely. It is planted entirely in wheat, she said, and she hopes to get out for the harvest.

Lyceum Manager Falls to Death.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 14.—Before horrified spectators, William V. Harrison, manager of the Redpath Lyceum Bureau and Chautauqua Circuit, fell to his death today from the fourteenth floor of the Union League Club. Police believe he leaped deliberately, but a coroner's jury declared his death was accidental. Mr. Harrison lived at Bexley, a suburb of Columbus, Ohio. In his room detectives found letters from Mrs. Harrison which contained frequent queries as to his health.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Herbert Hawlinson has been engaged to appear in "Jungle," opening in Detroit on June 9. Agnes Ayres heads the cast.

The final performances of "The New Moon" will be given in Newark this week. On Saturday night the successful Schwab & Mandel operetta will have achieved a total engagement of ninety-five weeks, including the Broadway run.

"The Rugged Road," described as a play dealing with Negro life in the South, by Mrs. E. J. Robinson, with a musical background by J. Rosamond Johnson, is in preparation for Broadway production under the direction of Dan E. Hanlon. According to Mr. Hanlon, the cast will be composed entirely of Negroes and will include Evelyn Ellis, Inez Clough and A. B. Comathiere.

"The Destroying Angel," a mystery play by R. T. M. Scott and Stanley Babington, was presented last night by the Brooklyn Neighborhood Players. The play will be presented again tonight.

SCREEN NOTES.

"Ladies Love Brutes," George Bancroft's latest talking film, with Mary Astor, which is based on Zoë Akins's play, "Pardon My Glove," opens today at the Rivoli.

The Film Guild Cinema will hereafter be known as the Eighth Street Playhouse and will present a series of European silent productions as well as American sound pictures.

"Bride of the Regiment," a romantic musical talking film with Vivienne Segal, Walter Pidgeon and Allan Prior, will have its première at Warners' Hollywood Theatre on next Wednesday evening.

A CAPELLA SINGERS HEARD IN NOVELTY

Margarete Dessoff Gives Schoenberg's 'Peace on Earth' for First Time.

The A. Capella Singers of New York, Margarete Dessoff conducting, presented last night at the Engineering Auditorium a program of choral music which included the first American hearing of Arnold Schönberg's musical setting to Konrad Ferdinand Meyer's "Peace on Earth."

The new work by the much discussed composer of the recently heard "Hand of Fate" was written in 1907 but not heard until 1924, partly because its difficulties made performance impractical, according to comments quoted by the conductor. The text, written long before the World War, was in itself of special interest, and much of the atmosphere established before any of the musical setting was heard owed itself to the reading of it in the original German by the conductor. In a brief historical and analytical introduction Miss Dessoff pointed out that any revolutionary work ought to be heard twice, and after the intermission announced a repetition.

The hearing of the work revealed the composer before his atonal explorations, and still under definitely Wagnerian influence. The demands upon the voices harmonically and in extremes of range make it imperative that each singer listen to his neighbor as well as to himself. That the individual singers were successful was proved in the splendid balance between the sections and the maintenance of excellent intonation in the difficult modulations. The auditor felt more than once that Schönberg's cerebral and theoretical gifts overbalanced his emotional equipment. He was fortunate in having his work introduced here under the direction of a conductor who combines solid musicianship and clarity of baton movement.

The program included a motet by Palestrina, three chansons by Orlandus Lassus, English folk songs arranged by Grainger, Holst and Randerson; old English madrigals by Thomas Morley, Thomas Tomkins and John Dowland and Pizzetti's "La Rondine." The beauty of the singing in these need be expatiated upon only to those who have not heard them sung by a choir trained and directed by Miss Dessoff.

The Adesdi chorus for women's voices and the A Capella Singers for mixed voices are to unite and will be known as the Dessoff Choirs. The programs for next season, which were announced last night, contained many items new to America.

A THEATRE GUILD WEDDING

Gale Sondergaard, Actress, Bride of H. J. Biberman, Executive.

Gale Sondergaard, who has been a member of the Theatre Guild Acting Company for two seasons, was married last Thursday in Philadelphia to Herbert J. Biberman of the Guild production staff, it was announced yesterday. The ceremony was performed by the city clerk of Philadelphia.

Miss Sondergaard was one of three actresses to play the rôle of Nina Leeds during the New York run of "Strange Interlude," and has also appeared for the Guild in "Karl and Anna," "Major Barbara" and "Red Rust." She is a graduate of the University of Minnesota.

Mr. Biberman, formerly manager of the Yale University Theatre under George Pierce Baker, was the director and leading player of "Red Rust," produced in December. He will stage the second play on the Theatre Guild's schedule for next season, Lynn Riggs's "Green Grow the Lilacs," and will leave soon for the Southwest with his bride to study the locale of the play.

NOVELLO TO ACT HERE.

Will Appear in Own Comedy, "A Symphony in Two Flats."

"A Symphony in Two Flats," a comedy by Ivor Novello, in which Mr. Novello was recently seen in London, will be produced early in October at the Princess Theatre, Chicago, according to announcement by the Dramatic League of Chicago, a Shubert organization. The play, with Mr. Novello and the London company, will also be given in Detroit, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and Boston, and will open in New York early in February.

The American production will mark Mr. Novello's stage début in this country.

'THE NEW FREEDOM' A REFRESHING PLAY

Columbia's Morningside Players Act Marjorie B. Paradis's Drama With Ease.

ITS SCENE IS BRONXVILLE

THE NEW FREEDOM, a play in three acts, by Marjorie Bartholomew Paradis. Staged by Milton Smith and Elizabeth Von Nardroff; settings by Mr. Smith; presented by the Morningside Players of Columbia University as the third bill in the first annual National Long Play Tournament. At the Waldorf Theatre

Grover Bainbridge	John Cocks
Katherine	May Wolmark
Lida Martin	Eileen Meyerson
Mrs. Cornell	Florence Pegram
Zoe Bainbridge	Elizabeth Von Nardroff
Dr. Paul Davis	Clayton J. Hermance Jr.
Howard Jameson	J. F. Foster
Florence Jameson	Ruth Yates
Kingsley Day	J. C. Lotterhand
Dottie Parker	Margaret Smith
Midge Rankin	Marjorie Patterson
Ethel	Gerry Raph
A Taxi Driver	Joseph Davidson

The crisis of young married life in the more recently gilded levels of Suburbia were discerningly explored on the stage of the Waldorf Theatre last evening. The Morningside Players of Columbia University gave Broadway something of the surprise that is always prophesied and seldom forthcoming from the torchbearers—an evening of civilized entertainment. In a well-written play they acted with ease and authority. A professional producer could do considerably worse than to choose "The New Freedom" for presentation. And he—generically speaking—probably will.

In the first place, the play was that surprising novelty among little theatre productions, a vehicle thoroughly tempered to the abilities of the players. The scene was Bronxville, the characters freshly painted young representatives of the most undistinguished civilization in the history of the world. After some ten years of married life Grover Bainbridge had prettv well sublimated his sentimental yearning for a baby by devoting himself to a serious cultivation of golf and the usual galaxy of cocktails-and-bridge country club crowd that a thoughtful Providence has created to go with these vacuous manias. Meantime, his wife, Zoë, who wanted no tiny garments, had been having herself a career. She was, in fact, well on the way to making more money than Grover, a possibility that the playwright, Marjorie Bartholomew Paradis, thoroughly exploits later on in the play. Then—with that sledge-hammer subtlety now in vogue, the news was conveyed that she was going to have an heir after all—unwittingly, apparently. This prophetic expense crashed rudely into Grover's plan to join a more expensive country club. From then on, he showed all the womanly virtues of a maligning tradition. And Zoë began to be the man of the family. In the end, when the inevitable siren got him away from her, she decided to choose "the better baby."

The cast, even to the various players who concocted pitilessly accurate suburban mob scenes, showed many excellencies. Elizabeth von Nardroff as Zoë gave her lines a ring of truth that the author, sometimes too intent upon supplying unnecessary comment, occasionally lacked. John Cocks played Grover with a kind of Egyptian lack of mobility. Gerry Raph, as an exasperated nurse, played a small part with the genius that is the dream of stage beginners. Clayton J. Hermance Jr., in the rather unsurprising part of the young doctor who understands the wife better than any one else except the people in the audience, played with self-effacing briskness. Eileen Meyerson, as the soft-eyed siren, was understandably appealing. But why go on? Write a letter to your Congressman today asking him to bring this play more permanently to Broadway. Personally, if necessary.

Tonight the Lake Forest Players and the Playwrights Theatre of Chicago will present "Flying Blind," by Mary Aldis.

FOR WHITE PLAINS THEATRE

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 14.—Byron Parks, manager of the business properties department of Prince & Ripley, a real estate firm, announced today that Warner Brothers are negotiating for the purchase of a theatre site on Mamaroneck Avenue here. The plot has a frontage of 108 feet and a depth of 319 and, with an adjoining parcel, is valued at $324,000. An obstacle, Mr. Parks said, was the existence of leases which have some time to run. There are a two-story store and office building and a former Baptist church, now occupied by the Young Men's Hebrew Association.

OVERSEAS WOMEN SAIL.

250 Leave on the New Amsterdam for Convention in Paris.

More than 250 members of the Women's Oversees Service League will sail tonight on the Holland-American liner Nieuw Amsterdam to attend the Paris convention of the league. The league is composed of women who served during the war with the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., Jewish Relief Committee, the Salvation Army and other welfare organizations.

The Nieuw Amsterdam was selected as flagship of the league's pilgrimage to Paris, because it was the liner on which they journeyed back from aPris after the armistice and was the first passenger liner to cross the Atlantic after the World War started in 1914.

City College Student Wins Fund.

A scholarship carrying a stipend of $300 was awarded yesterday to Nathan Edelman, '32, of the City College by the Institute of International Education, of which Dr. Stephen P. Duggan is director. This scholarship, which is given annually by the Institute to an American student, provides for study at the University of Nancy during the Summer and at the Sorbonne.

Artists' League Backs Copyright Bill

Hearty endorsement of the Vestal design copyright bill, which has been reported to the House of Representatives by the Committee on Patents, was expressed here yesterday by the American Artists' Professional League, through a special committee consisting of Albert T. Reid, Mary E. Bendelari and Wilford S. Conrow. "With this bill made law," the committee said, "no more piracy will be possible in commercial lines."

"LYSISTRATA" TO OPEN IN THIS CITY JUNE 3

Alterations Being Made in 44th St. Theatre for Philadelphia Theatre Association's Production.

The Philadelphia Theatre Association's production of "Lysistrata" will open at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre here on Tuesday, June 3. As staged and designed by Norman-Bel Geddes, the production will call for the temporary removal of several rows of seats and the transformation of the interior of the theatre.

"Lysistrata," in an adaptation by Gilbert Seldes, opened at the Walnut Street Theatre in Philadelphia on April 28, and will have played an engagement of four weeks there before it moves to New York. Among those now in the cast of the production are Fay Bainter, Ernest Truex, Miriam Hopkins, Eric Dressler, Mary Blair, Sydney Greenstreet and Hortense Alden. "Lysistrata" was last seen here in December, 1925, as a presentation by the Moscow Art Theatre Musical Studio.

Irish Drama Group to Give Program

The Irish Theatre Study Group will present a dramatic program next Wednesday evening at the MacDowell Club, 166 East Seventy-third Street, and on Sunday night, May 25, at the Davenport Theatre, 138 East Twenty-seventh Street. The bill will consist of act one of "Maeve," by Edward Martyn; "The Miracle of the Corn," by Padraic Colum; three Irish folk tales; "The Stolen Child," by William Butler Yeats, and "Irishry," by Joseph Campbell.

City College Play's Run Extended.

The Dramatic Society of City College will give two additional performances of the original musical comedy "Ship Ahoy" tomorrow and Saturday evenings in the auditorium of Townsend Harris Hall, 137th Street and Convent Avenue.

TOSCANINI CHEERED WILDLY IN FLORENCE

GALA END TO ITALIAN TOUR

No Musical Event Since Verdi's Day Created as Much Stir as Philharmonic's Visit.

By ARNALDO CORTESI.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

FLORENCE, May 14.—The New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Arturo Toscanini, gave the last concert of the Italian part of its tour in the Politeama Theatre here today with that same overwhelming success which by now is accepted as a matter of course in all of its performances. Early tomorrow it will leave for Munich, where it is to give a concert on Friday evening in the Town Hall.

Toscanini's appearance was greeted with much applause, and the various numbers of the program were received with increasing enthusiasm, which reached its climax at the end of the performance, when the American musicians were cecipients of a tremendous ovation. The applause continued for twenty minutes, during which Toscanini was obliged to appear half a dozen times in answer to cheers.

The organizers of the tour have every reason to feel extremely gratified at the outcome of their endeavors. To say that the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra has been well received is putting it mildly. It is necessary to go back to Verdi's days to find any musical event which created as much stir as has this one. Milan, Turin, Rome, Florence, all were equally thrilled by the superlative quality of the music, and all were equally grateful to American generosity for giving them the opportunity to applaud the Philharmonic-Toscanini combine, which is universally admitted to be the highest expression of music existing anywhere in the world today.

FLORENCE, May 14 (AP).—Many Americans greeted the Philharmonic when the musicians appeared on the stage, for Florence's American colony is a large and loyal one, and it was out in force. Places of honor had been set aside for the staff of the United States Consulate.

All of the 5,000 seats were taken and some of the spectators had to stand in line for six hours before they could obtain tickets.

LUTHERAN SINGERS HEARD.

Oratorio Society Concert Includes Several Bach Works.

A program of Lutheran Church music was presented last night by the Lutheran Oratorio Society of New York at Town Hall. Hugh Porter, who has been in charge of the society since it was formed in 1928, conducted. Harold Haugh, tenor, was the soloist.

The program included a number of Bach compositions, among them Cantata 104, and several extended chorales. There were also Spring carols and spiritual songs of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, including a song, "She Is My Love," with words by Martin Luther. Accompaniment was furnished by Carl Broman at the organ and Hobart Whitman, pianist.

The society, which is now completing its third year, was organized to study and present music developed by the Lutheran Church.

MUSIC NOTES.

Prince Irakli Orbeliani will give his first piano recital in America this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Steinway Hall.

David Mannes speaks on "Music in the Museum" at the Washington convention of the American Federation of Fine Arts this evening. The program will be given in the chamber music auditorium of the Library of Congress and the subject of the session is to be "Music and Its Appreciation."

Alexis Sanderson, tenor, and the Atlas String Quartet will be heard in recital at the Grand Central Palace this evening.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Except for the usual midweek reports of industrial activities, interest in the financial position was at low ebb yesterday. The stock market, when it stirred at all, moved mechanically and in a narrow orbit. Transactions remained in the neighborhood of 3,000,000 shares, and few stocks varied in price more than 2 or 3 points. On that basis, advances outnumbered declines. How long this reasonably complete halt in speculative activity will continue is a question of merely curious interest. Last January there was a similar halt which lasted five or six weeks; it ended when a few of the indices of trade, in the early days of February, gave an erroneous idea that a "spring revival" might be coming and when, simultaneously, falling money rates suggested to restless minds that easy money would alone suffice to restore business activity.

Elsewhere than on the Stock Exchange, markets moved little yesterday. Wheat prices fell away moderately, notwithstanding the Commerce Department's report of the largest export last week since the second week of February. But the 1,363,000 bushels sent out is still below the one-time normal average; in years such as 1925 to 1927 inclusive, the total May shipment ranged from nine to ten million bushels. Money was unchanged, sterling a bit firmer. The Bank of England gave up $2,300,000 gold, presumably for Paris, and received nearly $5,000,000, nearly the last of the Australian consignments.

Midweek summaries of drift of activity in the various trades cast no fresh light on the business situation. Loadings of freight on the railways, as reported yesterday for the week ended May 3, did indeed rise to the largest weekly total of the year to date—in fact, to the largest since the middle of November. That is the comparison which freight traffic usually makes around the end of April; the same thing could have been said of the business at that period in 1929 or 1928. There is, however, this much of distinct reassurance in the weekly loadings statement published yesterday; its figures show that the wholly abnormal shrinkage in traffic during the two preceding weeks, when it ought by all precedent to have been increasing, was apparently due to temporary causes. On the other hand, the loadings are still, except for 1924, the smallest for the week since 1922.

The weekly trade estimates on the steel industry's current output indicate decrease in activity, to the lowest average since January. The Iron Age puts it at 75, as against 77 the week before, 80 in the third week of April and 82 in the middle of February. The present figure is the same as that for the end of March. In making this comparison also, however, allowance has to be made for the usual trend of the season. The country's actual daily average of steel production in May has been the smallest since January in every year since 1923; so that the present decrease in activity is not of itself unusual. The fall in the average last March as compared with February was far more disconcerting, because in that month, according to all precedent, output should have been enlarging rapidly under Spring trade orders.

Along with these regular weekly data, the monthly census report on cotton consumption gave a sidelight on home and foreign textile trade. Takings by home spinners in April are shown to have increased considerably over March and February and, at the same time, comparison with other years is much less unfavorable than in other recent months. April, indeed, has hitherto been almost invariably a period in which spinners' purchases decrease from preceding months. But exports show up very badly, an evident consequence of industrial reaction abroad. Since the cotton harvest of 1929 began last August, exports and home spinners' takings combined have run more than 1,500,000 bales short of the same period a year ago; yet, except for the two years 1917 and 1916, last year's cotton crop was the largest since the war.

LANDLORD GROUP ENDS.

Association Selling 'Bootleg Liability Insurance' Liquidated.

Albert Conway, State Superintendent of Insurance, signed yesterday a report showing the liquidation of the Landlord Taxpayers' Association, Inc., one of five non-insurance corporations which had been selling "bootleg liability insurance" to owners and operators of property in New York City.

The report shows that the association was in busines fourteen months, that it collected from property owners $24,348 for "premiums" and expended $26,232, of which only $477 was paid in settlement of losses, while the balance of $25,754 was expended for salaries and other expenses of operating the company. There is a balance on hand of $837, out of which the superintendent recommends the payment of a first and final dividend of 80 per cent on the allowed claims amounting to $867.

Bail Bond Bureau Formed.

A bail bond bureau was formed by twelve surety companies at a meeting in the offices of the American Surety Company yesterday after research by a committee appointed several months ago by Albert Conway. Mr. Conway attended yesterday's meeting. Robert M. Nugent was elected manager of the bureau.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Although displaying occasional irregularity, the active list on the Stock Exchange made further headway yesterday but without arousing any speculative enthusiasm. United States Steel was the leader of a slow advance, other stocks that participated being Consolidated Gas, American Can, United Aircraft, Standard Gas, Simmons, Worthington Pump, Vanadium, Santa Fé, Columbian Carbon, American Telephone and Telegraph and Public Service. There were weak spots, even in the active issues, but most of the declines were in stocks in which the trading was limited. The turnover was 3,179,950 shares, slightly larger than on the day before. Brokers professed to see signs of returning confidence, noting particularly that some of the operators for the rise who had been driven out of the market by the recent break were regaining their courage. It was plain yesterday, however, that the market was largely a professional affair, as it has been for some time.

A Stock Exchange Inquiry.

In calling upon member firms yesterday to disclose the long and short positions of their customers in shares of the Celotex Company and the Manhattan Electrical Supply Company, the Stock Exchange gave its first indication that it had taken cognizance of the unusual happenings in these issues recently. Celotex's spectacular break on May 7 followed the announcement that a small stockholder had filed a petition for a receivership, and later it became known that the State Attorney General's office was looking into the market situation. The episode in Manhattan Electrical Supply excited more comment, however, because trading in the stock was unofficially suspended two weeks ago today and there were no transactions until four days later. This stock, like Celotex, took a nose dive on May 7, but it had been badly unsettled previously. The Stock Exchange apparently is now seeking to determine whether there was any illegal manipulation of the two stocks.

The Weekly Railroad Financing.

Not since mid-January has the bond market lacked a new offering of railroad securities, and investors who were inclined to believe the record might be broken this week are now reassured by the offering today of $20,000,000 Great Northern general mortgage 4½s. Approximately $550,000,000 of new railroad issues, including equipment trust certificates, has been tucked away this year, and with only one or two exceptions the issues have sold readily. There is still a fair amount of new rail financing in sight, but the offering of these issues is contingent, in large measure, on a healthy bond market.

Railroad Consolidation.

With railroad consolidation hampered by the Couzens resolution to restrict the power of the Interstate Commerce Commission, which, through some unusual manoeuvres, is now out of the Senate committee, operations along this line are expected to be meager for some time. Meanwhile, it is expected that the Van Sweringens will make what moves they can in the circumstances. The Chesapeake & Ohio is due to increase its authorized common stock and reduce the par value from $100 to $25. Since the C. & O. stock would be required for exchange for stocks of other lines, it is thought likely that the C. & O. will soon apply to the commission for authorization to make these changes in capitalization.

The Decrease in Bankers' Bills.

About the most surprising thing revealed in the official figures of the American Acceptance Council relating to the volume of bills outstanding at the close of April was that the decline which has been marked since the first of the year was somewhat less in April than had been expected in many quarters. The April reduction was only 8 per cent. However, the volume of bankers' bills is still considerably above the total for a year ago, due in no small measure to the financing of goods stored abroad or shipped from one foreign country to another. The rate on 30-day to 4-month bills was quoted unchanged yesterday at 2⅝ bid and 2½ per cent asked, but in London an effort to make the mark 2 3-16 per cent is understood to have brought out more funds.

Follow the Leader.

Current events in the copper market bear out an observation that has been made frequently by leaders in the industry, namely: that buyers of copper are curiously group-minded. Apropos of the recent "buyers' strike" in copper it was remarked that the principal users of the metal were persistently abstaining from purchases although their needs were well known to themselves and the industry as a whole. It was predicted that when one large buyer came into the market the rest would follow. The initial impetus was all that was needed, it was asserted. The recent heavy buying, it is said, has done much to clear up the congested condition of the copper market, and predictions of a further advance in prices were heard in trade and financial circles yesterday.

One Pledge Kept.

The Van Sweringen railroads constitute one system that has kept its pledge to President Hoover to maintain expenditures for improvements in volume sufficient to aid trade and industry. This not only aided the country but also the railroads themselves, because, as the late E. H. Harriman frequently demonstrated, it pays for a railroad to take advantage of easy money and buyers' markets by making improvements in times of lessened activity. It was pointed out that the Van Sweringen lines were in a position to follow this policy not only because of ample resources but also because they have the freedom of owner-management. Railroads not similarly managed have not in every case met expectations in respect to their expenditures this year.

MONEY.

Wednesday, May 14, 1930.

There was practically nothing of account done in the way of rate changes or turnover in the money market, business continuing to lag notwithstanding the good supply of funds on offer. Stock Exchange call loans were 3 per cent, and in the counter market 2½. Curb Exchange funds traded at 3½. Commercial paper and acceptances were unchanged.

CENTRAL HANOVER BANK AND TRUST COMPANY, NEW YORK, Trustee

The following information has been summarized from a letter to us from Mr. E. W. Hill, a Vice-President of the Company, and is subject to the more complete information contained therein:

Business and Territory National Power & Light Company, incorporated under the laws of New Jersey in December, 1925, owns all the common stocks, except directors' shares (and in some cases owns various amounts of preferred stock as well as certain indebtedness), of Birmingham Electric Company, Carolina Power & Light Company, Houston Lighting & Power Company, Knoxville Power & Light Company, Memphis Power & Light Company (which controls The Memphis Street Railway Company through ownership of all capital stock), West Tennessee Power & Light Company and of other companies of less importance. It also owns substantially all preferred and common stocks of Lehigh Power Securities Corporation.

Lehigh Power Securities Corporation owns all the common stock of the Pennsylvania Power & Light Company, a substantial majority of preferred and common stocks of the Lehigh Valley Transit Company, all preferred and common stocks of Valley Railways, all the common stock of the Lancaster County Railway and Light Company and all capital stock of a number of other operating companies.

Operating subsidiaries of National Power & Light Company, either directly or through controlled companies, on December 31, 1929, served a total of 955 communities, in Pennsylvania, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama and Texas. They supplied electric power and light service to 927 communities, transportation service to 163 communities and gas service to 31 communities. In addition, subsidiaries supplied water service to 11 communities and steam heating service to 3 communities and operated ice plants in 6 communities. The total population of the territory served was estimated at 3,255,000.

Purpose of Issue The proceeds from the sale of these Five Per Cent. Gold Debentures, Series B, and from 100,000 shares of $6 Preferred Stock presently to be offered, will provide funds for the retirement of all of National Power & Light Company's $7 Preferred Stock outstanding (140,295 shares with the public), and for other corporate purposes.

Earnings For the twelve months ended December 31, 1929, earnings of the Company (including undistributed earnings of subsidiaries after renewal and replacement appropriations), as shown in the letter to us, were equal to more than 10.8 times annual interest requirements on the entire amount of Gold Debentures (including this issue) to be outstanding on completion of this financing.

Approximately 81% of the gross earnings of the operating subsidiaries for the above period was derived from electric and gas business.

Equity These Gold Debentures will be followed by Preferred and Common Stocks of the Company having a present market value aggregating more than $250,000,000.

Provisions of Issue These Five Per Cent. Gold Debentures, Series B, will be the direct obligations of the National Power & Light Company and will rank equally with $9,500,000 principal amount of Six Per Cent. Gold Debentures, Series A, due 2026, now outstanding.

Supervision Electric Bond and Share Company supervises (under the direction and control of the Boards of Directors of the respective companies) the operations of National Power & Light Company and its subsidiary companies.

All legal matters in connection with the issue of these Debentures will be passed upon by Messrs. Seibert & Riggs of New York and for the Company by Messrs. Simpson Thacher & Bartlett of New York.

These Debentures are offered if, when and as issued and received by us and subject to the approval of counsel. It is anticipated that temporary Debentures will be available for delivery on or about June 12, 1930.

Price 91 and accrued interest, to yield about 5.50%

EXCHANGE INQUIRES INTO 2 STOCK DROPS

DATA ON ALL TRADES ASKED

Volume, Prices, Brokers and Traders Must Be Detailed in Members' Reply to Questionnaire.

An inquiry into whatever mystery may have surrounded the recent spectacular declines in the shares of the Manhattan Electrical Supply Company and the Celotex Company has been begun by the New York Stock Exchange, it was revealed yesday in the announcement that questionnaires had been sent to all member firms requiring them to disclose the market positions of their customers in the two stocks.

With respect to Manhattan Electrical Supply, the Exchange is asking for a list of all transactions between March 1 and May 7, inclusive, together with volume, prices, names of members or firms with whom transactions were made and of persons for whom the firms acted. The questionnaire calls also for a statement of all stock borrowings and from whom, and of all loans and to whom, as of the close of business on each day in the period specified. Further, the Exchange asks for the long and short positions of each person interested in the stock at the close of business on each day during the period.

Points Sought in Inquiry.

The inquiry respecting Celotex seeks to establish the long or short position of each person interested in the stock at the close of business on May 6; calls for a statement of all borrowings and lendings in the stock, a list of open orders as of that date, a list of all orders entered on May 7 and a list of all transactions, together with volume, prices, names of members or firms with whom the transactions were made and of persons for whom they acted.

Information regarding Celotex is required by noon today and that concerning Manhattan Electrical Supply at the same hour next Wednesday.

The inquiry is apparently designed to show whether the stocks were improperly manipulated. Yesterday's announcement was the first official intimation that the Exchange was looking into the circumstances of the wild fluctuations in the two issues.

Trading in Manhattan Electrical Supply ceased suddenly two weeks ago today and was not resumed until four days later. Upon the resumption of trading the stock broke wide open, falling from 53⅝, at which it had closed on May 1, to a low of 18 on May 7, closing on that day at 19⅜, with a net loss of 34¼ points.

In Other Sensational Breaks.

Manhattan Electrical Supply has figured in previous sensational breaks. It was commonly reported in Wall Street that a pool had been operating actively in the stock before its last nose-dive.

The sharp decline in Celotex on May 7 came after the financial news tickers had carried a dispatch from Wilmington announcing that a stockholder had applied for receivership for the company, making various allegations. The stock broke more than 20 points, then rallied sharply, closing with a net loss of 15⅝ points on the day.

The president of Celotex issued statements at the time denying the contentions of the stockholder and declaring that the company was in a sound, prosperous condition. The stock has since recovered part of the loss. It closed yesterday at 30⅛, while Manhattan Electrical's final quotation was 19⅜.

Inquiries into the market actions of both stocks by the State Attorney General's office are understood to be under way.

State Pays $28,000,000 Today With Interest to Note Holders

The State of New York will pay today $28,000,000, plus interest at the rate of 4 per cent from Sept. 16, 1929, to holders of its notes issued in that amount. These notes were marketed last Fall in lieu of long-term financing to thirty-eight banks throughout the State, of which twenty-three were in New York City. The issue was oversubscribed more than six times.

State Controller Morris S. Tremaine has just received a check from J. P. Morgan & Co. for the balance due on the issue of $31,550,000 4 per cent State bonds which was awarded to the bankers on April 15 at a premium of $655,293, which made the rate to the taxpayers 3.79 per cent. The additional amount of $3,550,000 realized from the April bond sale will be used to retire a like amount of temporary notes outstanding.

Toronto Order for Railway Signal.

The General Railway Signal Company has received from the Toronto Terminal Company a contract for three large interlocking units in that city. One installation will control movement at the junction of the Canadian National Railways with the joint Canadian National-Canadian Pacific tracks at the easterly approach to the Union Station. The work will be completed in July, 1931.

Western Maryland Assets Gain.

The balance sheet of the Western Maryland Railway shows total assets of $171,796,000 on Dec. 31, against $168,739,000 a year previously. Profit and loss surplus was $17,392,000, against $14,502,000. Road and equipment was $163,640,000, against $160,562,000. The operating ratio in 1929 was 66.83 against 68.18 in 1928. Freight tonnage decreased 3 per cent in 1929 compared with 1928.

QUARTER'S INCOME OFF FOR NEW YORK CENTRAL

$14,455,668 Net Compares With $22,646,195 Year Ago—Other Roads Report Earnings.

The New York Central Lines made an innovation yesterday by omitting from the quarterly reports statements for the Big Four and Michigan Central. These lines are now merged with the parent company and their earnings are carried in the parent company's earnings.

Gross and net for the New York Central system showed substantial decreases for the quarter ended March 31 from the totals for the same quarter last year. The quarterly earnings follow:

C. N. R. ESTIMATES ADOPTED

Parliamentary Committee Approves $51,600,000 Total.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 14 (Canadian Press).—The estimates of the Canadian National Railways, totaling $51,600,000, were adopted by the Parliamentary Committee on Railways and Shipping today. The committee also approved the statutory appropriations of $8,200,000 for the maritime freight rates act and for the payment of the deficits in receipts and revenues of the Eastern lines. The estimates of $400,000 to cover the Canadian Government Merchant Marine deficits and $870,000 for the Canadian National Steamships (West Indies service) losses were carried.

It is not the intention of the government to proceed with financial reconstruction of the Canadian National Railways this year, T. A. Crerar, Minister of Railways, told the committee. The plan was postponed because of the approaching dissolution of Parliament.

Texas & Pacific Meeting Waits.

The annual stockholders' meeting of the Texas & Pacific Railway, which is controlled by the Missouri Pacific, was postponed yesterday until June 13 for lack of a quorum. The election of officers is not due until next year.

Teagle Says Better Results Were Based on Cooperative Efforts of Year Before.

PLAN "JETTISONED" LATER

Head of Company Deplores Dislocation of Industry's Economies, Apparent of Late.

Despite the overproduction of crude oil and the low prices for gasoline that existed most of last year in the petroleum industry, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey showed a net income for 1929 of $120,912,794, equivalent to $4.75 a share on 25,418,968 shares outstanding at the end of the year, Walter C. Teagle, president, announced yesterday. This compares with net income for 1928 of $108,485,686, or $4.43 a share on the 24,484,219 shares outstanding at the end of that year.

The report, which generally met Wall Street's expectations, showed that the company's stocks of oil had increased substantially during the year, amounting to $269,236,671 in value on Dec. 31, compared with $233,822,634 at the end of 1928.

Commenting on the widespread increase in inventories in the oil business last year Mr. Teagle said:

"The degree of prosperity experienced by the industry has been demonstrated to tend in inverse ratio to the amounts of surplus crude and products it carries from year to year. The extent to which both producers and refiners recognize that not volume of production but the ability to measure production to fit the requirements of the consuming markets as these requirements arise will determine the future of the industry."

True Conditions Not Reflected.

Reviewing the unsatisfactory conditions that faced the company last year, Mr. Teagle said that while earnings were improved in 1929 they did not reflect the true conditions during the year. He ascribed the larger earnings in 1929 to the progress made in 1927 and 1928 to bring production in line with the demand, through cooperation among the separate units of the oil industry.

"The beneficial effects," he added, "were in fact so apparent as to instill a spirit of optimism throughout the industry, and this first found expression early last year in the refinery pyramiding of runs of gasoline in quantities which exceeded the existing and deferred requirements. This policy not only built up stocks of gasoline but drew upon crude production, with the result that in the early Summer crude prices were advanced, the inevitable bringing in of excessive new production followed, and for the time being the cooperative program was jettisoned. The cycle which began in 1927 was complete, and the industry was back at the starting point.

"A realization of the fallacy of such a relapse led to remedial measures in the Mid-Continent field, which measures were particularly effective in Oklahoma. The momentum of this curtailment was barely under way when crude production in California increased prodigiously, and it was close to the end of the year before the correction of this situation had begun. On the whole, the position at the close of the year was reflected clearly by the volume of stocks above ground. These amounted to approximately 688,000,000 barrels of crude, semi-refined and refined products, of which 67,000,000 barrels were accumulated during the year.

"That overproduction of crude was not the sole cause of this uneconomic condition is indicated by the fact that of the accumulation 36,000,000 barrels were crude oil, 10,000,000 barrels gasoline and 14,600,000 barrels gas and fuel oil. Throughout most of the year the wholesale price of gasoline was below the average due to the excessive refinery runs, the full momentum of which was felt in the fourth quarter. That this lower price range existed during a year in which crude prices were advanced indicated the dislocation of the industry's economies.

"The increase in the surplus gasoline stocks by 10,000,000 barrels demonstrated the inelastic character of the consuming markets and forecast an ultimate readjustment of crude prices to conform with the price range of gasoline. The theory that the price of gasoline may be artificially held to maintain a fixed value for the crude has been proved to be economically unsound, since the price the consumer pays for the product depends entirely on the margin between supply and dominant demand and must inevitably influence the value of the raw material.

"The earnings of the industry in 1929 were generally improved, but the statement that they reflected conditions throughout the year would be hardly warranted. The events of 1928 were the determining factors in the earnings of the past year and while, from a financial standpoint, the situation was improved, the physical position was impaired by the further accumulation of stocks of crude and gasoline.

"Production of crude in the United States was 1,001,702,000 barrels, as against 888,676,000 barrels in 1928.

"The increase of 113,026,000 barrels in crude production for 1929 was accounted for by the Appalachian fields, Michigan, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and California, the latter State accounting for about 53 per cent of the total increase."

Large Increase in Assets.

Total assets of the company at the e. 1 of 1929 amounted to $1,767,377,555, compared with $1,572,267,610 at the end of 1928, representing an increase of nearly $200,000,000. Most of this increase was caused by larger fixed assets, including plants, land, leases, marine equipment and other capital assets, which amounted to $776,589,416 after reserves for depreciation, depletion and amortization. This was an increase of $125,000,000 during the year, for at the end of 1928 fixed assets amounted to $651,602,970.

Current assets at the end of 1929 amounted to $783,188,259, compared with current liabilities of $170,109,461, indicating a working capital of more than $613,000,000. At the end of 1928 current assets were $713,070,157 and current liabilities were $144,731,430, indicating a working capital of $568,000,000.

Inventories increased substantially during 1929, while cash decreased sharply, amounting to $27,615,991 on Dec. 31, compared with $87,734,295 at the end of 1928. Investments in marketable securities increased more than $38,000,000, while permanent investments in affiliated companies increased $19,000,000.

Gross crude production of subsidiary and affiliated interests was 101,100,098 barrels, an increase of 14,960,136 barrels, or 17.37 per cent, over production for 1928. Domestic fields supplied 51,657,552 barrels and foreign fields 49,442,546. Mr. Teagle said that the industry had not made progress in bringing about an actual reduction of stocks, but that it had at least prevented more excessive overproduction than actually occurred.

Total liabilities			$1,767,377,555

In 1929 the company issued 934,749 shares of its capital stock in the acquisition of stocks, rights and properties. The book value of the assets thus acquired in excess of the par value of the stock was approximately $32,000,000, which amount was included in the surplus adjustments for the period.

Mr. Teagle's report showed that through the stock acquisition plan of the company the trustees had distributed 1,309,116 shares of common stock to employes. More than 63 per cent of the shares distributed were still retained by the employes on Feb. 15, 1930.

PARIS CANADIANS MEET.

C. J. Smith of National Railways Urges More Trade With Europe.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 14.—C. J. Smith, vice president of the Canadian National Railways and president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in London, was guest of honor at a luncheon today given by the Canadian section of the British Chamber of Commerce in France. A large group of well-known British, Canadian and French business men attended and further development of trade relations between Canada, Great Britain and France was urged.

Mr. Smith read a cable from Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, offering the hearty cooperation of the national lines in connection with the Canadian movement for more intensive trade with Europe and Great Britain.

Philippe Roy, the Canadian Minister to France, stressed the necessity of closer association between the Canadians and France, and A. Rowley, the British Consul General, said Great Britain probably would weather the present industrial storm if it received the full support of Canada and other self-sustaining members of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Bearing interest from January 1, 1930, payable January 1 and July 1 in New York City

Not redeemable prior to July 1, 1947. Redeemable in whole or in part at the option of the Company, as follows: On July 1, 1947, or on any interest date thereafter prior to July 1, 1957, at 105% and accrued interest; on July 1, 1957, or on any interest date thereafter prior to maturity, at 102½% and accrued interest.

Coupon Bonds in denomination of $1,000 registerable as to principal. Fully registered Bonds in denominations of $1,000 and authorized multiples thereof. Coupon and registered Bonds interchangeable.

Legal investment, in the opinion of counsel, for savings banks in the States of New York, Connecticut and New Jersey.

The issue and sale of these Bonds are subject to authorization by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK, TRUSTEE.

Ralph Budd, Esq., President of the Great Northern Railway Company, has furnished us with the following statement regarding these Bonds:

The total mileage covered (directly or collaterally) by the General Mortgage is 7,488 miles, constituting approximately 95% of the total mileage of the Great Northern system. No more underlying mortgage bonds may be issued. Stock representing approximately one-half of the ownership of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company is pledged, free from prior lien, under the General Mortgage. Excluding the bonds issued to finance the ownership of the Burlington stock, the mortgage debt of the Company including the present issue, is outstanding at the rate of approximately $30,500 per mile of road owned in fee or by subsidiary companies.

The Company's gross operating revenues, income available for charges, total charges and net income after charges during the past five years have been as follows:

Year Ended December 31	Gross Operating Revenues	Income Available for Charges	Total Charges	Net Income after Charges
1927	117,904,004	42,040,812	19,054,890	22,985,922
1928	126,737,090	44,326,192	19,157,962	25,168,229

In the above five years, income available for charges averaged over 2¼ times the amount required. The Company's gross operating revenues and net railway operating income for the first quarter of 1930 amounted to $20,422,835 and $538,325 respectively as compared with $24,904,971 and $3,554,168 for the same period in 1929.

After giving effect to the issuance of these additional Series E Bonds, the Company's outstanding funded debt and equipment trust obligations, as of December 31, 1929, amounted to an aggregate of $356,819,515, compared with a net investment in road and equipment, after deducting reserves for depreciation, of $480,069,054 and investments in affiliated companies amounting to $234,722,146, a total of $714,791,200.

The Company has paid dividends on its capital stock, as outstanding from time to time, at the rate of at least 5% per annum (the present rate) in every year since 1892. The capital stock outstanding in the hands of the public on December 31, 1929 amounted to $248,979,450 par value.

THE ABOVE BONDS ARE OFFERED, SUBJECT TO PRIOR SALE AND TO THE CONDITIONS STATED BELOW, AT 97% AND ACCRUED INTEREST, TO YIELD 4.65% TO MATURITY.

The right is reserved to reject any or all applications, and also, in any case, to allot a smaller amount than applied for. All applications will be received subject to the due authorization, issue and sale of the Bonds as planned and to approval by counsel of the form and validity of the related documents and proceedings.

The amounts due on confirmed sales will be payable at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., in New York funds to their order, and the date of payment (on or about June 6, 1930) will be stated in the confirmations of sale. Temporary Bonds or Interim Receipts, exchangeable for definitive Bonds when received, are to be delivered.

$15,000,000 BONDS FOR UTILITY TODAY

PRICED AT 91, TO YIELD 5.5%

Financing to Be Followed by Offering of Additional Shares of Cumulative Preferred.

Financing for the National Power and Light Company amounting to $15,000,000, as the first step in a new program, will be undertaken today with the offering of an issue of 5 per cent debentures, due on May 1, 2030, by a banking group headed by the First National Old Colony Corporation and including W. C. Langley & Co., Bonbright & Co., Inc., Tucker, Anthony & Co., Jackson & Curtis, Hale, Waters & Co., and Toerge & Schiffer. The debentures will be priced at 91, to yield about 5.50 per cent.

The issue will be callable at 106 on thirty days' notice at any time up to and including April 30, 2003, and will rank equally with an outstanding issue of $9,500,000 6 per cent debentures due in 2026. This financing will be followed by the offering of additional shares of $6 dividend cumulative preferred stock, of no par value. It is planned to retire all of the $7 dividend preferred which is now outstanding in the hands of the public, amounting to 140,295 shares.

The National Power and Light Company, which is operated under the supervision of the Electric Bond and Share Company, has preferred and common stocks outstanding with a present market value in excess of $250,000,000, according to the bankers. The net income of the borrowing corporation for 1929 applicable to interest amounted to $14,266,044, equivalent to 10.8 times the interest requirements on the entire amount of debentures to be presently outstanding.

PERMITS PACIFIC GAS TO GET UTILITY STOCKS

California Railroad Board Approves Acquisition of North American Company's Subsidiaries.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14 (AP).—The State Railroad Commission today authorized the Pacific Gas and Electric Company to acquire the capital stock of the North American Company of New York in its California subsidiaries, but dismissed without prejudice the Pacific Company's request to acquire the properties and business of the North American Company.

The commission pointed out that it is of record that the purchase of the North American Company's stocks is the first step in the plan for the acquisition by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company of the properties of the Great Western Power Company, the San Joaquin Light and Power Corporation and the Midland Counties Public Service Company. It also pointed out that there is nothing in the record to show on what terms the Pacific Company proposes to obtain additional stocks of the acquired companies or what it intended to pay for the properties.

Awards of New Bond Issues to Bankers Announced—Offerings to the Public.

Toronto, Ont.

The city of Toronto, Ont., awarded yesterday an issue of $13,396,000 5 per cent bonds, due in varying amounts from April 1, 1931 to 1950, to a syndicate comprising the National City Company, Dillon, Read & Co., the Bankers Company of New York, the Guaranty Company of New York, Harris, Forbes & Co., the Dominion Securities Corporation and the Canadian Bank of Commerce. The bankers paid 100.2149 in American funds. It was explained, however, that the contract made by the bankers in connection with exchange reduced the bid to an equivalent of 100.189.

The second highest tender, which was made by the Chase Securities Corporation, Wood, Gundy & Co., Inc., and associates, was 100.179, or a difference between the first two bids of 0.01. The third bid was 99.918, put in by the Bank of Montreal, and the fourth bid, 99.778, by a syndicate headed by the Bancamerica-Blair Corporation.

The bonds will be placed on the market today at prices to yield 4 to 4.85 per cent. The bonds comprise $8,229,000 sewerage, $3,261,000 local improvement consolidation and $1,906,000 hydroelectric. The city reports an assessed valuation of $941,283,372 and total bonded debt, including this issue, of $183,210,136.

Pittsburgh, Pa.

Award of a new issue of $5,451,000 City of Pittsburgh (Pa.) 4¼ per cent bonds, maturing from 1930 to 1960, was made yesterday to a syndicate composed of Graham, Parsons & Co., Roosevelt & Son, the First National Old Colony Corporation, Estabrook & Co., Kountze Brothers, E. H. Rollins & Sons, the First Detroit Company, Inc.; Stone & Webster and Blodget, Inc., and George B. Gibbons & Co., Inc. The award was made at a price of 101.2845.

The Mellon National Bank and the Union Trust Company, both of Pittsburgh, bidding jointly, were second, with a tender of 101.2308, and a group headed by the Bancamerica-Blair Corporation third with 101.15. The fourth bid, that of 101.044, was put in by Prescott, Lyon & Co., as syndicate representatives, and the fifth bid was by Harris, Forbes & Co. and the National City Company and associates, amounting to 100.9359.

Of the new bonds, $2,850,000 are funding, $2,100,000 street and $501,000 airport. The issue will be marketed today with the 1930 and 1931 maturities to yield 3.50 per cent, 1932 to return 3.75 per cent, 1933 to yield 3.90 per cent, 1934 to yield 4 per cent and 1935 to 1960 to yield 4.05 per cent. The city reports assessed valuation of $1,164,663,700 and net debt, including this issue, of $50,503,347.

Quebec, Que.

The City of Quebec, Que., has awarded a new issue of $3,333,000 30-year 5 per cent bonds at 100.5189, equivalent to about a 4.97 per cent basis, to a syndicate composed of the Dominion Securities Corporation, the Bank of Montreal, A. E. Ames & Co., Ltd., and the Banque Canadienne Nationale. The second highest bid was 100.50 by a group headed by the Bancamerica-Blair Corporation, and the third, 100.18, by the National City Company and associates.

The issue will be offered to investors today at 101.95, to yield 4.875 per cent. The proceeds will be used for refunding purposes and for defraying expenditures incurred for streets, bridges, water works and other municipal purposes. The city's last sale of long-term bonds was on June 7, 1929, when $3,524,000 5s were awarded at 98.43, equivalent to a 5.10 per cent. basis.

South Orange, N. J.

Offering was made yesterday of a new issue of $750,000 village of South Orange (N. J.) 4¼ and 4½ per cent bonds, due June 1, 1931 to 1969, by a syndicate composed of the Bancamerica-Blair Corporation, B. J. Van Ingen & Co. and A. B. Leach & Co., Inc. The issue consists of $637,000 4½s and $113,000 4¼s, priced to yield 4 to 4.20 per cent.

Ventnor City, N. J.

A new issue of $515,000 Ventnor City (N. J.) 5 per cent school bonds, maturing serially from May 1, 1931 to 1960, will be placed on the market today by C. W. McNear & Co., priced to net 4.75 per cent. The city's assessed valuation is reported as $35,481,161 and net bonded debt as $2,516,217.

Kansas City, Kan.

Offering of a new issue of $450,000 Kansas City (Kan.) 5½ per cent municipal trust ownership certificates, due March 1, 1932 to 1940, will be made today at par by Herbert C. Heller & Co., Inc. The certificates are secured by a deposit of special tax bills issued to defray the cost of paving and resurfacing streets.

St. Lawrence County, N. Y.

Kissel, Kinnicutt & Co. will offer today a new issue of $260,000 St. Lawrence County (N. Y.) 4¼ per cent highway bonds, due May 1, 1943 to 1948, priced to yield 4.10 per cent. The county's assessed valuation is $75,717,399 and net bonded debt $1,309,165.

Bond Club Plans Whippet Races.

There will be whippet racing at the annual field day of the Bond Club of New York at the Sleepy Hollow Country Club on May 23, the committee announced yesterday. Two of the races will be the Bank Merger Handicap and the Black Thursday Handicap. E. Coe Kerr of Hoge, Underhill & Co. and Neil G. Finch of Wertheim & Co. will be in charge of the events.

BONDS PRICED AT 97 BY GREAT NORTHERN

Railway's $20,000,000 Issue of 4½% to Be Offered Today to Yield 4.65%.

NOT CALLABLE UNTIL 1947

Budd Says No More Underlying Mortgage Securities May Be Issued by Line.

An additional issue of $20,000,000 Great Northern Railway Company 4½ per cent general mortgage bonds, Series E, dated July 1, 1927, and due on July 1, 1977, will be placed on the market today by a syndicate comprising J. P. Morgan & Co., the First National Bank of New York and the National City Company. The bonds, which are offered subject to the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission, will be priced at 97, to yield 4.65 per cent.

The issue is not callable until July 1, 1947, and on and after that date until July 1, 1957, as a whole or in part, at 105, and thereafter, prior to maturity, at 102½. After giving effect to this financing, the outstanding funded debt and equipment trust obligations of the road, as of Dec. 31, 1929, amounted to $356,819,515. This compares with the net investment in road and equipment, after depreciation, of $480,069,054, and investments in affiliated companies of $234,722,146, a total of $714,791,200.

Ralph Budd, president of the road, in a letter to the bankers, said no more underlying mortgage bonds may be issued and that stock representing approximately one-half the ownership of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company is pledged, free from prior lien, under the general mortgage.

Income of the Great Northern for the last five years, applicable to charges, averaged more than 2¼ times the amount of such charges. The road since 1892 has paid dividends at the annual rate of at least 5 per cent, which is the present rate.

NEW LOAN FOR ONTARIO.

$30,000,000 Bond Issue Announcement Expected Today.

TORONTO, Ont., May 14 (Canadian Press).—An announcement by the Ontario Government of a $30,000,000 bond issue is due tomorrow, according to information from Parliament buildings here today. This will be the first refunding loan to be issued this year. It will be of forty-year serial bonds bearing 4½ per cent.

The issue will, it is said, clean the government slate of short-term borrowing. After this year and for the next five years there will be no maturities falling due.

NEW STOCK ISSUE.

Midland Natural Gas.

Offering of a new issue of 115,000 shares of Midland Natural Gas Company no-par participating Class A stock will be made today by E. R. Diggs & Co., Inc. The stock will be priced at $17.50 a share, which at a cumulative dividend rate of $1.20 annually—will be equivalent to a yield of more than 6.85 per cent. After an equal amount has been paid on the common, the Class A will participate with the common on a share-for-share basis in any further dividends.

All cash dividends may be applied, at the option of the stockholders, to the purchase of additional Class A stock at the quarterly rate of 1-40th of a share for each share held, which is at the annual rate of 10 per cent. The issue is listed on the Chicago Stock Exchange.

BOND TRADING DULL AND CHANGES SMALL

Declines in 40 Domestic Issues Average 1 Cent as 20 Foreigns Go Up 7 Cents.

RAIL CONVERTIBLES GAIN

Trading in bonds on the New York Stock Exchange was slow yesterday, with a volume of $10,993,000. Price changes were small in the main, THE NEW YORK TIMES average price of forty domestic bonds changing downward but 1 cent and THE NEW YORK TIMES average price of ten foreign bonds moving up 7 cents.

Railroad convertible bonds, which were the feature of the trading, advanced fractions after the heavy trading in the rail shares on the Exchange. Liberty and treasury bonds held firm, foreign bonds with a few exceptions were firm to strong, while other standard investments were heavy.

In view of the recent sale of approximately $17,000,000 of Uruguay 6s of 1964 the break of 3 points in Uruguay 6s of 1960 attracted considerable attention. The loss brought this issue down to 95¼, against its previous close of 98¼. The 8s of the same country were about 1 point higher.

Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe convertible 4½s were the leaders in the rail group, advancing 4 points. Milwaukee adjustments, Baltimore & Ohio convertibles and Chicago & North Western convertibles were all active and made small gains in a heavy turn over. International Great Northern 6s of 1952 were up 2 points.

Fractional losses were sustained by Southern Railways, Friscos, New Haven, New York Central issues, Missouri Pacific 5s, Illinois Central 4¾s and 4s, Milwaukee 4½s and Boston & Maine 5s.

BOND ISSUE 70% CONVERTED

Only $65,800,000 of $219,000,000 A. T. & T. 4½ Convertibles Remain.

Only $65,800,000 of the $219,000,000 American Telephone and Telegraph Company 4½ per cent convertible bonds, due in 1939, remained to be converted into common stock at the close of business yesterday, showing that 70 per cent of the original issue had been exchanged for stock.

On the basis of $100 of bonds and $80 in cash for one share of stock, $122,560,000 in cash has been received by the company since the beginning of the year and $153,200,000 par value of capital stock has been issued, raising the number of shares entitled to rights to above 14,880,000.

Only bonds converted before the close of business on May 23 will receive stock entitled to rights. On May 24 the price of stock into which the bonds are convertible will drop from $180 to $167.28, on the basis of conversions so far made. Additional conversions during the next eight market days will lower this price, the maximum reduction possible being $13.22, in case only one bond remains unconverted on May 24.

Exchange of Bonds Approved.

MONTREAL, Que., May 14 (Canadian Press).—Bondholders of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company approved today the plan whereby their holdings will be exchanged for bonds of the new Dominion Steel Coal Corporation. Their meeting was the first of a series in which investors in the British Empire Steel Corporation and its subsidiaries will be asked to approve the recently announced reorganization plan of the directors.

The Class A Stock will be of no par value, and will be entitled to cumulative dividends at the rate of $1.20 per share per annum, payable quarterly on the first day of February, May, August and November in each calendar year, in priority to any dividends on the Common Stock. Redeemable as a whole or in part at any time on thirty days' notice at $50 per share, plus accrued and unpaid dividends to date of redemption. The Class A Stock will be preferred over the Common Stock in liquidation up to $25 per share, plus accrued and unpaid dividends; thereafter any remaining net assets are to be distributed between the Class A Stock and the Common Stock, share for share. Non-voting unless dividends for six quarterly periods are in default, in which event the Class A Stock will be entitled to vote until such condition is remedied. No additional Common Stock may be authorized except upon the written consent of the holders of 75 per cent of the outstanding Class A Stock.

Listed on The Chicago Stock Exchange

PARTICIPATION: The Class A Stock will participate with the Common Stock, share for share, in any additional dividends declared in and for any calendar year after dividends are declared, set apart or paid on the Common Stock in amount up to $1.20 per share.

Edward R. Berry, D.Sc., President of the Company, summarizes his letter to the bankers as follows:

Dividend Policy: The Board of Directors has announced a policy, subject to change, of permitting the holders of Class A Stock at their option to apply their regular cash dividends towards the purchase of Class A Stock at the quarterly rate of one-fortieth of a share of such stock for each share held, being at the annual rate of 10% in Class A Stock.

Business and Territory: Midland Natural Gas Company, organized under the laws of the State of Delaware, will own and operate, either directly or through its subsidiaries, natural gas properties totaling more than 15,600 acres in Pennsylvania and West Virginia. There are on this acreage 175 producing gas wells, having a present daily production of more than 7,000,000 cubic feet per day, an open flow capacity of more than 21,000,000 cubic feet daily, and an estimated gas reserve of more than 83 billion cubic feet. The gas horizons drained by these wells are reported to be among the most consistent and longest-lived producers in the eastern fields. The reserve acreage admits of intensive development work which will be carried out as rapidly as feasible and which should result in substantial increase in production and earnings. The average life of wells in these fields is reported to be in excess of thirty-five years.

Over 90% of the gross income from the properties to be acquired by the Company is derived from the wholesale distribution of gas under favorable contracts to several of the largest purchasers of natural gas in West Virginia and Pennsylvania, among which are the following:

Hope Natural Gas Co.
People's Natural Gas Co.
Subsidiaries, Standard Oil Co. of N. J.

Equitable Gas Company
Subsidiary of Philadelphia Company

West Penn Public Service Co.
South Penn Oil Co.

The balance of the gross income is derived from the sale of gas by the two subsidiaries of the Company, Bridgeport Natural Gas & Oil Company and Home Gas Company, to domestic consumers in Pennsylvania and West Virginia communities. Under the terms of the existing gas sales contracts, all additional gas produced from presently drilled acreage will automatically have an immediate market.

Earnings: Based on 1929 historical earnings, adjusted to give effect to a compressor station installed in March 1930 on one property, a rate increase granted in November 1929 on one property, and the estimated production to be derived from three wells presently to be drilled on one property, Clark & Krebs, Inc., Consulting Engineers, state that the properties to be acquired by the Company, and its subsidiaries, after operating expenses, interest on divisional liens, maintenance, depletion and depreciation, but before income taxes, are at present, as more particularly set forth in the bankers' circular describing the issue, operating on a basis equivalent to the annual rate of more than $2.44 per share on the Class A Stock.

Capitalization: (Upon completion of present financing)

	Authorized	Outstanding
Participating Class A Stock (no par value)	500,000 shs.	115,000 shs.
Common Stock (no par value)	250,000 shs.	200,000 shs.

With no funded or unfunded debt other than divisional liens in the amount of $439,420.

Management: The operation of Midland Natural Gas Company and its subsidiaries will be under the direction of Midland Management, Inc., which also directs the operation of Twin States Natural Gas Company, and the subsidiaries of Inland Utilities, Inc.

We offer this stock when, as and if issued and accepted by us and subject to the approval of counsel, Messrs. Chapman and Cutler, and Edward H. Tatum, Esq., of New York. It is expected that permanent or temporary stock certificates or interim receipts will be deliverable on or about May 23, 1930. This stock is offered subject to prior sale.

Price $17.50 per share to yield more than 6.85%

Appraisals of gas properties will be made by Clark & Krebs, Inc. Legal details incident to this issue will be passed on by Messrs. Chapman and Cutler, and Edward H. Tatum, Esq., of New York. Audits will be made by Barrow, Wade, Guthrie & Co.

(Incorporated in 1924)

The Common "A" Stock, par value $5.00, non-assessable, with voting rights and participates with Common "B" in the distribution of dividends, share and share alike.

BUSINESS: The Gibralter Finance Corporation of New York was organized and has been continuously active since 1924 in the business of purchasing commercial paper, bills receivable, installment contracts, secured loans and other negotiable financial instruments.

The Corporation operates under a charter permitting it to invest its liquid funds in the securities of banks, insurance, trust and title guarantee companies, government, public utilities, railroad and other domestic and foreign corporation stocks. Also to buy controlling interests in banks, trust and insurance companies, etc., and to act as syndicate managers and underwriters.

MANAGEMENT: The Board of Directors is composed of responsible and successful business men who have had a broad and general experience in Finance and Banking.

CAPITALIZATION: The present authorized capitalization of the Gibralter Finance Corporation of New York is as follows:

	Authorized
Preferred 7% Cumulative Stock, Par Value $10	50,000 Shares
Common "A", Par Value $5.00, voting	1,000,000 "
Common "B", No Par Value, voting	50,000 "

The Preferred and Common "B" Stock were originally sold in Units of 2 shares of Preferred and 1 share of Common "B".

100,000 shares of the new Common "A" Stock has been set aside for the purpose of converting the outstanding Units into four (4) shares of the new Common "A" Stock for each Unit.

If and when contemplated exchange of Units and financing has been completed the corporation will have outstanding the following:

Common "A", Par Value $5.00, voting	1,000,000 Shares
Common "B", No Par Value, voting	50,000 "

ASSETS AND EARNINGS: Because of the nature of its business, the Corporation's capital will be either in cash or invested in a broad diversification of bills receivable, secured loans, stock and bonds, and other quick liquidating items, thus making the corporation's funds liquid at practically all times. The broadness of the corporation's charter is conducive to the creation of attractive profit returns.

PURPOSE OF THIS ISSUE: The proceeds of this offering will be used to expand the activities of the company to invest in a carefully selected list of banks, trust and insurance companies stocks that have a record of successful and profitable operation as well as to participate in underwriting syndicates sponsored by such institutions. To purchase shares of common stock of other corporations, for purposes of control and management of such other corporations. To purchase or sell the Common and Preferred Stocks or Bonds of any Industrial, Railroad or Public Utility or to hold such investments for income purposes.

We recommend this stock when, as and if issued, as an investment with opportunity for enhancement in market value.

OFFERING: Subject to Prior Sale and Allotment, offered at $12.50 per share

Application will be made in due time to list these shares on a New York Exchange. Legal matters pertaining to this issue supervised by Shapiro & Dworkin, Esqs., New York.

FRENCH STOCKS ADVANCE

General Buying Ends Two-Day Depression—Trend Downward on German Boerse.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 14.—The tone of the stock market was more cheerful today, although little business was transacted. British funds remained idle, owing to competition of new capital issues. The war loan sold at £101⅝ and the conversion 3½s at £77 7-16.

A bright spot in the industrials was Courtaulds, which improved to £2 5-16. Other textiles were uncertain, owing to the reduction of dividends by Fine Spinners and Doublers. Internationals were irregular, although Wall Street was firm at the close. International Nickel rallied to $34½ following the dividend. Hydroelectric at $47¼ and Brazilian Traction at $51⅛ also were better. International Holding at $6¾ was steady. Rubber shares were better in several instances, the commodity improving to 7 1-16d a pound. There was an improved tendency among the oil shares, Burmah rising to 86s 3d, Anglo-Persian to 83s 9d and Shell Transport to £4 23-32. Much activity developed in Rhodesians, N'Changa, the outstanding feature, jumping from £3¾ to £4¼ and reacting partially to £4 1-16 on profit-taking. Metal prices showed a decline.

There was less demand for money today, supplies being ample for all requirements. Short loans were 2 per cent, occasionally 2¼. Old money was renewed at 2 per cent. Discounts were steady, with 2 3-16 quoted for fine three-months bills. Sterling on New York further appreciated to $4.85 15-16 - $4.85 31-32.

Sharp Recovery in Paris.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 14.—Yesterday's improvement in Wall Street was reflected in much better conditions on the Paris Bourse today. General buying lifted the market from the depression of Monday and Tuesday.

Imminent issuance of capital shares of the Bank for International Settlements, which will release for trading on the Bourse a large amount of money now tied up, apparently created a feeling of optimism among professional speculators today. Banks, electricals and oils all made good recoveries, but Rio Tinto was an exception, dropping to a new low.

French rentes headed the upward movement, closing as follows: The 3 per cents, 87.60; 1918 4s, 100.10; 1920 amortizable 5s, 132; 1928 5s, 101.05; 1920 6s, 104.50; 1927 amortizable 6s, 104.65.

Berlin Dull and Weak.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 14.—With the exception of shipping stocks, which were much sought in connection with the anticipated release of sequestrated German property, the Boerse was dull today, the volume of trading being so small that hardly any tendency became evident. Besides the shipping stocks, each of which improved two points, Feldmuehle among the celanese and Hammersen and Stoehr of the textiles were firmer.

Electricals, the low voltage group and artificial silks were slightly weaker, while the mining group was uneven. The close was quiet and weak.

RAILWAY ECONOMICS PLANNED IN MEXICO

Calles Says Some Departments Will Be Eliminated in Reorganizing the National Lines.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, May 14.—Former President Calles, in a speech to railway employes and representatives who called at his home yesterday, gave the first intimation of the plans of the committee he is heading for the reorganization of the Mexican National Railways.

General Calles is said to have outlined the condition of the railways revealed by the commission's study and to have said that several departments considered superfluous will be eliminated, including some repair shops which will be absorbed by those in the larger centres. He is said to have remarked that wages would not be reduced nor concessions to labor abated.

The callers are said to have suggested adding revenue by creating new sources of production and economy by canceling many orders now placed in the United States for railway material. They said there were sufficient Mexican workmen in railway workshops capable of manufacturing all material, such as spare parts, needed for the system.

General Calles is said to have promised to study the suggestions carefully.

ONTARIO GOVERNMENT TO SEEK $30,000,000

Issue of Forty-Year 4½% Bonds to Be Sold to Refund Short-Term Loans.

Special to The New York Times.

TORONTO, Ont., May 14.—A $30,000,000 bond issue, the first to be issued this year, will be announced by the Ontario Government tomorrow, it was said at the Parliament buildings today. It will consist of forty-year serial bonds bearing 4½ per cent. It is said the issue will clean the government slate of short-term borrowing.

The bond market has improved since the stock market crash, and it is likely the improvement will be continued, said the Hon. J. D. Monteith, Provincial Treasurer. There always has been a ready market for Ontario Government bonds.

CHANGES ANNOUNCED BY BROKERAGE FIRMS

H. F. Hickie Heads New Group—Montgomery, Scott & Co. Admit New Partners.

Formation of the firm of Hickie, d'Assern & Co., with memberships on the New York Stock Exchange and the New York Curb Exchange, was announced yesterday. Members of the firm are Howard F. Hickie, member of the New York Stock Exchange; Joseph H. d'Assern and J. J. Farrell, member of the New York Curb Exchange. The formation of the firm follows the dissolution of the firm of Howard F. Hickie & Co. Offices have been established in the former offices of the Hickie firm at 25 Beaver Street.

Weston D. Bayley, Stuart R. Stevenson and Elliott Holt have been admitted as general partners in the New York Stock Exchange firm of Montgomery, Scott & Co. William S. Mandox has withdrawn from the same firm as a special partner but will continue to be associated with the Philadelphia office.

Howard F. Whitney Jr. has become a general patrner in H. N. Whitney & Son.

O'Brian, Potter, Stafford & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, announce that D. D. Martin has replaced D. R. Martin as a special partner in the firm.

Due to the retirement of Charles E. Grim as a general partner in the firm of Charles E. Grim & Co. the name of the firm has been changed to J. A. Ludlow & Co. and will be continued by John A. Ludlow, who has been associated with the business for several years, and Thomas E. Burns, formerly with Theodore Prince & Co.

Major L. Alfred Jenny, who has been connected with the United States Shipping Board since the close of the war and who had charge of planning all port and railroad facilities for the A. E. F. in France, has become associated with the accounting and engineering firm of Eppler, Botz & Sangster.

Park Row Trust in Reserve Fold.

The Park Row Trust Company, with initial capital of $500,000 and surplus of $250,000, has been admitted to membership in the Federal Reserve System, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York announced yesterday. Michael H. Cahill is president and W. H. Pearsall vice president and secretary.

Thirty-Year 5% Sinking Fund Bonds

(Non-Callable)

Dated May 1, 1930 — Due May 1, 1960

Principal and interest payable at the office of The Chase National Bank of the City of New York in United States gold coin of the present standard of weight and fineness; also payable, at the holder's option, in Canadian gold coin in Canada in the cities of Montreal, Quebec and Toronto. Interest payable May 1 and November 1. Coupon bonds in denomination of $1,000, with provision for registration as to principal.

A sinking fund is to be provided, sufficient to redeem these bonds at maturity.

These bonds are to be a direct obligation of the City of Quebec and are to be payable both as to principal and interest from direct taxes upon all taxable, immovable property within the municipality. They are authorized in part for refunding purposes, and in part to defray expenditures incurred for streets, bridges, waterworks and other municipal purposes.

The City of Quebec, founded in 1608, is the capital of the Province of Quebec and one of the oldest cities on the North American Continent. The City has excellent railway transportation facilities, and, as a seaport, has one of the largest deep-water inland harbors in the world. The abundance of low-cost electric power, together with its favorable location with respect to transportation, has attracted many manufacturing establishments to the City.

We offer these bonds for delivery if, when and as issued and accepted by us, subject to approval of legal proceedings by Messrs. Brown, Montgomery & McMichael.

Have you $3000 to invest?

If you have $3,000 to invest . . . to really invest . . . you will be interested in a plan we have outlined that shows how to make your investment funds work hard for you.

Our plan shows how to obtain an annual income of $1,000 . . . on the $3,000 . . . by investing in a sound investment stock and reinvesting liberal cash and stock dividends over a period of years.

Conservative possibilities of increased dividends and enhancement in value are disregarded. Either of these would enable you to better the $1,000 yearly income.

Every investor should know just how to make his funds work hard for him. Copy of plan will be gladly sent.

BANK & INSURANCE SHARES, Inc.

25 Broadway, DIGby 2387

PREFERRED SERIES PLANNED BY MOTORS

May Differ in Dividend Rates and Redemption Prices, but Will Be Otherwise Equal.

1,875,366 SHARES IN FIRST

Will Be Offered Soon in Exchange for Other Senior Securities—Sloan Sees Advantages.

The 6,000,000 shares of new preferred stock, which stockholders of the General Motors Corporation have been asked to authorize will be issued in series which may differ in respect to dividend rate and to the amount payable on redemption, it was announced yesterday. The series will rank equally and be identical in all other respects.

The plan calls for the creation of a series of 1,875,366 shares of preferred stock which will have a dividend rate of $5 a year, subject to redemption at $120 a share and accrued dividends.

This issue is to be offered presently in exchange for other senior securities. It will be known as preferred stock $5 series. It has been underwritten by J. P. Morgan & Co.

The plan provides that all series of new preferred stock shall have cumulative dividends taking precedence over all other classes except the 6 and 7 per cent preferred and the 6 per cent debenture stock. It also provides that all series of this preferred shall be entitled on dissolution to $100 a share and accrued dividends after the full dissolution of the excepted issues.

Alfred P. Sloan, president of the General Motors Corporation, in a letter to stockholders, says:

"It is believed the exchange proposed will benefit our senior security holders. They will receive, free from any Federal income tax, a new security enjoying the protective provision of the old and callable at a comparatively higher price. The corporation, on the other hand, benefits from a simplification of its senior security structure, a saving in the yearly dividend requirements and the prospect of relatively better selling prices for its preferred stock."

The $5 series preferred stock will be authorized to effect exchanges for outstanding preferred stocks of the corporation in three classes under terms already announced. The bankers have agreed either to purchase or offer for sale all of the $5 series preferred stock not taken in exchange for outstanding preferred shares. The company will issue non-dividend bearing and non-voting scrip for fractional shares exchangeable for whole shares on or before Jan. 21, 1931.

A meeting of the stockholders to approve this plan has been called for May 26 at Wilmington.

MANY CHANGES MADE IN COMPANY DIRECTORS

Lowry Is Elected President of Warner Sugar and Horace Havemeyer Is Added to Board.

Horace Havemeyer and Frank C. Lowry were elected directors of the Warner Sugar Corporation, yesterday, succeeding George J. Morrow and Manuel E. Rionda. Mr. Lowry was subsequently elected president.

Franz Schneider of the Newmont Mining Company has been elected a director of the Continental Oil Company of Delaware, succeeding Fred Searles, also of the Newmont company, who resigned. Vernon F. Taylor, Albert Brunker, E. T. Wilson and S. H. Keoughan also resigned, and it is planned to reduce the directorate membership from fifteen to eleven.

Donald D. Adkins, assistant general counsel, and Alexander P. Stewart were elected directors of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway to succeed Robert M. Thompson and Grant R. McCullough.

STEEL TRADE SHOWS CONFLICTING TRENDS

Weekly Review Reports Progress in Some Respects and Declines in Others.

MILLS' BACKLOGS SMALLER

Favorable Factors Include Rise in Structural Awards and Large Pipe Orders.

Progress in some respects and recession in others are reported by the weekly trade reviews of the steel industry. Mention is made of price declines, fluctuating mill operations, apathetic buying and steady decrease in backlogs. Favorable developments include a slight gain in releases for the automobile industry, an improvement in fabricated structural steel awards, an increasing demand for line pipe, a growing volume of engineering works and sizable contracts for ships and barges.

The Iron Age Market says in part:

"In a market characterized by price weakness, intermittent specifications, fluctuating mill operations and apathetic buying raw steel output has declined from 77 to 75 per cent of capacity. The Steel Corporation rate remains at close to 80 per cent, but curtailment by independents has brought down the general averages.

"Prices have given further ground, with declines reported among all classes of products from finished steel to scrap and coke. Old material markets are uniformly sluggish or weak, and heavy melting scrap has receded 25 cents a ton at Pittsburgh, Chicago, Cleveland and Cincinnati and 50 cents a ton at St. Louis. Foundry pig iron is off 50 cents a ton at eastern Pennsylvania furnaces and has been marked down an equal amount by Cleveland producers for outside shipment. Finished products that have undergone price reductions include galvanized sheets, fender stock, large rivets and bolts and nuts.

"Orders for steel pipe placed by the Sun Oil Company for a gasoline line from Philadelphia to Cleveland now total 20,000 tons. Several hundred thousand tons of large diameter line pipe are expected to be placed within the next few months. The Columbia Gas and Electric Corporation plans to lay a 400-mile 24-inch gas line from West Virginia to Washington and Baltimore, and the Phillips Petroleum Company will build a 350-mile gasoline line from Texas to Kansas City.

"These and other projects, together with contracts already placed, account for the recent prediction of President Farrell of the Steel Corporation that pipe mills will soon be fully booked until the end of the year. While the outlook in line pipe is favorable, demand for other forms of steel pipe remains quiet. Consumption of standard pipe is estimated at 20 per cent below that of last year."

The Iron Trade Review says in part:

"Considering that pipe and wire products received a substantial shakedown and that the flat-rolled lines have steadily been declining, practically all steel products have been adjusted in the past sixty days. Barring the customary midsummer quietness, producers believe the worst in demand is past, and are now endeavoring quickly to liquidate whatever weakness remains in prices.

"Plates at Chicago are an outstanding line. Mills have backlogs of thirty days on sheared and thirty to forty-five days on universal. Fifty thousand tons of Western tank inquiry is expected shortly. Railroad car builders' specifications continue broad. In the East five ships placed by the United Fruit Company require 16,250 tons, chiefly plates, while three for the Eastern Steamship Company will release 10,000 tons.

"Although there is nothing in open inquiry to substantiate it, the forecast of the president of the United States Steel Corporation that within thirty days pipe mills will book sufficient business to carry them into 1921 is accepted as an earnest of near-by heavy awards. Over the past few weeks backlogs of pipe mills have been gradually lengthening."

A decline of 50 cents a ton at Philadelphia brings The Iron Age composite pig iron price down to $17.58 a gross ton, the lowest figure since July, 1928. Last week it stood at $17.67. The finished steel composite is unchanged at 2.228 cents a pound.

Bar, plate and shape price reductions lower The Iron Trade Review index 12 cents this week to $33.84. The average for April was $34.44, and last May $37.10. It continues at the lowest point since April, 1922.

STRUCTURAL STEEL GAINS.

Last Week's Awards 43,000 Tons, Largest Since February.

Structural steel awards last week, totaling 43,000 tons, were the largest since February, according to The Iron Age summary of the market, and in only one week since February has this figure been nearly equaled, two weeks ago when awards totaled 42,000 tons. New inquiries for 37,000 tons last week are described as "fairly large."

Among the outstanding awards last week were 8,000 tons for a power plant at Kansas City, Mo.; about 3,000 tons for a bridge for the Pittsburgh & West Virginia Railroad, 3,000 tons for a telephone building in Louisville, Ky.; 6,000 tons for a subway section in New York and 2,500 tons for a building for the A. O. Smith Corporation, Milwaukee.

STEEL MERGER ANNOUNCED.

American Rolling Mills' Terms for Sheffield Withheld.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 14.—The merger of the Sheffield Steel Corporation and the American Rolling Mills Company of Middletown, Ohio, was announced here today by W. L. Allen, president, to the stockholders of Sheffield. The merged companies will have about $190,000,000 assets.

American Rolling Mills will acquire the assets and liabilities of Sheffield. The basis of the exchange of stock has not been made public and will not be, Mr. Allen said, until stockholders are informed in writing.

The present management of Sheffield will remain in charge of the property and a new bolt and nut department will be built at the Sheffield mills.

Green Mediating Steel Dispute.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, conferred yesterday as mediator in the negotiations to end the quarter-century rift between the Structural Steel Board of Trade and the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers. The meeting was held at the office of Starrett Brothers & Eken, 101 Park Avenue, and will continue today.

REDUCTION RAPID IN BANKERS' BILLS

Volume Decreased 18 Per Cent Since Jan. 1, Against 13½ Per Cent a Year Ago.

MOVEMENT SATISFACTORY

Secretary of Acceptance Council Believes End of Decline Has Been Nearly Reached.

Bankers' acceptances, which have been decreasing steadily in volume since Jan. 1, touched a new low for 1930 of $1,413,717,278 on April 30, according to the American Acceptance Council. The reduction in April was $125,568,520, or about 8 per cent, which was considerably less than had been expected in some quarters.

Since Jan. 1 the volume has declined $318,719,000, or 18 per cent, against a reduction of 13½ per cent for the same period a year ago. The present volume of bills is, however, $302,875,796 in excess of the total outstanding on April 30, 1929.

"There is much satisfaction in such a substantial and orderly retirement of domestic and foreign trade indebtedness in this quarter of the year," Robert H. Bean, executive secretary of the council, said yesterday. "This is the pay season for acceptance credits and the extent to which the obligations of four or six months ago are met by the liquidation of the credits at this time shows the care with which these credits have been selected and is furthermore an indication of the clean, self-liquidating character of the bankers' acceptance. It is certain that in another two months a strong demand will again appear as new crop financing is announced, and the seasonal upward swing in volume will then continue through the Fall and early Winter.

Decline Near End.

"On the basis of the present total of retired bills per month, it is not now expected that the low volume for the year will be below $1,250,000,000, which would be a very satisfactory amount with which to begin a new season."

The current survey of the council shows the volume created for the purpose of financing goods stored abroad or shipped between foreign countries to be greater than for any of the other purposes, making up 31 per cent of the total outstanding volume of bills. This type of acceptance fell off $24,000,000, while domestic warehouse credits declined $48,000,000. Since Jan. 1 more than $114,000 of warehouse acceptance credits have been liquidated.

As in the previous month, the greatest reduction in April was in the New York Federal Reserve district, where the total dropped $91,000,000 from $1,121,000,000 to $1,030,000,000. This is a reduction of $246,000,000 for New York City banks since Jan. 1 out of a total decline of $319,000,000 for all banks.

Effect on Bill Market.

"The reduction in the volume of available bills has had a direct effect on the bill market, where, notwithstanding the low yield rate, the demand for bills has been remarkably good throughout the month," Mr. Bean continued. "The bill portfolios are considerably below the volume held two months ago, while the Federal Reserve Bank holdings of bills for their own account have declined to $175,000,000, which demonstrates the extent of outside buying of bills even in a period of 2½ per cent yield.

"There is nothing in sight at this time to encourage the belief in higher bill rates for some weeks; on the contrary, with the promise of continued ease in general rates for money and credit, it is not unlikely that still lower levels in bill rates may be reached before July 1. Should this condition prevail, history would be repeating itself, as a similar situation occurred in the Summer of 1924, when bill rates dropped to a yield of 1⅞ per cent on thirty-day bills and 2 per cent on bills of sixty and ninety day maturity. Since 1924 rates have never been so low as at present."

UTILITIES LEAD CURB IN CONTINUED ADVANCE

Some Industrials Buoyant and a Few Oils Rise, With Trading Slow.

Strength continued yesterday on the New York Curb Exchange under the leadership of utility stocks, but with trading still slow. Electric Bond and Share and American Gas and Electric led in their group. Gulf Oil gained in the oil section, where Houston and Vacuum also went forward. Humble Oil and Imperial Oil lost fractionally.

North American Light and Power, Niagara Hudson Power, Cities Service, American Superpower, United Gas, and Utilities Power and Light were also buoyant among the utilities, Memphis Natural Gas, United States Electric Power and Lone Star Gas rose.

Advances were made by Lily Tulip Cup, Cooper Bessemer and Roan Antelope in the industrial list, where Van Camp Packing, Ford of Canada A, Deere & Co. and Douglas Aircraft declined.

NEW LISTING ON EXCHANGE

Union Bag and Paper Application for 150,000 Shares Approved.

The Union Bag and Paper Company's sale to the Niagara Hudson Power Corporation of the entire stock of the Union Bag and Paper Power Corporation, together with certain real estate at Hudson Falls, N. Y., was for a consideration of $1,525,000 in cash, a contract for the supply of power for the Hudson Falls mills and factories and other considerations, including indemnity against the liability of the corporation on the guaranty of the $3,000,000 bonds of the power company.

The description of the sale is contained in Union Bag and Paper Company's application to list 150,000 shares of no par capital stock on the New York Stock Exchange, approved by the governing committee yesterday, to replace 150,000 shares of $100 par value. The directors voted on March 14 to reduce the capital stock from $14,980,936 to $4,494,281 and to change the 200,000 authorized shares from a par value of $100 into 200,000 shares of no par value, crediting the reduction in capital to surplus.

LISTINGS APPROVED BY STOCK EXCHANGE

National Biscuit to Use 210,000 Shares in Pacific Coast Biscuit and Bishop & Co. Deals.

BORDEN REVEALS MERGERS

$30,000,000 Bonds of International Hydro-Electric System Admitted to Trading.

Stock of the National Biscuit Company having a market value of more than $12,000,000 has been issued in exchange for the business and assets of the Pacific Coast Biscuit Company, according to information contained in the former company's application to list 210,000 shares of additional stock on the New York Stock Exchange. The application was approved yesterday, and the stock will be listed on notice of issuance.

Of the 210,000 shares, 140,000 were used in connection with the acquisition of the Pacific Coast Biscuit. The remaining 70,000 shares, having a market value of more than $6,000,000, were used to acquire the business and assets of Bishop & Co. The Pacific Coast company manufactures biscuits, candy, confectionery, macaroni and similar articles. Bishop & Co., a partnership, manufactures biscuits, candy, chocolate and peanut butter, having a plant in Los Angeles and another in San Diego.

The Borden Company, in obtaining permission to list 84,716 shares of additional stock, disclosed that it is acquiring J. J. Joubert, Ltd., of Montreal and Halls, Ltd., of Lindsay, Ont.; the Johnson Dairy Company of Chicago, the Chillicothe Bottling Company of Chillicothe, Ill.; the Eighty-five Jane Street Corporation of New York, Bagel Brothers Dairy, Inc., of Chicago; the Lone Star Ice Cream Company of Waco, Texas; the Home Dairy of Glens Falls, N. Y.; the Huber Ice Cream Company of Bridgeport, Conn., and the Purity Ice Cream Company of Waco.

The Stock Exchange announced that it had admitted to listing $30,000,000 convertible 6 per cent debentures of the International Hydro-Electric System and that the following securities are to be admitted on notice of issuance:

BOSTON & MAINE RAILROAD—$15,000,000 first-mortgage gold bonds, Series II, 5 per cent, dated May 1, 1930, due on May 1, 1955.

"WORLD'S BEST NEWSPAPER"
As a newspaper owner and publisher, I would like to say how much I enjoy and appreciate The New York Times. Out here in Vancouver, each Sunday morning, I spend one to two hours going over the previous Sunday's paper. Your Watch Tower articles interpret and picture and put together for me what has taken place in Canada during the past week, and The Times does the same with every other country in the world. The New York Times gives me world events, world fields news, and in the rotogravure section, world pictures, all written and interpreted in such a way that they give me a picture of what is going on in the world. My respect and sincere congratulations on what appears to me to be easily the world's best newspaper.

UNITED CORPORATION ADDS BLOCK OF U. G. I.

1,425,000 Shares Turned In for Exchange Make Ownings of Philadelphia Utility 26.9%.

TOTAL IS 6,076,846 SHARES

Acquisition Will Increase Earnings of Buying Company by 6.8c on Common.

George H. Howard, president of the United Corporation, announced yesterday that under the offer of May 1, tenders had been received of 1,425,000 shares of common stock of the United Gas Improvement Company to be exchanged for an equal number of common shares of the United Corporation. This is in addition to 500,000 common shares previously acquired on the same terms and 4,151,846 common shares held on April 12, or a total of 6,076,846 shares of United Gas Improvement, now owned.

Application has been made to the New York Stock Exchange for authority to list 1,425,000 additional common shares of the United Corporation required to effect this exchange. There are 24,000,000 common shares of United Corporation authorized, of which 9,177,515 will be outstanding, not including 3,732,059 reserved to purchase common shares at $27.50 each at any time.

Ownership of the 6,076,846 common shares of United Gas Improvement will give United Corporation a 26.9 per cent interest in the Philadelphia utility, in which it continues the largest single stockholder.

One effect of the acquisition will be to increase the United Corporation's estimated annual dividends and interest receivable on the basis of current dividends on stocks held, including a 2 per cent return on uninvested cash and deducting $4 preference dividend requirements. The rise will be from 87.8 cents to 94.6 cents a share, as annual dividends in cash of $1.20 a share are paid on United Gas Improvement common stock. This does not include the value of stock dividends to be received during the year.

Discussions for a further affiliation between the Columbia Gas and Electric Corporation and the United Corporation group are continuing, it was reported in utility circles yesterday, but no announcement was believed imminent.

STEWART-WARNER DIVIDEND

Not on $1 Basis, Smith Says—Net for Quarter at 51 Cents a Share.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 14.—Reduction of the Stewart-Warner Corporation's quarterly dividend last month to 25 cents does not mean that the stock is on a $1 annual basis, C. B. Smith, president, suggested in a letter to stockholders tonight.

"The matter of dividend disbursement rates is subject to consideration at each regular quarterly meeting and the rate announced following any meeting applies to that quarter only, unless otherwise specifically stated in the announcement," he says. "This explanation is offered to remove some apparent misunderstanding concerning the intention of the directors on the matter of dividend declarations.

"The decision to pay in cash dividends on this occasion only one-half of the earnings of the first quarter was reached after careful weighing of all facts and conditions."

Net earnings for the first quarter were $656,010, equivalent to 51 cents a share on 1,298,919 shares, compared with $2,054,224, or $1.58 a share, in the first quarter of 1929. The balance sheet as of March 31, 1930, shows current assets of $14,154,922, current liabilities of $2,252,055 and surplus of $17,452,704.

Heads Stock Exchange Again.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—Emil P. Brecht, who has been president of the Philadelphia Bourse since 1917, was re-elected to that post by the directors today. Others officers elected were Lincoln K. Passmore, Philip Godley and Miers Busch, vice presidents; W. S. Appleton, treasurer and assistant secretary; William A. Lockyer, secretary; H. C. Hudson, assistant treasurer, and John F. Lewis, solicitor.

The capital stock of the company consists of 1,000,000 shares.

United Chemicals.

United Chemicals, Inc., reports for the three months ended on March 31 net profit of $142,752 after depreciation, Federal taxes and other charges, equivalent under the participating provisions of the shares to earnings of 87 cents a share on the $3 cumulative participating preferred stock and 41 cents a share on the common stock outstanding at the end of the period. The earnings, if applied directly to the preferred stock, are equal to $1.24 a share.

Brunswick Terminal.

The Brunswick Terminal and Railway Securities Company reports for the three months ended on March 31 net income of $14,543 after expenses and taxes, equivalent to earnings of 11 cents a share on the outstanding stock. In the first three months of 1929 net income was $53,680, equivalent to 36 cents a share on the stock outstanding at that time.

Fine Cotton Spinners.

The Fine Cotton Spinners and Doublers Association, Ltd., reports for the year ended on March 31 profit of £517,518 after depreciation and other reserves, comparing with profit of £632,618 in the preceding year. Dividends of 6 per cent were declared during the year, compared with 9 per cent in the previous year.

Ludlum Steel Company.

The Ludlum Steel Company and subsidiaries report for the three months ended on March 31 an operating loss of $3,661, compared with an operating profit of $486,182 in the first three months of 1929. After provision for depreciation and reserve for general taxes net loss was $49,843. In the first three months of 1929 the net income after depreciation, interest, Federal taxes and other charges was $389,437, equivalent after preferred dividend requirements to earnings of $1.87 a share on the common stock.

Otis Steel Company.

The Otis Steel Company reports for the three months ended on March 31 net profit of $634,058 after interest, depreciation and estimated Federal taxes, equivalent after preferred dividend requirements to earnings of 51 cents a share on the common stock. In the first three months of 1929 the company reported surplus of $962,331, equivalent to $1.19 a share on the common stock, after the above charges.

Philip Morris & Co.

Philip Morris & Co., Inc., report for the year ended on March 31 net income of $426,433 after Federal taxes and charges, equivalent to $1.02 a share on the outstanding stock. In the previous fiscal year the company reported net income of $477,546, equivalent to $1.15 a share on the outstanding stock.

Hecla Mining Company.

The Hecla Mining Company reports for the three months ended on March 31 net profit of $295,824 after expenses, taxes and depreciation, equivalent to earnings of 29 cents a share on the outstanding stock. In the first three months of 1929 the company had a net profit of $493,037, equivalent to 49 cents a share.

General Printing Ink.

The General Printing Ink Corporation reports for the three months ended on March 31 net profit of $217,457 after expenses and Federal taxes, equivalent after the preferred dividend requirements to earnings of $1.05 a share on the common stock.

Fairchild Aviation.

The Fairchild Aviation Corporation reports for 1929 net profits of $119,963 after expenses and charges, and a net loss of $2,112,557 after writing off all intangibles and minority interests. Amounts charged off the books included $439,287 for inventory adjustments and revaluation, $1,773,002 for engineering, development, good-will and other intangible values, and $20,232 for investments in other companies.

Sales for the year amounted to $3,494,356, compared with $2,656,560 in the preceding year, an increase of 31 per cent. Inventories as of Dec. 31 amounted to $1,151,386 after reserves for obsolescence and unsalable parts and materials. Investments totaled $1,557,386, including 210,000 shares of Aviation Corporation stock carried at approximately $5.29 a share.

Insurance Securities Company.

The premium income of companies controlled by the Insurance Securities Company increased approximately 10 per cent in the first quarter of this year over the same period last year and more than 36 per cent in comparison with the first three months of 1929 if the companies acquired during 1929 are included, according to W. Irving Moss, president. The surplus account on March 31 was $7,470,521, compared with $7,413,180 on Dec. 31, 1929, an increase of $57,341.

Dividends amounting to $304,318 were paid in the quarter and $700,000 of additional premium reserves was set up. Taking into account the shareholders' equity in increased premium reserve, the indicated profits of the quarter were $641,559, equivalent to 73 cents a share on outstanding stock, according to Mr. Moss.

International Paper and Power.

The International Paper and Power Company reports for the first quarter of this year a deficit of $1,552,147 after the payment of preferred and Class A common dividends. Net profit for the period after depreciation, interest, amortization, minority interest and dividends on preferred and minority common stocks of subsidiaries was $670,054, compared with dividend requirements of $2,222,201.

Commenting on the statement, Archibald R. Graustein, president, said:

"The balance available for dividends, though greater than a year ago, is not as large as had been expected prior to the development of the present business depression. Slackening consumption and declines in prices have affected earnings adversely. On the other hand, the progressive improvement in mill efficiencies is keeping pace with or exceeding expectations and promises to continue, indicating further increases in earnings which should be accentuated in the last quarter with additional deliveries of hydroelectric power now under contract."

The earnings for the first quarter of this year were 39 per cent greater than in the same quarter a year ago when the net after above charges but before dividends was $480,422. The deficit after dividends was $1,720,659 in that quarter.

The development of the company's power income has been such that it has recently been announced that at present more than one-half of its net revenues, which in the past quarter were $10,454,495, are derived from this source.

Hygrade Food Products

The Hygrade Food Products Company for the first five months of its fiscal year ended on March 31, reports sales aggregating $29,851,822. Current assets total $7,938,133 and current liabilities $1,812,444, leaving a net working capital of $6,125,689. Cash on hand amounted to $1,250,000.

INVESTMENT TRUST.

First Industrial Bankers.

For the four months ended on April 30 the First Industrial Bankers, Inc., report a net income of $94,161 after expenses, interest charges, discount and reserve for losses and Federal taxes. This compares with a net income of $50,539 for the entire year 1929. Net profit from operations in the four months was $150,083.

Fixed Investment Trust Formed.

A fixed investment trust, to be known as Fixed Trust Oil Shares, organized with a provision for liquidating periodically the market appreciation of its investments, has been announced by the American Basic-Business Shares Corporation. The portfolio will include securities of Standard Oil and independent oil companies.

ASKS RESERVE PLAN FOR SAVINGS BANKS

Hoguet Urges Mutual Officers to Form Agency Similar to Federal Board.

FINDS DEPOSITS FEWER

Tells Executives at Atlantic City Convention They Must Meet Competition of Trusts.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 14.—"Latest reports available seem to indicate that an increasingly large part of the savings of the country is taken by institutions other than mutual savings banks," Robert L. Hoguet, president of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks, told 200 bankers at the opening of the association's convention here today.

"During the past few years our banks have been confronted with a new form of competition," he declared.

"The investment trust idea was imported from England and offered to our people in diverse aspects and forms," he pointed out. "Many of the great commercial institutions of the country are appealing to the public generally to contribute their savings to composite funds and other devices for pooling savings. One of these institutions the other day was bold enough to make the statement that very little, if anything, had ever been done in the United States for the $5,000 a year man.

"The early mutual savings banks were philanthropic institutions, conceived as a charity to assist the provident poor whose savings were apparently beneath the notice of any then existing form of commercial enterprise. Today human ingenuity is constantly devising ways and means of making a profit out of the savings of the multitude, and what once could not be started except as a pure philanthropy has become an extremely profitable business.

Stresses Sharing of Profits.

"It stands to reason that a mutual savings bank in which all of the earnings belong to the depositors is, or should be, more profitable for such depositors than a commercial banking institution in which some of the earnings of the funds are paid to the depositors and the balance goes to stockholders in the form of dividends."

Mr. Hoguet considered the possibility of recovering for the mutual savings banks their past share of the savings of the nation. He did not, however, make a definite proposal to the convention.

"Mutual savings banks did nothing but a savings business in the beginning," he said, "and that is substantially what they still do.

"It may be that they are not economically run. I believe this can be relatively easily remedied if the mutuals will have the courage to establish branches and to embark in other forms of banking. If we look at the commercial banks we cannot fail to be impressed by the fact that there has been a continuing diversification of function on the part of such institutions—discounts, trusts, mortgages, safe deposit, investments—until today the banks of the country are running what Charles E. Mitchell once characterized as financial department stores.

"Finally, and not of the least importance, is the fact that the mutual savings banks do not belong to the American banking family as it is now organized. The passage of the Federal Reserve act in 1913 brought the great bulk of American banking institutions into one organization. No method has yet been devised for bringing the mutual savings banks into this picture.

"It has bee nsuggested that the savings banks could set up a cooperative clearing house similar to the Federal Reserve Board, but joining the existing system would simplify these solutions. Events of last Fall have shown that the board is the best banking device ever created to bring about stability. Without the board we might have had a panic last October unequaled in the financial history of the United States. The steadying influence of the Federal organization saved the situation."

The idea of a savings bank organization similar to the Federal Reserve appeared again later in the report of a committee appointed to consider how much surplus in addition to deposits should be kept undisturbed in order to safeguard the deposits. After two hours' discussion of the ratio of surplus proposed, the convention decided it could not agree and that the savings bankers must proceed for another year according to their best undivided judgment.

The convention opened with prayer by the Rev. E. M. Barney for the "inculcation of the spirit of service." A representative of the Mayor presented a symbolic key to Atlantic City. Tomorrow the convention will consider trust powers, small personal loans, branches, mergers and the segregation of savings accounts.

The council of administration, meeting separately, added the State of Washington to the seventeen other States represented in the association. It received the report of delegates who attended the international thrift conference last year and voted to accept their recommendation by joining the International Thrift Institute.

A council resolution, ratified during the day by the convention, asked Congress to write into the Federal banking law a prohibition against the use of the word "savings" in any advertising in States where such use was forbidden.

BANK STOCKS ADVANCE IN COUNTER MARKET

Insurance Issues Firm—Moderate Improvement Shown in Other Sections.

There was moderate improvement in various sections of the over-the-counter securities market yesterday. Trading was quiet in the first half of the day, but as the session wore on activity increased and prices were better. Bank and trust company stocks were stronger. Insurance issues were firm. Numerous price changes occurred in the industrial list, with the trend generally upward.

Gains in the bank and trust company division were shown by Guaranty, Bank of United States, Chase, America, Manhattan, City, Bankers, Public, Brooklyn Trust, Chelsea, Chemical, Equitable, Interstate, Lawyers' Title and Guarantee and several others. In the insurance stock section the volume was small, although gains were made by Hartford Fire, Harmonia, Franklin Fire, Connecticut General Life and Aetna Fire. There was an easier tone to Globe and Rutgers, Brooklyn Fire and Maryland Casualty.

Among the industrial issues there was a better tone to Woodward Iron common, West Virginia Pulp and Paper common, Petroleum Derivatives, Great Northern Paper, Dictaphone preferred and Dwight P. Robinson. On the declining side were Scovill Manufacturing, Graton & Knight preferred, Bunker Hill common and United Publishers preferred. Communication issues, sugar stocks and bonds were quiet.

FIGHT COLONIAL LINE PLEA.

Shippers Here Want New Haven to Keep Sound Steamers.

The Shippers' Conference of Greater New York voted yesterday to ask the Interstate Commerce Commission to take testimony in New York as well as Boston on the application of the Colonial Steamship Line to have the New Haven Railroad abandon the operation of its Sound steamers. The conference is opposed to the application, holding that the ships owned by the New Haven furnish better service from Providence, New Bedford, Fall River and other points than any other line now operating.

The conference is desirous of registering the strongest possible opposition, the members indicated. A hearing is now scheduled in Boston and twenty-five conference members expressed willingness to testify in opposition if a hearing is held in New York. The action followed an explanation by William H. Day, commissioner of the Boston Chamber of Commerce and president of the New England Traffic League, in which he told of the opposition in Boston to the move.

CITY ICE PLANS NEW UNIT.

Moves to Acquire the Seaboard Terminal for $3,189,500.

The City Ice and Fuel Company is planning to acquire the Seaboard Terminal and Refrigeration Company for about $3,189,500, through the issuance of 31,895 shares of 6½ per cent cumulative preferred stock in exchange for 14,763 preferred and 34,263 shares of common stock of the Seaboard company. The preferred stocks are exchangeable on a share-for-share basis and the common stocks on the basis of two for each share of City Ice common.

The governing committee of the New York Stock Exchange yesterday approved the listing of the additional City Ice and Fuel shares on official notice of issuance, making the capital to be outstanding 183,827 preferred and 1,160,201 common shares.

The company and its subsidiaries are the largest manufacturers and distributers of ice in the United States, doing business in twenty-two States, principally in the North Central and Middle Atlantic divisions and in Canada.

ANACONDA WIRE MAKES CALIFORNIA WIRE DEAL

To Exchange Shares in Purchase of Assets by Subsidiary for Its First Pacific Coast Unit.

Negotiations for the purchase of the assets of the California Wire and Cable Company by the Anaconda Wire and Cable Company of California, a subsidiary of the Anaconda Wire and Cable Company, which have been pending for some time, were formally completed last night. The acquisition, which will be effected through the issuance of stock of the Anaconda Wire and Cable Company for shares of California Wire, will provide the Anaconda organization with its first operating unit on the Pacific Coast. The Orange and Oakland plants of the California Wire and Cable Company will be operated under the name of the Anaconda Wire and Cable Company of California.

With the addition of these two plants, Anaconda Wire and Cable will have manufacturing facilities stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast. Operating units are in Hastings-on-Hudson, Pawtucket, R. I.; Marion and Anderson, Ind.; Muskegon, Mich.; Kenosha, Wis.; Sycamore, Ill.; Great Falls, Mont., and Orange and Oakland, Cal.

The company produces a complete line of copper wires, cable and other miscellaneous products. These products will be distributed on the Pacific Coast as heretofore. Bare, weather-proof wire and underground cables will be sold through the General Electric Supply Corporation, which has been an Anaconda connection for ten or twelve years.

Lays Buffalo City Hall Cornerstone.

BUFFALO, May 14 (AP).—The cornerstone of Buffalo's new $7,000,000 City Hall was laid this afternoon by Mayor Roesch. George F. Fisk, Commissioner of Public Works; Councilman George P. Keating, chairman of the City Hall Building Committee, and other public officials took part. The principal address was delivered by John Lord O'Brian, assistant to Attorney General Mitchell.

COPPER BUYING HEAVY; SOME ORDERS SCORNED

Certain Producers Refuse to Accept Contracts in Hope of Rise From 13c a Pound.

Sales of copper continued in heavy volume yesterday, although the total was not so large as on Tuesday. Prices remained unchanged despite predictions of forthcoming increases from the present levels of 13 cents a pound for domestic delivery and 13.30 cents for European delivery. Several producers said, however, that they were refusing to take all orders offered at present quotations, since they felt that prices might go higher.

Foreign sales totaled 16,000,000 pounds, compared with 23,000,000 on Tuesday. These sales this month have been 133,500,000 pounds.

Stocks of refined copper at the end of April were more than 600,000,000 pounds, according to the American Bureau of Metal Statistics. Estimates of domestic sales since May 1 have ranged as high as 200,000,000 pounds, but several producers believe this figure is too high.

At the annual meeting yesterday of the Cerro de Pasco Copper Corporation Edward H. Clark, president, said several companies were refusing to sell all the copper that they could at 13 cents a pound. He added that he thought the price might go higher.

"It is not to be expected that the company will earn as much as last year," Mr. Clark said. In his opinion inventories had not increased much this year and no further rise was probable.

OPENS NARCOTIC BUREAU.

Captain Hobson Will Direct Geneva Campaign on Drugs.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, May 14.—The American permanent secretary of the World Conference on Narcotic Education, the fourth session of which will be held in London next year, has just established here a European headquarters to continue the crusade against the manufacture and sale of narcotic drugs.

Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson, the American general secretary of the conference, will direct the Geneva branch staff, chiefly composed of Americans.

UTAH LEAD BROKER ADMITS MAIL FRAUD

Rankin, on Trial for Second Time With Four Others, Pleads Guilty.

OFFERS TO TAKE STAND

Three Defense Lawyers at First Hearing Were Convicted of Bribing a Juror.

William H. Rankin, formerly a member of the Salt Lake City Stock Exchange, who, with four co-defendants accused of mail fraud, was placed on trial in Federal court for the second time on May 6, after three lawyers for the defense had been convicted for bribing John Cruz, Porto Rican juror, entered a plea of guilty yesterday before Judge John C. Knox and a jury.

Rankin and the others are accused of using the mails to defraud in promoting stock of the Utah Lead Corporation, a Delaware concern. Their attorneys in the first trial, who were convicted on bribery charges after the jury had failed to agree, were Arthur N. Sager, Joseph Shalleck and Edward H. Reynolds, all well known in the Federal Building.

Judge Knox continued Rankin in bail of $5,000 and postponed sentencing him until after the trial. Although the defendant offered to testify against the other indicted men—Charles Beadon, editor of The Stock Market Reporter and The Trend of the Market, through which the fraud is alleged to have been committed—; Joseph Morris, Michael Barnett and Harry H. Phillips—Asistant United States Attorney Spieler said Rankin probably would not be called to the stand.

Throughout the first trial, which lasted several weeks, and until yesterday in the retrial, Rankin had joined with the other defendants in maintaining his innocence. Both he and Phillips, who until recently was engaged here in a stock brokerage business, told Judge Knox that they had spent all of their money in the first trial and asked him to assign counsel for their defense.

Alexander T. Hussey, assigned by Judge Knox to defend Rankin, was not present in the court when the trial was resumed. Rankin walked up to the bench and entered his plea in a low voice. Barnett, president of the Utah Lead Company, said that he and the remaining defendants, all represented by Herman Levy, had no intention of changing their pleas.

More than 100 witnesses testified for the government in the first trial. They came from Utah, California, Ohio, Kansas, Colorado, Texas and other States. Federal investigators testified that about $1,000,000 was received by the defendants in four months as a result of a sales campaign.

Use of telephones during this period, they charged, cost the defendants $135,000. The defense contended that the value of the corporation's property in Utah was not exaggerated, as contended by the government, and that it was worth about $4,500,000.

ASKS $100,000,000 CHARTER.

Promoter of 5th Av. Subway and Hudson Tunnel Files Papers.

William L. Staley, a real estate promoter, of 535 Fifth Avenue announced yesterday that he was filing articles of incorporation in Albany for the E. T. & T. Holding Corporation, "a $100,000,000 corporation" formed to further his union terminal and rapid-transit plans.

In March, 1929, Mr. Staley announced plans for a deep subway under the shopping district of Fifth Avenue and a tunnel under the Hudson River to open the undeveloped section of North Jersey and Rockland County. His plans have not yet been submitted to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

The corporation will handle the real estate business of the proposed development and will also be interested in financing the Eastern Terminal and Transit Corporation, now being formed.

Incorporators and directors named include Rutherford H. Walker of Fairview, N. J.; J. V. Painter, a business associate of Mr. Staley's, and C. Walter Griffin, a large real estate holder in New Jersey.

Jersey Realty Men to Hear Pierson.

The New Jersey Associoation of Real Estate Boards will meet tomorrow in Camden to hear State Senator Arthur M. Pierson of Westfield discuss the proposed $100,000,000 bond issue on which the State will vote next Fall. Most of the money is to go for highways, grade crossing eliminations and waterway improvements.

DENIES MISTRIAL PLEA BASED ON PRESS STORY

Court Rules Publication of Mark's Police Record Does Him No Injustice.

Judge Koenig ruled in General Sessions yesterday that publication by newspapers of a defendant's police record, which could not be put in evidence unless the defendant took the witness stand, was not ground for a mistrial.

The ruling was on the motion of Edward Tighe of the Voluntary Defenders, counsel for Frederick H. Mark, 47 years old, who is on trial for the theft of $12,000 in government bonds from a brokerage house last November. He demanded that the jury be dismissed because of revelations in morning newspapers that his client was facing a possible life sentence as a fourth offender.

Four jurors had admitted reading accounts of previous terms served by Mark in Sydney, N. S. W.; Boston and Sing Sing. Judge Koenig, in dismissing the motion, ordered the jurors not to read newspapers again until the close of the trial.

Mark is accused of having conspired with Alfred Van Ness, a fugitive, whom he met in Sing Sing, to defraud Salomon Bros. & Hutzler, brokers at 60 Wall Street, out of the bonds through presentation of a bogus certified check, to which the name of Alfred Johnson of Johnson & Crowley, machine manufacturers, 180 Centre Street, had been forged. Mark is conducting the cross-examination of important State witnesses against him.

Assistant District Attorney Rose Rothenberg brought out in questioning witnesses that the blank check used in the fraud had been stolen with other papers from the safe in Mr. Johnson's office by Van Ness and turned over to Mark.

Wilfred N. Lyons, cashier of the First National Bank of Roosevelt, L. I., told of being present after the indictment of Mark and Van Ness last December when a safe deposit box he alleged had been hired by the defendant was opened and found to contain a certification stamp and other paraphernalia alleged to have been used in preparing the check for presentation to the brokers.

DECRIES HEAVY MINE TAXES.

Mexican Engineer Blames Recent Laws Also for Industry's Plight.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, May 14.—The mining congress in session here to discuss means for alleviation of the depression from which the industry is suffering was told today that "the ruin of the Mexican mining industry is due to taxation, for from this industry the government would obtain all its funds for the resconstruction of this republic.

"Another cause of the ruin of mining in Mexico is the post-revolutionary legislation, dating from 1909, of the worst order," according to the engineer, Rafael de la Cerda, who claimed conditions today would have been better under the laws predating the revolution of 1910 than under those now in force.

The former laws, he said, were clear, while the prevailing mining laws are obscure, complicated and contradictory.

Señor de la Cerda did not hesitate to criticize President Ortiz Rubio and his Ministers for not accepting an invitation to attend the mining congress sessions, and proposed that the commission approach the Chief Executive to insure his presence at another meeting to hear expert views on the crisis.

Yesterday's session went solidly on record in favor of reduced taxes, reduced freight charges and new State legislation to aid the industry.

BUYS TWO GAS COMPANIES.

Atlantic Gas and Electric Moving to Form Large System.

The Atlantic Gas and Electric Corporation has acquired the Dunkard Valley Oil and Gas Company and gas acreage controlled by the Eddy interests in Southwestern Pennsylvania. The Dunkard company distributes natural gas at wholesale in Greene County, Pa.

The Atlantic company and its bankers, Pirnie, Simons & Co., have purchased the Waynesburg Home Gas Company, which has acreage and distributes natural gas at wholesale in territory adjacent to Greene County, serving Waynesburg at retail. They also have acquired electric properties in New England and are negotiating for other utility properties in New England and Pennsylvania, to be merged into a large system.

Midland United to Give Rights.

Stockholders of the Midland United Company, controlled by the Insull interests, are to receive rights to buy an additional share of stock at $22.50 for every five shares held. On the basis of 28¼ for the stock yesterday, the rights are valued at about 96 cents each. The rights will expire on June 24. Payments may be made in instalments.

RAINS IN THE SOUTH EASE COTTON PRICES

New Crop Deliveries Are Pressed and July-October Spread Widens Again.

CONSUMPTION STILL LAGS

Purchases by Mills Expected to Fall Below Figures in Previous Estimates.

The first general rainfall in several weeks in cotton-growing States along the Atlantic caused a 20 to 30-point decline in prices on the Cotton Exchange yesterday. New crop deliveries came under selling pressure and the spread between July-old October widened to 135 points at one time, compared with 85 points on Monday. The overnight improvement in the weather offset the weekly summary, and under quiet trading the list closed with a loss of 17 to 25 points. Certificated stocks aggregated 447,000 bales.

April consumption figures issued by the Census Department proved to be closely in line with expectations, as mills have been using about 100,000 fewer bales a month than last year at this time. Inclusive of linters, the total for the season aggregates 5,474,000 bales, or 473,000 bales less than last year. Mills held 61,300 bales more stock on May 1 than a year ago.

As the May consumption figures increased to 668,000 last year and many Southern mills are running only every other week, the amount of cotton consumed this season promises to fall considerably below estimates of a few months ago. With unsatisfactory textile conditions in both Europe and the Far East, world's consumption of American staple will be the smallest in several years, leaving a larger carry-over than generally had been expected.

BID OF I. T. & T. FAVORED.

Offer for Stock of Shanghai Mutual Telephone Co. Considered.

The advisory committee of the Shanghai Mutual Telephone Company has recommended to the stockholders the acceptance of the bid of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation of 75 taels a share for the company's stock. This is about $34 12½ a share. The price on the Shanghai Stock Exchange is 80 taels. A vote will be taken soon.

The Ericsson interests of Sweden and the Cable Telephone General Trust, a British syndicate, made higher bids than the American company, it was reported, but the committee was influenced by the fact that International has a thorough working knowledge of conditions through work being done in Shanghai by a subsidiary manufacturing plant and also its ability to deliver new equipment rapidly, according to a dispatch received by Dow, Jones & Co. International's subsidiary is now partly installing an automatic telephone system in Shanghai.

COTTON CONSUMPTION BELOW RECENT YEARS

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP).—Cotton consumed during April was announced by the Census Bureau today as 532,382 bales of lint and 66,961 of linters, compared with 508,576 and 63,976 in March this year and 631,802 and 79,543 in April last year.

Cotton on hand April 30 was held as follows: In consuming establishments, 1,667,394 bales of lint and 238,509 of linters, compared with 1,762,627 and 233,137 on March 31 this year and 1,606,412 and 233,231 on April 30 last year; in public storage and at compresses, 3,636,296 bales of lint and 103,066 of linters, compared with 4,189,113 and 107,271 on March 31 this year and 2,524,621 and 81,690 on April 30 last year.

Imports for April totaled 67,397 bales, compared with 28,279 in March this year and 84,621 in April last year.

Exports for April totaled 249,762 bales of lint and 9,953 of linters, compared with 477,678 and 8,004 in March this year and 447,838 and 18,719 in April last year.

Cotton spindles active during April numbered 28,860,382, compared with 28,898,464 in March this year and 30,911,416 in April last year.

	April 30, 1930.	March 31, 1930.	April 30, 1929.

PLANS I. R. T. BOND HEARING

The Interborough's application for permission to issue $40,000,000 of first mortgage and refunding bonds to provide funds for the purchase of 289 new subway cars and the retirement of $10,500,000 in unsecured 6 per cent notes was referred by the Transit Commission yesterday to George H. Stover, counsel. He will prepare an order for public hearings, the date of which will be announced next week.

In granting a hearing on the company's application, it is understood, the commission will make it clear that it does not consider the company's bond issue application a satisfactory answer to the request that the company indicate whether it will comply with the car order. The ten days within which such an answer must be made expired on Monday. The company wrote to the commission that it could not answer the request until it knew what attitude the commission would take on assisting it to finance the ordered improvement.

It is expected that the hearings on the bond application will place upon the public record the company's reasons for declining to enter into an arrangement under which the city's bonds, issued at par, would be used to finance the new cars, provided the company guaranteed to meet interest and sinking fund requirements from its revenues.

LAUNCH WARD LINER TODAY.

Shipping Men Go to Newport News for Oriente Ceremony.

A party of shipping men headed by Franklin D. Mooney, president, and H. H. Raymond, chairman of the board of directors of the Atlantic, Gulf & West Indies Steamship Lines, left last night by special train for Newport News to attend the launching today of the turbo-electric liner Oriente, second vessel in a $10,000,000 building program. The ship will be operated in the New York-Havana express service by the Ward Line, a subsidiary of the AGWI group.

CAPTAIN CHARLES A. McALLISTER, president of the American Bureau of Shipping.
JOHN E. CRAIG, vice-president of the Clyde-Mallory Lines.
H. E. CABAUD, vice-president of the Ward Line.
V. K. HULK, vice-president of the New York & Porto Rico Line.

The train was boarded at Washington by A. H. Denton, S. S. Sandberg and Jefferson Myers, commissioners of the Shipping Board; Orestes Ferrar y Marino, Cuban Ambassador to the United States; Enrique D. Ruiz, Consul General of Mexico, and Dickerson N. Hoover, Supervising Inspector General of the United States Steamboat Inspection Service.

The Oriente is 11,300 gross tons, 508 feet long and will have a speed of twenty knots.

NEW EXPORT OFFICIAL SEES TRADE AVAILABLE

Mr. Eldridge Describes Foreign Markets Thriving Now Despite Reaction.

Foreign markets in which business can be obtained are always available to manufacturers organized to take advantge of the opportunities offered, Frank R. Eldridge, formerly chief of the Far Eastern division of the Department of Commerce and recently appointed executive vice president of the American Manufacturers' Export Association, said yesterday. Mr. Eldridge discussed the opportunities of foreign trade in a statement making official announcement of his appointment to the post in the exporters' organization.

Even with the spotty conditions which have obtained abroad recently, he said, there have been markets where conditions were as good or better than they were last year. He cited Chile, South Africa, Central America, Mexico, Czechoslovakia, Greece, Spain, France and Switzerland as examples.

"This is explained," he pointed out, "by three different types of conditions which help to alleviate the otherwise universal depression abroad at the present moment, due to a world-wide fall in commodity prices.

"In Chile, Mexico and South Africa the steady demand for mineral products, including nitrate, petroleum and copper has diminished purchasing power but little. Central America, Spain and Greece have important fruit industries as subsidiaries to regular export crops, and the demand for bananas and citrous fruits has helped counteract the depression in coffee, cork and olives. Czechoslovakia, France and Switzerland maintain their purchases of American goods because of the importance of industry in their national economy, and prices of manufactured goods have not yet shown a tendency to follow agricultural products."

Exporters in this country who have widespread foreign business, he concluded, are not feeling the present depression as severely as their less fortunate competitors.

For the past twelve years Mr. Eldridge has been associated with the Department of Commerce, first as chief of the Far Eastern division, later as Registrar of the China trade act and finally in charge of the finance and investment division's activities in the local office of the department. He has been actively connected with foreign trade affairs since 1909.

New American Smelting Stock.

Directors of the American Smelting and Refining Company authorized yesterday the sale of $20,000,000 of 6 per cent second preferred stock, now in the treasury, at not less than $100 a share. The stock is callable at $105. The proceeds are to be used for new properties, mines, expansion of business and other corporate uses. It is expected that a public offering of the stock will be made soon.

DIVIDEND ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Glidden Company.

The Glidden Company omitted the 1 per cent stock dividend paid in the three preceding quarters. Adrian D. Joyce, president, said stock allotted for dividends had been exhausted, that the company had shown a profit for each month this year and that sales in May compared favorably with sales in May, 1929.

Propper McCallum Hosiery.

Propper McCallum Hosiery, Inc., omitted the regular quarterly dividend of fifty cents on common due now.

Associated Laundries.

The Associated Laundries of America passed the common dividend due now. The last payment was five cents for the quarter on Jan. 2.

American Cash Credit.

Skelly Oil $12,000,000 Issue Voted.

Stockholders of the Skelly Oil Company voted yesterday in Tulsa, Okla., to amend the company's charter to permit the issuance of $12,000,000 of 6 per cent preferred stock. The directors immediately confirmed the sale and issuance of the stock and authorized an application for listing it on the New York Stock Exchange.

EASTERN RESALES PUT WHEAT LOWER

Market Is Easily Influenced, With Sentiment Divided and Public Trading Light.

OATS NARROW AND EASIER

Good Weather for Planting and Field Work Sends Corn Down —Rye Prices Weak.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 14.—Commission house sentiment in wheat is mixed, though less bearish than of late, but the pit element is decidedly bearish and with a light outside trade the market is easily influenced.

Selling by houses with Eastern connections that were buyers yesterday gave the market an easy undertone today and the finish was at net losses of ⅜ to ⅞ cent. Winnipeg was off ⅝ to ¾ cent despite reports of a fairly liberal export business in Manitobas, but this was due to the Canadian pool selling at a flat price. Liverpool lost ⅜ to ⅝d for the day, while Buenos Aires was unchanged to ¼ cent higher.

Commission houses look for a trading market within comparatively narrow limits until some development occurs. Practically all quarters fear the government agencies will support the market if prices drop to around $1 a bushel. This causes sellers to hesitate. The bulls feel, however, that crop conditions now are about as favorable as they will be this season.

The detailed Canadian official report called attention to a deficit in subsoil moisture in the three Prairie provinces. The government weekly weather crop report was construed as rather favorable. Some counties in Western Kansas need rain.

Decline in Argentine Exports.

Private cables indicated that Argentine exports for the week might fall below 1,000,000 bushels, which was taken as confirming recent reports of the bulk of the remaining holdings in that country being of light weight. World's available supplies decreased 13,397,000 bushels for the week and aggregated 348,542,000 bushels, against 336,627,000 at this time last year. The world's visible supply decreased 46,843,000 bushels in April and reached 471,160,000 bushels on May 1, contrasted with 450,839,000 a year ago.

Export sales of wheat in all positions were finally estimated at 700,000 to 800,000 bushels, mainly Manitobas to the United Kingdom.

Primary receipts were 419,000 bushels; a week ago 383,000 and a year ago 616,000. Shipments were 1,343,000 bushels, a week ago 654,000 and a year ago 1,407,000.

Local Pressure Lowers Corn.

Corn declined from local pressure, due to generally favorable weather for field work and to reports that planting was about completed in parts of Illinois. The May delivery, however, received some support from the removal of hedges against shipping sales of 190,000 bushels, and closed unchanged, while the deferred futures were ¼ to ¾ cent lower, the latter on December. Charters were made for 200,000 bushels to Buffalo. Country offerings were small.

Primary receipts of corn were 386,000 bushels; a week ago 596,000 and a year ago 234,000. Shipments were 888,000 bushels, a week ago 1,282,000 and a year ago 564,000.

Scattered liquidation by longs was on in May oats, while cash houses were the buyers. Commission houses sold the deferred futures, with shorts the buyers. Prices held within narrow limits and closed ¼ to ⅜ cent lower.

Rye was weak and down 1⅛ to 1⅝ cents, with trade light. Stop-loss orders were caught on the way down, while support was limited.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

Accounting Filed in Hewitt Estate.

TRENTON, N. J., May 14.—An accounting in the estate of the late Sarah A. Hewitt, who died in 1912, was filed today in Chancery Court here by the trustee, Edward R. Hewitt and Milton C. Lightner. The accounting showed the estate to be worth $619,978. The trustees asked instructions concerning the disbursement of the balance of income to three children and eight grandchildren of the testatrix, who was the widow of the late Peter Cooper Hewitt, steel magnate.

Seats for Elevator Runners.

Unless owners or managers of buildings having more than one passenger elevator provide for a fifteen-minute rest for their elevator operators every three hours in addition to the regular forty-five minutes for lunch, they must, after July 1, furnish a seat in each car for the use of each operator. This is in accordance with the Sargent bill which was passed by the Legislature.

INDIANAPOLIS STREET RAILWAY COMPANY

SIX PERCENT PREFERRED STOCK
INDIANAPOLIS, INDIANA

On April 18, 1930, the Marion Circuit Court of the State of Indiana, at Indianapolis, Indiana, appointed George C. Forrey, Jr., Receiver for the property of Indianapolis Street Railway Company, an Indiana corporation doing business in the City of Indianapolis, Indiana, which said corporation has outstanding a preferred stock issue of the par value of Five Million Dollars ($5,000,000.00), entitling the holders to dividends at the rate of six percent (6%) per annum, which dividends are now and have for some time been in default.

The undersigned Committee has been organized to protect the interests of the holders of shares of said preferred stock, pursuant to a Deposit Agreement dated May 1, 1930, under which the Indiana National Bank of Indianapolis, Indiana, has been appointed depositary and provision has been made for the appointment of such sub-depositaries as may be found necessary.

In the opinion of the undersigned Committee, it is desirable that the rights of the preferred stockholders receive collective consideration to the end that the rights of all such stockholders may be fully protected, and we therefore urge all holders of shares of this preferred stock to join us in the above mentioned agreement, and in connection therewith to deposit their certificates of stock promptly with the above named depositary.

Copies of the Deposit Agreement may be had on application at the office of either the depositary or the Secretary of the Committee.

At the instance of the undersigned suit was commenced in January in the Chancery Court of New Jersey to enjoin action, deemed by the undersigned to be detrimental to the best interests of holders of Preferred Stock. This is the suit referred to in the annual report just issued by the Corporation to its stockholders but which suit is much broader in scope and more protective in design than indicated in such annual report.

The situation is such that the undersigned consider it advisable that the holders of Preferred Stock should unite without delay for the proper and effectual protection of their rights. To that end the undersigned will serve as a Committee for the stockholders who desire to cooperate and such holders are urged to deposit their certificates of Preferred Stock duly endorsed in blank and bearing necessary transfer stamps, with Bank of Manhattan Trust Company, as Depositary, at its office No. 40 Wall Street, New York, under the terms of a Protective Agreement dated May 14, 1930, copies of which agreement may be obtained from the Depositary or at the office of either of the undersigned.

As provided in the Protective Agreement, no charge will be made to depositing stockholders for services or expenses.

OFFERING OF

$2,790,000.00

SERIES D
HUDSON RIVER REGULATING DISTRICT CONSTRUCTION OF THE SACANDAGA RESERVOIR
BONDS

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the State Comptroller, No. 75 State Street, Albany, N. Y., until 1 p. m. Daylight Saving Time, Tuesday, June 3rd, 1930, for all or any part of $2,790,000.00 Hudson River Regulating District Bonds for the Construction of the Sacandaga Reservoir. The bonds are dated July 1, 1925, bear interest payable semi-annually on January 1st and July 1st, and are coupon bonds with privilege of registration as to principal. The bonds and the interest thereon will be payable in gold coin of the United States of America of the present standard of weight and fineness at the New York State National Bank in the City of Albany, New York, or will be paid at the Guaranty Trust Company, New York City.

These bonds are issued by the Board of Hudson River Regulating District pursuant to the provisions of the Conservation Law of the State of New York, for the construction of the Sacandaga Reservoir in the Counties of Saratoga, Fulton and Hamilton and mature serially ninety $1,000 bonds on July 1st in each of the years 1935 to 1965 inclusive. Interim certificates will be delivered on or about June 12, 1930. The bonds cannot be sold at less than par and accrued interest from January 1, 1930, to the date of the delivery of the bonds.

These bonds are the balance of the total authorized issue of $9,000,000.00. These bonds are a charge upon and shall be payable, principal and interest, from the bond fund of the Hudson River Regulating District, and payment thereof is secured by an assessment levied against the public corporations and parcels of real estate benefited by this improvement, such assessment being payable in 40 annual installments, of which installments five have been paid. An additional issue of $3,000,000.00 of bonds for the completion of the project has been authorized, which will be sold hereafter but not before October 1st, 1930.

These bonds are exempt from taxation and are legal investments for savings banks and trust funds in New York State.

These bonds shall not be construed in any event as bonds or indebtedness of the State, and the State shall not be obligated to pay the principal or interest therefor.

Bidders for these bonds will be required to name the interest rate not exceeding 5.00 per centum per annum. No higher rate of interest shall be chosen than shall be required to insure a sale at par or better. Award to bidder at lowest rate of interest in a multiple of one-quarter or one-tenth of one per centum per annum regardless of premium, or to highest bidder at such lowest rate.

As these bonds are payable in thirty-one equal annual installments, all bids will be required in multiples of thirty-one thousand dollars which sum will be deemed to include an equal face amount of bonds of each maturity. Each bid must state a single rate of interest. Proposals to be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to the undersigned Comptroller of the State of New York.

Certified or bank or trust company check to order of Comptroller, State of New York, for two per centum (2%) of the face value of bonds for security for the performance of such bid and as liquidated damages in case the successful bidder fails to take up and pay for the bonds. No interest will be allowed upon the good faith check of the successful bidder.

Legal opinion of Thomson, Wood & Hoffman, attorneys, 120 Broadway, New York City, on the validity of the bonds will be furnished.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

MORRIS S. TREMAINE,
State Comptroller.

Dated May 7, 1930, at Albany, New York.

CITIZENS STREET RAILROAD COMPANY FIRST CONSOLIDATED

MORTGAGE FORTY YEAR 5% GOLD BONDS

Indianapolis, Indiana

Dated: May 1, 1893. Due May 1, 1933.

On April 18, 1930, the Marion Circuit Court of the State of Indiana, at Indianapolis, Indiana, appointed George C. Forrey, Jr., Receiver for the property of Indianapolis Street Railway Company, a corporation of Marion County, Indiana, which said corporation now owns the property covered by the mortgage which secures the bonds above described.

The undersigned Committee has been organized to protect the interest of the holders of the above described bonds pursuant to a Deposit Agreement, dated May 1, 1930, under which Security Trust Company, Indianapolis, Indiana, and Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust Company, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, have been appointed Depositaries.

In view of the fact that the Receiver for said Indianapolis Street Railway Company has taken possession of the property covered by the mortgage which secures the above described bonds, all holders of such bonds are urged for their protection to deposit said bonds with either of the above mentioned Depositaries, without further delay.

Copies of the Deposit Agreement may be had on application at the office of either Depositary, or the Secretary of the Committee.

NOTICE No. 2

To Holders of General Bonds of the City of West Palm Beach, Florida

The City of West Palm Beach has defaulted on interest due on and since January 1, 1930 on its general bonded indebtedness.

Holders of a substantial amount of the General Bonds have appointed a Protective Committee, which is acting under a Deposit Agreement, for the protection of themselves and all other GENERAL BONDHOLDERS.

The time within which suit must be started under the City Charter is six months after a default; and before beginning suit thirty days' previous notice must be given. Any delay will therefore jeopardize the collection of coupons. The Committee cannot protect any General Bondholder who does not deposit immediately.

Copies of the Agreement and Deposit Letter may be obtained from the Secretary.

TRADE BODY CHANGE SEEN AS NOT LIKELY

Stove Makers Hear Commission Will Continue Cooperation With Business.

LOW PRICES CUT PROFITS

Abandonment of the Federal Trade Commission policy of cooperation with business in the elimination of trade abuses and reversion to its earlier policy of operating primarily as a prosecuting agency of the Federal Government is "inconceivable," Henry P. Foller of the United States Chamber of Commerce told the members of the National Association of Manufacturers of Heating and Cooking Appliances at their convention at the Hotel Astor yesterday. The organization is comprised of ninety leading stove manufacturers of the country.

In his address Mr. Fowler said that the position of the trade practice conference in the business life of the country precludes any radical change in the policy of the Trade Commission. Since the first conference in 1919, he pointed out, over 100 industries have adopted and are operating under rules formally passed on by the commission. Sixty conferences were held last year and on March 1 forty additional conferences were pending.

"It is inconceivable," Mr. Fowler declared, "that a movement of this kind can or would be abandoned. It is equally inconceivable that any action would be taken which would destroy the standards set by industry under the guidance of the commission and thereby disrupt business policies and business relations based upon such standards." Mr. Fowler quoted Lord John O'Brian, assistant to the Attorney General in charge of anti-trust matters, as saying the Department of Justice is "in harmony with the aims of the Federal Trade Commission."

Profits in the stove industry for last year were below those of the past three years, S. V. Dunckel, cost accountant of the association, said. The unsatisfactory conditions he attributed to low selling prices and high costs. A rise in prices at this time he termed "suicidal," asserting that an improved cost position was the most effective weapon in obtaining a better profit margin. Warehouse costs, he added, take 60 to 75 cents of the sales dollar and "it is here that losses can be turned into profits."

Robert G. Bryan of the Ohio Stove Company was re-elected president of the organization. The 1931 convention of the association will be held on May 13 at the Hotel Astor.

ATTACK PIRACY IN TEXTILES.

To solve the basic problems of the textile industry the steering committee of the Council of Textile Association Executives mailed a questionnaire yesterday to the heads of more than 100 textile organizations in this city. The council's program covers all fibers, including cotton, wool, silk, rayon and linen.

Piracy of design and fabric is one of the principal problems. New patterns, color combinations and fabrics, association executives said, are without protection from unfair competition and imitation. Another problem is that of misrepresentation of fabric qualities.

Charles L. Bernheimer is chairman of the council.

LIVE STOCK IN CHICAGO.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 14.—Lightweight hogs sold mainly at former prices today, while medium and weighty kinds were strong, and packing sows gained 10 to 15 cents. The top was steady at $10.35 and the day's average showed no change at $10.10. Most sales were at $9.90 to $10.25, with 250 to 350 pound butchers $9.75 to $10.25, 160 to 250 pound averages $9.85 to $10.35, and packing sows $9 to $9.75. Packers bought 7,800 and shippers 1,500, with 5,000 left over. Receipts were 11,000, with 23,000 estimated for tomorrow. The five leading Western points look for 55,000 hogs tomorrow, against 46,300 a year ago.

Light receipts lifted cattle 25 cents on steers and yearlings, with best steers selling up to $13.90. The bulk of the beef cattle brought $9.50 to $12. Receipts were 5,000.

Best lambs sold at steady prices, with other kinds weak to 25 cents lower, Springs showing the most loss. Most shorn sold at $9 to $9.75 for light, with springers at $10.50 to $11.15. Sheep were steady at $4.50 to $5.50. Receipts were 10,000.

BUSINESS NOTES.

An address on "What the Bankruptcy Investigation Disclosed" will be made by Thomas O. Sheckell, manager of the New York Credit Men's Adjustment Bureau, at the May dinner meeting of the Associated Retail Credit Men of New York City, Inc., next Thursday night at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

Advices received from Washington yesterday by the Merchants' Association indicated that its views regarding the need for scales of 40,000 pounds capacity on all piers have been accepted by the Treasury Department. Present scales having a maximum capacity of 30,000 pounds will be replaced shortly, it is expected.

BUSINESS WORLD

Commercial Paper.

Yesterday 3¾ to 4 per cent for the best names.
Tuesday 3¾ to 4 per cent for the best names.
The quotations are for 4 to 6 months' paper.

Retail Turnover Dips Slightly.

While still satisfactory, retail turnover this week is likely to fall somewhat behind the figures of corresponing days a week ago, it was said here yesterday. Nothing has developed, however, to disturb the belief that sales for the month as a whole will run ahead of the same period last year by more than a fair margin. This, of course, is qualified to the extent that cold and wet weather does not develop during the remaining fourteen shopping days. Store schedules call for concentrated promotional events prior to Decoration Day.

Rug "Drop" Plan Hurting Sales.

Complaints that the new plan of fixing a definite date for the offering of "drop" patterns in the floor coverings field has distracted the interest of merchants from regular merchandise were voiced by rug mill selling agents here yesterday. Stores throughout the country have curtailed their regular Spring buying with a view to stocking heavily on discontinued patterns at the offering today. The prediction was made that similar tactics would be followed in the coming season, when merchants will be looking forward to "drop" offerings scheduled for next November. Buyers were numerous in the market yesterday. They were here to inspect the "drop" offerings of the mills and today are expected to place orders for delivery, starting Monday.

Fall Clothing Orders Still Lag.

Advance orders for men's Fall clothing continue to reflect the unsatisfactory experience of retailers with Spring merchandise. With retailers uncertain as to how current stocks will move, the average order has been running somewhat under a year ago. Additional road trips later on to garner more business are in prospect. Overcoats have lagged substantially behind suits in the general course of buying for the new season. The situation shows up fully in the slowness with which fabric reorders have been reaching the mills. The recent turnabout in raw wool, however, has been a constructive factor that will help the woolen trade.

Fabric Handbag Orders Heavy.

Reorders coming through for fabric types of women's handbags are of such volume as to give strong confidence to the trade that these items will have one of the best seasons in years. Favor for the fabric types, which include plain and embroidered types, is based on the current favor for cotton, shantung and sheer silk dresses, for which bags to match or harmonize are wanted. Sports shapes receive emphasis, with considerable use of prystal, which has been popular in novelty jewelry. For Fall, leather types are expected to renew their leadership.

To Renew Drive on Felt Hats.

While lightweight felts have been temporarily eclipsed by the featuring of straw hats, the intention of some of the leading hat chains is to direct consumer attention toward felts about the middle of June, it was said yesterday. By that time, it was said, the bulk of the initial straw hat volume will be done and the way paved for increased sales of felts, turnover of which was curtailed by the sudden diversion of interest to straws. Straw hat sales this week, however, while ahead of a year ago, have not justified the expectations created by last week's hot spell.

Summer Plan Helping Market.

Reports regarding the success of the summer season plan this year are that it is fitting into current market operations very nicely. While most ready-to-wear manufacturers have indicated that they will open their initial Fall lines several weeks later than last year, no radically quiet interim period is held likely. Reorders from retailers for Summer goods and travel coats will provide a better than usual backlog of business until well into next month. The absence of unsettling stocks, or even of goods for quick delivery, is also laying the groundwork for good business during the weeks ahead.

Men's Underwear Market Active.

Reorders on men's lightweight underwear continue to reach the local market in large volume. Although athletic shirts and track pants continue to be the biggest sellers, the demand for union suits is holding even with that of last year, according to selling agents. Outstanding in the popular-price underwear field during the last two weeks has been the steady demand for children's nainsook waist union suits retailing at from 25 to 39 cents. They are being reordering heavily by stores throughout the country. The garments, which are made with a French leg, were sold in a comparatively small way last year but have sprung into wide popularity this season.

Mink Prices Decline at Sale.

A decline of 10 per cent took place on mink sold yesterday by the New York Auction Company, Inc., at its regular Spring fur auction. A top price of $28 was paid. Southern muskrat showed a similar decline, and Russian sable dropped 20 per cent. Hair seal and brown and black bear prices remained unchanged. High prices paid for the various skins offered included: Southern muskrat $1.08, black bear $5, brown bear $5.75, Russian sable $225 and hair seal 60 cents. Sales for the day totaled $500,000.

Burlaps Advance Though Inactive.

Prices on spot burlaps here have advanced 5 points over those of last week in spite of general inactivity in the market. The strong tone of prices is believed due to the fact that sellers have not attempted to force business. Conditions in Calcutta are also reported as quiet, and prices have been unchanged there for some time. These prices were quoted here yesterday on standard 40-inch burlaps by C. E. Rockstroh & Co.:

	8-Oz.	10½-Oz.
Spots	5.35c	6.70c
May shipment	5.27½c	6.67½c
June shipment	5.30c	6.67½c
July-Sept. shipment	5.37½c	6.80c
Oct.-Dec. shipment	5.45c	6.90c

Gray Goods Trading Still Dull.

Orders for printcloths continued at a low level in the gray goods market here again yesterday. Buyers were concerned only with filling their immediate requirements and limited purchases to small lots for immediate delivery. Although buying was restricted, prices on all the standard printcloth constructions held firm. Sales of 38½-inch 60-48s were made on a basis of 5⅝ cents, and 38½-inch 64-60s sold at 6¼ cents. Calls for 39-inch 68-72s were for small lots and were filled at 7 cents. Interest in sheetings was nominal.

PRICE ADVANCES MADE ON MEN'S WEAR CLOTHS

American Woolen Co. Marks Up Goods 2 to 10 Cents a Yard as Wool Rises.

Price advances of 2 to 10 cents a yard on men's Fall suitings and overcoatings were announced yesterday by the American Woolen Company. The increase, the first of its kind on men's wear fabrics for some time, reflects the recent stiffening in wool prices, and follows the reduction made by the company about two months ago when the lines were opened for the Fall season.

Company officials in explaining the advance pointed out that the recent rise in prices at the London wool auctions, coupled with a greater activity, eliminates the replacement of wools at levels on which cloth prices were previously based. The view was expressed that the wool market has definitely struck bottom.

In department 1 the following ranges of suitings were advanced 2 cents a yard: A 414, 3631, 3753, EE 406 and 412. Increases of 5 cents were made on the B 3001 and 3003 ranges in department 2. In department 3 these cloths were advanced 5 cents: GG 3449, I 2533, 4516, 7224, 7228, JJ 3511, 3512, M 3560, 3561, 3569, 3573 and ZZ 3784. An increase of ten cents a yard was made on ranges HH 3460, 3461, 3469 and UU 3705. Several of these ranges represent fabrics in which the company does a large volume business.

NEWSPRINT MILL OUTPUT.

Canadian Production Was 75 Per Cent of Capacity in April.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, May 14.—Canadian newsprint mills operated at 75 per cent of rated capacity during April; United States mills at 77.7 per cent and Newfoundland mills at 96.8 per cent, according to the Newsprint in the United States was 109,967 tons

Production in Canada during April amounted to 228,048 tons and shipments were 221,050 tons. Production in the United States was 109,967 tons and the shipments were 109,346 tons, making a total United States and Canadian newsprint production of 338,015 tons and shipments of 330,396 tons.

During April 23,172 tons of newsprint was made in Newfoundland and 1,890 tons in Mexico, so that the total North American production was 363,077 tons.

The Canadian mills produced 7,958 tons less in the first four months of this year than in the first four months of 1929, which was a decrease of 1 per cent. The United States output was practically the same as in the same period last year. Production in Newfoundland was 10,555 tons, or 13 per cent more in the first four months of 1930 than 1929, and in Mexico 366 tons more.

LAUNCH ATTERBURY YACHT.

Family and 100 Friends Attend Ceremony at Camden.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMDEN, N. J., May 14.—The 110-foot yacht Arminia, built for General W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, was launched at the Cooper's Point shipyard of the Mathis Yacht Building Company this afternoon in the presence of General Atterbury, members of his family and about 100 friends.

The all-steel, oil-burning vessel, constructed at a cost of about $200,000, slipped down the ways after Miss Boudinot Oberge, niece of General Atterbury, broke a bottle over the bow. Mrs. Atterbury, for whom the yacht was named, led the guests aboard for an inspection after the launching.

Designed by John Trumpy, the yacht has a beam of 21 feet and a draught of 8 feet 6 inches. It is of the seagoing cruiser type and has two 300-horsepower Winton Diesel engines. There is room for eight pasengers and a crew of ten.

RUBBER CONSUMPTION UP.

Total in April 5,000 Tons Above March—Lower Than Year Ago.

Consumption of crude rubber by manufacturers in the United States in April was about 5,000 long tons above that in March, but more than 7,000 long tons below the amount consumed in April, 1929, according to statistics issued by the Rubber Manufacturers Association yesterday. Consumption in April this year was estimated at 40,207 long tons, compared with 35,914 in March and 47,521 in April, 1929.

Imports of crude rubber in April totaled 49,927 long tons, compared with 45,430 in March and 54,171 in April, 1929. Consumption of reclaimed rubber was estimated at 17,321 long tons in April, against 15,616 in March and 21,574 in April, 1929.

The association estimates domestic stocks of crude rubber on hand and in transit overland on April 30 at 148,272 long tons, compared with 141,843 as of March 31 and 107,658 as of April 30, 1929. Crude rubber afloat for United States ports on April 30 is estimated at 63,261 long tons, against 63,646 on March 31 and 65,790 on April 30, 1929.

CRUDE RUBBER QUOTATIONS

Crude rubber futures on the Rubber Exchange of New York were irregular yesterday. The No. 1 contract ranged from 9 points decline to 3 points advance, with sales of 260 long tons. The A contract was 10 to 20 points lower, with sales of 117½ long tons. Price ranges were as follows:

SUGAR, COFFEE, COCOA.

Sugar.

Sugar futures firmed considerably in the New York market yesterday on two rumors, both of which had some basis in fact. The sailing of a prominent Cuban for Europe yesterday morning spread the report that he had appointments for conferences with Javanese and European producers to arrange the international sugar situation. The second report was that a private pool was being formed for the financing of the sale of 250,000 tons of Cuban sugar to Russia. The result was that all future positions firmed with the exception of May, which sold down to 1.30, a new low.

Raw sugar was available in quantities at 1 13-32 but no sales were reported. Two cargoes were placed with Gulf refiners on private terms, presumably on a basis of the price to be settled later. Several cargoes are reported to be in New York harbor available on the same terms, but refineries are overloaded. The refined sugar prices remained unchanged, although reported offers at 4.60 yesterday for second hand had disappeared from the market and the second hand refined was firm at 4.65. Refiners' price on refined remained unchanged at 4.90.

Cocoa

Hedge covering following sales to consumers in the spot market caused a recovery in cocoa prices on the New York Cocoa Exchange in the early trading yesterday, but a selling wave wiped out gains and there were final net losses of from 6 to 14 points in all positions at the close. Spot cocoa was quoted at 8 cents up ⅛ points of a cent. Trading volume amounted to 112 lots, or 1,501 tons.

Forecast of Flying Weather.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The Weather Bureau issued tonight the following flying weather forecast for May 15:

WASHINGTON, D. C., TO LONG ISLAND, N. Y.—Mostly cloudy sky, rain in the morning near Long Island Thursday with moderate winds, mostly west and northwest, up to 1,000 feet, fresh west-southwest or west at 5,000 feet.

WASHINGTON, D. C., TO NORFOLK, VA.—Partly cloudy sky Thursday with moderate west or northwest winds up to 1,000 feet, fresh west at 5,000 feet.

NORFOLK, VA., TO ATLANTA, GA.—Partly cloudy sky Thursday with moderate winds mostly northwest up to 1,000 feet, fresh west or west-northwest at 5,000 feet.

WASHINGTON, D. C., TO DAYTON, OHIO—Mostly cloudy sky and risk of light local rains over and west of mountains Thursday, with moderate west or northwest winds up to 1,000 feet, fresh west or west-northwest at 5,000 feet.

UNIONTOWN, PA., TO DETROIT, MICH.—Cloudy sky and occasional light rains Thursday, with moderate westerly winds up to 1,000 feet, fresh west or west-northwest at 5,000 feet.

DETROIT, MICH., TO RANTOUL, ILL.—Cloudy sky and light local rains, except possibly in Illinois Thursday, with moderate west or northwest winds up to 1,000 feet, fresh west or west-northwest at 5,000 feet.

RANTOUL, ILL., TO UNIONTOWN, PA.—Cloudy sky and light local rains, except possibly in Illinois Thursday, with west or northwest winds up to 1,000 feet, fresh west or west northwest at 5,000 feet.

ZONE 1—North Atlantic States—Rain and slight risk of scattered thunderstorms over south portion Thursday, with fresh southeast or south winds shifting to westerly, over south portion at surface, fresh south and southwest aloft.

ZONE 2—Middle Atlantic States—Cloudy to partly cloudy sky and probably rain in early morning in the north portion Thursday, with moderate west or northwest winds at surface, fresh west aloft.

ZONE 3—South Atlantic States—Partly cloudy sky Thursday, with moderate winds, mostly northwest at surface, fresh west and northwest aloft.

ZONE 5—Ohio Valley and Tennessee—Mostly cloudy sky and risk of light local rains over north portion Thursday, with moderate west or northwest winds at surface, fresh west and northwest aloft.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 14.—The disturbance that was over the upper lake region Tuesday has moved eastward to the lower lake region and another centre has formed over the Middle Atlantic States. Another disturbance has developed west of the Rocky Mountains.

The temperature has fallen from the upper Mississippi Valley eastward to the Atlantic coast and it has risen in the Southern Rocky Mountain region, the Dakotas, Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

The eastern disturbance will continue to cause rain Thursday from the lower lake region and the extreme upper Ohio Valley eastward to the Atlantic coast, and the western disturbance will likely cause showers Friday in Tennessee, Western Kentucky and portions of the South Atlantic States. Otherwise generally fair weather is probable Thursday and Friday in the Washington forecast district.

Temperature changes will be unimportant.

LATEST DEALINGS IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

20-STORY STRUCTURE FOR WEST 86TH ST.

$300,000 DEAL ON 48TH ST.

Two East Side Houses Sold After Being Held Twenty-five Years —Other Trading in Manhattan.

A plot in West Eighty-sixth Street between Columbus Avenue and Central Park West was purchased yesterday by Samuel Barkin & Sons, builders and operators, for a tall apartment house. The property consists of a plot 75 by 102, at 40, 42 and 44 West Eighty-sixth Street, and was sold by H. & S. Sonn.

There are three dwellings on the site. These will be razed to make way for a twenty-story apartment building to cost $1,250,000. Work on the project will start at once. The building will have individual roof terraces in apartments of four, five and six rooms and simplex apartments on the upper terraced floors.

William S. Baker was the broker in the sale of the property by the Sonns.

Announcement of the sale of the Eighty-sixth Street site and its proposed improvement was the feature of real estate trading in Manhattan. Other sales in scattering sections of the borough were reported.

Financing of properties played an important part in the market. Of interest was a loan announced for Frederick Brown on his investment holding in West Fifty-seventh Street, running through to Fifty-eighth Street. Numerous leaseholds were recorded and reported yesterday.

Mrs. Mary Lyons sold to a client of Waldemar Timme her property at 153 and 155 East Forty-eighth Street, two five-story apartment houses on a plot 50 by 100 feet, between Lexington and Third Avenues. Mrs. Lyons has owned the property for about twenty-five years and valued it at $300,000.

A four-story garage at 319 East Twenty-sixth Street, 25 by 100 feet, has been sold by James Duncan, Inc., to Rose Sandberg. This was the first sale of the property in thirty years. John F. Kuhn acted as broker.

Louis F. Sommer and August Lauter sold for Henry Knaust the triple flat containing four and five room apartments at 2,506 Amsterdam Avenue on a lot 25 by 100 feet.

John P. Leo and David J. Oliver sold for Elizabeth Cotrell of Albany 421 West 148th Street, a three-story dwelling on lot 17 by 100 feet. The property adjoins the Barnard School for girls. The purchaser is the Maple Leaf Society, a social organization of upper Manhattan. This was the first sale of the property since 1904.

Houses in Suffolk Are Rented.

Valentine E. Macy Jr. has leased for the Summer a house on the dunes at Southampton, L. I., from Count Mario di Zoppola of Southampton Shore, Inc., through Beatrice Ecclesine. In the same community Mrs. Henderson Robb rented her East Knolle on First Neck Lane to Hendrick Suydam, and Irving L. Terry leased a house on Hill Street to Robert P. Breese, G. L. Gilsey & Co., Inc., being the brokers. Mrs. Margaret Kirkpatrick leased for the Summer a house in Quogue to Mr. and Mrs. E. Morgan Grinnell through Clarence M. Carman and Talbot J. Taylor Jr.

Burling Slip Corner Resold By Operators to Investors

The Charles F. Noyes Company has sold to J. S. & D. L. Reardon for Max N. Natanson and Irving I. Lewine the ten-story office building at 19-21 Burling Slip, northwest corner of Front Street, with a four-story addition adjoining at 15-17 Burling Slip. The combined plot has a frontage of 126 feet on Burling Slip and 43 feet on Front Street.

This is the fourth sale of the property in which the Noyes organization has been identified. Originally, Mr. Noyes accumulated a portion of the plot upon which the buildings were erected for William J. Matheson at an initial cost of about $500,000; in 1923 the Noyes company sold the property to Joseph F. Cullman; last December the Noyes company with Brown, Wheelock: Harris, Vought & Co., resold the building for Mr. Cullman to the Bradish Johnson Estate and a few weeks ago Brown-Wheelock: Harris, Vought & Co. resold to Max N. Natanson and Irving I. Lewine in an exchange deal involving about $2,000,000.

Now, after holding the property only a few days, the Reardons take it over for permanent investment.

DEALS IN NEW JERSEY.

Radburn Houses Sold to Former Apartment Dwellers.

The City Housing Corporation has sold one-family houses at 10 Berkeley Place and 331 Plaza Road, Radburn, to Ethelyn Henderson and C. Russell Menner, respectively. Both formerly lived in apartments in the development.

May Jewelers, Inc., has leased for twenty-one years the store property at 382A Central Avenue, between Charles and Thorne Streets, Jersey City. Harry Weber, the owner, intends to give up his store in the structure when the tenant takes possession in September. J. I. Kislak, Inc., was the broker.

Max Goren sold the four-story brick flat with store at 491 Grove Street, adjoining the corner of Pavonia Avenue, Jersey City, to the Estate of Esther, Inc.

Karl Keller sold to Frank G. Beers and Charles F. Brown two two-family houses at 370 and 371 Edge Avenue, Jersey City.

Barney Sams bought a two-family frame dwelling at 324 Stegman Parkway, Jersey City, from Joseph Rochman.

Harry Wertheim sold the three three-story frame tenements with stores at 47 to 49½ Colgate Street, Jersey City, to George Vicario. The buyer gave in part payment a three-story frame tenement with store at 427 Montgomery Street, Jersey City.

Pasquale Sarnella and Gatto Raffo bought at a master's sale the four-story frame tenement at 222 Madison Street and the five-story brick flat at 225 Madison Street, Hoboken.

Miss Tina Sartori sold to Mrs. Mattie Lichtman the three-story brick flat at 422 Twelfth Street, West New York, on a plot 32 by 100 feet.

Adam Kalpin sold the three-story frame flat at 40 West Fifty-first Street, Bayonne, to Joseph Zavecz.

Sale of Brooklyn Dwellings.

Frida Taub sold the one-story house at 3,265 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, through Allyn S. Crumm, who also sold for John Farongy a dwelling at 774 East Thirty-fifth Street, in the same borough.

BROWN BUYS BLOCK NEAR CENTRAL PARK

Operator Takes Over Fifth Av. Frontage Between 106th and 107th Street.

PLOT CONTAINS 30,000 SQ.FT.

Many Leasehold Deals Involving Properties in Manhattan Are Announced.

Frederick Brown purchased yesterday from the 1,245 Fifth Avenue Corporation, Samuel G. Cohn, president, the blockfront of Fifth Avenue between 106th and 107th Streets. The property is unimproved and fronts 201 feet on Fifth Avenue, 196 feet on 107th Street and 100 feet on 106th Street. It contains 30,000 square feet and overlooks the north lake in Central Park. It is the only unimproved plot of its size available on Fifth Avenue. Jacob and Emil Leitner were the brokers in the deal.

George Zauderer & Sons, operators, leased from Jesse J. Ludwig and Alfred L. Rose, executors of the estate of Bernard J. Ludwig the six-story elevator building at 125 East Twenty-fourth Street, eighty feet west of the northwest corner of Lexington Avenue. The property is 45 by 100 feet. The Zauderers have a purchase option in the lease to buy the property within five years. Harry A. Harris was the broker in the transaction.

Eighth Avenue Property Leased.

Henrietta C. Moody leased to Charles Shaffer the building at 738 Eighth Avenue. Peter Karras was the broker.

The three-story building at 187 Reade Street was leased by Isaac Loewenthal to Schwartz Brothers through Philip J. Miller, broker. The same broker leased for Harold F. Windmann the northeast corner of Chambers and Washington Street, known as 287 Washington Street. The lessee is Leo Weinstein, who will use the property for his wholesale fruit and produce business.

J. Finkelstein & Son leased for Samuel Rouse the five-story building at 40 Division Street to Harry Greenberg.

Bracher & Hubert leased the four-story house at 150 West Seventy-third Street for Mrs. Lizzie C. Gennert to Anna Maguire.

Frances L. Coster and four other members of that family have leased to the Clinton-Rivington Realty Improvement Company, Inc., Murray Blank, president, the three lots at 56-62 Clinton Street, 75 by 100 feet, for twenty-one years from the first of this month, the rent to be $6,000 a year in addition to the taxes and assessments. The lessee has the option to renew this lease for a further period of twenty-one years at a rental of 5 per cent of the appraised value of the land, but not less than $6,000 a year net.

Hotel Corporation Buys Lease.

The Church Engineernig Corporation, of which Morris H. Rothschild is president, has sold to the Saulsbury Hotel Corporation, of which Mr. Rothschild is also president, the lease given to the former by Calvary Baptist Church on Nov. 15, 1928, of the property at 123 to 141 West Fifty-seventh Street, on a plot 160 feet front about midway between Sixth and Seventh Avenues, the assignee assuming all the obligations of the tenant in the original lease.

The building at 219-221 Cherry Street and 480 Water Street, a six-story garage with about forty feet front on each street, was leased by Charles H. Meyer to Hillie Rosenbloom for five years from May 1, 1930, the rent being $4,800 a year, with the privilege of renewal for three years at the same rent. The lessee also has the option to purchase these premises during the first four years of the term for $80,000.

Brownell McGibbon has surrendered his lease of 25 Bridge Street, which was to expire Dec. 31, 1937, to the Utilities Building Corporation.

WESTCHESTER ITEMS.

TO RAZE DWIGHT HOME FOR APARTMENT SITE

Lehigh Estates Plan Fifteen-Story Residential Building at 891 Park Avenue.

With the filing of plans yesterday for the erection of a fifteen-story apartment building at 891 Park Avenue, the five-story Dwight residence at that address was added to the growing list of fine old private homes in Manhattan doomed to demolition to provide sites for business buildings or multi-family houses.

The property has a frontage of 26 feet on the east side of Park Avenue, between Seventy-eighth and Seventy-ninth Streets, and extends back 100 feet. The residence is of brick, stone and marble. It was purchased from the Estate of Frederick A. Dwight by the Lehigh Estates, Inc., which will construct the new building as soon as the old home can be torn down.

Arthur Paul Hess is the architect for the structure, which will cost $250,000. It will contain sixteen apartments, one on each side of the upper fourteen floors and two on the first floor. It will add another unit to the expanding Park Avenue residential district. Adjoining it, on the southeast corner of Park Avenue and Seventy-ninth Street, a nineteen-story cooperative building is being put up.

ALTMAN BRANCH EXPANDS.

New White Plains Establishment Is to Be Enlarged.

Altman's has already outgrown its new shop, opened but a week ago at Mamaroneck Avenue and New York Post Road, White Plains, and has, within the same week, completed arrangements for enlargement.

B. Altman have added to their present sizeable quarters on the two floors practically all the remaining space on the second floor of this new building. The newly acquired floor space will be devoted to apparel sections and to children's wear.

GETS PEARL STREET LEASE.

Louis Adler Pays $150,000 for Property in Wall Street Block.

One of the numerous transactions involved in the assembly of the block bounded by Wall, Pine, Pearl and Water Streets by Louis Adler, operator and builder, as the site for a great skyscraper was revealed in a contract filed yesterday at the Register's office.

Under this contract the R. E. S. A. B. Realty Corporation, George B. Calcagnini, president, agreed to sell on May 1, last, its leases of 160-62 Pearl Street, on the block in question, for $150,000. Title was to pass to the office of Anthony J. Romagna, at 110 William Street.

The same Calcagnini interests sold the five-story building on the site, 47 by 97.10 feet, to Mr. Adler for a reported price of $400,000.

The contract for the leases provided that the sale was dependent upon the purchase of the entire block, the buyer having the right to declare the agreement void if he was unable to purchase the fee of all the parcels on the block.

Interstate Company to Move Offices.

The Interstate Company, Hugh Leighton, president, has leased for its commissary and general offices the fifth and sixth floors, about 15,000 square feet, in the new Crystal Building at 801 Second Avenue, southwest corner of Forty-third Street. The commissary is now in 313 West Fifteenth Street and the offices in the Postum Building, 250 Park Avenue. The company operates a chain of restaurants, cafeterias and other concessions. Cushman & Wakefield, Inc., were the brokers.

Steel Award on Maritime Building.

The contract for the steel to be used in the erection of Abe N. Adelson's new thirty-five-story Maritime Exchange Building, 80 Broad Street, has been awarded, it is announced by the Adelson Construction and Engineering Company, builder, to the McClintic-Marshall Company. The obsolete six-story structure on the site is now being demolished and the new building, from the plans of Sloan & Robertson, is to be completed Feb. 1, 1931.

Church Contracts Closed.

The Sobray Whitcomb Company has received a contract for a school and convent for the Holy Family Roman Catholic Church at 17-29 Dobbin Street and 21-29 Nassau Street, Brooklyn, according to Brown's Letters, Inc., construction reports. F. J. Schwartz, the architect, estimates the cost at $150,000. The Church of St. Vito in Mamaroneck has given a contract for a new one-story edifice there to C. Santora & Sons.. De Pace & Juster are the architects.

Sales Help Wanted—Male.

SALESMEN.

We wish to meet and talk with a few men of strong personality who know they are salesmen or who feel that they possess a real aptitude for sales work. These men will base their self-confidence on their knowledge of what real selling is. They have sold something of a collateral nature. They have obtained some success. The men who will interest us need not necessarily understand every ramification of finance but will have a flair for financial propositions.

Some of these men may have looked over openings in the financial field and may have arrived at the conclusion that sales success in this field depends upon capitalizing social standing or connections or going through a long low-paid period of building clientele or risking reputation on unsound undertakings. It is the real salesman who has arrived at this conservative questioning point of view that we are seeking—the man who is sure of himself and who rates his abilities and his reputation very highly. He is keen and ambitious, young enough, regardless of years, to be enthusiastic, and energetic and who, above all, is a man of decision and character. For the men we select there is a ground floor opportunity. They will receive a valuable sales training and full cooperation from men of broad experience and unusual success in developing men into high wage earners, and who can help them earn substantial commissions from the very start.

Some calls will be made upon qualified leads. The offering is one of character; security of principal; ability to pay semi-annual dividends, and, based upon past returns, should be most profitable to the investor.

If you feel that your qualifications justify us considering you, telephone Ashland 5026, Extension 20, for an appointment, or better still, call in person if you like, 29th floor, 10 East 40th St., and a courteous interview will be afforded you. If you are the man we want, you will know what to say to sell yourself. All conferences and communication will be held in complete confidence by the executive officers of this company.

URGES FEDERAL AID FOR CARGO VESSELS

STRESSES NEEDS IN CRISES

Warns That Higher Shipbuilding Costs Will Wipe Our Flag From Seas Unless Steps Are Taken.

Federal aid to cargo ships by mail contracts and the construction of ships to replace the decadent American ships which now are operated and which retard the development of the American merchant marine were urged by H. T. Herr, vice president of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, yesterday at a luncheon meeting of the New York Board of Trade.

Mr. Herr said that the nation should enter vigorously into the expansion of its merchant fleet as a means of developing foreign trade. Foreign ships are capable of carrying American commerce, he said, but are not dependable in an international crisis or an emergency that affects their homelands.

"American ship owners, on the other hand," he said "do what they can, and it is a great deal, to facilitate the extension of American foreign trade. They listen to the suggestions of American business, respond to its requests and often anticipate its needs. Furthermore, they will not leave American business in the lurch, as other nationalities may whenever some crisis occurs overseas."

Says Board Met Emergency.

Citing the recent situation in England, he said, "our farmers recently would have seen their products spoil on the wharves while the foreign ships that were to carry them were busy supplying Europe with coal during a miners' strike had not the Shipping Board realized the emergency and supplied ships to handle the situation."

Mr. Herr emphasized the higher building costs in American shipyards, ship operation and materials and the $60 monthly wage of American seamen as compared to $44 on British, $22 on German and $17 on French ships as handicaps of American ship progress.

"With free competition allowed to take its course," he said, "these excess costs are sufficient to wipe our flag off the seas and, in the present decline of naval construction, to close down our large shipyards. We saw the first happen in the period that preceded the World War and the second just about to happen two years ago.

"But we have decided that our ships and our shipyards are too valuable to be left to the blind play of economic forces, and so we passed the merchant marine act, which, to a certain extent, neutralizes our natural disadvantages and assures us of some sort of a merchant marine.

Urges Amendment to Law.

"But the merchant marine act, like all broad legislation, is not entirely perfect, and some needed amendments are now being considered. Especially desirable is the extension of some kind of aid to cargo vessels. While cargo vessels of acceptable types for use in foreign service can be built with loans provided by the law, they are not ordinarily eligible for mail contracts, and, though they form the backbone of our commercial fleet and are essential as auxiliaries in time of war, they are left to struggle along with their high operating costs as best they can."

American engineering skill must be brought more fully into the ship construction field, Mr. Herr said, to bring about the construction of the best ships in the world and thus justify the higher wages in the shipbuilding industry.

"It is my conviction," he said, "that if America's engineering resources were organized for the benefit of our merchant marine; if the principle of the division of labor were to be applied more fully to ship construction and equipment than it is at present; if the American specialists in steam, oil and electrical machinery were made responsible for those parts of the ship's equipment, while the shipyards confine their activities to the difficult and technical work of shipbuilding, we would, within a short time, have better ships, profitable ships, more ships and busier shipyards."

The Board of Trade adopted resolutions urging that service at the Quarantine station be furnished twenty-four hours a day, that Senator Copeland's bill extending the life of passports to six years and reducing their cost from $10 to $5 be passed, that the zoning laws be amended to permit the erection of automobile "hotels" in New York and that an agency be organized to further the advertising of New York as a Summer resort.

SPANISH PORT LINES FORM CONFERENCE

Royal Mail, Fabre and Ybarra Companies Get Approval of Shipping Board.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—An agreement providing for the establishment of a Spanish-North Atlantic conference to comprise steamship lines in the trade from North Atlantic ports to Spanish ports, was approved by the Shipping Board today.

By its terms all freight transportation charges are to be charged and collected in currency of the United States or its equivalent, strictly in accordance with the rates agreed upon by the lines. Discrimination, discounts, rebates or returns of any description to shippers, contractors, brokers or consignees are prohibited.

The members of the conference are, the Compania Transatlantica (Spanish Royal Mail Line), Compagnie Francaise de Navigation a Vapeur (Fabre Line) and Ybarra & Co.

Other agreements approved by the board were as follows:

DETROIT AND CLEVELAND NAVIGATION COMPANY and THE UNIVERSAL CARLOADING AND DISTRIBUTING COMPANY—The carrier grants to the forwarder the right to use space in the warehouses of the carrier at Buffalo and Detroit necessary to accommodate merchandise tendered by the forwarding company, subject to the supervision and regulation of the carrier's offices and agents. The agreement is not to interfere with the use of such property by the carrier for the receipt and delivery of merchandise offered for transportation by parties other than the forwarding company.

MICHIGAN TRANSIT CORPORATION with GOODRICH-WEST PORTS STEAMSHIP COMPANY—Through rates on shipments between Racine, Kenosha and Milwaukee and ports of call of Michigan Transit Corporation, with transhipment at Chicago, are set forth in tariff of Michigan Transit Corporation and apportioned 60 per cent to Michigan Transit and 40 per cent to Goodrich-West Ports Company.

WILLIAMS STEAMSHIP CORPORATION with NATIONAL NAVIGATION LINES OF MEXICO—Through rate on shipments of lignin pitch from Norfolk to La Paz of $22 per 2,000 pounds is apportioned $9 to intercoastal carrier and $13 to the on-carrying line. Cost of transhipment at San Francisco is to be assumed in equal proportion.

OCEANIC AND ORIENTAL NAVIGATION COMPANY with LOS ANGELES-SAN FRANCISCO NAVIGATION COMPANY, LOS ANGELES STEAMSHIP COMPANY, McCORMICK STEAMSHIP COMPANY, NELSON STEAMSHIP COMPANY and PACIFIC STEAMSHIP COMPANY—Through rates between Pacific Coast ports and Far East ports are based on direct line rates and apportioned upon the basis shown in Pacific coastwise conference division sheet forming part of the agreement. In general this provides that the coastwise lines are to receive one-third of the through rate and are to absorb one-third of the cost of drayage and 50 per cent of the cost of transit customs entry.

REDWOOD LINE, INC., with NELSON STEAMSHIP COMPANY—Through rates from Puget Sound ports to Gulf ports are those of the Gulf Intercoastal conference and apportioned one-third to Nelson and two-thirds to Redwood, Nelson to absorb inward and Redwood outward toll charge and each carrier half of the cost of drayage between the piers at San Francisco.

MUNSON STEAMSHIP LINE with NELSON STEAMSHIP COMPANY—Through billing covers shipments from Pacific Coast ports to Miami, Fla., via Jacksonville, upon combination of local rates of the lines, plus wharfage charges at Jacksonville.

NORTH PACIFIC AUSTRALIA LINE with CALMAR STEAMSHIP CORPORATION—Provides for through shipments from North Atlantic ports to Australian ports with transhipment at San Francisco with rates and divisions, subject to minimum bill of lading charge of $5.

LUCKENBACH STEAMSHIP COMPANY, INC., with COMPAGNIE GENERALE TRANSATLANTIQUE—Through rates on canned goods, dried fruits and high density cotton from Pacific Coast ports to designated French ports, with transhipment at New York, are indicated in the agreement and minimum bill of lading charge is apportioned equally between the lines, each of which is to assume half the cost of transhipment.

HISTORICAL GROUP TO VISIT IRVING SHRINES

Westchester Society to Make Annual Pilgrimage on Next Saturday.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 17.—The annual pilgrimage of the Westchester Historical Society will be conducted this year in the Hudson Shore neighborhoods associated with the life and writings of Washington Irving. The pilgrimage will be held next Saturday.

Among the speakers scheduled for the places to be visited are:

Supervisor CHARLES D. MILLARD of Greenburgh.
EDGAR MAYHEW BACON of Tarrytown, who remembers Irving.
ERNEST F. GRIFFIN of Tarrytown, a lineal descendant of the Eckers, original owners of "Sunnyside," the Irving estate.
MATHEW J. MURTHA, mayor Irvington.
WILLIAM S. HADAWAY of New Rochelle.
CYRUS FIELD JUDSON, grandson of Cyrus W. Field, who lived at Dobbs Ferry.
MESLSMORE KENDALL, present owner of the old Livingston mansion.
Mayor WARREN D. BENEDICT of Dobbs Ferry.
The Rev. CHARLES E. KARSTEIN, rector of Zion Church, where Irving worshipped from 1837 to 1843.

The itinerary includes stops at the Tarrytown historical headquarters, Irving memorial monument, Christ Church and Miller House, "Sunnyside," Matthiesen Park on Irvington Beach, Odell Inn, Ardsley, the former home of Cyrus W. Field, the Storms House, the Dobbs Ferry Revolutionary Monument, the Livingston Mansion, Zion Church, and the spot where a skirmish took place in Edgar's lane in 1778. A marker commemorating the skirmish will be dedicated.

Colonel Thatch T. P. Luquer, third vice president of the County Society, will be grand marshall of the day. In the event of rain the pilgrimage will be held June 7.

GRANTS LOAN FOR TANKERS.

Ship Board Advances $6,328,125 to Philadelphia Concern.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—A construction loan of $6,328,125, or three-fourths the cost of building five tankers, was awarded by the Shipping Board today to the Motor Tankship Corporation of Philadelphia. When completed, the vessels will be operated under charter in the general oil-carrying trade.

The ships, which will be built in the Sun Shipbuilding and Drydock Company's yards at Chester, Pa., will be of about 13,500 tons deadweight, of Diesel propulsion, and capable of eleven-knot speed.

Bar Motoring by Cornell Students.

ITHACA, N. Y., May 14 (AP).—The Cornell University faculty here today banned the operation of automobiles by students. The trustees of the university must approve the order to make it effective. A series of fatal automobile accidents caused the faculty's decision.

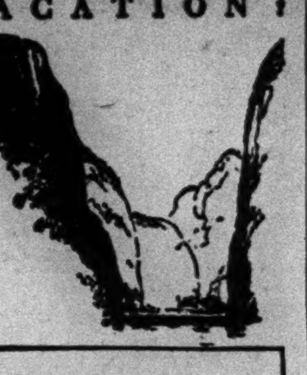
• CANADIAN VACATION •

Steaming up the SAGUENAY CANYON



THIS unfathomed river, whose towering capes are but the heads of submerged mountains—once perhaps, the loftiest ever reared to the heavens—seems to embody the mystery of the North. It forms the climax to your sail down the wide St. Lawrence River through Old French Canada's most historic scenes.

After the winding streets of Quebec, where you sense that light-hearted camaraderie that brightens a real French city, the glimpse of fashionable life afforded by Murray Bay and the quaint beauty of Tadoussac, Canada's oldest settlement, you are filled with expectations of the Saguenay's stupendous grandeur. Steamers are luxurious to a degree. The air is compounded of balsam and salt from the sea. Your companions are friendly. And we look after your comfort all the way.

Please write at once for illustrated folder, which describes in detail the pleasures of this wonderful vacation cruise.

VERY IMPORTANT

CANADA STEAMSHIP LINES operate from the head of Lake Superior, via the St. Lawrence River, to the Saguenay. Their cruises include the seven day trip from Detroit to Duluth and return; Niagara to the Saguenay, including the Thousand Islands, and shooting the rapids; excursions from Toronto, the Queen City, to Niagara, the Thousand Islands and Rochester. They operate a fleet of 106 steamers, freight and passenger, and are the largest fresh water transportation company in the world. The famous Saguenay trip includes visits to Montreal, metropolis of Canada; Quebec, the historic walled city; Murray Bay, "Newport of the North" and Tadoussac, Canada's oldest settlement. The Saguenay Canyon is one of nature's masterpieces.

Our steamers may be boarded at Lewiston, Rochester, Duluth or Detroit in the U.S.A., or Sarnia, Queenston, Toronto, Montreal or Quebec in Canada.

NEW POLICE SQUAD TO CHECK AUTO TOLL

Unit Will Go to Scene of Mishaps and Gather Facts on Which to Try Reckless Drivers.

STILL IN SKELETON FORM

But Mulrooney Says If Plan Is a Success It Will Be Extended to All Boroughs.

A new arm of the police service, a small squad of motor vehicle inspectors, began to work with the Homicide Bureau yesterday, in a new drive against reckless automobile drivers.

Assistant Chief Inspector Edward P. Mulrooney, head of the Detective Division, gave orders for formation of the squad a fortnight ago after conferences with Homicide Court magistrates who have been complaining that defendants in reckless driving cases resulting in death or injury have been able to escape punishment because the ordinary patrolman is not equipped to give expert testimony against them.

The men chosen for the new squad are experts on motor vehicles, able to test and pass on the efficiency of brakes, steering gear and other parts of automobiles. In addition they are expert investigators with an aptitude for assembling facts that would help bolster the State's case at a trial.

Squad Always on Call.

As soon as the telephone operator at Police Headquarters gets an emergency call to send an ambulance to the scene of an automobile accident he flashes the message to the new squad and it hurries to the scene to test the car or cars involved, to collect witnesses' stories, take photographs nad any other evidence that may serve to fix responsibility.

"The idea is still in the experimental stage," Inspector Mulrooney said last night. "All that we are working with now is a skeleton squad. We are looking for more men expert at brake work and who are keen investigators.

"If the thing works out it may help us rid the city of reckless drivers. These men will be able to help us punish the guilty. It is too soon to tell how far we are going with it, but if the action is justified the services will be extended."

The experimental unit is now working from the Homicide Bureau quarters in the West Twentieth Street police station. It is possible that other units will be placed in the neighboring borough, if the plan is successful.

Unit's Name Undetermined.

While the inspector said that no definite name has been chosen for the new squad it was noticed yesterday that automobile accident cards bore at the bottom the note, "Vehicle Homicide Notified." One such card was sent in yesterday on an accident at Mall Street and Park Row, where a motor truck was in collision with a trolley car and three persons were injured.

Antonio Columbi, 59 years old, of 6 Roosevelt Street, one of the three injured, was taken to Beekman Street Hospital for examination of what appeared to be a skull fracture. George Lambert of Corona, Queens, and J. McVilla of Elmhurst, the others involved, refused medical aid.

$750,000 WHEAT FIRE IN CHICAGO ELEVATOR

Mysterious Explosion Starts Blaze Which Endangers Oil Tank and Lumber Yard.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 14.—A spectacular fire starting from an explosion of unknown origin destroyed a four-story grain elevator on Goose Island and $750,000 worth of wheat tonight.

Firemen were jeopardized by falling walls, and police lines were formed to keep back the crowds and reroute automobile and truck traffic and street cars. The hazards to surrounding property were increased by the proximity of an oil tank and a lumber yard. Water was played on these constantly during the fire.

From the start there was no hope of saving either the grain or the elevator, which was formerly owned by the Armour company but was sold to the Rosenbaum Grain Corporation.

The mysterious explosion occurred about 5:30 and was heard for blocks. Within ten minutes the smoke was pouring from the structure. It was of plank construction inside, with brick walls. As the heat increased other explosions followed and the walls split and fell. Half the city's fire apparatus and two fireboats were used in controlling the outbreak.

The elevator was a relic of the famous battle between Joseph Leiter and Philip D. Armour Sr., in 1898, when Mr. Leiter cornered the wheat market.

Mr. Armour, in an effort to overload Mr. Leiter with grain, scoured the Northwest, particularly Minnesota, buying up between 2,000,000 and 5,000,000 bushels. As these began coming into Chicago Leiter was confronted with the problem of housing them. He had the elevator which was burned today and another built in the record time of sixty days and for years they were known as Armour "sixty day" elevators.

ASKS APPROPRIATIONS RISE.

Hoover Wants $2,500,000 Cost Limit on Postoffice Annex Here.

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP).—President Hoover today sent to Congress the following recommendations for appropriations:

Increasing the cost limit of remodeling the Federal Appraisers Stores building in New York City from $500,000 to $600,000.

Increasing the cost limit of the new postoffice building annex in New York City from $1,500,000 to $2,500,000 to permit the acquisition of a larger site in the area bounded by Eighth and Ninth Avenues and West Thirty-first and West Thirty-third Streets.
